HERRIOT TO BE FIRST IN POINCARE'S PLACE; BRIAND WILL FOLLOW

President Millerand May Have Cabinet Ready to Meet New Chamber.

POINCARE PLANS LONG REST

Offers Pour In on Him to Write for American and Other Publications.

APPEAL BY BRITISH PREMIER

He Urges All Nations Concerned to Take Dawes Report Whole and Put It in Operation.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 13.—After a meeting of the Cabinet today, under the chairmanship of President Millerand, it was announced that Premier Poincaré would remain in office until June 1. He will then resign, with all his Ministers, as a result of the elections to the new Chamber, in which the Left will have a majority. It is understood that M. Poincaré will not go to Chequers on May 19 to discuss the Dawes report with Prime Minister MacDonald.

Although there are some precedents to the contrary, in the majority of cases where the Premier's party has been put in a minority the head of the Government has remained in office until the meeting of the new Chamber. M. Poincaré therefore is following the rule in French procedure. Between now and June 1 he will make no important decisions, merely filling the gap until the new Chamber gets into action.

Poincare to Take a Rest.

The Matin says it is informed that M. Poincaré will upon the completion of his work retire temporarily from politics, even perhaps obtaining leave of absence from the Senate. The Premier already has been flooded with offers, particularly from America, to cooperate editorially with various publications. He also has had a surprising number of requests for the story of his vicissitudes during the two years and four months he has been head of the Government. The Matin does not think he will accept any such offers, but that he will rest in preparation for returning to the political battle later.

The Matin expresses the belief that immediately after the coming visit of the Ethiopian Prince, President Millerand will take up the question of the future Government with the leaders in the new Chamber. While he cannot constitutionally name Ministers before they are actually Deputies, the Matin believes the future Cabinet will be worked out in the next two weeks so that when the chamber convenes the Ministerial crisis will have been resolved and there will exist a Government to deal with any questions which may arise.

Meantime while the old Cabinet will be careful not to take any steps that will commit its successor, it decided at today's meeting that the Minister of Finance should be authorized to take all measures necessary to combat the new downward movement of the franc.

There are many predictions of what will happen on June 1. What seems most likely is that the Radical Socialists, who made the greatest gains and who are the largest of the seven parties in the new Chamber, will assume power, with M. Herriot as Premier. But because M. Herriot's majority would include 100 Socialists much further to the Right than he and the 25 Communists, it is seriously doubted that he can govern any length of time, and the general expectation is that after a few weeks he will be succeeded by M. Briand, who would thus become Premier for the ninth time.

M. Briand, it is thought, could take at least 75 votes from the Moderate Right were it certain Poincaré was out and thus would relieve the Government from depending on the Unified Socialist and Communist votes. M. Briand's hold on the Chamber would, it is believed, be infinitely better than M. Herriot's. It appears altogether likely that within three months France's affairs will be back in the hands of M. Briand, who will resume the policy dropped when he resigned during the Cannes Conference, namely, a policy based on allied cooperation even at the expense of France's claims.

While M. Briand took part in the election as one of the leaders of the Left, technically he belongs to the National Radicals, who are further to the Right than the Radical Socialists led by M. Herriot. For reasons of domestic politics, M. Herriot could never safely count on the support of the National Radicals, whereas the Unified Socialists have as one of their planks a pledge to refuse to take part in any Government under the present constitutional rules. He would, then, be in everlasting hot water.

Briand Coalition Would Be Safe.

Were M. Briand to head the Government, giving several Cabinet positions to the Radical Socialists, he could govern with the Centre bloc, which on the one hand could do without the Royalists and on the other hand without the Unified Socialists and Communists. That, it is thought, probably is what will happen.

Despite a savage demand by the Quotidien, the leading Radical Socialist paper, that President Millerand resign, little or no attention is paid to this campaign. The Quotidien insists that if M. Millerand does not go the Chamber will force him out; but the Radical Socialists, although the largest party, have

Paris Cooks Call a Strike For the Olympic Opening Day

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Co.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 13.—Saturday is scheduled to be a hard day for Americans and all other visitors in Paris, unless before that date hotel and restaurant managers come to an agreement with their cooks.

At a meeting last night in the Labor Bourse the cooks, after listening to harangues by certain of their militant members, decided to call a general strike on Saturday. This day was chosen because it marks the real opening of the Olympic Games, and it is reckoned that the capital will be filled to capacity with visitors wholly dependent for their food on the restaurants.

Naturally the question under debate is higher wages.

PENSION BILL VETO UPHELD IN SENATE

Coolidge Is Sustained by Margin of One Vote, With 28 Voting For and 53 Against.

HARRELD'S SHIFT DECISIVE

Oklahoman Changes From Yea to Nay, Thus Turning the Scales for the President.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—By the margin of a single vote, President Coolidge's veto of the Bursum pension bill was sustained by the Senate this afternoon. The roll-call was 28 to 53, the last-minute switch of Senator Harreld of Oklahoma from the yea to the nay column saving the day for the President.

Senator Harreld first voted to override the veto, and Senators favoring the pension were all smiles, as with that vote the final count would have stood 27 to 54, an exact two-thirds of all the Senators voting.

Most of those regarded as Republican regulars failed to stand by the President in today's test. Only five of the Republican Senators who voted originally for the Bursum bill changed their votes today to sustain the veto.

The five Republicans who voted for the bill originally and who changed today to sustain the veto were Senators Cameron of Arizona, Edge of New Jersey, Harreld of Oklahoma, Sterling of South Dakota and Wadsworth of New York.

Senator Lodge, the Republican floor leader, was paired against sustaining the veto. The radical group of Republicans voted to a man against the President. Senator La Follette, their leader, is ill and was not present or paired.

Thirty-two of those who voted to override were Republicans. Of the nineteen Democrats opposing the veto, most of them were from Northern and Western States, although Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic floor leader; Broussard of Louisiana, Heflin of Alabama and Shields and McKellar of Tennessee joined with them.

Senator Bursum, author of the bill, who made the principal speech against the veto, late this afternoon introduced a new measure which changes the rates in the old bill, slightly reducing the cost. He said that while he will have a hard time to get action at this session he will at least "keep the fight going."

Senator Neely of West Virginia, who asserted that President Coolidge has become a lobbyist, and that he is using the "White House breakfast table" as a base from which to direct his "propaganda," supported Senator Bursum, while the defense of the President was made by Senators Dial of South Carolina, Fletcher of Florida, and Wadsworth of New York.

Senator Dial commended the President for his courage, who, he said, deserved the support of Senators without regard to party affiliations. Senator Fletcher said he had originally voted for the bill, but that the message which accompanied the veto was unanswerable, and he had no choice but to switch.

"The country simply cannot stand this added expense," Senator Wadsworth said. "I should like to do something for the Spanish War veterans, for they are deserving and have not been asking very much of us. I hope a bill to do justice to those men will be passed."

The Treasury has declared that the Bursum bill would cost the public $58,-

HYLAN ORDERS AIDS TO OPEN THIRD-TERM OFFENSIVE AT ONCE

Instructs Appointees to Seize Every Chance to Boost Administration Publicly.

TO ASSAIL 'THE INTERESTS'

Tammany, Only Mildly Interested, Doubts if Old Tactics Will Be Effective Again.

G. O. P. SOUNDS BATTLE CRY

Helen Varick Boswell Calls Upon Colleagues to Launch Drive Now for a Republican Mayor.

Mayor John F. Hylan has begun what is regarded as his campaign for a third nomination by directing the heads and deputy heads of all city departments under his jurisdiction to accept all invitations to speak at dinners, meetings and public gatherings of every kind to "boost" the city Administration and attack the "interests."

This direction to subordinates, over whom he has the power of removal and appointment, was contained in a letter mailed Monday night and received yesterday. It was taken as the Mayor's answer to the ironic laughter with which the majority of the members of the Tammany Executive Committee greeted the resolution to endorse him for a third term, offered by Deputy County Clerk Thomas M. Farley, and then tabled. It was considered as a clear indication that the new leader of Tammany, if he sought to oppose Mayor Hylan's renomination, would face a fight in the Democratic primaries next year.

As revealed by the Mayor's letter, his plans call for the utilization of every resource of the city Administration to pave the way for the renomination of the Mayor or for the nomination of a candidate who would be acceptable to him and to William Randolph Hearst. In addition to the mobilization of every city commissioner, deputy commissioner and other spokesman of the city departments, it was learned that the broadcasting station soon to be installed by the city probably would be used for this purpose also. If the Mayor's suggestions are carried out fully, it was said that the air soon would be filled with radio speeches praising the Mayor and attacking the corporate interests.

Will Use Transit Issue Again.

The Mayor's letter indicated clearly that he intends to use the transit issue to gain popular support, as he did in his last two campaigns, and probably will add attacks on the electric light, gas and telephone companies.

The Mayor repeated his frequently expressed criticisms of those whom he has long considered his political foes, mentioning particularly Leonard M. Wallstein, counsel of the Citizens' Union, the Merchants' Association, the New York State and Brooklyn Chambers of Commerce and the "corporation-controlled newspapers." He lumped them all together in his final paragraph as "scurvy bands that would deceive the people."

The Mayor's letter, which was not made public at City Hall, but was obtained through one of the somewhat amazed recipients, follows:

"May 12, 1924.

"Dear Commissioner:

"I want all department heads, their deputies or representatives to accept invitations to address the people of this city at meetings of district clubs, taxpayers and civic organizations and wherever the public gathers.

"Honest facts about the progressive improvements of this Administration must be placed plainly before the people. Department heads and those familiar with improvements made in particular departments should acquaint the public with the progress and advancement in municipal service.

"Not only must the people be apprised of what we have done and are doing in their behalf, our there must also be disclosed to them the schemes of selfish groups that are out for private gain at the expense of the masses of the people.

Enumerates "Sordid Groups."

"The public should know the truth about Wallstein and the Citizens Union, who have trumped up investigations at a cost to the people of about a half

Coolidge Forgets His Cares at the Circus; Enjoys the Stunts, But Not the 'Dry' Jokes

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Trapeze performers, tight-rope walkers, trained elephants, horses, dogs and bears, and the other youthful delights of the sawdust ring crowded taxation, Japanese exclusion and the bonus completely out of the Presidential mind for more than two hours today while Calvin Coolidge enjoyed himself at the circus.

It was Circus Day in Washington and President Coolidge, who somewhat proudly admits that he comes from a family of "inveterate attenders of circuses," abandoned his office in the White House and all attached to it, and with Mrs. Coolidge drove out to the edge of the city and took his place under the big top.

Mr. Coolidge did not eat any peanuts, nor drink any red lemonade, nor did he join the general laughter of the crowd at the anti-prohibition jokes of the circus clowns, but otherwise he forgot the dignity of his office and his official troubles gave way to the one trouble of everybody at a circus—that of trying to see everything with performances going on in five rings at a time.

An observer of the President at the circus came away with the impression that he likes bareback riding, trapeze performances and trained dog acts better than all the rest of the things that go to make up a circus. At least he applauded those portions of the show more than the others.

Before going out to the circus the President got to reminiscing about the days when, as a Vermont boy, he used to go to circuses, although admitting that his desire to go was never gratified to the extent that he thought his interest in circuses justified. He mentioned that his grandfather and father seldom missed a circus and recalled having been told by his grandmother that his grandfather once rode horseback to Brattleboro, sixty-five miles from Plymouth, to see a circus performance.

The President said he saw his first circus at Ludlow, six miles from Plymouth and the nearest railroad town to his home. He was 6 years old then, but he said he could remember distinctly seeing Adam Forepaugh—he recalled it was Forepaugh's old horse and wagon circus—sitting at the ticket wagon watching the sale of tickets.

That circus sufficed until he got a little older. Mr. Coolidge said, and the next one he saw was not a one-ring show, but the big three-ring Barnum & Bailey Circus, which used to come occasionally to Rutland. On the occasions when he went to Rutland he recalled that it was necessary to get up at 3 o'clock in the morning and drive over the mountains to arrive by the time the circus unloaded. Mr. Coolidge added that quite often he was disappointed because of arriving too late to see the tents go up.

Memories of those days plainly came back to the President today as he sat in the big tent beside John Ringling and gave himself over to the enjoyment of an acknowledged American institution. Mrs. Coolidge enjoyed the performance as much as the President and seemed to get even more enjoyment than he out of the clowns.

BEVERLY D. HARRIS SENDS WIFE TO CELL

Banker Has Her Arrested at Hotel McAlpin on a Forgery Charge.

AWAITS $3,000 BAIL BOND

Mrs. Harris Pleads in Vain With Husband, Who Accompanied Detective.

Mrs. Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris was arrested at the Hotel McAlpin last night by a detective and a policewoman, who accompanied Beverly D. Harris, the banker, who recently sued for annulment, which the jury recommended. She was booked at Police Headquarters on a charge of third degree forgery. Counsel for both Mr. and Mrs. Harris, whose marital affairs have been subject of long litigation, failed to agree on the amount of bail, and she was taken to the Clinton Street Station pending further arrangements.

Mrs. Harris was in her room at the McAlpin dictating a story of her life to a newspaper woman when she answered the knock of a bellboy who had come at her call with ice water. Hardly had the boy started in when a party of four suddenly appeared from behind, and, pushing him aside, entered the room. They were Detective James Fitzpatrick, Miss Rose Taylor, a policewoman, Harris, Rayford Alley, his attorney, and Assistant District Attorney Alexander.

Detective Fitzpatrick informed Mrs. Harris that she was under arrest on the charge of having caused the forging of a letter which she recently submitted to the court in an effort to reopen the suit to annul the marriage. A jury having found that Mrs. Harris, prior to her marriage, misrepresented to Mr. Harris her social position and moral character. The letter purporting to have been written by Harris was addressed to another woman and confessed that he was getting rid of his wife on false charges in order to marry the second woman.

Mrs. Harris appeared dumfounded at the surprise visit and then wept. She sobbed out pleas to Harris and started toward him, crying:

"Beverly, you're not going to do this to me! Oh, you're not going to do this!"

Mr. Harris stepped away and, according to Detective Fitzpatrick, ordered: "Have this woman removed from my sight."

She pressed her entreaties but the party left for Police Headquarters.

Mrs. Harris had made vain efforts to reach Max Steuer, her counsel. She finally got in communication with C. G. Daniels, another attorney, said to be a relative of Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, and on his arrival he attempted to negotiate bail in Mrs. Harris's behalf.

Lieutenant Quinn in charge for the night said that arrangement would have to be made with a magistrate. Mr. Daniels then negotiated with Mr. Alexander, representing Mr. Harris, who named $5,000 as a reasonable amount, but later came down to the tentative figure of $3,000. Daniels said this could not be obtained at the hour, and Mrs. Harris was sent to Clinton Street.

Before her departure Mrs. Harris issued a statement through Mr. Daniels denying the truth of the forgery charge. She was convinced the letter had been written by Harris and had no reason to believe otherwise. Detective Fitzpatrick said that Mrs. Harris was registered at the Hotel McAlpin under the name of Miss Elizabeth Long," and that she also had bought two railroad tickets at St. Louis under false name.

Mr. Alley, for Harris, disclosed that the arrest had been made after a conference with District Attorney Banton earlier in the day. Mr. Alley said Mr. Harris had not seen a copy of the alleged forged letter until 11 o'clock yesterday morning, when he pronounced it spurious. The matter was taken at once to Assistant District Attorney Alexander, who referred them to Mr. Banton. Mr. Banton advised, according to Mr. Alley, that they could proceed in the arrest without the necessity of a warrant. Because the Harris side believed the alleged forgery had been committed in the downtown district, as the photographic copy bore the imprint of a Fulton Street concern, they obtained Detective Fitzpatrick from the Old Slip Station.

On her arrival at the Clinton Street Station Mrs Harris had recovered her composure. When taken in charge by a matron she expressed confidence the matter of bail would be arranged in time for her early release. She bitterly denounced the action Harris had taken and charged that it was calculated solely to cause her humiliation and embarrassment.

PLAYWRIGHT'S WIFE LURED AND ROBBED

Mrs. Howard Johnson Garroted While a Guest in Couple's Suite at Hotel Alamac.

$9,000 IN DIAMONDS TAKEN

H. Lasser, Man of Aliases, Held and Questioned on King and Lawson Tragedies.

Mrs. Howard Johnson, wife of the author of "Tangerine" and other musical comedies, was the victim of a brutal assault and robbery on Monday evening. She was attacked in a suite at the Hotel Alamac, Seventy-first Street and Broadway, and robbed of three diamond rings valued at $9,000.

According to detectives of the West Sixty-eighth Street station, the robbery bears all the earmarks of having been the handiwork of persons familiar with the manner in which Dorothy King and Louise Lawson were robbed and killed. That Mrs. Johnson did not suffer a similar fate is merely a lucky chance, they say.

Late last night detectives arrested Harry Lasser in an apartment at 115 West Forty-eighth Street. At he West Sixty-eighth Street Station Mrs. Johnson positively identified him as the man who had assaulted and robbed her.

The police say Lasser is also known as Phillips, Roth, Drent and Behan and that he has a police record and is wanted in Washington for burglary. Johnson was questioned by the police as to his knowledge of the deaths of the King and Lawson women.

For two hours Mrs. Johnson lay semi-conscious on the bathroom floor of the suite occupied by her so-called 'friends." A hick cord had been drawn in a tight noose round her neck, and her feet were bound with a piece of the same material.

Police found it almost impossible to obtain a coherent story from Mrs. Johnson, as for the last twenty-four hours she has been hysterical because of her terrible experience. The story of events that led up to the attack and robbery was finally pieced together after hours of questioning.

Had Joined Couple at Parties.

According to Detectives McGovern and Conklin, Mrs. Johnson, who lives at the Hotel McAlpin, was introduced to a man and woman two months ago by a man who is a familiar figure in cabarets and cafés in the neighborhood of Times Square and upper Broadway. On several occasions, the police say, Mrs. Johnson joined them at parties.

On Monday, shortly after noon, Mrs. Johnson received a telephone call from the man, asking her to join him and his woman companion at dinner that evening. Mrs. Johnson replied that she was just about to have her breakfast, whereupon the invitation was changed to breakfast. Mrs. Johnson soon joined the man and woman at the Hotel Alamac, where they were registered as man and wife.

Breakfast was served in the hotel dining room, and afterwards Mrs. Johnson invited host and hostess to join her in an automobile ride. The party returned to the hotel in the afternoon and went to the suite occupied by the couple. Mrs. Johnson had accepted their invitation to stay with them and have dinner.

While the women were refreshing themselves after the automobile ride, the man mixed several cocktails. Mrs. Johnson told the police she believed that the couple drank with her.

Tied Rope Around Her Neck.

Mrs. Johnson was in the bathroom, she said, when suddenly the man entered, caught her by the throat and whipped out a piece of strong cord, which he fastened in a noose and tied round her neck. Then, Mrs. Johnson said, she lapsed into unconsciousness.

Two hours later she found herself lying on the bathroom floor. The noose was still tied tightly round her neck. Her feet had been bound while she was unconscious. Three diamond rings, one of five karats, another of seven karats and a dinner ring in which were a number of small diamonds had been stripped from her fingers. The man and woman had disappeared.

Mrs. Johnson succeeded in freeing her feet and aroused the management. Then

RABINER IN CAFES INSTEAD OF IN JAIL; MAY BE REINDICTED

Victims Saw Him on Broadway and Heard He Boasted of Political Influence.

JUDGE ALLOWED HIM OUT

NEW COMPLAINTS WELCOME

Banton Acts After Hirshfield Says Witness's Story Shows Paroled Broker Robbed Her.

Jules C. Rabiner, the broker who received an indeterminate sentence to the penitentiary on Jan. 25 last and was paroled in three months, was seen in Broadway restaurants on Feb. 7 and again two weeks later, when he was supposed still to be in prison, according to the testimony of three witnesses yesterday before David Hirshfield, Commissioner of Accounts. The witnesses were Dr. Edward L. Spitzer, a practicing physician of 884 West End Avenue, who said that he had lost more than $12,000 in Rabiner's brokerage failure; his wife, Mrs. Kate Spitzer, and a friend, Mrs. Bertha Shack, of 203 West Ninety-eighth Street.

The disclosure of Rabiner's absence from the penitentiary led Commissioner Hirshfield to announce the extension of his investigation to take in the Department of Correction, under whose jurisdiction the broker was placed for the period of his sentence. Commissioner Hirshfield hinted that he did not believe Rabiner served any time in the penitentiary at all. Dr. Spitzer testified that he had heard of a boast by Rabiner that he had so much political influence that he would never spend a day in jail.

Boasted of Influence.

"I am going to find out what influence and power this man had to enable him to boast that he would never serve his sentence," asserted Commissioner Hirshfield.

Judge John F. McIntyre of the Court of General Sessions, who sentenced Rabiner and who approved his parole after ninety days, issued a statement after yesterday's hearing to explain why Rabiner was at liberty on Feb. 7. Judge McIntyre said that he had stayed execution of the sentence to permit the broker to wind up his business affairs and had committed Rabiner to the Tombs, with the privilege of leaving in the custody of a Deputy Sheriff from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M. daily until Feb. 8. Judge McIntyre said that he granted the stay at the request of Jonah J. Goldstein, Rabiner's attorney. He said he did not know anything about Rabiner's reported absence from the penitentiary on the second occasion.

Frederick A. Wallis, Commissioner of Correction, through his Secretary, said that the records of the Department of Correction showed that Rabiner was delivered into its custody on Feb. 9, and remained under its jurisdiction until April 25. He said that Warden Joseph McCann of the Welfare Island penitentiary denied that Rabiner had left the Island between Feb. 9 and April 25.

Banton Invites Complaints.

A third high official from whom a statement came was District Attorney Banton. Several witnesses had testified that they got no satisfaction when they tried to lodge complaints with the District Attorney involving much larger sums than the $3,000 transaction on which Rabiner was indicted and convicted. Mr. Banton announced that he would take up all sound complaints against Rabiner now made to him and would present them to the Grand Jury during the week starting May 26.

When Rabiner went into bankruptcy he owed his customers between $400,000 and $500,000, and many with large claims are anxious to have him prosecuted further. Commissioner Hirshfield said yesterday that he intended to take the testimony of as many of Rabiner's victims as possible in order to bring their cases to the attention of the District Attorney. Mr. Hirshfield said that

Miner-Dignitary's Wife "Bears Up Wonderfully"

LONDON, May 13 (Associated Press).—The Court Circular, which gives an official account of the resplendent functions connected with the visit of the Rumanian King and Queen, also records an audience which King George has had with James Brown, Scottish miner and Labor member of Parliament, who, as Lord High Commissioner of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, will take up his official residence in Holyrood Palace at Edinburgh next Monday.

When the King inquired of Mr. Brown how his wife felt about her new exalted station of life the miner replied in broad Scotch:

"Oh, she is bearing up wonderfully well."

TAMMANY TENDERS LEADERSHIP TO FOLEY

DOUBT AS TO ACCEPTANCE

In Case He Declines, District Leaders Are Expected to Elect Judge George W. Olvany.

The leadership of Tammany was offered last night to Surrogate James A. Foley. He reserved decision until today. His acceptance was declared by those members of the organization who have been working for his selection to be "almost inevitable," but his personal friends were doubtful that he would take the place.

Should Judge Foley accept the call to succeed the late Charles F. Murphy, his father-in-law, his election today by the Tammany Executive Committee will be nearly unanimous. If he should not accept the chances are that the "Old Guard," headed by former Sheriff Thomas F. Foley, probably will elect Judge George W. Olvany, Judge of the Court of General Sessions, but with more opposition among the Assembly district leaders than there would be against Judge Foley.

The belief of district leaders at Tammany Hall yesterday was that Judge Foley would accept. "He's got to take it," was the comment of former Sheriff Foley, who has been the dominating figure in Tammany since Mr. Murphy's death.

The offer of the leadership to Judge Foley was made by the members of the Committee of Seven who called upon him at his home, 243 East Seventeenth Street, and informed him that he was "practically the unanimous choice" of the members of the Executive Committee.

Judge Foley thanked the members of the committee for the expression of confidence by the Executive Committee and told them that he would let them know of his decision today.

Committee Meets This Afternoon.

The Committee of Seven, composed of Frank J. Goodwin, Chairman; William Allen, James J. Hagan, Stephen Ruddy, Mrs. Barbara Forges, Miss Elizabeth M. Barry and Mrs. Ernestine F. Stewart, will meet at Tammany Hall this afternoon at 3 o'clock to prepare its report to the Executive Committee, which will meet at 4 o'clock. If Judge Foley accepts the invitation to become leader this report will recommend his election, which will be accomplished by the adoption of a resolution entrusting him with the "power and responsibility" of directing the affairs of the Tammany political organization.

Such a resolution, it was said, would be adopted almost unanimously, the only district leader considered likely to vote against it being John F. Curry of the Fifth Assembly District, and even Mr. Curry would not be expected to oppose a motion to make the adoption of the resolution unanimous after he had recorded his opposition to it on a roll-call of the district leaders.

Mr. Curry had nothing to add yesterday to his letter to the Committee of Seven in which he opposed the election of either Judge Foley or Judge Olvany. He continued to oppose the election of any one other than a district leader, even though his own aspirations for the leadership were considered hopeless as the result of the

KLAN ISSUE RISES AND IS BOTHERING BOTH BIG PARTIES

Underwood Manager Tells Order's Plots for New York Convention and Declares War.

INDIANA FIGHT TO THE FORE

Victory of Klan Candidate for Governor Is Embarrassing National Republicans.

KLAN CRUELTY DESCRIBED

E. J. Clark Tells the Mayfield Committee of Klokan Torture and of Espionage Among Neighbors.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Evidence accumulated today that the Ku Klux Klan issue would have a part in the national political campaign in spite of the efforts of leading spirits in both parties to minimize its importance. Senator Underwood has indicated that he intends to bring the Klan's activities in politics to the attention of the Democratic National Convention next month, and there are signs that a friendly relationship that seems to have been established between the Klan and Senator Watson since the recent Klan victory in the Republican primaries in his State may inject the issue of the secret order into Republican national politics.

The practices of the Klan as revealed before the Senate committee investigating the election of Senator Mayfield, Democrat, of Texas, who is charged with being a former Klansman and still affiliated with the Klan politically, is further accentuating the issue.

In today's testimony before that committee, E. J. Clark, a former Grand Titan of the masked order, gave details of the wholesale system of espionage maintained by the Klan, and declared that high officials of the Klan were entirely cognizant of the violence and cruelties carried out by members of the order.

Mr. Clark declared that under H. W. Evans, the present imperial wizard of the order, military rules prevailed and that Klansmen had been instructed by Evans to obey the commands of their superiors as "soldiers," adding that without such discipline the klan "could never get in politics."

Calls Klan 'Criminal' by Nature.

Luther B. Nickels of Dallas, a law partner of ex-Senator Bailey, who is chief counsel for Mr. Peddy, told the committee that the Klan was an organization, the nature of which is "criminal." He said that in his opinion the question of whether or not the Klan oath is "reasonable" should be inquired into before the hearings ended.

The Mayfield case may bring the Klan's political activities into the Senate when the matter comes up for final action. This is an outcome that many Senators will wish to avoid, but Mayfield's opponents are stressing the Klan phase of his victory in such a way that it may be difficult to avoid a decision involving the order.

Former Representative Charles C. Carlin, of Virginia, who heads the organization here which is furthering the interests of Senator Underwood for the Democratic nomination, amplified today the intimation from headquarters yesterday that an effort would be made by the Underwood forces at the national convention to obtain the adoption of an anti-Klan plank as part of the party's platform.

"Whether or not it should be, the Klan is an issue," said a statement from Mr. Carlin. "It has made itself one of its own volition."

To prove that the Klan organization in Georgia has taken steps to influence the Democratic National Convention in favor of Klan candidates, the statement quotes an alleged order issued by Nathan Bedford D. Forrest, Grand Dragon of the State. This order, which has been previously published, told the Klansmen of Georgia to scan the list of delegates named to the Democratic State Convention and make sure what stand each man would take in regard to Major Cohen, an alleged friend of the Klan, who was a candidate for State Committeeman and slated to go to New York.

The statement goes on to say that this order is "evidence that the voice of the Klan will be heard in the New York convention" and that "wherever possible the Klan is 'packing" delegations to protect its interests" in New York. The Georgia delegation to the New York convention, it is asserted, "will be a militant Klan organization."

The statement from Underwood headquarters adds:

"There is a disposition among the press in certain sections to minimize the Klan issue. It is hard to see how an issue that has resulted in such unspeakable tragedies as those of Morehouse, La.; Herron, Ill., and Lilly, Pa.—to illustrate that it is not a sectional question—can be minimized. Regardless of who is or who is not to blame, as the Santa Fe New Mexican states, 'Whenever the Klan appears, sooner or later there is riot and violence and murder.'

"Equally true is it, that wherever it is organized the Klan attempts to dominate and control politics. In the South the Klan is lined up solidly against the candidacy of Senator Underwood because he had the courage to denounce it and its methods. In Indiana the Klan is mobilized in the Republican primary with a complete State ticket in the field. In Illinois, in the recent primaries, the spectacle was witnessed of the Klan issuing instructions to Klansmen as to how to vote."

Commenting on the Georgia Klan order and other developments, Mr. Carlin says:

"Why should the Klan's interests as New York require protection any more than the interests of the Masonic order

Stone Himself Will Direct Secret Agents, Reorganizing the Bureau of Investigation

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Attorney General Harlan F. Stone today advised the Brookhart Committee that the so-called dollar-a-year secret agents of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice had been dropped from the rolls. He made this announcement practically simultaneously with the statement that he would direct the reorganization and the operations of the bureau for some time to come, and that it might be a matter of several weeks before he would consider the selection of a successor to Chief William J. Burns, whose retirement was announced a few days ago.

Mr. Stone said that the Bureau of Investigation would be employed for the purpose of aiding the lawyers of the Department of Justice in the preparation and prosecution of cases brought to their attention. He was asked if this meant that hereafter Members of Congress and other officials would not be "investigated" by agents of the department and replied that his statement apparently covered such a question.

If this plan is carried out Mr. Stone will assume full responsibility for all of the activities of the agents of the Bureau, with J. E. Hoover continuing as acting chief. So called "under cover" men who have made investigations which have been the subject of sharp criticism by the Brookhart Committee, which is investigating the administration of the Department of Justice by Harry M. Daugherty, will no longer operate along these lines.

The inference drawn from Mr. Stone's attitude today was that he intended to remain in direct contact with operations of the Bureau of Investigation until he was satisfied that it had been reorganized into an agency which would devote its time to an efficient prosecution of cases turned over to his department.

On the list submitted to the Brookhart Committee were the names of Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., C. D. Hilles, former Chairman of the Republican National Committee; Federal Judge George A. Carpenter of Chicago; John K. Tener, former Governor of Pennsylvania; ex-Senator U. Coleman du Pont of Delaware; L. H. Hoover, Chief Usher at the White House; Fred W. Upham, Treasurer of the Republican National Committee, and E. B. McLean, publisher of The Washington Post.

Langley Is Sentenced to Two Years in Prison For Conspiracy to Violate Prohibition Law

COVINGTON, Ky., May 13.—Representative John W. Langley of Kentucky was sentenced today to two years imprisonment in the Atlanta Penitentiary by Federal Judge Cochran, following his conviction yesterday on the charge of conspiracy in connection with a whisky transaction in 1921.

Milton Lipschutz of Philadelphia, convicted with Langley, and Walter Carey of Canton, Ohio, and M. E. Huth of Alliance, Ohio, were sentenced to two years each in the same prison. Carey and Huth pleaded guilty during the trial.

Judge Cochran pronounced sentence after overruling motions for a new trial filed by attorneys for Langley and Lipschutz. After sentence was pronounced it was announced that an appeal would be taken, and Langley and Lipschutz were released on bond.

The attorneys for Carey and Huth were unable to be in court and Judge Cochran released the defendants on their present bond for ten days, until their attorneys could appear. Carey and Huth said they had no statements to make before the Judge imposed sentence. Mr. Langley, however, read a statement in which he declared he was innocent of the charge against him.

When he talked with Sam Collins, Prohibition Director for Kentucky, Mr. Langley asserted he had no other thought than to learn from a man whom he considered a friend what was or would be Mr. Collins's attitude and action respecting shipments by truck of liquor to be lawfully withdrawn. After Mr. Collins made his position clear Mr. Langley declared, he dismissed the matter from his mind and thereafter had no relation of any kind with the matter.

He said he never heard of Mortimer's attempt to bribe Mr. Collins, and he did not understand why the latter did not at once present the matter to the proper authorities.

In reply to Mr. Langley's statement Judge Cochran declared he believed him to be guilty, and "the thing that hurt most" was his "attempt to corrupt Collins." He praised the latter, saying he not only was efficient but was honest.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—House leaders were undetermined today what course to pursue with regard to Representative Langley, convicted of violating the prohibition laws.

The committee authorized to investigate the charges against Mr. Langley, as well as those against Representative Zihlman of Maryland, discussed the Langley conviction but reached no decision as to procedure. Thus far the committee has devoted itself entirely to the Zihlman phase of the inquiry and expects to make public its findings in this respect in a day or so.

Leaders, generally, agreed that it would be best to await a committee recommendation before making any move in regard to Langley.

"The Klan itself is making the issue. It must be met in New York determinedly and without evasion or equivocation.

"Senator Underwood claims no more right than any other candidate to demand his nomination from the Democratic Convention. But Senator Underwood has a right to expect the Democratic Convention to tell the Klan in no uncertain terms that it does not delegate to the Klan the right of veto over his candidacy.

"Senator Underwood has pledged himself and his friends in the convention will lead the fight against the machinations of the Klan. It is hoped that the other aspirants for the nomination will join hands with him in this movement.

"The Klan itself places the issue squarely before the Democratic convention. If it be not met; if a plank similar to the one of 1856, when 'know-nothingism' was rampant, be not enacted into the Democratic platform, it will be—and rightly so—heralded as a Klan victory. It will mean a surrender of the most precious principles of democracy to the 'Dragons,' the 'Kleagles' and the 'Cyclops' of the 'invisible empire.'"

Watching Indiana Moves.

Knowledge that Senator Watson had been in conference with Klansmen since the Klan candidate for Governor, Edward Jackson, was nominated in the State Republican primaries, has caused much talk in political circles. Senator Watson's statement that he would support Jackson "as he would any other Republican if he had won the nomination," has not stilled the gossip that has resulted from the Senator's conferences in Washington with Dr. W. H. Evans, Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, and Walter Bossert of Indianapolis, Imperial Representative of the Klan in Indiana. The Senator and the Imperial Wizard are said to have had luncheon together.

Mr. Watson is a member of the Committee on Privileges and Elections which is investigating the charges against Senator Mayfield.

TELLS OF KLAN OUTRAGES.

E. J. Clark, at Mayfield Hearing, Describes "the All-Seeing Eye."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The "All Seeing Eye," the Ku Klux Klan's espionage system by which neighbor spied upon neighbor, telephone and telegraph wires were tapped and other means of communication were adopted when the Klokan Committee operated in a neighborhood was described today by Erwin J. Clark of Houston, Texas, a former Grand Titan, to the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Mr. Clark was a witness at the hearing of the contest instituted by George E. B. Peddy, Republican, for the seat of Senator Mayfield, Democrat, of Texas.

The Klokan committee of each lodge, the witness asserted, supervised reports of cases of misconduct in the neighborhood and considered prospects of disorders. Reports of "working overs," or, as he explained, floggings, administered to individuals objectionable to the Klan were related.

Dr. H. W. Evans, now Imperial Wizard of the order, had announced his purpose in 1921 to stop violence by the Klan, the witness declared, but Klan officers in conference with him scoffed at such a step. Another startling testimony Mr. Clark said he had withdrawn from membership in the organization.

The purpose of this testimony, according to Luther Nichols, counsel for Mr. Peddy, was to prove the Klan unlawful, criminal organization," membership in which would serve indirectly to disqualify Senator Mayfield for his seat in the Senate.

Senator Spencer, Chairman, announced for the committee, when objections were raised by counsel for Senator Mayfield, that the testimony was being received only for consideration. Later, he said, possibly it would be stricken out.

A klansman was duty bound to carry reports or act as any wizard instructed by his chief, Mr. Clark testified. He said 90 per cent. of the membership did not know what was going on, and that there were "wheels within wheels" and that the chiefs were all powerful.

"Vocational Klanishness," the witness said, was a duty of membership, and that while regulating moral conduct and intimidation of negroes was part of the functions practiced, a true klansman was required to trade with a fellow klansman.

At one time the witness refused to tell of certain cruelties until the women present had left the committee room. Then he described the nature of punishment inflicted on a negro who had been singled out. He said a Klan official had condoned it on the ground that "to put the fear of God in 'em, it is necessary to make 'em over occasionally."

Mr. Clark told W. P. McLean, of counsel for Senator Mayfield, that he did not spend anything out of funds collected for the Klan to promote the campaign of Mr. Mayfield.

"Did you ever spend one dime for Mayfield?" Mr. McLean asked.

"No, sir," the witness said, "nor for any other candidate." He added that the Klan had never instructed him to spend campaign money.

A moment later, on examination by Mr. Nickels, the witness told of a conference which he had with Imperial Wizard Evans. He said Mr. Evans had declared "the only way the Klan could exist was to maintain its militant position."

"He claimed that it was necessary for a Klansman to obey orders as a soldier, and that it never could get along in politics without that," Mr. Clark continued.

Mr. Nickels then lead the examination to the question of violence.

"If they can show that the Ku Klux Klan ever spent over $25 to elect Mayfield we would not object, for they cannot show it," Mr. McLean said. That they should undertake to talk about violence is only to besmirch the character of the young Senator from Texas, Mr. Mayfield. If they have any evidence that he received money from the Ku Klux Klan we have no objection, because he did not."

Describing a conference with Klan officials at which Dr. Evans said he was going to see that "whippings and tar and feather parties were stopped," the witness added that "Mother Lease, who was Great Titan," laughed at Dr. Evans and told him to stop his hypocrisy. Mr. McColl then reminded Dr. Evans, he said, of an incident where the doctor himself had branded a negro. Clark said McColl now is with the Klan "imperial palace."

"Suppose there was somebody picked out to be flogged," Senator Watson inquired, "did a chief officer gather a few fellows to do that?"

"Sometimes."

"Do you know of any such acts which had to do with an election?"

"Only as to these parades."

"Do you know of any of these acts which had to do with Mayfield's election?"

"I don't believe I do, sir."

The Klan always denied connection with incidents of violence, the witness said.

"The Klokan committees and the Cyclops of the county kept all these things to themselves," Clark added, "and 90 per cent. of the membership never knows the facts."

The witness said that when he was once discussing the case of a negro who had been branded across the forehead with K. K. K. he had protested saying:

"I thought the negro had as much right to vote as the white man."

"Is that the position of the State of Texas?" Senator Neely broke in.

"I am not stating it for the State of Texas," Mr. Clark replied.

He continued that in his own county the klansmen "quite often disguised parades as being for the purpose of intimidating the negro and making him more amenable." One such parade, he said, was at Mort, Texas. Most of the participants, the witness said, were from his own organization at Wolf. He admitted a moment later to Senator Watson that it was intended that the negro was not to vote.

Mr. Clark was asked by Mr. McLean of counsel for Senator Mayfield to relate the details of an incident which came to his knowledge while he (the witness) was legal representative of the Klan, but Mr. Clark refused and was upheld by the committee.

Mr. Nichols inquired as to details about the Lorena, Texas, parade, in which two persons were killed, and whether, as a result, any action was taken by the Waco Klan with regard to the attitude toward the organization of the man who then was District Judge.

"No, sir," he said, but a moment later declined to answer as to whether the Judge was a Klansman. He was criticised by counsel for Senator Mayfield because he told of some cases and not about others, but Mr. Clark still maintained the rights as a lawyer.

The witness declared he had talked with George P. Kimbro Jr., who was Grand Goblin under E. Y. Clarke of Klan headquarters, about tar-and-feather parties.

Mr. McLean objected to this as being "rank gossip," but Senator Spencer admitted the testimony.

Mr. Clark said that Mr. Kimbro had told some of these parties.

"He was bragging," the witness said, "about parties pulled off at Houston."

The witness launched into a discussion of the "Klokan Committee," which he said was a system of espionage which provided for spies in the local communities, but before he got far Mr. McLean again objected. The committee ruled that the witness proceed.

"If we had some report of a man's immoral conduct," he said, "we would select one of his neighbors and we would ask this party to watch him day and night. Whenever we wanted telephone connections we got them."

One of the clauses watched, the witness declared, was the Mexican settlement which, it had been reported, was going "to rise against the people." Men went out and watched them. Mr. Clark admitted to Senator King that the purpose was protection of life and property and "to better morals primarily." He added that "the members were some of the best people in the country." Mr. Clark declared that at the time he had thought the Klan was essential for the good of the country.

"It was its creation of a supergovernment that I considered antagonistic to this Government that caused me to leave it," he said.

"Did you consider it wrong?"

"Yes, sir, I do. In that we did create political machinery, the order being militant, and in that we attempted to control members in office."

The witness admitted that the officers discussed parochial schools, and then continued with an attack on Klan practices.

"A Klansman," he said, "can't speak to you if you have been a Klansman and have been banished; and he cannot have any dealings with you."

He added that he had never heard an officer admit that the Klan had anything to do with acts committed by the Klan.

Mr. Nickels asked if the Klan operations were confined to the negro race.

"Oh no," said Mr. Clark. "Vocational Klannishness was a duty. A Klansman was to trade with a Klansman in preference to all others, to go to a Klansman dentist, or merchant."

Mr. McLean asked if the witness did not know that before the Klan existed a negro could not enter a Democratic primary in Texas. Mr. Clark said they could in the district over which he presided as a Judge.

"Don't you know," Mr. McLean asked, "that in order to participate you must be a white man? Do you mean to say that darkies voted in the primary?"

"While I was Judge in my district they had that right."

Mr. Clark said that his salary while he was representing the Klan in a legal capacity was $15,000 a year out of which he had to pay his expenses.

James E. Straughan of Fort Worth, who said he was in the oil business, told of traveling with Mr. Mayfield during his campaign, driving him to several places in his automobile, "and toward the end of the campaign to protect his life." Mr. Straughan said there was fear of some violence. He told of a campaign contribution from the Fred P. Foster Oil Company of $500 from a Mr. Hoffer of the Penalind Oil Company, $300; from Slay, Simons & Smith, $250, and from Phillips, Trammel & Caldwell, $125. Out of his own funds Mr. Straughan said he contributed about $1,500.

INDIANA DRAGON SUES HIGH KLAN OFFICERS

Stephenson Charges Libel and Slander and Asks $200,000 Damages.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 13.—D. C. Stephenson, elected Grand Dragon of the Realm of Indiana of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan at a meeting of insurgent Klansmen here last night, today carried his fight for control of the Klan in this State further when he filed suits charging libel and slander and seeking damages totaling $200,000. Dr. H. W. Evans, Imperial Wizard of the Klan; Walter Bossert, Imperial Representative of the Klan in twenty-one States including Indiana, and Robert Lyons of Richmond, Ind., said to be the National Chief of Staff of the Klan, are named as defendants in the suit.

Since the Indiana State Primary election on May 6, in which the Klan supported Ed Jackson, the successful candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, Klan affairs have been in the limelight.

"God help the man who issues a proclamation of war against the Klan in Indiana now," declared Stephenson soon after his election as Grand Dragon. This was said to refer to Dr. Carleton B. McCulloch, who led the Democratic field of candidates for nomination for Governor and who the night before issued a statement asserting that the primary demonstrated that the Republican Party had been captured by the Klan and that the Democrats must accept the challenge and fight for the principles of religious liberty and the constitutional guarantee of the State and nation."

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 13.—The assembled Klansmen of Indiana today with ninety-one of ninety-two counties represented after full deliberation decided to take control of their own organization. This does not mean secession from the national organization, but means that the strongest and most effective Klan State in the nation will henceforth formulate its own policies and elect its own officers, both local and State, and keep local funds in their local treasury. Indiana's impulse has already gone to the whole country. With 92 per cent. of its citizenship native born and of the best blood and traditions of the nation, Indiana has a contribution of her own to make. Instead of outside control, not representative of her spirit, she applies the original American principle of self-determination. The assembly today elected D. C. Stephenson Grand Dragon with a full quota of State officers from every part of the State. Already a revival of the spirit of 1923 is under way to bring renewed strength and growth. The call of duty and rededication goes to all.

SENATORS CONCLUDE INQUIRY ON WHEELER

Borah Is Expected to Make His Report on the Indictment Tomorrow or Friday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The special Senate committee investigating the indictment of Senator Wheeler by a Federal Grand Jury at Great Falls, Mont., decided in executive session today not to take further testimony. Senator Borah of Idaho, Chairman, was authorized to outline a report which will be submitted to the other members tomorrow. It is now expected that a brief written report will be made to the Senate by Thursday or Friday and that Senator Borah will probably make an oral statement.

Senator Sterling, Republican of South Dakota, who has appeared at the hearings as "prosecutor" for the opponents of Senator Wheeler, asked that one additional letter written by Senator Wheeler and bearing on the case be placed in the record and this was done. The vote was then unanimous to close the evidence.

It is the general belief that the report as finally submitted by Senator Borah will be favorable to Senator Wheeler, although Senator Borah would not discuss this phase of the inquiry today.

SAYS DRY VIOLATORS DID NOT GO TO PRISON

Former Agent Tells Daugherty Inquiry Committee of Conditions in Cleveland.

MANY LET OFF WITH FINES

Others Were Not Prosecuted, He Says—Ohio Permits Increase From 2,000 to 11,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The Senate committee investigating ex-Attorney General Daugherty today heard H. J. Burton, a former agent of the prohibition enforcement service, tell how wet Cleveland is under the Eighteenth Amendment. Burton, who is now an investigator in the employ of Governor Donahey, declared that efforts of the prohibition agents to bring influential violators of the Volstead act to justice had been frustrated, and cited cases in which he declared the guilty had been permitted to go free or else had been let off with fines.

Mr. Burton testified that in one case eleven cases of whisky had been traced to a police station in a Cleveland suburb; in another nearly 300,000 quarts of whisky had been released from a warehouse, while in still another, which he declared involved Samuel Ungerleider, the Cleveland broker, sufficient counterfeit revenue stamps were located, he said, to care for thousands of barrels of whisky. He named "Nicky" Arnstein as a member of an alleged band of Cleveland bootleggers. In practically every case he cited he said that the ends of the law had been frustrated. In all instances he affirmed the records in the cases were submitted to the Department of Justice.

The number of permits in Ohio, according to the witness, have increased from about 2,000 in March, 1921, to more than 11,000 at the present time. This total, he added, does not include permits issued to doctors, which would raise it to 14,000.

Reports Sent to Daugherty.

Mr. Burton said that from January, 1920, to November, 1921, he was a Federal prohibition agent, attached to the Ohio-Maryland division, with headquarters in Cleveland. Reports of all investigations in which he had a part were forwarded, said Mr. Burton, to the Department of Justice in Washington. In answer to a question by Senator Jones, the witness said that the report was as a rule addressed to the Attorney General personally.

At the present time Mr. Burton said he is making investigations for Governor Donahey of Ohio, some of them, he added, relating to prohibition. His first important assignment while in the Government service was in January, 1921, Mr. Burton said at that time he was one of a special squad of agents ordered to Washington to investigate liquor conditions in this city. The Washington investigation, Mr. Burton said, uncovered thirty-four violations involving the transportation, sale and possession of intoxicating liquors. The records numbered twenty-nine. Mr. Burton said that so far as he knows there has been no court action in any of these cases.

The Zerby-Freedman case was next called to the attention of the witness by Senator Wheeler. Mr. Burton said that in May, 1920, during the Palmer administration of the Department of Justice, this case was brought to the attention of the prohibition enforcement officers in Cleveland. Agents of the Government, the witness said, arranged with a man named Fulks to deliver forty-five cases of whisky to an address on Grand Avenue, Cleveland, and when the delivery was made a trap was to be sent out which showed, he said, that the whisky had been released to Zerby from a warehouse in Sharon, Pa. Three men were arrested, Zerby, he said, withdrawing 5,000 cases of whisky. Freedman, he testified, had 4,000 certificates but no permits and he traded his certificates to Zerby for about half the number of cases of whisky.

In November, 1920, Zerby and Freedman were indicted for conspiracy, Mr. Burton said, and they were brought to trial in the Southern District of Ohio, pleaded guilty and received prison sentences in addition to fines. This, however, he added, did not end the case. Four other men were indicted, he said, and all were permitted to pay fines. Mr. Burton said a report was made to Attorney General Daugherty.

Says Bribe Was Offered.

Asked if any money had been used to "fix" the cases he replied he did not know. One of the prisoners, he declared, offered him $1,000 not to appear against him. This fact, Mr. Burton declared, he reported to Samuel Needham, Assistant United States Attorney at Cleveland.

Another case in which Mr. Burton said no prosecution had been had was the Dressler-Engleberg whisky case, which involved the release of 422 cases and ten barrels of Old Taylor whisky. This was a convoy case and Dressler, the witness said, was in command of the convoy. Dressler represented himself as an employe of the Ribner Wholesale Liquor Company of New York and showed what purported to be a power of attorney to prove his statement. He also showed a permit which the New York office subsequently declared to be a forgery. In 1922 the whisky was released and turned back to Dressler, said Mr. Burton. A report of the case, he testified, was made to Attorney General Daugherty. There was no prosecution, he declared. The Government did not find any trace of a liquor firm operating under the name of Ribner in New York and the address given to Mr. Burton proved to be a small unoccupied shack.

"Did you find out anything about Dressler?" Senator Wheeler asked.

"Yes, we found that he was quite well known and was associated with the Ginsberg crowd in Cleveland. Members of that crowd are 'Yankee' Goldsmith, 'Checks' Ginsberg, Bennie Ginsberg, Eddie Greenhut, Julius Heverman and 'Nickie' Arnstein," Mr. Burton replied.

"What business was that crowd engaged in principally?" Senator Wheeler inquired.

"So far as I know," Mr. Burton replied, "they are gamblers, bookmakers, bootleggers, and I think the world knows 'Nicky' Arnstein's connection with the bond robbery in New York."

In January, 1921, Cleveland prohibition agents, Mr. Burton testified, purchased twenty gallons of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes from the Shuster Company of Cleveland. This was a drug house. The facts in the case, he said, were reported to the Attorney General."

Puts Ohio Permits at 14,000.

"The case was continued and continued," said Mr. Burton, "no arrests were made, no indictments returned, and in 1923 it was compromised for $4,400, and I am told their permit was not revoked. I might add that in January, 1920, there were 8,000 permits in Ohio; in November, 1921, there were 8,000, and in March of this year there were 11,000, and if we include the doctors, over 14,000."

Mr. Burton told of the seizure of two yachts with liquor aboard. Two conspiracy indictments were returned against the commanders of the yachts and various others, including the Lakewood police who were alleged to have been involved. The full facts were reported to the Attorney General, Mr. Burton said. The defendants were freed on the payment of fines. The captain of one of the yachts told him, Mr. Burton said, that he had some dealings with the Union Club of Cleveland and that if he could "hook up" some of the club officials he would defeat the conspiracy charge.

"He did hook up the stewards and he was put away in a conspiracy charge," Mr. Burton testified.

AMERICAN FLIERS SET FOR JUMP TO JAPAN

Three Planes Are Expected to Attempt Today the Longest Leg of Their World Flight.

ABOARD U. S. COAST GUARD CUTTER HAIDA AT ATTU ISLAND, Alaska, May 13 (By Wireless to The Associated Press).—Tuning up of three army planes flying around the earth was completed here today and there was every expectation that they would take the air tomorrow morning for Japan.

Gales prevented the men from inspecting, repairing and overhauling the machines at Attu up to this time. Everything will be made as nearly perfect as possible for the longest hop of the 27,000-mile trip.

PARIS, May 13.—A taste of the hardships which will face the American around-the-world fliers once they have finished with the Arctic cold and reach the Tropics is given in an interview with Lieutenant Pelletier d'Oisy, the French flier, obtained on his arrival at Saigon and published in today's Paris newspapers.

"It was burning hot," d'Oisy said, "that we couldn't keep our hands on the metal parts of the machine. The water in the radiator was at the boiling point. Once we feared the radiator would explode. The varnish on the wings of the plane curled up and gave me quite a bit of apprehension. At times we thought the heat had upset the compass.

"This was when we were flying over mountains covered with forests, which were inhabited only by beasts. We reflected what the animals would think if we should fall in their midst.

"There were many hardships, but we kept confidence in our plane, and you see we were right.

"It must be remembered that this is in the second week of May and that the American fliers, if things go well in the future, should arrive at this part of their itinerary in June, when the Tropical sun is much hotter than at present. In addition, they will meet moonsoons in India."

PARIS, May 13.—Lieutenant Pelletier d'Oisy has completed another leg of his flying trip from Paris to Tokio, the French Air Service announced tonight, having arrived at Ha-noi, in Tongking, Indo-China, at 2:40 o'clock this afternoon. He had left Saigon, in Lower Indo-China, at 7:10 A. M.

Storms were encountered all the way from Saigon, but Lieutenant d'Oisy reported that his machine behaved admirably.

PROMISES COOLIDGE MAINE.

Gov. Baxter Tells President State Will Show Trend in September.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Governor Baxter of Maine talked politics with President Coolidge today and told him that the State, sometimes but not always a political barometer, would elect the Republican candidates in September by an overwhelming majority.

"You know the saying is 'As Maine goes in September, so goes the election in November,'" said Governor Baxter after he had left the conference. "There is an overwhelming sentiment for Coolidge among the Republicans of my State. I am confident that Coolidge will carry Maine in November by a majority in excess of 30,000. In the last few weeks I have been in several sections of the State and I found the people, without regard to party, saying: 'Coolidge is a good, safe man.' The voters of Maine want that type of man for President. I would be surprised if he did not receive more than the normal Republican majority."

Governor Baxter said that prohibition enforcement would be an issue and the Republican Party would have a plank on the subject. Enforcement, he said, is getting better every month in Maine.

OPPOSE HERMES PROJECT.

Press and People Hostile to It, but Premier Personally Favors It.

ATHENS, May 13.—In order to find out the truth about the various rumors at present in circulation about the suggested visit of the statue of Hermes to the United States, I waited upon Premier Papanastasiou this morning. He told me that, although he was personally in favor of sending the great work of Praxiteles to the United States, Greece could not consider such a proposal unless an official request was made by Washington. Moreover, he remarked that the consent of the Cabinet as well as the approval of archaeological experts would be necessary. It appears unlikely that the Government will consent to let the Hermes go, in view of the popular opposition and the outcry in the press against it. The Hestia says that to allow the statue to be taken abroad would constitute a very great mark of disrespect to the moral obligations of Greece toward history.

Foreign Office Says Merlin's Visit Does Not Involve a Defensive Alliance.

TREATY WITH US AFFECTED

Inclusion of Indo-China in Franco-Japanese Trade Treaty Is One Point Considered.

TOKIO, May 13.—The official visit of the French Governor General of Indo-China, who has arrived with a large staff, is causing considerable speculation in diplomatic circles and in the Japanese press.

It was originally announced that the object of the visit of Governor General Merlin was two-fold: First, to express the sympathy of France for the earthquake of last September, and second, to congratulate the Prince Regent and his bride on the occasion of the imperial wedding. Later, when rumors of a new treaty became current, the Japanese Foreign Office announced that there was another motive for the visit, and that it was planned to extend the new commercial treaty, now being negotiated between France and Japan in Paris, to embrace Indo-China.

I am, however, reliably informed that there is still another task which will occupy the attention of the Governor General during his visit.

According to the Foreign Office, it has never been determined whether the Treaty of Guarantees, drawn up between France and Japan in 1907 after the Russo-Japanese War, guaranteeing the territorial integrity of each other in the Far East, was abrogated by the Four Power Treaty of Washington. Governor General Merlin will discuss with the Japanese Foreign Office the status of this treaty in order to determine whether it is still to be considered in force, or whether the Washington Treaty replaced it in the same way it replaced the Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

The Treaty of Guarantees stipulates that the contracting parties undertake to respect the independence and territorial integrity of China, agree in principal to equal opportunities, undertaking to protect each other, and to insure peace and security in the vicinity of their separate spheres of sovereignty in order to maintain the status and the territorial rights of the contracting parties on the Asiatic continent.

Negotiations for the renewal of the commercial treaty between France and Japan are now going on between Viscount Ishii, the Japanese Ambassador to Paris, and the Quai d'Orsay. Governor General Merlin will negotiate with the Japanese Government for the extension of the treaty to Indo-China so as to admit Japanese goods into Indo-China at the same favorable tariff rate and stimulate trade between the two countries, which has been falling off for the last five years.

The Japanese Foreign Office denies the rumors which have been current that the visit of the Governor General is connected with the conclusion of a defensive alliance between France and Japan, aimed at Russia and Germany. It says no new alliance will be negotiated.

The Japanese press has reported that the Governor's visit is connected with a plan to encourage Japanese emigration to Indo-China, but this seems to be without any foundation, as there would be no advantage to Japanese laborers emigrating to a country where the native standard of living is lower than in Japan.

The visit of the Governor General at this time, however, when the immigration problem has aroused Japanese public sentiment against the United States, is certain to bring about closer cooperation with France. Japanese press comment welcomes a rapprochement with France at this time.

The Corosu says:

"The Anglo-Japanese alliance now is past history, while our relations with the United States and Russia are assuming a grave aspect. At such a juncture a Franco-Japanese rapprochement is highly desirable.

Kokumin says:

"The connection between France and Indo-China has not been close. This defect must be rectified in order to safeguard the peace of the Pacific."

Asahi says:

"France and Japan have a duty to perform in Asia."

The Franco-Japanese Convention of 1907 has done much toward safeguarding the peace of the Far East. However, no measures so far have been taken to strengthen the tie of friendship between Indo-China and Japan."

million dollars but who fell into the net which they spread for honest public officials.

"The public should also know the truth about the Merchants' Association, the Chambers of Commerce of New York and Brooklyn and the other groups that have opposed legislation which would have provided an exemption of $275,000,000 for the construction of subways to relieve the scandalous transit conditions deliberately created by the private operators.

"Show the affiliation between these groups and the public utility and traction corporations which we have been battling for six years in order to protect the rights and privileges and property of the people.

"Let the people know that selfishness is still rampant in this city by pointing out specific instances where sordid groups, such as I have mentioned, have obstructed measures intended to help the people.

"Don't look to the corporation dominated newspapers for any help. They have condemned and maligned us and will continue to do so because they serve the interests and in so doing profit at the expense of the people.

"Accept invitations to speak which will enable you to reveal the double dealing and hypocrisy of scurvy bands that would deceive the people.

"Very truly yours,
(Signed) "JOHN F. HYLAN,
"Mayor."

Tammany Is Not Worrying.

Tammany men, who are opposed to Mayor Hylan's renomination and what they call his "unwarranted interference" in Tammany affairs by opposing the choice of Surrogate James A. Foley as leader, declared that they saw little cause for worry in the speaking campaign which the Mayor has ordered his appointees to start. They declared that it was altogether too early to begin a city campaign with a Presidential campaign intervening.

Many of the leading members of Tammany doubt whether transit would be a winning issue for the third time, considering the way Mayor Hylan has handled the situation. They admitted that the Mayor's opposition to an increased fare has been his biggest political asset but were inclined to believe that the failure for more than six years to start any new subways might be charged to the Mayor by a great number of voters and prove to be a political liability instead of an asset at the city election in 1925 if the Mayor should again head the Democratic ticket.

While the Mayor's letter was taken as an indication of his willingness to go ahead regardless of Tammany and with the expectation of the support of Mr. Hearst and the Brooklyn Democratic organizations, the view in Tammany was that there was nothing in the situation to bring about an immediate open break with the Mayor and that no development to cause one need be expected until after the Presidential election.

FOR FIGHT ON "HYLANISM."

Republicans Urged to Begin Drive for the Mayoralty Now.

Republicans were called upon by Helen Varick Boswell, yesterday, to commence their fight immediately against Mayor Hylan, so that a Republican might be sent to the City Hall in 1925. Speaking at the season's final meeting of the Woman's Republican Club at the Hotel Plaza, Miss Boswell, who is Vice Chairman of the New York County Republican Committee, declared that present indications point to a Democratic defeat at the next Mayoralty election.

"We have had two terms of Mr. Hylan," said Miss Boswell, "and I am beginning to sense, from reading the newspapers and from information from other sources, that not only have his own people at Tammany Hall turned against him, but many persons who voted for him are becoming just a little tired of him. We must wage, so strong a campaign that we will impress upon the greater part of our citizenry the necessity for saving the city from further Hylanism."

Miss Boswell, who was scheduled to speak on "Politics in Industry," asserted that, whereas there is little politics there, it does show itself in other branches of the city's life. She said it is found to a large degree in the public school system, where "it should not be." Into industry, however, has crept a good deal of "red" propaganda, she added. Workers, and more especially the young ones, are receiving all kinds of radical literature and attending meetings of radicals. The Republican Party in New York, said Miss Boswell, ought to offset "this pernicious propaganda."

Mrs. Richard Bent introduced a resolution which would have the club "write a letter to the Trustees of Columbia University deprecating the stand (on prohibition) taken by President Nicholas Murray Butler and protesting against having at the head of a university, whose students believe in the law, one who advocates overthrowing it." The resolution was ruled "out of order."

Leslie M. Shaw, former Secretary of the Treasury, reviewed the history of the Naval oil leases and said he had recently urged former Secretary Denby to run for Senate from Michigan "against that fellow Cousens."

SHAKESPEARE SOCIETY EXTENDS OVER NATION

Group of 150 Professors and Actors Is Formed as Nucleus of Larger Association.

The organization of the Shakespeare Association of America was announced yesterday by Professor Ashley H. Thorndyke, head of the English Department of Columbia University, author of numerous critical and editorial works on Shakespeare and a Vice President of the British Shakespeare Association.

The work of organizing a group of 150 professors and actors into a nation-wide association which will be the nucleus for a larger membership was started last Fall by Mrs. James Madison Bass, former President of the New York Shakespeare Society and first Vice President of the new association.

Other Vice Presidents include Professors Joseph Quincy Adams, Raymond MacDonald Alden, S. E. Ashbaugh, Stockton Axson, George P. Baker, Katherine Lee Bates, Archibald Lewis Bouton, Tucker Brooke, R. H. Burton, Rev. Howard Duffield, Horace Howard Furness Jr., Charles Mills Gayley, Edwin Greenlaw, Frederick Henry Kock, George Frederick Kunz, John Matthews Manly, Brander Matthews, Herman H. B. Meyer, Lewis Freeman Mott, William Allan Neilson, Aurelia Henry Reinhardt, Felix E. Schelling, Elmer E. Stroll, Charles William Wallace, John De Witt Warner, Talcott Williams, John Thompson Willing, John Barrymore, James K. Hackett, Walter Hampden, Julia Marlowe, Edward H. Sothern, Mrs. Robert Carleton Morris and Augustus Thomas.

The association's Board of Directors for 1924 is composed of Mrs. Leo Robert Collier, Frank Gilmore, Mrs. Anne S. Hutchins, Paul Kaufman, Mrs. Augusta Raymond Kidder; for 1925, Charles K. Carpenter, Winslow P. Daggett, Clayton Hamilton, Mrs. Mary A. Howes, John H. H. Lyon; for 1926, John G. Agar, Mrs. James Madison Bass, Thomas W. Churchill, Miss Myra B. Martin and Ashley Horace Thorndyke.

Professor Thorndyke said yesterday that a quarterly bulletin, edited by Professor Harry Morgan Ayers of the Columbia English Department, would soon appear and carry on a campaign for popular membership. Annual membership will cost $1; sustaining members will pay $5. Provision is being made for the affiliation of previously existing Shakespearean societies. Professor Thorndyke added that the Association would try to establish foundations for scholarships in Shakespearean research, and hoped eventually to establish a Shakespeare Theatre. All Shakespeare's anniversaries will be celebrated.

TIE-UP IN HUDSON TUBE.

Derailed Car Blocks Traffic an Hour —Trains Halt Under River.

Traffic in the Hudson & Manhattan tubes was delayed nearly an hour at the beginning of the evening rush yesterday when a car which was being switched at the Hudson Terminal became partly derailed and had to be pushed to Summit Avenue, Jersey City, by a passenger train.

The train which pushed the disabled one was suddenly halted by an automatic train-stopping device under the river and passengers were shaken up. The lights went out and windows in three cars were shattered. Anna Yacowits of 267 Henderson Street, Jersey City, was cut on the hand by flying glass. There was no panic in the cars.

The long delay caused an extraordinary congestion at the Manhattan end of the tunnel. Passengers in the Hudson Terminal at 5 o'clock were jammed together, unable to move in any direction, and guards and special patrolmen had to fight to make a lane for outgoing passengers when the service was resumed.

PUTS CRADLE BESIDE FLAG.

British Bishop Says It Should Be Saluted on Empire Day.

LONDON, May 13.—"If I had my way I would put a cradle beside the flag on Empire Day and when the girls of the schools came to salute the flag I would make every girl salute the cradle," Lord William Gascoyne-Cecil, Bishop of Exeter, a cousin of Lord Balfour, declared in a speech yesterday.

"What has happened in France in the matter of the falling birth rate," the Bishop continued, "is also happening here. The average family in Devonshire is only slightly over three members."

Government Had Refused to Extradite Man Wanted for Shooting Hero.

NAPLES, Italy, May 13.—Antonio Somma, who is wanted in Brooklyn, N. Y., on a charge of having shot to death Augustus Hetrick, and who was arrested some time ago at Torre del Greco, was condemned today by the Assizes to serve twenty-six months in prison.

The Italian Government had refused to extradite him to the United States.

CURLEY FOR INQUIRY INTO COOLIDGE FUND

Boston Mayor Tells Senator Walsh of Alleged Evasion of Corruption Act.

LIGGETT DENIES ILLEGALITY

Chairman Says Lawyer Called Say State Appeal "Within the Law" Before Its Issue.

BOSTON, May 13.—Mayor Curley in a letter to Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, made public today, asks that the Senatorial committee investigating alleged corrupt activities, of which Senator Walsh is a member, investigate what he terms "an organized plan for corruption" by means of an organization known as the "Massachusetts Calvin Coolidge Finance Committee."

The Mayor quotes as follows from what purports to be sent out from the offices of the Walworth Manufacturing Company in this city on April 24 under the signature of G. F. Elliott, Chairman of the Pipe Fittings and Allied Materials Group of the Finance Committee:

"There is no limit to the amount an individual may give to this committee. Large contributions will be so divided as to give full observance to the requirements of the statutes."

This paragraph, Mayor Curley says in his letter, "has a sinister significance and indicates a cynical determination to evade the provisions of the Corrupt Practice laws."

The Mayor charges that William M. Butler, who has been selected to be Chairman of the Republican National Committee, is back of a "nation-wide corruption campaign" and that President Coolidge is "fully cognizant of its purposes."

PAINLEVE WARNS GERMANS MUST PAY

Probable War Minister in the New French Cabinet Outlines Its Foreign Policy.

FOR A JUST, HUMANE PEACE

But He Says France Will Bring Germany to Justice if She Fails.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 13.—Paul Painlevé, Premier of France in 1917 and today among the most prominent leaders of the victorious Left, gave in a statement today a good outline of what will be the foreign policy of his party when it takes power.

"The elections," he said, "have shown clearly to the whole world that France is seeking peace, a just and stable peace. But there cannot be a stable peace unless reparations are paid by Germany for the damage of the war. There cannot be a stable peace without a large, generous conception of the material and moral possibilities which transform a strict legal right into a living reality. We must pass from the letter to the spirit of the peace treaty.

"To repair is to efface the material traces of invasion. But we must also prepare for the coming era of loyal collaboration between the peoples which will efface the moral effects of the war, and that task is more difficult."

Such a policy added M. Painlevé, could not be one sided. If it were, France would be exposed to the same disadvantage as before 1914, when the pan-Germans took advantage of her pacificism to prepare for aggression. Happily Germany's error had been shown to her and she was not likely again to confuse the desire for peace of a nation for feebleness. If Germany should again fall into that error, it would be to risk the same consequences, and it was with the hope that even Germany's Ludendorffs would avoid it that M. Painlevé added:

"There is no peaceful future for Europe and the world unless good-will to conciliation on the part of France meets good-will for loyal and sustained execution of accepted engagements on the other side of the Rhine."

M. Painlevé admitted that the demonstrations at Halle and other signs of German ultra-nationalism were disquieting. But generalizations should be avoided.

"In my opinion," he said, "it would be a political and psychological mistake to proclaim that because there are still some Boches in Germany all Germans are Boches and that democratic ideals are banished from the Reich. These sentiments should be encouraged and the country weaned if possible from allegiance to those dreaming dangerous dreams of revenge."

On the Dawes plan M. Painlevé, who will almost certainly be in the next Cabinet and may be Minister of War, gave this opinion:

"The nation which rejects this possibility of an equitable settlement will incur the heaviest responsibilities in the eyes of universal opinion. We do not wish that country to be France. We are far from overlooking the grave difficulties which execution of the experts' plan presents from the point of view of our security. But none of these difficulties is insurmountable if approached with the firm determination to find a reasonable solution.

"If Germany, to her misfortune, rejects the possibilities of the just and humane peace which the experts' report offers, there will be nothing to do but leave her to her fate. Then France, more sure than ever of the support of the peoples who collaborated with her in victory, will bring her to justice—the justice which will be that of all humanity."

GERMANS DIVIDED ON FRENCH ELECTIONS

Reactionaries Expect No Change in Policy, but Liberals Are Hopeful.

By T. R. YBARRA.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 13.—Berlin is beginning to draw its breath again after the first amazement at the news of the French election results. The Germans are asking each other in awed tones "Can it mean Poincaré's downfall?"

They are beginning to try to visualize the world with no Poincaré in it shaking his clenched fist in the general direction of Berlin and shouting "Pay, pay, pay!" They are trying to visualize the Ruhr cities without French soldiers marching up and down in them. But they simply cannot do it.

And even when some German gets so far as to half believe that Poincaré may be politically dead his ensuing joy is chilled by the thought that even if he is there probably will be no essential change in French policy toward Germany.

The reactionary papers warn Germans against attaching too much importance to the Leftward trend in France. The Tages-Zeitung stresses the point that Poincaré's successor, whoever he may be, will doubtless continue the same foreign policy, the elections having been influenced primarily by internal questions.

"Even if methods change," it says, "the aim of French policy—to keep Germany doing hard labor under the yoke of the Versailles Treaty—will remain unchanged whether the French Premier be Briand or Herriott."

Reading between the lines of this sort of reactionary German comment one realize that "Poincaré's disappearance would not provide unalloyed bliss to the German reactionaries since it would deprive them of the favorite target for their mudslinging and of the best possible bogey man to shake in the faces of Germans still averse to the belief that they should think all day and dream all night of revenge on France.

Comment in more liberal circles shows a distinct feeling of hope that an era of pleasanter international relations may dawn if the result of the election really does portend the elimination of M. Poincaré from the political field. The Berliner Tageblatt emphasizes the point that Poincaré does not really represent France where a large section of the population favors a genuinely peaceable international policy.

Should M. Briand head a new French Government, adds the Tageblatt, it would mean "a fresh breeze blowing upon German negotiations with the Allies concerning reparations and the ending of Ruhr occupation," and likewise a better chance of reaching an understanding regarding the Dawes propositions.

The Tageblatt's optimism is not shared in most quarters, where it is recalled that M. Briand, when he was Premier, showed himself inexorable regarding reparation payments from Germany, from which it is deduced that he might be as obstinate as Poincaré on French occupation of the Ruhr.

DUESSELDORF, May 13.—The press of the occupied region is generally agreed that the result of the French election was due almost entirely to interior causes, declaring it would be wrong, or at any rate premature to attempt to deduce from the election's result the slightest change in France's foreign policy.

The Nachrichten stresses the fact that the Versailles Treaty was approved by the Left radicals and Socialists and the Ruhr occupation by Edouard Herriot, leader of the radical Socialists and the Right Wing radicals.

The Zu Am Mittag says: "Certainly Premier Poincaré is not Germany's friend but it is ridiculous to believe that France's foreign policy depends on him alone."

MONARCHISTS PLAN BIG RALLY IN BERLIN

German Extremists Decide on Northern Invasion—Reds Are Defiant, Moderates Nervous.

By THOMAS R. YBARRA.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 13.—Encouraged by the success of the monster demonstration last Sunday at Halle when for the first time they treated Northern Germany to a close-up view of the swashbuckling tactics which they have pursued for some time in Southern Germany, the Militarist Nationalists plan to continue their northward march right into Berlin itself. They announce for Sunday, May 25, a mass meeting of extreme monarchistic associations here, similar to that which swamped Halle. It will be held—assuming that the authorities allow it—in the Station, a big open-air sport arena.

Incidentally, the Communists, archfoes of the extreme Nationalists, likewise announce a Communist meeting to take place also on May 25, and also in Berlin, thus following the example of last Sunday, when the Communists sought to stage a counter-demonstration at Halle in protest against the Monarchist celebration, only to have it prohibited by the police, who, moreover, suppressed with an iron hand the efforts of the Communists to disobey the police prohibition, which led to severe clashes wherein four were killed and nine wounded.

The Minister of the Interior, Herr Jarres, has been severely criticised for prohibiting the Halle Communist demonstration while permitting the Monarchist one, and grave fears are felt that if the Monarchists are allowed to demonstrate in Berlin more bloodshed will result, irrespective of whether the Communists are allowed to hold a counter-demonstration.

Meanwhile, the Militarist organizations which held last Sunday's demonstration are planning another for next Sunday at Breslau just to keep their hand in while they are waiting for the grand march on Berlin.

The northward trend of extremism is a significant and dangerous phase of the nationalistic movement, which has all along been stronger in Bavaria than elsewhere in Germany. Last Sunday's Halle demonstration was serious enough as a challenge to the anti-Nationalist elements, but the demonstration planned for Berlin may be far more serious, since it shows the determination of the extremists to force themselves into regions of the German Republic unaccustomed to unrepentant militarism and monarchism, in all their goose-stepping arrogance. The Halle celebration may have important consequences, since the victorious feeling which it aroused among the militarist extremists is no greater than the bitterness which it engendered among their foes, especially the Communists.

BELGIANS PIN HOPES ON THE DAWES PLAN

See Delay as the Most Regrettable Consequence of Poincare's Overthrow.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.

BRUSSELS, May 13.—Now that the results of the French elections are known, it has become possible to obtain a clearer idea of Belgian official opinion on the situation. In conversation today one prominent personage said:

M. Poincaré was a sincere friend of Belgium. He never ceased to take account of the moral factor in the reparations question, which in his opinion Belgium represented.

"There is no remove from the reparations point of view for undue concern at the reverse of M. Poincaré. There remains a basis of discussion and agreement in the experts' plan, which has been approved by all the allied Governments. Germany may, it is true, try to obtain modifications under the pretext that M. Poincaré has fallen, but she will have before her the united front of the Allies, who have accepted the report.

"The most regrettable consequence of the Premier's overthrow is that several weeks will be lost before consultations between the Allies can be proceeded with and that the interallied conference which was regarded as imminent will be delayed."

BORAH WELCOMES FRENCH OVERTURN

Senator Says Our Foreign Policy May Follow France's New Trend for World's Good.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—While the radical victory in the French elections, with the prospective overthrow of the Poincaré Ministry, has not attracted as much interest in Washington as might have been expected, its importance has not been overlooked at the White House and the State Department.

In Congress little comment is heard over the outcome, but some of those Senators and Representatives who follow developments in European politics closely have been impressed by the showing made by the Left parties. Among these is Senator Borah of Idaho, a member of the Committee on Foreign Relations.

"The result is very encouraging," he said. "It gives us a brighter outlook than we have had for a long time. If, as indicated by the election, France is to have a liberal and constructive foreign policy, it is the most important happening since the war.

"France holds the key to the restoration of economic health throughout Europe and to the betterment of conditions throughout the world. A liberal, constructive, live-and-let-live policy upon the part of France, a policy which would fix a definite sum which Germany could pay and which would abandon the occupation of the Ruhr, so fruitless to France and so destructive to all Europe, and which would re-establish relations with Russia, would reanimate with energy and life an entire continent and give hope and encouragement to an entire world.

"The course of England, the wise, far-seeing, courageous policy of Prime Minister MacDonald, and now the course which seems to be initiated in France, may possibly lead even the United States out of its war trance and cause us to adopt a tolerant and constructive foreign policy also. And how vitally interested we are it would be difficult to express.

"The restoration of economic sanity and health in Europe, the opening of European markets, would bring relief to the American farmer and to agriculture which no possible legislation can ever bring. Indeed, all legislation may prove futile unless the others can be realised. If the French election means what it now indicates, we should rejoice."

Victor L. Berger of Wisconsin, the only Socialist Party representative in Congress, also expressed his satisfaction over the result in France.

PARIS, May 13.—Jacques Doriot, one of the newly elected Communist Deputies, is at present in prison, but his election by more than 100,000 of his fellow-citizens is likely to win freedom for him. He was sentenced sixteen months ago for Communist activities in the Ruhr and inciting troops to disobedience. In a letter to the Minister of Justice demanding his release he says: "The people of the Paris suburbs in electing me to Parliament have completely justified my action."

BRITAIN MAY CALL ARMS CONFERENCE

MacDonald Intimates He Will Act When Central European Problem Is Disposed Of.

APPEAL FOR DAWES REPORT

Urges Nations to Accept It and Trust to World's Justice to See Right Done.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 13.—A hint that the Government is only awaiting settlement of the Central European problem to call an international conference on disarmament was given by Ramsay MacDonald at a gathering of Labor women today. His foreign policy, said the Prime Minister, appealed particularly to the smaller nations of Europe and he asked them to advocate the only measure which would give them security and international disarmament.

Some critics, he continued, wanted to know why they did not call an international conference at once, but one could not call an international conference at a time when it could not succeed, and failure would be very disastrous. They were preparing the way. As soon as they got the pressing problem of Central Europe out of the way, and he hoped that would not be very long now, he believed the difficulties which existed would be overcome by the same spirit which had overcome difficulties in the past.

Appeals for Experts' Report.

"The great problem of the Government at the moment," he continued, "is to get what is known as the experts' report put into operation. There are some things in that report which I am a little suspicious of, but suppose we begin to examine every line and every paragraph and every proposal, where are we going to end?

"Neither Germany, France, Italy, Belgium nor ourselves can afford to go into details now. It is all together—the whole report and nothing but the report."

Arthur Henderson, the Home Secretary, referred to the result of the French elections as a magnificent move toward peace influenced in no small degree by the statesmanship of Ramsay MacDonald's foreign policy.

Wants All Europe to Cooperate.

LONDON, May 13 (Associated Press).—Prime Minister MacDonald, reviewing the political situation in the course of an address before a women's demonstration under the auspices of the Labor Party at Albert Hall this evening, said:

"I still claim that what the Labor Government did within twenty-four hours after finishing a study of the experts' report, namely, taking the initiative in announcing to the world that the report should be put into operation en bloc, was the right thing to do and if that course is pursued Europe will have a new chance of finding its feet.

"Germany, France, ourselves, Italy, Belgium—none of us—can afford to go into details now. It's all together—the whole report and nothing but the report. If in working it out we find an impossibility, then by the common sense still remaining to us we shall be able to adjust conditions.

"And I beg of every nation concerned to follow the line we have taken, to take the whole report, to put it heartily into operation and to do its level best to carry out the obligations imposed by it and then to trust to the sense of justice of the world to see that right is done in the end."

PAYNE PRAISES MacDONALD.

Says British Premier Has "a Real Hold" on the Country.

Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain has a "real hold on the country," and the success of the Labor Party is likely to result in the disappearance of the Liberal Party, according to Judge John Barton Payne, Chairman of the American Red Cross, who returned home yesterday on the Majestic of the White Star Line. Judge Payne presided at the annual meeting of the League of Red Cross Societies in Paris.

"If the Labor Party had shown a lack of constructive leadership, its life probably would have been short and its following, absorbed by the Liberals," said Judge Payne, "but such has not been the case. Prime Minister MacDonald has a real hold on the country, and is meeting the responsibilities of his great office in a strong, forceful manner.

"The negotiation with the Soviets, however, may cause serious disappointment to Mr. MacDonald. At first he was optimistic and confident of success. Now, however, things do not look so bright. The Soviets so far refuse to acknowledge debts due to people of Great Britain, and because the Labor Government asks that the debts be recognized, the Soviets call MacDonald and his friends 'capitalists,' and Trotsky and others are building back fires against them in Moscow, making the negotiations difficult and probably impossible. There is still much unemployment in Great Britain, but the feeling generally is more optimistic. Prices at hotels and shops are much higher than pre-war, about as high as in the United States."

The great question affecting Western, and, to some extent, all Europe, is reparations. The recent German elections are thought to render German action doubtful. My conviction is that in the final analysis a way will be found to solve the difficulties, and the Dawes report will be accepted and put into execution.

"We should do everything in our power through the press and by public utterance to exert the public opinion of the United States in favor of the removal of all difficulties and the complete acceptance of this one real solution of Europe's troubles. This done, Europe will go diligently to work and will soon resume the normal life."

FRENCH PRESIDENT MAY FORM CABINET

only 139 out of 584 votes and can scarcely muster strength enough to force M. Millerand's hand.

The Oeuvre, another Moderate Left paper, advises the chiefs of the new majority to pay close attention to the exchange situation, and says it will be very embarrassing in the event of fresh need to find that the English and American bankers two months ago loaned money to M. Poincaré rather than to M. Herriot. The Oeuvre thinks the demand for M. Millerand's resignation inexpedient.

Although M. Poincaré was defeated clearly enough in Sunday's elections, it would be a mistake to consider him out of the picture. M. Briand will come to power and the Germans will have a chance to carry out the Dawes plan under conditions somewhat easier than M. Poincaré would have granted. If they carry it out, that will be one thing; but if they do not, if the German hymn of hate continues to grow in volume, that will be another thing and will surely lead to a demand for M. Poincaré's return to power. Party lines in the French Chamber are not strong and German defiance of France would certainly stretch them. Therefore much depends on Germany's behavior.

ASKS RESERVE BOARD TO AID GERMAN BANK

Advisory Council Urges Fulfillment of Dawes Conditions for Re-establishing Currency.

PREFERS DOLLAR EXCHANGE

But Unless We Do Our Part Sterling Must Prevail, Continuing Inflation, It Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The Advisory Council of the Federal Reserve Board today urged the necessity for American financiers to aid in the organization of the new German note bank recommended by the Dawes report and suggested cooperation by the Federal Reserve Board.

"The council wishes to record its Federal Reserve Board examine very carefully into its powers "in order to approach the problem of Europe's financial and economic reconstruction in the most helpful spirit, in the same manner as is being done by the Bank of England and other central note-issuing banks."

It is further recommended by the council that, when the new German note-issuing bank is formed, the Federal Reserve banks "take the necessary steps in order to facilitate the rediscounting in this country of properly protected gold bills."

The Advisory Council took up consideration of the Dawes report in its two days' session here at the request of the Federal Reserve Board, in addition to other matters falling within its province.

Alfred L. Aiken resigned as a member and Vice President of the council. Charles A. Morse of Boston succeeded him as a member, and E. F. Swinney of Kansas City was elected Vice President of the council.

The following statement was issued by the council at the conclusion of its sessions:

"At the request of the Federal Reserve Board the Advisory Council has given careful consideration to the report of the first committee of experts, the so-called Dawes report.

"The Council wishes to record its admiration for the excellent work done by the committee and to express the hope that with the least possible delay the committee's recommendations will be carried into actual effect.

Endorse Private American Aid.

"The Council furthermore endorses the wish recently expressed by President Coolidge that American private capital and initiative give this plan its hearty support as a demonstration of the Nation's desire to do its full share in the economic rehabilitation of the Old World.

"The council has given particular thought to the question of how far the Federal Reserve system may aid the country in accomplishing these aims.

"It is obvious that the Federal Reserve system as such cannot by any action of its own cooperate in the flotation and distribution of the new German loan, the absorption of which on a liberal scale by the United States is one of the prerequisites of the Dawes plan. Nor should any such direct aid by the Federal Reserve system be necessary. There should be no difficulty in placing the loan, provided it is properly secured and provided the investing public feels confident that the debtor, having accepted the burden in good faith, will be free to go about his work without hindrance as long as he makes the utmost effort of which he is capable.

"While, therefore, the council has no suggestion to offer to the Federal Reserve Board concerning this phase of the problem, the important services the Federal service system could render with regard to the operations of the new note-issuing bank which Germany is to organize under the provisions of the Dawes plan.

"The council urges the Federal Reserve Board to examine very closely into the powers vested in this report in the Federal Reserve Banks, and to study the question how far it may be desirable to amend existing rulings and regulations in order to approach the problem of Europe's financial and economic reconstruction in the most helpful spirit, in the same manner as is being done by the Bank of England and other central note-issuing banks.

"Unless America finds ways and means to permit her excessive banking strength to benefit other countries, particularly those striving to bring their house in order, the dollar cannot maintain its position as a world standard of exchange, and foreign countries—and even American banking and commerce—will once more, in a larger degree, become dependent upon and tributary to the pound sterling, to the greater exclusion of the dollar.

Must Make Dollar Available.

"It is idle, however, to preach the use of the dollar, unless, at the same time, we render it possible for other countries to avail themselves of our dollar facilities. It is obvious that our credit power cannot continue to grow indefinitely without the danger of oversaturation. If the stream of gold that floods our shores is not stemmed in time, it is to be feared that, ultimately, we will not be able to ward off its inflationary effects. And inflation would only aggravate the economic maladjustment already existing within our own boundaries; a maladjustment which not only disturbs and endangers our trade with other countries but which makes an agricultural situation particularly difficult and distressing.

"But, irrespective of the danger of inflation, against which there still are at our disposal powerful cushions that could be applied in order to counteract or soften its effect, the problem ought to be weighed from another and even more important angle.

"It is the question of whether the world is more likely to regain the blessings of economic stability under the sway of several fluctuating standards of exchange, or by a general return, as speedy as circumstances may permit, to definite relations of exchanges to gold as the ultimate measure and regulator.

"The Dawes report leads the world to the crossroads in this regard. It provides for a German note-issuing bank on a gold basis, but leaves the door open to place it on a sterling basis, and it cannot be denied that there is no small probability of the latter basis being chosen. In the opinion of the council the sooner Germany can be placed on a gold or gold-exchange basis, the sooner can England, and other countries, also, return to an unrestricted gold standard. While, if Germany were placed on a sterling basis, England in returning to an unrestricted gold basis would have to pull not only her own weight but that of Germany also.

"It is obvious, therefore, that if the new German bank is placed on the sterling exchange basis, the world must prepare itself to remain on a basis of exchange instability for a prolonged period, the end of which cannot be foreseen, while the adoption of the gold (that is, the dollar) basis would accelerate the return to world-wide stability.

"It is this momentous alternative that is involved in the organization of the new German note-issuing bank, and the Council deems it its duty to point to its importance with all the emphasis of which it is capable. It is not as an American problem that we are discussing this phase, but as one that touches the future of all the world.

Would Facilitate Discounting.

"The Council has been pleased to learn that it has been ruled that Federal Reserve banks may consider as eligible for their open market purchases certain German dollar trade bills, payable in the United States, if endorsed by the recently established German gold rediscount bank, the so-called Schacht bank, and by approved American endorsers.

"The Council sees in this decision a move in the right direction, helpful to all parties concerned, inasmuch as it transfers credit power from where it is idle and redundant to where an acute shortage of credit cripples the purchasing ability of a country which normally ranks second in line as a buyer of our goods.

"The Council recommends that when the new German note-issuing bank, provided in the Dawes plan, is organized, the Federal Reserve banks take the steps necessary in order to facilitate the rediscounting in this country of properly protected German gold bills, be it through the intermediary of American banking institutions or through so-called agency agreements, or such other arrangements as have been concluded by Federal Reserve banks with central banks of other countries.

"Measures of this character do not only tend to bring our gold hoard into active and healthy use, but by enabling and encouraging other countries to trade in terms of dollars we stimulate our own foreign commerce. We facilitate, furthermore, the direct sale in dollars of our own products, instead of making foreign countries and ourselves dependent in this respect upon Great Britain's acting as broker and banker, as naturally she would where the pound sterling would govern as an exclusive basis of commerce and trade.

"If there is any reason to assume that success of the Dawes plan may prove the turning point in Europe's long road of suffering and decline, it is a unique opportunity and duty for the United States to lend a helping hand to the utmost of its ability.

"In the opinion of the Council, there does not seem to be any room for doubt with regard to the policy which in these circumstances the Federal Reserve system should pursue."

FASCISTA QUARRELS CALL PREMER HOME

Mussolini Abandons His Sicilian Tour to Compose Party Differences.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, May 13.—The controversy conducted in the press between the Fascista "Legalists," who believe that the members of their party should disarm and observe the ordinary processes of law, and the "Savage" faction, which believes that there should be no disarmament unless the Government passes strong legislative measures to repress all its enemies, has reached such pitch that Mussolini's personal organ, the Popolo d'Italia, has thought it prudent to publish a signed article by Mussolini's brother, Arnaldo, exhorting the Fascisti to remain calm and disciplined till Mussolini returns from Sicily.

It was announced today that the Premier had decided to abandon his Sicilian tour and that he would be back in Rome tomorrow. The official reason given for this change of plan is that he has much work to do in connection with the international conference on emigration, which he will open on Thursday. The impression is widespread, however, that his hurried return is not unconnected with the quarrels going on within the Fascista organization, and that he wishes to check them before they grow sufficiently widespread to become dangerous.

To speak of actual schism between the two factions is premature. Fascismo is still young—it has not reached its sixth birthday—and its creed and mentality have changed radically since its foundation. It is therefore natural that it should still be in a state of flux and that sharp divisions of opinion should exist between its leaders as to how to deal with various unforeseen problems as they arise.

Besides, Mussolini still stands between the two factions, and he enjoys sufficient power and prestige to command the unquestioning obedience of his followers; any decision he reaches is therefore certain to be accepted. His dominant position is recognized by both factions, but the spirit of opposing tendencies which manifests itself as soon as his back is turned has furnished a sad commentary on what might happen if he were not always able with skill to weld Fascismo into a compact mass. The Popolo d'Italia, in fact, says: "We cannot insist too strongly on the impropriety of these discussions in the absence of Premier Mussolini," while Deputy Farinacci, leader of the "Savages," writes in his newspaper, Cremona Nuova:

"The spectacle which Rome offers during Mussolini's absence is discouraging. Luckily 'the Duke' will soon be back in Rome, and he is above all critics and super-critics; he is above all candidates and would-be candidates for ministries and under secretaryships."

The occasion for the intervention of Mussolini's organ in the squabble between the "Legalists" and "Savages" is furnished by the attacks which some newspapers adhering to the Fascista faction have been taking against the Finance Minister, Signor De Stefani. Deputy Massimo Rocca, who is the leader of the "Legalists," has been especially active with newspaper articles criticizing much that the Finance Minister has done. Deputy Farinacci, on the other hand, has been hot in his support of the financial reforms and of De Stefani personally. Mussolini's newspaper is impartial in its comment and does not favor either side.

After making fun of the "Legalists," who in their frenzy to reform everything "would destroy much that only needs modifying," it says:

"But we also must address a stern word to those who wish to continue the lawless days of Fascista punitive expeditions. They are led astray by their romantic souls, while the "Legalists" are obviously tired of being Fascisti.

"Criticisms made just for the pleasure of criticising are work for fools. Fascismo which does not create instead of talking is not Fascismo, just as we can not consider as Fascisti some of the men whom recent political events have brought into the limelight.

"We are not among those who say upon all occasions: 'Keep silent and obey'; but we do believe that discussions at the present moment are most inopportune."

It is generally believed that as soon as Mussolini reaches Rome he will take matters in hand and announce where he stands in the dispute between the "Legalists" and the "Savages." He will, in other words, announce what road he, as head of Fascismo, has decided his party shall follow and leave the dissenters either to obey or get out. What the decision will be is hard to counteract but Mussolini may possibly be influenced by his friendship for Massimo Rocca, the leader of the "Legalists," while it is known that he has not much liking for Farinacci. It will be remembered that when the Directorate of the Fascista party expelled Massimo Rocca for lack of discipline, Mussolini commuted his sentence to three months' suspension and forced all the members of the Directorate to resign.

RUHR STRIKERS WAVERING.

Fear of French Induces Them to Attend Marx Peace Parley.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 13.—Fear that French and Belgian authorities may intervene in the coal miners' strike in the Ruhr seems to have induced the strikers to listen to proposals tending to bring about an understanding with the mine owners. Both sides have consented to send representatives to a joint conference here over which Chancellor Marx will preside. The Chancellor has told both parties that no Germans, to whatever class they may belong, can afford at this time to fight from purely selfish motives.

The mine owners have assured the Chancellor that they will meet the workers' demands so far as possible. According to the latest news from the Ruhr the trade union leaders have recovered control and the Communist agitators are losing their influence.

The Communists last night covered Gelsenkirchen, one of the principal Ruhr mining towns, with placards urging the strikers to kill employers, police and strike-breakers with hammers and pickaxes.

"Enter the residences of the rich by force," read one placard, "and take whatever money you find."

LABORITES DEFEAT CENSURE, 317 TO 252

Conservatives Fail in Effort to Retain British Tariff Comprised in McKenna Duties.

NINE LIBERALS BACK THEM

Others Vote With the Government—Baldwin Declares American Dumping Is Certain.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 13.—The Conservative motion in the House of Commons declaring it inexpedient to remove the McKenna duties on automobiles, foreign films, musical instruments, clocks and watches, &c., was defeated tonight by a combined Liberal-Labor vote of 317 to 252, a Government majority of sixty-five.

Free trade in Britain has thus recaptured the last ground lost during the abnormal conditions of the war, and the nation, from being a country enjoying a considerable measure of protection, though under names which smelt somewhat sweeter in anti-tariff nostrils, has returned to its profession of the full free trade gospel, pure and undefiled.

Captain Terrell, Unionist, provided the curtain raiser for the debate when, in presenting three workmen's petitions against abolishing the duties, he declared they were no part of the "raging, tearing propaganda" of which the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Philip Snowden, had complained.

"That lie," said Captain Terrell, "we want to nail down."

The use of the forbidden word "lie" brought Captain Terrell into conflict with the Speaker, and after a scene he had to withdraw it.

The debate did not reach the level expected. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader and former Premier, subjected the proposals to abolish the duties to criticism, but he made his speech more of an appeal than a condemnation. He justified the duties as a means of providing employment, and remarked that as regarded the finding of work the Labor Government's performances had been as slow as the gestation of the elephant.

He alleged that under free trade here overproduction in the United States would inevitably be followed by the dumping of motor cars on the British market. Mass production by the British car makers under free trade in a protected world was an impossibility, he said.

As a concluding argument he declared that the preferences given to the Dominions under the McKenna duties had led American manufacturers to establish branch plants in Canada for the English trade.

Snowden Sarcastic in Reply.

The reply of Mr. Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was in a more acrid and ironical key. He twitted Mr. Baldwin on the mildness of his attack, and waxed somewhat sarcastic over the "new-found interest of the Unionists in unemployment."

Mr. Snowden referred with scorn to alleged intimidation of workmen by their employers to coerce them into opposing the removal of the duties. He attacked statistics put forth by the Eggleston car manufacturers and said English cars would hold their own because they were suited to English conditions, and the American car would not.

General Seely, Liberal, urged that the duties should be extended for another two years, and Mr. Purcell, Labor, opposed their removal.

Austen Chamberlain, in a spirited speech, said the one bright spot in the engineering industry had been the motor trade. If the Government must make this change to satisfy their theories or their spite, let them at least wait until the victim of their spleen was a little stronger and had some chance of picking up elsewhere suitable employment in his own trade, in place of the employment of which they were deliberately robbing him.

W. Graham, Financial Secretary to the Treasury, said that though the Conservatives, while dropping their policy of general tariff, had tried to make out a special case for the McKenna duties, these formed a high and severe protective tariff of 33⅓ per cent. The Government were satisfied that their removal could cause nothing more than a temporary dislocation.

The House then divided, and amid Labor and Liberal cheering Mr. Baldwin's amendment was voted down.

Vote Mainly on Party Lines.

LONDON, May 13 (Associated Press).—The Labor Government again came out victorious in the House of Commons tonight, when the Conservative motion, moved by former Premier Stanley Baldwin, for retention of the McKenna duties, which Premier MacDonald had characterized as a motion of censure, was rejected by a vote of 317 to 252.

The debate on the motion was almost exclusively devoted to the automobile industry and the effect the removal of the duties would have on unemployment in that field. On the whole, the proceedings were devoid of excitement and great stretches of benches were empty for several hours.

In the end the vote was taken on party lines, the Conservatives solidly supporting the duties and the Liberals linking forces with Labor to abolish them. There were 252 votes against the Government measure, just five fewer than the number of Conservatives in the House.

Only nine Liberals voted with the Conservatives, and not a single Laborite voted against the Government. Albert Purcell, Laborite from Coventry, the centre of Great Britain's automobile industry, who had made speeches against the repeal of the duties as the self-styled spokesman for the workers of his constituency, abstained from voting.

Mr. Baldwin, launching an attack upon the proposal of Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said the repeal of the McKenna duties was one of the most stupid things ever attempted in this country. He compared it to shoving a swimmer back into the water after, by a hard struggle to save himself from drowning, he had just succeeded in getting his feet on the bank. He was certain it was going to aggravate unemployment, put more men on the dole and encourage American dumping.

Chancellor Snowden described Mr. Baldwin's picture of unemployment ironically as touching every one's heart. He then went on to show that there were not so many workers in the automobile industry as recent exaggerated accounts would have people believe—some of these estimates fixing the number at a million men in the British motor industry, which last year produced only 62,000 cars. The largest plant in the country, according to Mr. Snowden, had a payroll of only 4,962 employes.

HARPER'S FERRY IS FLOODED

Six Feet of Water Reported in Main Streets, With Mayor Inspecting by Boat.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The Potomac and Shenandoah Rivers are again on the rampage, in the worst flood recorded since 1889, and their combined waters, united at Harper's Ferry, are swirling past Washington and Georgetown, filling the lower floors of waterfront buildings and pouring through practically every Summer camp along the Palisades of the Potomac from Great Falls to the Capital.

The flood reached its crest at Washington at 3:10 o'clock this afternoon, at the period of high tide. R. E. Spencer of the Flood Division of the Weather Bureau, reported that the river had risen at that time to 10.5 feet above normal here. Higher up the river the rise was as much as twenty-five feet, but by the time the waters came to the broader reaches of the Potomac Valley their force had diminished considerably. The Weather Bureau advised that the river would remain high until late tonight, when the flood would begin to subside.

The flood is the result of nearly three days of heavy rains in the vast watershed of the Potomac and Shenandoah and their tributaries, and reports reaching Washington this afternoon from Harper's Ferry, Cumberland and other points in Maryland and Virginia stated that scores were homeless, and that the havoc wrought in the upper valley regions would cause millions of dollars' loss, ten bridges having been washed away and vehicular and rail traffic interrupted.

In 1895 the river rose to 9.0 feet, and it reached the 9.9-foot level again in 1902. The flood stage here is 8 feet.

For a time today the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal threatened to overflow its banks. Passengers reaching Washington stated that the main street of Harper's Ferry was under water. They saw the Mayor riding around in a rowboat viewing conditions in the city. Business was completely abandoned. Trains were stopped and the waters of the river were 27 feet above normal. The Post Office and main hotel were standing in 6 feet of water.

Reports from Cumberland were that the entire west end of the town was inundated and first floors of homes had to be abandoned. Rail traffic was halted on the B. & O. and water was over the tracks at many points. In the Shenandoah Valley railroad bridges were weighted down with freight cars to hold them in place. Water came within a foot of the Castleman Ferry Bridge over the Shenandoah, thirty-five feet above low water. The Norfolk & Western and the southern railways had to suspend operations on their Shenandoah divisions.

Many Campers Lose Effects.

Great crowds assembled along the Potomac River front today to view the spectacle of the flood waters sweeping past the city, with their mass of debris, tree trunks, barrels, timber and driftwood. The Potomac Park Speedway, the Key Memorial and chain bridges were lined with spectators afoot or in cars.

When the river began to rise with precipitate suddeness last night boatmen hurried from point to point to warn campers that before morning their tents and bungalows would be inundated. There were scenes of confusion as the campers worked by lantern light trying to save all they could. Daybreak saw the river banks above high-water mark, strewn with canoes, clothing, furniture and other salvaged effects. From Key Bridge to Sycamore Island only an occasional Summer camp, established well above the high-water mark, was free from inundation.

At points the water overflowed the sea-wall along the Potomac Speedway. Fear that nearly fifty acres of the experimental farm of the Department of Agriculture on the Virginia side of the river, near Arlington Cemetery, would be submerged, led officials of that department to put more than 150 men to work piling sod on the river banks, at the outlet of Little River.

Great Falls, on the Potomac, was more picturesque today than it has been for many years, with the waters jumping over the rocks in vengeful mood, and flying into the air. Many visitors went to the Falls today to witness them when in real action.

Buildings Fall in Cumberland.

Special to The New York Times.

CUMBERLAND, Md., May 13.—The Potomac continues on its rampage here. In addition to overflowing the lower sections of the city and driving many of the residents from their domiciles, several industrial plants were inundated by the high waters.

Wills Creek, which has been a rushing, swirling stream of water for the past twenty-four hours, continued to undermine its banks tonight. Weakened by the turbulent waters, the rear section of two large adjoining office buildings on Green Street, near the Baltimore Street bridge, collapsed into Wills Creek early this evening. The office buildings were occupied by prominent attorneys, including Lloyd Lowndes, County Attorney, son of the late Governor Lloyd Lowndes; Walter C. Capper, local counsel for the Western Maryland Railway; Paul Hitchings and Dr. Ralph C. Bowen.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 13.—The Cabinet committee appointed soon after the Labor Government came into office to consider an imperial airship scheme has completed its work.

It is understood that its decision, which has been endorsed by the Cabinet, provides for control of the imperial airship service being retained by the Air Ministry, but an order is to be given forthwith to a private company, formed by Commander Burney, to proceed with the building of an airship capable of making the journey to Egypt, India and Australia.

It is stated that the Government is prepared to make a grant of about £350,000 toward the construction of the craft, which is expected to require eighteen months to build.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 13.—Wounded by a bullet when a pistol fell from her father's pocket and was accidentally discharged in an East Pittsburgh church on Sunday night, 14-year-old Thelma Klingensmith died in a hospital today. William Klingensmith, the father, said he carried the pistol for protection against highwaymen.

During the church services the pastor called upon the congregation to stand and sing a hymn. The pistol dropped from Klingensmith's pocket as he arose.

Is Too Busy With Duty and Lacks Means, He Says, to Contest for Nomination Now.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 13.—Evidence of much sentiment in favor of Governor Smith for President among undergraduates at Yale recently led The Yale Daily News to send its managing editor to interview the Governor on the character of legislation he considers most important and on his attitude toward nomination.

In reply to the first question the Governor said he stressed laws that relate to "the public welfare, the safeguarding of life, the promotion of health, education, happiness and the encouragement of thrift." He referred to the laws to control automobile traffic passed by the Legislature, and those providing for increased accommodations at State Hospitals for the insane, as safeguarding life and health.

Regarding the possibility of his nomination the Governor said:

"The man who would not have an ambition for that office would have a dead heart. But I stand exactly in the position today that I stood in on the floor of the Constitutional Convention in 1915 when I said that the man who used one office and neglected it in order to climb to a higher one was not deserving of the one he had.

"I am going to do nothing about it because there is nothing I can do. In the first place, I haven't the means to do it. In the second place, I haven't the time to do it.

"Until May 15 I will be just as busy as any man could possibly be in the consideration of the nine hundred odd bills left for my attention by the Legislature. Then within a reasonably short time after five solid months without a vacation I will have to turn my attention to the administrative details of some of the departments of Government. This work I propose to do, right up to the time the convention starts. If I fell down on this job I would never forgive myself and I would not ask forgiveness from any one else.

"If the required number of delegates in the National Convention take the view that they want me to be their candidate, I will be honored beyond the power of expression to lead the forces of my party in the next campaign."

TAMMANY TENDERS FOLEY LEADERSHIP

way his original supporters had been taken away from him by the electioneering methods of the "Old Guard."

The pressure on Judge Foley during the last few days to get him to take the leadership was described by a friend as "tremendous." Reluctant to take the place, doubtful whether his health would stand the strain, Judge Foley has been strengthened in his desire to avoid the burden by the opposition of his wife, who was the stepdaughter of Mr. Murphy and who as a member of the latter's family had a chance to realize the disadvantages of the leadership. In this wish to avoid the leadership, Judge Foley has been fortified by the opinions of many of his personal friends.

To counteract these strong influences, pressure has been exerted directly not only through men prominent in Tammany but through all the ramifications which an organization of its character possesses. It has been pointed out to him that he owes it as a duty to take the leadership of the organization, to which he is indebted for all his political honors and which now calls upon him to lead it. He has been urged to take the leadership on the ground that it would unify Tammany and help greatly in the movement to make Governor Alfred E. Smith the Democratic nominee for President. Some of the Governor's friends have been among the most insistent that Judge Foley should take the leadership, and it is well known that the Governor would be much pleased.

More potent than these arguments has been the one that Judge Foley's election would continue to make Tammany "respectable," and bring into the organization or at least to its support many Democrats formerly classed as "independent" or anti-Tammany. Former Sheriff Foley and Frank J. Goodwin, two of the most able and influential district leaders, have been foremost in contending that the election of a new leader offerd an opportunity to strengthen Tammany and declaring that nothing must happen to permit Tammany to "slip back" to the position in public opinion that it occupied in the days before Mr. Murphy's leadership and in the early days of his rule. In their view and in that of many other district leaders, Judge Foley's election as leader would serve as a notice that there will be in Tammany, if not a new era, at least a progressive continuation of the policies of Mr. Murphy, which they believe have made for a constantly cleaner and more progressive organization.

Judge Foley has been told that there would be nothing to prevent him from resuming the practice of law if he took the leadership. Friends have informed him of a definite offer by a law firm of standing which would insure him a yearly income far greater than the salary of $15,000 a year as Surrogate.

Up to last night Judge Foley had failed to return an affirmative answer to the offer of the leadership. Personal friends declared that they believed his reply would be in the negative, based on the ground that he was not qualified by health or temperament to assume the leadership. This was at variance with the opinion of virtually every Tammany district leader, who declared that refusal of the leadership of Tammany Hall at this time was "unthinkable."

An indication of the political pressure that is being brought on Judge Foley was given by the action of the Tammany Club of the northern third of the Twelfth Assembly District, in which he lives. The members held a meeting at the clubhouse, 780 Third Avenue, and unanimously instructed Martin G. McCue and Mrs. Mary A. Hagerty, the club's executive members, to vote for Judge Foley at today's meeting of the Executive Committee.

Almost all the opposition to the election of Judge Foley among the district leaders was ironed out during the meeting of the Committee of Seven at Tammany Hall in the afternoon. With former Sheriff Foley operating as "outside man," the committee examined the remaining district leaders from the Sixteenth to the Twenty-third Districts, including several from lower numbered districts who had not appeared at the two preceding meetings.

When their meeting ended every man and woman member of the Executive Committee had appeared before the Committee of Seven except former State Senator Thomas J. McManus of the Fifth District. Mr. McManus was at Tammany Hall last Friday, when the leaders from his district were called, but failed to go before the committee, explaining that he would prefer to wait until Monday. He has not appeared since. Although he was known to have been an aspirant for the leadership, it was said that there was no reason to believe that he would stand out against the election of Judge Foley.

The Committee of Seven held a conference after it had examined Mrs. Abie Shay Hughes of the Thirteenth District, the last leader to appear before it, and decided to visit Judge Foley. It was made known then that virtually all the district leaders had expressed a preference for Judge Foley, but it was said, on the authority of a person closely connected with the committee, that there was no certainty that he would accept the leadership.

METHODISTS UPHOLD CHURCH DIVORCE BAN

General Conference Reaffirms Restriction of Marriage of Divorced Persons.

PINCHOT TALK WITHDRAWN

Equity Association Asks Repeal of Methodist Rule Excluding Actors From Membership.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 13.—No matter what are the laws of the State in which he lives, no Methodist preacher who is divorced can take unto himself a new wife, no Methodist preacher can marry a divorced woman, and no Methodist preacher can perform the marriage ceremony for a divorcee, the only exception being that the innocent party where the divorce has been for unfaithfulness may remarry.

This was the pronouncement made today by the Committee on Judiciary to the Quadrennial General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in a report presented by Judge Henry Wade Rogers of New York City, Chairman of the committee, and which was adopted after numerous attempts to sidetrack it were defeated.

The report quoted Paragraph 68 of the Book of Discipline of the Methodist Church, which says:

"No divorce, except for adultery, shall be regarded by the Church as lawful; and no minister shall solemnize matrimony in any case where there is a divorced wife or husband; but this rule shall not be applied to the innocent party to a divorce for the cause of adultery, nor to divorced parties seeking to be reunited in marriage."

"It is plain that the law of the Church does not recognize the validity of a divorce on any other ground than that of adultery," declared the report. "A divorce granted upon other grounds is unlawful and invalid under the law of the Church. If, therefore, a man who has been divorced on other grounds marries another woman while the wife under a former marriage is still living, the second marriage so contracted is, under the law of the Church, unlawful.

"Any minister of our Church, or any member of our Church who marries under the conditions named, is liable to be brought to trial in the usual manner and may be expelled from the ministry, if he be a minister, and from the Church if he be not a minister but is a member of the Church. So far as the law of the Church is concerned it is immaterial that a marriage so contracted is valid under the law of the State in which the marriage ceremony was performed.

"The reason applies with equal force to the marriage of a man who may himself be free to marry but who marries a woman who, under the law of the Church, is not free to marry because she was not divorced on the grounds of adultery.

"We also are of the opinion that the language of paragraph 68, stating that 'no divorce except for adultery shall be regarded as lawful,' refers to the ground upon which the divorce was granted by the civil court, and that the case cannot be thereafter taken out of the operation of the law of the Church upon the claim that the divorce might have been obtained upon the ground of adultery. That is a claim which can be easily advanced in any case, and the truth of which the Church has no sufficient means of determining.

"Paragraph 68 has been placed in the discipline under 'Special Advices.' But the Bishops have ruled that it is not merely an advice but a law, and that ruling was confirmed by the General Conference of 1908, upon the recommendation of the Committee on the Judiciary. To that construction of the paragraph we adhere and reassert, having no doubt whatsoever concerning it."

The Rev. Dr. Orien W. Fifer of the Indiana Conference was one of those who admitted he had married couples when the divorce was not for adultery.

"I refer to States where divorce can be secured on various grounds," said Dr. Fifer. "Two of these paragraphs make it mandatory for the pastor to bring to trial and to expel from membership any divorcees not for adultery who have been remarried.

"Some pastors, including myself, have married the innocent party when we knew the real cause for the divorce was adultery, but when the court records gave another cause in order that the children might not have to bear the disgrace of their father's crime throughout their lives."

The conference voted today not to print in the Daily Christian Advocate the address delivered here Sunday evening by Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, in which he attacked Andrew Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury. It voted to print yesterday, but reversed that action after the Rev. Dr. C. Oscar Ford reminded the delegates that there were "certain statements of a political nature made by Governor Pinchot, and that if these were printed in the official daily of the conference it would appear that his utterances had the official endorsement of the conference."

Actors Ask Removal of Church's Ban.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 13 (Associated Press).—Repeal of the Methodist ban on theatre attendance and of the exclusion of actors from church membership is requested of the Methodist Episcopal General Conference by the Actors' Equity Association in a letter received here today, which reads as follows:

"The actors of the country are deeply interested in your present meeting and are anxious to learn whether in your wisdom you will not remove, or recommend the removal of, the present slur which attaches to their profession through the inclusion in your Church's Book of Discipline of a tenet forbidding attendance at theatres under penalty of expulsion.

"Permit us to point out that this law is more honored in the breach than in the observance, since thousands of good, honest Methodists visit the motion picture theatres as well as those where spoken drama is presented.

"In our correspondence on this subject with Bishop Berry in 1920, during the Atlantic City conference, he stated that an actor could not belong to the Methodist Church. Technically this may be so, and yet many members of the Actors' Equity Association hold the Methodist Church in great reverence and make it their sole place of worship."

DIES IN PARK AUTO CRASH.

Two Boys Also Killed Yesterday by Motor Vehicles.

One man was killed and two others seriously injured early yesterday morning when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a tree on the East Drive in Prospect Park. The dead man was Carline Russo, 28, of 4,355 Jerome Avenue, Ozone Park, Queens, and the other victims are Vito DeNois, 27, of 3,875 Water Street, Woodhaven, and Humberto Lombardi, 23, of 139 Thompson Street, Manhattan. The injured men were taken to the Kings County Hospital. The police said they understood Russo was driving the automobile and was racing with another. The police found a pistol and a knife a short distance from the wreck of the car.

Francisco Carpotosto, 8, was killed yesterday when he was struck by a motor truck in front of his home at 163 Butler Street, Brooklyn. The truck was being driven by Thomas Kennedy of 154 Butler Street, employed by the Scranton & Lehigh Coal Co. of 290 Livingston Street, Brooklyn.

Lee Rosenberg, 28, of 501 Polk Street, West New York, N. J., received injuries from which he later died in the North Hudson Hospital when he was thrown from his bicycle last evening in a collision with a motor bus at Eighteenth Street and Bergenline Avenue, near his home.

Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan, who is head of the Public Safety Bureau of the Westchester County Chamber of Commerce, issued a statement yesterday in which he declared that an investigation of the auto accidents in a typical American community revealed that 66 per cent. of them were due to the carelessness of pedestrians and the remainder to the negligence of motor-vehicle drivers.

FUR THIEVES FLEE; LEAVE $4,000 LOOT

VICTIM WRIGGLES LOOSE

Yells for Police, and Robbers Run Off—Silver Fox Furs Abandoned in Taxicab.

Two robbers entered a fur store on West Fifty-ninth Street early yesterday and stole about $4,000 of fur pieces, which they took across the street and left in a taxicab, their nerve giving out at the crucial moment.

The pair entered the small fur store of Adolph Drillman, 27 West Fifty-ninth Street, right next door to the Plaza Hotel. There is a subway stairway next the door of the store, and many people were passing at the time, but the store was empty except for Michael Ost, a clerk, 50 years old, who was straightening up the place. As the men entered Drillman came from the back room.

"Don't throw up your hands and don't make any noise," the bandits ordered, flourishing revolvers. Then they tied Drillman and Ost together and backed them into an inner room, gagging them. Then they picked up fur pieces and rammed them into a suitcase. They chose principally silver fox furs because of their value. They had the suitcase full and were leaving as Drillman wriggled loose from his bonds. Across the street, on the Central Park side of Fifty-ninth Street, a taxicab was standing with its engine running. The robbers made toward this vehicle.

Drillman ran out on the sidewalk just behind them and began to shout for the police. The robbers ran as a crowd began to gather, and they disappeared in the direction of Sixth Avenue. When Drillman reached the taxicab, with a small army behind him, the suitcase full of furs and the revolvers, both unloaded, were on the floor of the cab.

Detectives Maskell, Brady and Coleman found from the license number of the cab that it belonged to Andrew Fedesco of 1,828 Forty-third Street, Brooklyn. The police had no report that the vehicle had been stolen and will investigate further.

BROOKLYN BOTANIC SHOW.

Paintings of Native Wild Flowers on View at Annual Inspection.

Features of the annual Spring inspection of the Brooklyn Botanic Garden yesterday afternoon in addition to the tour of the grounds were exhibits of paintings of native wild flowers and of pencil sketches of scenes in the Garden.

Assembling at 3:30 P. M. at the laboratory building, the members and guests, preceded by representatives of the Boys and Girls Club of the Garden carrying the garden flag, visited the Japanese Garden, inspecting especially several new features introduced by Japanese workmen under the general supervision of Miss Mary Averill, honorary curator of Japanese gardening and floral art. Going along the west side of the brook to the rock garden and viewing the general plantations, the inspection then passed to the conservatories, where the guides explained the collections.

In the main rotunda of the laboratory building, north corridor and the exhibit room was shown an exhibit of oil paintings of wild flowers of Westchester County and adjacent regions, 164 panels, representing 400 species, shown by courtesy of Miss Eloise Payne Luquer and an exhibit of thirty-five pencil sketches of views in the garden by Clifford Sheen.

Rehearing In Princess's Suit.

The application of Mrs. Gertrude Schroeder to reopen the suit of her sister, Princess Elaine von der Lippe-Lipski, for alienating the affections of Prince Nicholas von der Lippe-Lipski, was granted yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Delehanty. A judgment for $100,000 was returned against Mrs. Schroeder by default when the case was called for trial last Winter while she was on a trip to Germany to see her son, who was ill. The Court directed that the judgment stand against Mrs. Schroeder as security until the case is heard on the merits.

RABINER IN CAFES INSTEAD OF IN JAIL

Rabiner should be reindicted "so that he will not escape punishment."

Dr. Spitzer testified that he had known Rabiner for several years, having traded with him. His wife also said that she knew Rabiner, as the Spitzers and the Rabiners had lived in the same house on West End Avenue for several years. Mrs. Spitzer told Commissioner Hirshfield that she and Mrs. Shack had seen Rabiner in Pomerants's restaurant on Broadway near Ninety-fourth Street about 2 o'clock on the afternoon of Feb. 7.

"Who was with him?" Commissioner Hirshfield asked.

"Mrs. Shack and I were having lunch when Rabiner walked in with two gentlemen and a lady," Mrs. Spitzer replied.

"Who was the lady?"

"We went up to Mr. Pomerantz and he said, 'That's Mr. Rabiner and that's his wife.'"

"Did you see him again?"

"About two weeks later we were all sitting in Childs's, at Broadway and Ninety-fifth Street, about 12 o'clock at night, when Rabiner came in with his wife and another couple. We were all excited because we had lost so much money to him, and we thought he was in jail."

Calls Convict Nervy.

Mrs. Shack then testified. She said that she knew Rabiner and Mrs. Rabiner by sight, as they had lived at the Hotel Monterey several years ago, when she lived there. Mrs. Shack testified that she was with Mrs. Spitzer both times Rabiner was seen. At Pomerantz's restaurant, she said, Jack Pomerantz, son of the proprietor, told her Rabiner and his wife were present.

"I told him that I thought Rabiner was in jail and he only laughed," said Mrs. Shack. The witness added that the couple with the Rabiners at Childs's two weeks later were Mr. and Mrs. Spiegel, who live at the Hotel Monterey.

Dr. Spitzer testified that he was with Mrs. Spitzer and Mrs. Shack when they saw Rabiner two weeks later at Childs's.

"Did you recognize Rabiner?" asked Mr. Hirshfield.

"Of course," replied Dr. Spitzer. "He had the nerve to bow to me going out."

"Isn't it common talk that Rabiner never served any time in the penitentiary?" Commissioner Hirshfield went on.

"Yes. I've heard that he was seen a number of times on Broadway. The Pomerantzes can tell you how many times he had dinner there. I understand he was a party of twenty there one night, saying that he had too much political influence ever to spend a day in jail."

Dr. Spitzer said he communicated with his lawyers, Katz & Levy of 38 Park Row, and that they wrote to him:

"Our Mr. Meyer called to see the Assistant District Attorney and Judge McIntyre's secretary, but could get no definite information as to any order having been issued granting him (Rabiner) any stay from the sentence imposed upon him."

On his lawyer's advice, Dr. Spitzer went on, he wrote to Judge McIntyre telling him that Rabiner was at liberty on Feb. 7.

"The next morning," Dr. Spitzer continued, "Judge McIntyre's secretary telephoned that there was an excuse for Rabiner's being on Broadway, as he had received permission from the court to be on parole for several days to settle up his business under the custodianship of a Deputy Sheriff. I protested that he had had thirty days' delay to conduct his business before he was sentenced. He asked me to notify the Judge if I saw him at liberty again."

Rabiner Not in Custody.

"Was Rabiner accompanied by any officers when you saw him at Childs two weeks later?" Mr. Hirshfield asked.

"He was unaccompanied, except by his wife and the Spiegels," said the physician. "Why should he be at liberty at 12 o'clock at night to conduct his business, anyway?"

Dr. Spitzer said that he had had the same experience as witnesses who testified on Monday in failing to get any satisfaction when they took their complaints against Rabiner to the District Attorney's office. He said that after Rabiner's bankruptcy, and before his conviction, he (the doctor) sent his lawyer to the District Attorney's office, but was told that the prosecutor had all the evidence against Rabiner he wanted.

The physician testified that his loss when Rabiner went into bankruptcy consisted of $5,000 in cash and 100 shares of Pierce Arrow stock, which had cost him $7,750 and which he had put up as collateral for a trading account. He said that Rabiner bought and sold stocks and charged up losses to his account without his authorization and in some cases in defiance of his instruction not to trade. On one occasion, he testified, Rabiner charged him $1.05 a share for Bradley oil stock, which was selling in the open market for 35 to 50 cents a share. William S. Silkworth, former President of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, of which Rabiner was a member, finally forced Rabiner to give him a check for the full amount of the 1,000 shares at $1.05 a share, Dr. Spitzer testified. After buying and selling several thousand shares for his account without orders, Dr. Spitzer said, Rabiner demanded $5,000 more margin and closed him out when he did not put it up.

Cruger on Stand.

Commissioner Hirshfield questioned Bertram de N. Cruger, Chairman of the Parole Commission, about his procedure in interviewing prisoners in the penitentiary. He said that the penitentiary was always notified, sometimes twelve or twenty-four hours in advance, when he was to pay a visit.

"There was always warning before I went," he added.

"So if Rabiner was not in the penitentiary," said Commissioner Hirshfield, "it would be possible, with the connivance of those in charge of the penitentiary, to get him there when you came?"

"I suppose it would be possible," Mr. Cruger agreed.

Mrs. Hattie S. Jacobs of 600 West 157th Street, another victim of Rabiner, testified that she had lost stocks and bonds valued at $47,102, which she had deposited with Rabiner as collateral. Her attorney, Louis L. Kahn, told Commissioner Hirshfield that after the bankruptcy it was found that the record of Mrs. Jacobs's account had been torn out of Rabiner's books.

Mrs. Jacobs told of another transaction with Rabiner when she deposited 192 shares of Texas Oil, valued then at about $10,000, as security for a loan of $5,800. She said that he had refused to advance her this money from her trading account. Afterward, she stated, she offered to pay him back the $5,800, and asked him to return the 192 shares of stock, but he put her off. Following the bankruptcy, she said, she obtained photostatic copies of the Texas Oil stock certificates, showing that Rabiner had sold them in October, 1920, a month after she deposited them with him.

Calls It Larceny.

"Why don't you call the attention of District Attorney Banton to this case?" Mrs. Hirshfield asked. "It's a clear case of larceny."

Mrs. Jacobs said that she was willing to prosecute Rabiner if the District Attorney would take up the case.

Kahn, Mrs. Jacob's attorney, then told how negotiations to induce Rabiner to return the difference between the $5,800 loan and the $10,000 security had resulted in several months' delay before Judge McIntyre sentenced the broker.

"When Rabiner first came up for sentence," said Kahn, "he promised Mrs. Jacobs to make restitution. I got in touch with Judge McIntyre and asked him to extend the time of sentence until Jan. 25, 1924. In the meantime Rabiner asked Mrs. Jacobs not to appear in court on the day of sentence."

The lawyer said that Rabiner offered to pay Mrs. Jacobs $400 a month on notes, but the offer was refused because Mrs. Rabiner would not endorse the notes, although the lawyer suspected she had funds.

Mrs. Jacobs said that she went to court the day that Rabiner was sentenced.

"Judge McIntyre came over to me," she added, "and said that he was sorry he couldn't do anything more for me, but that he hoped I would get my money back."

Not Approached, Says Cruger.

"Were you personally approached by any one, whether in the financial world, the judicial world or the political world, and were you asked to show any favor or courtesy in connection with the release of this man?" Commissioner Hirshfield asked Mr. Cruger.

"Absolutely not. No one," Mr. Cruger replied.

Commissioner Hirshfield said that he had received a letter from Samuel Meyers, one of Rabiner's lawyers, refusing to be a witness and said loss of his power of subpoena hampered him.

The Commissioner told Mr. Cruger that he thought Parole Officer Cohen was guilty of "gross negligence" in failing to report Rabiner's whole record to the Parole Commission and said he also intended to "find out about" Mrs. Meyer, Judge McIntyre's parole officer.

Commissioner Hirshfield gave Mr. Cruger permission to sail for Paris today to attend his sister's wedding. He promised to return in two or three weeks.

McIntyre Explains.

Judge McIntyre, after the hearing, said: "Mrs. Jacobs was chiefly concerned with getting adjournments of the sentence so that Rabiner could make restitution to her.

"She was most insistent that I give him ample time to pay her back," the Judge added. "Later her attorney appeared in open court, and in her behalf pleaded that Rabiner be given a suspended sentence. After I had sentenced Rabiner I told Mrs. Jacobs that I could not do any more than that for her. She thanked me for the adjournments I had granted."

Jerome Craig, secretary to Judge McIntyre, denied that he had telephoned to Dr. Spitzer, as the physician had testified.

Mrs. Gussie Meyers, Judge McIntyre's probation officer, said that there had been a question as to whether Rabiner actually owed Mrs. Jacobs anything. She said that Rabiner had contended that Mrs. Jacobs owed him $5,000.

District Attorney Banton said:

"It is true that additional complaints against Rabiner were made to this office, but they were made after Rabiner had pleaded guilty and had been sent to the penitentiary. I thought his stay in the penitentiary would be of about two years' duration, and I sent these complainants to the Parole Board so that if application was made for his release the Parole Commissioners could consider all the facts before releasing him.

"However, I am willing to have the Grand Jury take up these complaints now. As a matter of fact, since publication of the fact of Rabiner's release from the penitentiary another complaint, made by a woman, has been received by me.

"I asked her to return to the District Attorney's office some time during the week beginning May 26, when Assistant District Attorney Albert Blogg Unger, who is in charge of Wall Street brokerage investigations, will be at liberty to investigate her charge."

The Hirshfield investigation will resume at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

BUTLER SAYS ELIOT FAILS TO CONVINCE

Evidence Contradicts Harvard Man on Prohibition, Columbia President's View.

FRIEND'S STAND A MYSTERY

Can't Understand Defense of Law That "Contradicts Every Principle of Liberalism."

President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University yesterday replied to Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard, whose letter commenting on Dr. Butler's attitude was given out by the Committee of One Thousand on Law Enforcement. Dr. Butler prefaced his remarks with the statement that Dr. Eliot's views on any public question were entitled to the greatest respect, for "Mr. Eliot is one of the very few really great Americans of his time."

"It has always been a mystery to me," said Dr. Butler, "how so outstanding a liberal as Mr. Eliot could defend prohibition, which contradicts every principle and ideal of—liberalism. In his published statement Mr. Eliot touches my argument before the Missouri Society at but one point and that is when he holds that prohibitory legislation is being better and better enforced and that its complete enforcement will shortly follow. This is Mr. Eliot's opinion, but it is flatly contradicted by all the evidence. It is contradicted by the experience and the testimony of members of the prohibition enforcement bureaus, by the records of the police courts, by the columns of the newspapers, urban, suburban and rural, every day and every week.

"In THE TIMES of this morning there is printed on the first page the details of the conviction of a man who has been a member of the House of Representatives for years, on the charge of conspiracy to transport and sell whisky illegally. An examination of other newspapers will show that frequently there are as many as eight or ten items in each that record or refer to violations of the national prohibition law.

"In addition to my own personal knowledge based on observation, I have now in this huge pile of letters the testimony of hundreds of witnesses, some of it in greatest detail, as to conditions in their States and communities. This morning, for example, there are striking letters of this character from South Carolina, from North Dakota, from Kansas, and from Colorado.

Doesn't Expect Wet Plank.

"Most of what Mr. Eliot says has to do with the evils which follow from the use of alcohol. This is an argument to be addressed to the individual will, and has no relation whatever to the question as to the impropriety, on grounds of constitutional government and public morals, of the policy of national prohibition by constitutional amendment. Mr. Eliot prophesies that neither the Republican nor the Democratic party will venture to put a wet plank in its platform. Of course not. Any one would be mad to make such a proposal.

"The question which I am now debating has nothing whatever to do with wets and drys, so called. It is on a plane far higher and far more important than that. I am pointing out, without successful contradiction, that the policy called dry has resulted in making the nation wetter than it had been in years, as well as in demoralising our public and our private life.

"Once more I repeat, 'The true end is the effective control of the liquor traffic, the total abolition of the saloon, secret as well as open; the promotion of temperance and good morals and the removal of the chief incentive to that nation-wide lawlessness which now threatens the foundations of our entire political and social order.' With these grave matters Mr. Eliot's statement does not deal."

How Scrantonites Look on Law.

Dr. Butler called attention to a letter written him by the editor of The Scranton (Pa.) Times, giving the results of a canvass made by a newspaper in Scranton and vicinity. Of those questioned 440 agreed with his statement that the enforcement of prohibition had been a failure and 220 disagreed. In answer to the question, "Do you believe the greatest violators of the liquor laws are the ones paid to enforce it?" 433 voted "Yes" and 231 "No." In answer to the question, "Do you believe there has been a greater evil worked by the illicit manufacture and unlawful sale of spirit concoctions than existed under the legalized sale of alcoholic beverages?" 441 voted "Yes" and 233 "No." Even among the clergymen whose views were asked, 66 voted to support Dr. Butler's opinion that prohibition is a failure, while only 36 voted in the negative. The teachers who voted on this question cast 183 votes "Yes" and 90 "No."

Another item in his morning's mail which interested President Butler was a cutting from a Syracuse paper recording the fact that the five persons casually selected by the "Inquiring Reporter" for an expression of their opinion on his Missouri Society speech were unanimous in endorsing it.

During the day he received a telegram from the Salt Lake City Federation of Labor, signed by its Secretary, commending him for his stand on the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act.

CELLER CRITICIZES ELIOT.

Says Educator's Defense of Dry Law Differs From Earlier Stand.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Representative Celler, of the Tenth New York District, today addressed a letter to Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard University, on the subject of prohibition. Mr. Celler criticised Dr. Eliot for taking issue with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's recent declaration that the prohibition law had broken down and should be repealed. Dr. Eliot, in a statement yesterday, took up the cudgels for the Volstead law.

Mr. Celler points out that years ago Dr. Eliot joined with Leo Low, Jacob H. Schiff and other members of the Committee of Fifty in issuing a "scathing denunciation of prohibition." Mr. Celler added:

"I have always had a great respect for your high-minded principles and splendid public spirit. Your reply to Dr. Butler, however, has been somewhat disquieting. It is difficult to square what Dr. Eliot now states with what he thought about prohibition not so many years ago. To my mind, what you previously stated still holds true. Prohibition has had a most corroding effect on the public mind."

SAYS HE PAID PHILLIPS.

Witness Tells of Lumber Deal With Georgia Republican Leader.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—James I. M. Wilson of Philadelphia told a jury today concerning charges of conspiracy against John L. Phillips, Republican State Committeeman of Georgia, and others, in connection with the sale of Government surplus lumber stocks, that in 1919 he paid Phillips $2,500 as a prerequisite for signing a contract for purchase of lumber for the Mueller Lumber Company of Philadelphia.

Mr. Wilson said his contract with Phillips involved $9,500, and that Phillips accepted a check for $4,000 but demanded the rest in cash. He said the deal was arranged at a meeting in a Trade psychology is curious. For instance, a salesman, after offering a certain article to several customers without success, loses confidence in that item of his merchandise, however meritorious. He imagines something's wrong, and flunks.

An example:

DROWNS IN GALE OFF LONG BEACH

Ira A. Worthington's Body Washed Ashore With Capsized Tender.

NEW MOTORBOAT ANCHORED

Sales Manager's Wife and Child Were Awaiting Him at Baldwin Summer Home.

LONG BEACH, L. I., May 13.—While his wife and child waited up all night at their Summer home of Ira A. Worthington, sales manager of the Armstrong Rubber Company of New York City, was washed ashore here shortly after daybreak. Near by lay Worthington's rowboat, bottomside up. His new forty-foot motor boat was moored 500 feet out. The police believed he had perished in yesterday's storm.

Worthington, who was 40 years old and lived at 368 East Twenty-eighth Street, Brooklyn, sent his family ahead yesterday, and started with the new boat, purchased only Sunday, from a Brooklyn boathouse. Caught in yesterday's gale, he apparently dropped anchor and attempted to come ashore in the tender. Heavy seas running at the time must have swamped the boat and upset it. Worthington, clad in army riding breeches and puttees, was unable to swim ashore through the breakers.

Worthington's wife and their five-year-old daughter, Lucille, had come on by train and waited through the night at the Summer home, on Millburn Avenue, in Baldwin. This morning Mrs. Worthington notified the police he was missing. The search here had proceeded but fifteen minutes when the body was discovered at the foot of Roosevelt Boulevard.

After identifying the body Mrs. Worthington told the police that her husband had bought the boat in Poughkeepsie on Sunday and brought it back, with the assistance of a friend. He left it in Brooklyn for the night, and yesterday morning, after taking her and Lucille to the train, had set out alone in the boat.

Mrs. A. Worthington, the sales manager's mother, was notified in Brooklyn and joined her daughter-in-law this afternoon. The funeral will be held in Brooklyn tomorrow.

CALLS TROOPS IN SENATE.

Rhode Island Lieutenant Governor Seeks Militia Aid in Keeping Order.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 13.—Lieut. Gov. Felix Toupin requested Governor William S. Flynn today to assign the State militia to preserve order in the Senate Chamber, following refusal of Sheriff Butterfield to eject Senator Arthur A. Sherman of Portsmouth when the latter refused to leave the Chamber on order of the Lieutenant Governor, who is presiding officer of the Senate.

The situation resulted from a debate over the validity of records of a "rump" session conducted by fifteen Democratic Senators Friday night, during which the Lavender forty-eight hour bill was passed and subsequently signed by the Governor, after Senator Sherman, as a majority leader, had already assumed charge of the Senate when the Lieutenant Governor declared it at east on a technicality and the Republican majority had voted for adjournment.

A huge crowd was present today for expected "fireworks," cheering and jeering the legislators. The crisis was reached when Senator Sherman refused to answer questions put to him by Lieut. Gov. Toupin and refused to leave the Senate, although the presiding officer called for "two able-bodied men" to eject the Portsmouth man.

The only matter voted on during today's session was a motion for adjournment, which was carried, after a four hours' filibuster against approval of the official records of Friday's session preceding the "rump" session.

During today's session the Lieutenant Governor again challenged the Supreme Court, declaring that "the Senate is just as much as the Supreme Court, and what the Supreme Court thinks that the Senate has done does not amount to anything."

FIVE ADMIT BOOKMAKING.

Jamaica Race Track Men Let Off With Suspended Sentences.

Five men pleaded guilty to a charge of bookmaking at the Jamaica Race Track, in Court of Special Sessions, Jamaica, yesterday. They got suspended sentences of ten days in the workhouse.

They were Jerry McCann, 309 East Forty-sixth Street, Manhattan; Eddie Salmore, 566 East Twenty-eighth Street; Isidore Hasberg, 309 East Forty-sixth Street; Freeman Bloch, 21 West Forty-seventh Street, and Herman Bloch, 1,066 Freeman Street, Brooklyn.

In a statement issued after Justices Murphy, Kelly and Voorhees had accepted the plea, the Rev. S. Edward Young, President of the Society for the Prevention of Crime, said:

"Our Society has prosecuted individual cases as the only feasible method of reaching racing associations and public officials with the kind of compulsion that will compel them to enforce the law."

she learned that the couple had walked out of the hotel some hours previously.

A policeman was called and Mrs. Johnson was taken to the West Sixty-eighth Street Station. At first the detectives were unable to obtain any account of what had happened, but later, after Mrs. Johnson had been more fully revived, she was able to tell enough about the affair that every available detective in the precinct was put on the case.

How Arrest Came About.

Detective Sergeant Clarence Daly learned that the couple had registered at the Alamac as Mr. and Mrs. Harry Drent shortly before noon on Monday. A little later a trunk was sent to their suite. After the report of the robbery it developed that the trunk had been sent to the Pennsylvania Station.

Sergeant Daly sent Detectives Owens and Horan to the station. When a young woman came to claim the trunk they questioned her. Then, with Detectives Cronin and Tiernan, they accompanied her to the West Forty-eighth Street address, where they found Lasser.

When searched at the police station $750 in paper currency was found in Lasser's pockets. He refused to give any account of himself or say where he obtained the money. After a time he asked that a lawyer be called. An attorney appeared at the station, but refused to represent the accused man.

Lasser was booked on a charge of assault and robbery, and will be arraigned in court this morning, when several employes of the hotel will be called to see if they can identify him.

The police have been unable to learn who the woman was who registered at the hotel with the robber.

A Poor Lonely Old Soul on Her Birthday

said, "I wonder if anybody has ever felt glad that I was born?"

She sat still a long time in a dark, little room, and then rose to her feet and began to rummage in an old trunk, out of which she took a few little children's long-saved-up frocks and shoes. She bundled them up and started out to find others poorer than herself, to try to get somebody to be glad she had ever been born.

Happy indeed are those who read this, who have reason to know that some people really feel glad that they are alive!

This Store, like many a child, was not welcomed when it was born, but now that it has grown to manhood's years and proved itself to be a good servant to millions of people, there is an innumerable host glad that it is alive and becoming more and more alive every day.

Ready this morning at 9

People who know the Wanamaker Sale of Store-used Oriental rugs—and who does not?—wait eagerly for it. It offers some of the richest prizes of the year—prizes that are snapped up eagerly. This year there is a large group of rugs that have been used in our model rooms, in Belmaison, and in various sections of the Store. They have been thoroughly cleaned and will be ready this morning. The salesman will point out the defects and show you the exact condition of the rug.

No rugs sent on approval. None sent C. O. D. None reserved. No mail or phone orders filled, as the quantity is not large. Last year the wise folks were here before the Store opened—and they were well repaid.

Truly the outstanding offering of the year. They are all over upholstered arm chairs with spring cushion or upholstered seats. And they are of Wanamaker standard make, with webbed bottom, and filled with moss and cotton filling.

Suitable for the small apartment, they will look well also in a large living-room. And some of them will fit nicely into a bedroom. Indeed, they are chairs of all-around excellence.

The coverings on some of the chairs would cost to-day more than $25! Think of that! And then plan to come in as soon as you can, for the 150 should be gone in a few hours, once people learn the good news. Fifth Gallery, New Building

PLAN 269,967 SEATS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

President Ryan of Board of Education Says Program Calls for $150,277,514.

HE RECOMMENDS POLICIES

Re-elected for Third Time—Superintendent O'Shea Promises Cooperation.

The Board of Education yesterday unanimously re-elected George J. Ryan President of the board and M. Samuel Stern Vice President for terms of one year each. This will be Mr. Ryan's third term as chief executive of the board.

In an inaugural address Mr. Ryan said that the building program called for 210 new buildings at a cost of $150,277,514, providing seats for 269,967 children.

Dr. William J. O'Shea, who attended the meeting of the board yesterday for the first time as Superintendent of Schools, also made an inaugural address, promising cooperation with the board, adding:

"I believe that I am not only giving assurance of my honest intention properly to fulfill the duties of my high office but also to act in accordance with the principles of good citizenship and sound government."

It was for alleged lack of cooperation with the board that Mr. Ryan attacked Dr. William L. Ettinger when he was nominated for re-election as Superintendent of Schools on last April 23.

"Up to May 1, 1924," Mr. Ryan said in his prepared inaugural address, "forty-two new elementary schools and nineteen additions costing $24,331,698 and seating 78,733 children were opened. One new high school and four additions costing $4,038,262 and seating 4,752 pupils were occupied. Thirty-seven temporary structures costing $702,154 and accommodating 7,168 students are in use. Thus 90,683 seats have been furnished.

"We have under construction forty-nine new elementary schools, thirteen additions and one temporary building, seven new high schools and two additions, and one addition to the New York Parental School, a total of seventy-three units. These will cost $80,849,430 and will accommodate 123,022 pupils. Plans are being drafted for fifteen new elementary schools, thirteen additions and three new high schools and three additions, which will cost $30,356,906 and will seat 40,262 students. Our building program to date thus provides for 210 new buildings at a cost of $150,277,514, providing seats for 269,967 children."

Among the policies recommended by Mr. Ryan were these:

"The training of exceptional children should be enhanced to fit them for civic service and industrial and social efficiency.

"Our apprenticeship classes so skillfully developed by our Advisory Board of Industrial Education can be still further fostered in cooperation with employers and trades unions.

"Proper provision must be made for the leisure of our school children. The playgrounds which are so generously provided for each school must be put to work to eradicate juvenile delinquency, to reduce street casualties and to develop the play instincts of our pupils.

"Our evening high schools should be constantly kept to the level of scholarship of the day high schools so that working boys and girls may have the same educational prospects as their more fortunate brothers and sisters."

DEFENDS COOLIDGE AGAINST LABOR SLUR

Secretary Davis Cheered by Pennsylvania Federation as He Praises President's Record.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., May 13.—James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, today defended the labor record of President Coolidge at the State convention of the American Federation of Labor.

"I will place the record of Calvin Coolidge against the record of any man who has ever held the Presidency of the United States," Secretary Davis said, "or the Governorship of any State, in debate with any one, anywhere and any time."

The incident developed after the Secretary had spoken on immigration problems as affecting labor, asserting that aliens were being "bootlegged" into this country by tens of thousands.

When a resolution expressing a vote of thanks was proposed by Thomas O. Stuart of Philadelphia shouts came from several delegates:

"Who invited this representative of the Coolidge Administration here?"

President James H. Maurer replied that he had invited Mr. Davis, with other men prominent in official positions affecting the interests of labor.

The objection to the resolution was small but vociferous.

Secretary Davis, however, did not permit it to pass unchallenged.

"I suppose," he said, "the objector has reference to the telegram of Calvin Coolidge to Samuel Gompers on the Boston police strike. I will place my own record as a union man against that of any union man, and I want to tell you that I was in Boston in my capacity as organizer for the Moose on the day that telegram was sent, and that I endorsed the contents of that telegram. Furthermore, I want to say that I will place the record of Calvin Coolidge on labor against that of any man who has ever occupied the Presidential chair or the Governorship of any State. I am ready to debate it with anybody, any time, any where."

The convention greeted the challenge with cheers and a vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Davis.

RAIL CONFERENCE FAILS.

Wage Dispute Involving 90 Western Lines Goes to Labor Board.

CHICAGO, May 13 (Associated Press).—Deadlocked since yesterday, a conference seeking new wages and working rules for approximately 85,000 engineers and firemen on ninety Western railroads was definitely ended without arriving at an agreement today, and the committee of railroad managers appealed to the Railroad Labor Board to assume jurisdiction of the dispute should an interruption of commerce occur.

W. M. Jeffers, Chairman of the Managers' Committee, said the railroads had agreed to grant the approximate 6½ per cent. wage increase as embodied in the "New York Central settlement," which was the working basis of the conference, but the employe representative charges these increases were virtually nullified by the demand that certain working rules also be modified which had not been included in the settlement of eastern roads.

Chairman Ben W. Hooper of the Labor Board said the matter will be given precedence, and, if the situation justifies, the parties will be cited to appear for a hearing.

The conference has been in session since April 24.

Bomb Plots in Lisbon and Coimbra.

LISBON, May 13.—The Lisbon police discovered a large supply of bombs and explosives in a room in the centre of the city yesterday and arrested the tenant, a notorious Communist agitator who has been connected with various bomb outrages. Two powerful bombs were exploded at Coimbra yesterday, one in the doorway of the residence of the President of Coimbra Institute.

The artistry of the wood-carver

For the entrance-hall or the living-room has been conceived the important cabinet portrayed above. It is a reproduction of a piece made when Gothic art had reached its highest and fullest expression. ¶ In the construction of pieces such as this, old oak or walnut is used, in order that the depth of tone, as well as each considered detail, may be perfectly duplicated. Indeed, in these pieces the conception of the early wood-carver is apparent in every line and ornament . . . Such faultless reproductions as this you will find in splendid profusion at the Hampton Shops.

CATHOLIC CHARITIES ASK MORE PLEDGES

Cardinal Hayes, and Father Kelly, in Charge of Drive, Pleased With Progress.

The progress of the drive for funds for the Catholic charities, which started on Monday, to continue through next Sunday, is entirely satisfactory to Cardinal Hayes, Father Kelly and all those directly interested. Last night, with only 120 parishes of a total of 328 heard from, the receipts and pledges accounted for a total of $152,912.84.

The greater part of this sum was in cash. While this was wholly pleasing, Cardinal Hayes thought it wise to stress the fact that those in charge of the drive are not insisting that the communicants in the parishes give all of $1,000,000 or more in cash in the space of one week.

"It would be a mistake," the Cardinal said last night, "to have our good people believe we expect over a million dollars in cash. The fact that a wage earner pledges to give over a period of a few months a contribution of $5 or $10 or more, in accordance with his salary and family obligations, is more inkeep ing with the idea of the appeal. I hope that all will catch the spirit of giving."

It was determined to send out pledge cards to all parishes, and this is being done as rapidly as possible. Father Kelly, who is in direct charge, said that the returns were exceptionally good, and that while $1,000,000 has been mentioned there is hope the total will be considerable more because there are more "prospects" listed than in other years. In addition, there is need for more money because of the extension of the educational work contemplated in the building of a high school, he said.

MUNDELEIN GETS $1,000,000

Two $500,000 Checks Are Handed to Cardinal for Building Seminary.

CHICAGO, May 13.—George Cardinal Mundelein was presented today with two checks of $500,000 each, the money to be used for the construction of a seminary for training priests at Area, Ill., as the climax of the third day of his homecoming.

The presentation was made after solemn pontifical mass of thanksgiving at Holy Name Cathedral and took place at a luncheon attended by 700 members of the Catholic clergy. Bishop Hoban of Chicago presided at the luncheon and presented the checks, which were the results of contributions throughout the archdiocese yesterday.

RUMOR OF SUN'S DEATH DENIED IN HONGKONG

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HONGKONG, May 13.—Sun Yat-sen, President of the Canton Government, has been ill for more than a week with cerebral trouble, said to be meningitis, and his death has been reported several times; but secrecy has been maintained in Canton, from which semi-official reports have just been received, saying that he is recovering.

It is significant, however, that there has been a meeting of Southern military leaders. At present events in Fukien have caused the withdrawal of a considerable portion of the forces of Chen Chiung-ming, who is at war with Sun, and consequently it is difficult to predict what may follow his death if it occurs.

SHANGAI, May 13 (Associated Press).—Sun Yat-sen, President of the Southern Government of China, is reported to have died from brain fever.

The report, which reached here from Hongkong, has not yet been confirmed, but, according to trustworthy information received there, Sun Yat-sen has been unconscious for the past two days.

DENIES PLEA BY CHURCH.

Court Permits Advertisement in Christian Science Journal.

BOSTON, May 13.—The motion of the Christian Science Directors and the Trustees of the Christian Science Publishing Company, to dismiss the bill of Mrs. Katherine Aller of Phoenix, Ariz., a practitioner who has long contested her right to insert her card in the Christian Science Journal, was denied yesterday in United States Equity Court here by Justice Anderson.

Judge Anderson, several months ago, ruled that a card in the journal is a right and not a privilege, and he directed Mrs. Aller to renew her application for space. Attorney Walter A. Bane, for the defendant, informed the Court that Mrs. Aller has failed to make application on a form conforming to the Court's direction and asked that her bill be dismissed. Attorney Edward F. McClennen for Mrs. Aller, said that she had not signed the application form submitted to her because it is a form used for practitioners who never had a card in the journal before. She has in writing asked that her card be "renewed," Mr. McClennen said.

The Court ruled orally that Mrs. Aller sign an application with a phrase beginning "The Mother Church reserves the right to reject." The Court said that the directions were given without prejudice, and merely for the purpose of having a clear issue in event of appeal. Mrs. Aller has thirty days in which to make application.

CAN FORETELL EARTHQUAKE

Italian Professor Declares His Device Is Accurate.

SPEZIA, Italy, May 13.—Earthquakes need no longer cause loss of life, according to Professor Caselli, noted seismologist, who claims to have constructed an apparatus, already patented, whereby earthquakes are announced at least fifteen minutes before they occur.

The scientist also claims to be able, with very slight possibility of error, to locate beforehand the centres of telluric phenomena, their intensity and the situation of their most intense manifestations.

Signor Caselli's telluric prophecies for last March, which were deposited with a notary here some time in advance of the expected disturbances, were completely and accurately confirmed by subsequent events. The professor promises to reveal his methods in the near future.

His studies of the recent earthquake at Abruzzi, he declares, convinced him that telluric phenomena in their electro-magnetic manifestations unmistakably influence animals before the seismic movement begins.

Professor Caselli is inclined to believe the theory which he says was known to the ancients that great seismic movements may be produced by electro-magnetic forces developed by the stars of our planetary system during the periods of their greatest proximity to the earth.

UNVEIL TEN BUSTS FOR HALL OF FAME

Nine Men and One Woman Further Honored at Ceremonies at New York University.

TRUMPETERS LEAD PARADE

Tributes Paid to Adams, Brooks, Clemens, Eads, Cooper, Jefferson, Alice Palmer and Others.

Ten of the immortals in the Hall of Fame were further honored yesterday, when the busts of nine men and one woman, leaders in statesmanship, in science, in letters, in medicine, in education and in religion, were presented and unveiled with impressive ceremonies at New York University. Descendants, in several cases, unveiled the busts, and men of eminence in the branches in which they excelled told why they merited places among the immortals.

The ceremonies were held in a large marquee pitched on the lawn outside the Hall of Fame, and those who were honored were John Adams, President of the United States; Bishop Phillips Brooks, Samuel L. Clemens, James Buchanan Eads, engineer; Peter Cooper, also an engineer and founder of Cooper Union; Joseph Henry, Alice Freeman Palmer, who at the age of 26 was President of Wellesley College; Andrew Jackson, soldier and statesman; Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, and Dr. W. T. G. Morton, pioneer in anesthesia. Their busts, wrought in bronze, hidden at first from view by enfolding American flags, were placed in a colonnade of whitened classic pillars and were unveiled in turn. Dr. Robert Underwood Johnson, poet and editor, director of the Hall of Fame, presided, and Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, Chancellor of the university, stood beside him.

An active participant in the ceremonies was Thomas A. Edison, who caused some amusement at first by moving whenever photographers had him in focus, but he would not let them "snap" him until it fell to him to unveil the bust of Joseph Henry. Then he stood still for a moment and the troubles of the photographers were over.

Procession Opens Ceremonies.

The ceremonies opened with a procession of the Faculty of the university and invited guests, which formed in the rotunda of the library, and, led by four women trumpeters in classic attire and carrying a colorful array of flags, passed slowly through the open corridor of the Hall of Fame, past the busts already there. The audience of nearly 500 persons rose when the trumpeters led the way into the marquee.

Then one by one the busts were unveiled. First came that of John Adams, and another John Adams, the great-great-grandson of the first, unveiled the bust, but not before Dr. Johnson said that in the selections to the Hall of Fame there was no room for race, sex, religious or political opinion.

"The Hall of Fame," he said, "is not a calendar of saints but of human beings, each of whom presents some fine equation of greatness. It is not too much to say that the names here recorded and those to be added will be for all time the pride and inspiration of the American people."

The address on John Adams was by William M. Sloane, President of the Academy of Arts and Letters. He said Adams had been justly designated as a "self-made aristocrat," and that he exhibited "a towering moral courage in successfully defending British soldiers charged with murder in the Boston massacre at a time when public opinion was dangerously inflamed."

The bust of Phillips Brooks was by Daniel Chester French and was the gift of Trinity Church, Boston, members of whose vestry attended. It was unveiled by Miss Josephine Brooks, a niece.

Mark Twain's Daughter There.

Mrs. Ossip Gabrilowitsch, daughter of Samuel L. Clemens, unveiled the bust of Mark Twain. Miss Agnes Repplier made the address. She said Mark Twain had been aptly described as America's great laughing philosopher, but that his hatred of sham raised him to the status of moralist.

Governor Arthur M. Hyde of Missouri and Bainbridge Colby, President of the Missouri Society, were in the delegation that escorted James Eads Switzer, a grandson, to unveil the bust of James Buchanan Eads, and Dr. George F. Swain, Professor of Civil Engineering at Harvard University, made the address.

The bust of Peter Cooper, the work of Chester Beach, was presented in behalf of graduates of Cooper Union, and was unveiled by Miss Edith Cram, a great-great-granddaughter. R. Fulton Cutting made the address.

A delegation of Barnard girls escorted Professor George H. Palmer of Harvard University to unveil the bust of his wife, Alice Freeman Palmer. The address was by Dr. James A. Angell, President of Yale University.

Members of the Ladies' Hermitage Association of Nashville, Tenn., unveiled the bust of Andrew Jackson, which was presented by the association. Albert Marble Jackson, a great-grandson, unveiled the memorial, and Norman H. Davis, former Acting Secretary of State, spoke.

The bust of Thomas Jefferson was unveiled by Mrs. Francis O. Barton, a great-great-granddaughter, and was provided through subscriptions raised by The New York World. Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, President of the University of Virginia, which Jefferson founded, spoke of him as the first great philosopher and intelligent radical in American life.

The bust of Dr. William T. G. Morton, anesthetist, was unveiled by Bowditch Morton, a grandson. Dr. William W. Keen, a former President of the American Surgical Association, made the address.

Thomas A. Edison unveiled the bust of Joseph Henry, electrical engineer, and Frank B. Jewett, a former President of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, made the address.

The busts will be placed on their pedestals in the Hall of Fame today.

MAIL BOOTLEGGER GUILTY.

Philadelphian Now Faces 104 Years in Jail and $520,000 Fine.

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—Isaac Bullfant, alleged head of a "mail order bootlegging scheme" that extended to half a dozen adjacent States, today pleaded guilty in Federal Court to possessing and selling liquor and was sentenced to six months in the County Prison and $1,000 fine.

Bullfant is also to be sentenced for the illegal possession of liquor and spurious revenue stamps. In addition he faces twenty-one indictments for conspiracy which, if conviction is obtained, would make him liable to 104 years' imprisonment and $520,000 fine.

Capture of a "customers' list" in the police raid on Bullfant's establishment resulted in the indictment of several of the customers, who pleaded guilty and were fined. Bullfant ran his business as the "Novelty Glass Company."

Hunt $5,000 Radium Thrown Into Fire.

MARTIN'S FERRY, Ohio, May 13.—Specialists are searching the ashes of a furnace fire to recover, if possible, radium valued at $5,000 which was accidentally thrown into the furnace yesterday at the local hospital after it had been removed from a patient by Dr. W. A. Quinby of Wheeling. The radium was in two capsules in a rubber tubing. Specialists say the radium is indestructible in the form in which it was used.

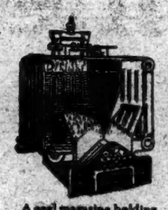
A First Essential in Every Home—
Built, Bought or Rented

This folder will give you the first information you'll want in considering the Spencer Heater for your own needs. Drop a line for it today.

"How is it heated?"

This is one question that is certain to be asked by every prospective buyer of a home—and the answer to a great extent influences his decision, for no part of a residence is more essential to the comfort and convenience of its occupants than an efficient heating system, and no part offers greater opportunities for economy or extravagance in its use.

The operation builder who has had the foresight to equip his houses with Spencer Heaters has in them a distinct selling advantage over any ordinarily heated house, for he then offers the purchaser an investment that will return dividends not only in greater comfort, but in actual dollars and cents. For the Spencer burns low-priced No. 1 Buckwheat Anthracite, which costs the Spencer owner $4 to $7 less per ton than larger sizes.



A coal magazine holding 12 or 24 hours' supply, from which the No. 1 Buckwheat coal feeds by gravity to sloping grates; how as the fire requires it, enables the Spencer to maintain even, controlled temperature for long periods without attention.

The man who buys or builds a dwelling for his own use must also consider the possibility of selling or renting in the future. If his house is equipped with a Spencer, he not only saves the $4 to $7 per ton difference in coal costs during his occupancy, but he has also increased the resale value of his property.

Let us send you the story of the Spencer Heater and a record of owners' experiences, together with a list of installations near you. Your name and address on a post card will bring this material.

THE SUNDAY TIMES

Equivalent to the Best First-Class Magazines

The New York Times:

I should not miss a Sunday Times for more than twenty times its cost. It is, for me, the literary equivalent of the best of first-class magazines. I rarely agree with the opinions expressed on the editorial page, but I always read them. The column of "By-Products," especially, appeals to me; I read it first. Will Rogers' department, also, has a place in my heart; I read Will aloud to the family.

From the art, music and theatre pages, I clip out the advertisements of exhibitions, concerts and plays that I should like to see and hear if I had the leisure; and I do manage to "follow up" the best of them.

The book section I save, as well as the rotogravure pages. In my little house in Maine I have accumulated a pictorial history of the past ten years—fifty-two sections per annum—which I intend one day to give to my small daughter; she will be interested to see how mankind lived and moved and had its being in the period preceding her arrival on this planet and immediately thereafter. I also save for her future use The Times "Mid-Week Pictorial" and the monthly "Current History."

NEW ZEPPELIN, ZR-3, HANDLED BY BRAKES

Also Her Engines Will Run Forward or Reverse Without a Shift in Gears.

LAST WORD IN AIRCRAFT

Dirigible, Due to Reach Here This Summer, Expected to Revolutionize Commercial Aviation.

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 13.—Brakes on an airship, with five 400-horsepower engines which will run forward or reverse without reverse gears will be introduced into the United States when the new German-built Zeppelin ZR-3 flies from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, a distance of 4,500 nautical miles, this Summer.

With powers of braking and reversing the motors, naval officials announced today, the ZR-3 could easily be put to her mooring mast and slowed down when running before a strong wind.

Captain Ernest A. Lehmann, who came to the United States to arrange for the delivery of the ship, said the ZR-3, the finest and most efficient of 128 airships built by the Zeppelin company, would revolutionize commercial aviation in this country.

More than forty-four tons of useful load could be shot through the air at eighty miles an hour by the ZR-3, Captain Lehmann said, while ten or fifteen tons of this load would be available for cargo on long-distance hauls. Provision has been made for thirty passengers and baggage.

The United States Navy Bureau of Aeronautics is charged with the development of commercial aircraft under a joint army and navy police board general order. While some of the Lakehurst personnel will be engaged in military duty with the U. S. S. Shenandoah, which is slightly smaller than the ZR-3, others will be training for the commercial side of the lighter-than-air development with the Zeppelin.

Aside from passenger, mail or packet transportation, Captain Lehmann predicted unlimited uses for the ZR-3. For scientific research, photography and study of topography, the Zeppelin type ship, he said, had no rival because of its ability to hover over any selected area for an extended time.

The Zeppelin could rush large medical stores, food and clothing to isolated regions stricken by flood, fire or earthquake. The ZR-3 type of ship because of its independence of landing fields and the ability to "stand still" was claimed to be far superior to airplanes for forest patrol work and detection of forest fires.

"The mooring mast greatly reduces operating costs," Captain Lehmann asserted. "Only a small ground crew is necessary. The modern airship requires a large and expensive hangar only as the ocean liner requires a drydock."

Its design and construction the ZR-3 will be easily manoeuvred. Awkwardness of handling such large "thin-skinned" objects, he said, was indirectly responsible for the destruction of several of the earlier type ships.

The ZR-3 probably will be put into commercial operation within a year.

WOMAN ACCUSES KEARNS.

Charges Dempsey's Manager Attacked Her in Hollywood.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 13.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, was accused today of having attacked Mrs. Frances Marion Emerson after first giving her liquor.

Mrs. Emerson, who lives in Hollywood, went to the office of the District Attorney late this afternoon and asked that a complaint be issued.

"It was on the night of May 3," she said, "I met Mr. Kearns by appointment. It was in a house in North Highland Avenue, in Hollywood. I thought he might be able to get me into the movies, and he seemed to be interested in me.

"Well, the first thing he did was to bring out a bottle and ask me to have a drink. I am not accustomed to drink, but I wanted to be agreeable. I didn't think one little drink would hurt. We each had one drink, and I must have lost consciousness shortly after that.

"The next thing I can remember is waking up in another room and finding that man with me. I tried to break away from him, but he was too strong. I screamed and several people came running in to see who was being killed."

Kearns appeared at the District Attorney's office, denied he had attacked Mrs. Emerson, and charged he was being made the victim of a conspiracy.

TO BUILD FOKKER PLANES.

Jersey Corporation Will Turn Out Craft Under Inventor's Direction.

Fokker airplanes, which became well known during the war, are to be built in the United States by a company of which Major Lorillard Spencer is a director, it was announced yesterday. The Atlantic Aircraft Corporation has leased for this purpose, with the privilege of purchasing, the Wittemann Aircraft Corporation's plant at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J.

The Fokker planes are built from designs of the Dutch inventor, Anthony H. G. Fokker. The statement was made yesterday that the coast-to-coast nonstop flight last year was made by a United States Army Fokker and that the same plane has captured duration and distance records.

Besides Major Spencer the directors of the new corporation include Frank R. Zord of Ford, Bacon & Davis, engineers; Charles S. Guggenheimer of Guggenheimer, Untermyer & Marshall, Anthony H. G. Fokker and R. B. C. Noorduyn, Fokker's representative here for the last three years. A. Rancis Pyrler, formerly of the Handley-Page staff in England, is to be the chief engineer. According to the announcement the making of planes will begin at once.

Dublin Authorities Name Five as Perpetrating Queenstown Outrage.

DUBLIN, May 13.—The Free State Government today issued a proclamation offering £10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of five men said to have been responsible for the attack at Queenstown on March 21 on a leave party of the Royal Garrison Artillery, when one British soldier was killed, one officer seriously wounded and seventeen soldiers and five civilians were struck by machine-gun bullets.

The proclamation named the men, gave full descriptions of them and offered £2,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any one of them. The Government offered £5,000 to the first person to cause the arrest of all five and £1,000 for the arrest of any one.

The names of the five were given as Daniel Donavan, 30 years old, of Cork; Frank Busteed, 20, of Blarney; Jim Grey, 25, of Cork; M. Grey, 26, his brother, and Peter O'Shea of Cork. The latter was said to be in the South of Ireland.

"Coffee gives comfort and inspiration"

"IT MAY be stated that, after weighing the evidence, a dispassionate evaluation of the data so comprehensively surveyed has led to no alarming conclusions that Coffee is an injurious beverage for the great majority of adults, but, on the contrary, that the history of human experience, as well as the results of scientific experimentation, point to the fact that Coffee is a beverage which, properly prepared and rightly used, gives comfort and inspiration, augments mental and physical activity and may be regarded as the servant rather than the destroyer of civilization."

This strong indorsement of Coffee was made by Professor Samuel C. Prescott, Director of the Department of Biology and Public Health of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

This statement was not made on the spur of the moment, but was one of the conclusions reached by Professor Prescott after the most thorough investigation of Coffee ever made. For more than three years he worked and experimented in his laboratory. His research was scientific and exhaustive and his findings, therefore, establish the fact that Coffee is a safe and desirable drink for the great majority of adults.

For Better Coffee Every Day, Follow These Rules

1—See that the Coffee is not ground too coarse.
2—Allow at least a tablespoonful of ground Coffee to a cup of water.
3—Be sure the water boils. Then pour it over the freshly ground Coffee.
4—Serve at once.
5—Never use ground Coffee a second time.
6—Scour the Coffee pot.

Ask your dealer or write direct to us for a copy of the NEW booklet, "For Better Coffee," which explains these rules in detail. Joint Coffee Trade Publicity Committee, 64 Water Street, New York.

The planters of São Paulo, Brazil, who produce more than half of all the Coffee used in the United States, are conducting this educational work in co-operation with the leading Coffee merchants of the United States.

TEN PRODUCTIONS FACE STAGE STRIKE

Their Managers Must Sign 100 Per Cent. Equity Contracts to Continue After June 1.

SELLING TICKETS FAR AHEAD

"Kid Boots," a Ziegfeld Show, Said to Have Indefinite Contract for Theatre.

With the signing of the peace agreement between the Actors' Equity Association and the Shubert bloc of producers, speculation on Broadway turned again yesterday to the continuing impasse between the Equity and the round-robin producing group. The latter group has at present ten productions running in New York, and it is against these ten that the actors will call their strike on June 1.

The names of these ten productions were read before the Equity mass meeting on Monday, and the Equity players employed in them have been instructed to give to their respective managers, next Saturday night, a formal two-weeks' notice of closing. Many of these companies are 100 per cent. Equity, and in all of them the Equity percentage is so high that the continuance of the plays without the Equity members would be an impossibility.

It is thought that perhaps two of these ten may be ready to end their runs in another two weeks and attention was accordingly concentrated on the remaining eight. Practically all of these companies efforts have recently been made to persuade all the players to join the Equity, in the belief that 100 per cent. Equity casts will not be called for strike. It was learned yesterday, however, that this is not strictly true.

New Contracts Necessary.

What will happen, according to an observer who was present at all the Equity deliberations, is that the casts of these productions will give notice of quitting on June 1, as already announced. On June 1, with the expiration of their contract with Equity, the round-robin group of managers will automatically become independents, and therefore subject to 100 per cent Equity shop. To continue their productions, accordingly, they will be required to issue new contracts to their players, and also to make a new contract with Equity, in which they must agree to employ only 100 per cent. Equity casts. Since this arrangement is less advantageous than the eighty-twenty plan, it becomes clear that the managers cannot avert the closing of their attractions in this way.

It was pointed out yesterday that the question of theatre is also an important factor. Of the eight plays under discussion, three are playing in theatres controlled entirely or in part by the Shuberts, and accordingly it is at least a debatable question as to whether the attractions will be permitted to close. A canvass of the eight theatres yesterday revealed that all are selling tickets for June performances.

"Kid Boots" One of Plays.

This included "Kid Boots," despite Mr. Ziegfeld's recent announcement that he had instructed his box office to sell no seats for performances beyond May 31. It was said at the Earl Carroll Theatre that nothing was known regarding such an order, and that the theatre held a contract with Mr. Ziegfeld for the indefinite continuance of "Kid Boots."

With the formal affixing of signatures to the Equity-Shubert contract yesterday, Lee Shubert said that the next step would be the selection of the three arbitrators, who will decide any points at issue under the new contract. Mr. Shubert also issued the following statement:

"There is no question but that both the actors and the managers will derive great benefits through this settlement. It means that the clouds have cleared and we are now confronted by an era of prosperity for both sides, with harmonious relations between the actors and the managers once more restored. We have escaped the bitterness of a fight. Apart from the money that undoubtedly would have been lost, there should be taken into account the hard feelings that surely would have arisen. The managers can now make their plans for a long period in advance and the actors with their confidence restored will, I am sure, give all that there is in them. There will be improved conditions, and the theatregoing public will benefit now by some of the best productions the American stage has ever known."

A RUSSIAN "NUN."

Alla Tarasova to Play Role in "The Miracle."

Alla Tarasova, one of the best known actresses of the Moscow Art Theatre, will join the cast of "The Miracle" at the Century Theatre next Wednesday afternoon, playing the rôle of the Nun. It will mark the first time in the history of the Moscow company that one of their members has been permitted to appear with another organization. The others of the Russian players will sail for home on Saturday.

Mme. Tarasova will be seen in "The Miracle" for four weeks, alternating with Rosamond Pinchot and Lady Diana Manners. Mme. Tarasova's chief rôles with the Moscow Art Theatre in America have been Anya in "The Cherry Orchard," Nastya in "The Lower Depths," Grushenka in "The Brothers Karamazoff," Irina in "The Three Sisters," Sonya in "Uncle Vanya," and Sasha in "Ivanoff."

When "The Miracle" was first produced here Morris Gest endeavored to borrow Mme. Tarasova from the Moscow company for the rôle of the Nun, and at that time Constantin Stanislasky wrote to him in part as follows:

"If we were to give permission for one to play outside our company we would be obliged to extend that permission to every one. In our company we have several members who have already received and continue to receive offers that would greatly improve their present pecuniary situation. Nevertheless, they were never permitted to accept those offers, and granting permission now would cause a storm of indignation in the company, so that I could not answer for the consequences."

ACTORS' FUND RE-ELECTS.

Disbursements for Year Put at $140,000 in Annual Report.

The forty-third annual meeting of the Actors' Fund of America took place yesterday afternoon at the Hudson Theatre, with Daniel Frohman presiding. The report of the Treasurer, Sam A. Scribner, showed that the fund had disbursed about $140,000 during the year, and that this amount was $12,517 in excess of the year's revenue.

Mard Klaw drew attention to the necessity for continued activity on the part of all concerned, and expressed the hope that some day the fund might reach the point where it could do all of its necessary work by using simply the interest from its trust funds. E. F. Albee spoke in praise of the work of the fund, and gave $5,000 on behalf of the National Vaudeville Artists.

Mr. Frohman and all of the other officers were re-elected for another year. In addition the following trustees were elected to serve three years: Mark Klaw, Milton Nobles, Robert Campbell, George M. Cohan, George Fauncefort and Frank Burbeck.

THE PLAY

By JOHN CORBIN.

Low Fields.

THE MELODY MAN, a comedy in three acts, by Herbert Richard Lorentz. At the Rita Theatre.

Jessie Sands	Eleanor Rowe
Sidney Jerry	Jerry Devine
Ruth Davis	Louise Kelley
Stella Mallory	Eve Puck
Donald Clemens	Frederic March
Al Tyler	Donald Gallaher
Bert Hackett	Sam White
Rita Le Marr	Renee Noel
Max Henkel	Betty Weston
Frank Henkel	Lew Fields
Dave Loeb	Jules Jordan
A Chauffeur	Joseph Torpey
A Maid	Sara Chapelle
A Piano Player	Jimmy Kappel

Symphonic melody versus ragtime—that is the theme of the three-act comedy in which Lew Fields last night returned to Broadway. But, lest Broadway be affrighted, let us make haste to add that the cause of symphonic melody is embodied in Lew Fields.

Something on the pattern of "The Music Master" is this comedy. In Germany Franz Henkel was famed in his youth as author of "The Dresden Symphony," but he was forced to flee to America as the result of a shooting affray brought about by the misconduct of his wife. There he and his growing daughter found employment in an office devoted to the publication of ragtime—and encountered the leading melody of the Dresden Symphony doing duty in the latest popular dance tune, "The Moonlight Mammy."

As a classicist in music, adoring the memory of Beethoven and Liszt, Lew Fields is deeply distressed by his syncopated environment—agonized when he first hears "The Dresden Symphony" in the rags of "The Moonlight Mammy." But as a comedian he is delighted—or, rather, his audience is. Every emotion yields its modicum of laughter, even as in "The Music Master" von Barwig's deepest disgust of the refrain, "eat 'em alive," evoked howls of derision and delight. Lew Fields has a daughter, too. And the ragtime composer who has stolen his melody proceeds to annex her as well. There is a moment when it seems certain that Mr. Fields is destined to lose both his music and his child. But even then the quips and witties continue their rapid fire, to the chuckling glee of the audience.

Just who the so-called author, Herbert Richard Lorenz, may be could not be ascertained. Rumor had it that divers of Mr. Fields's sons had a hand in the play, and also their father. Of the happy ending which the syndicate has contrived the least that can be said is that it is comprehensive. Mr. Fields loses his daughter and yet does not lose her, is bereft of his Dresden melody yet is restored to Dresden. How all this is brought about, those who will may see.

"The Melody Man" is neither the best nor the worst of its kind. The only question of importance with regard to it is just how easy it is to amuse those who are easily amused.

Sam White and Renee Noel oblige with grotesque dancing that in its own way is a wonder. Betty Weston, our young heroine, is a golden blonde of considerable allure.

A NEW SCHNITZLER PLAY.

Gilbert Miller Acquires Rights on Trip to Europe.

Gilbert Miller, head of the Charles Frohman Company, returned on the Majestic yesterday after two months in Europe, in the course of which he acquired a number of new plays. Among these are "The Roman Feast," by Ferenc Molnar, and "The High 'C'," by Ernst Vadja, author of "Fata Morgana." In addition, Mr. Miller purchased the American rights to a new comedy by Arthur Schnitzler, which will have its first performance in Vienna next Autumn.

"I was particularly struck by the complete non-productivity of France so far as the theatre goes," said Mr. Miller. "Germany, on the other hand, is in a new ascendency, and the drama flourishes there as never before. In fact, all of Germany and everything about her seems flourishing and prosperous. The new gold mark standard has turned the tables fantastically in the matter of the cost of living and entertainment there. A theatre seat costs $8, a luncheon for two at a first-class restaurant costs around $16, and a glass of Scotch whisky and soda is $3, and the whisky is horrible at that. Certainly Germany is no place for a tourist who still dreams of the happy time when an American dollar bought several million marks worth of goods.

"But her theatre is fine and her artists are working overtime. I am planning to return shortly to complete arrangements for at least two German plays that should entertain New York. Budapest is as interesting as ever and I saw there the best ensemble acting I have ever witnessed. It was at the National Theatre in a piece called 'The Sun Shines,' by Ernest Zilahy.

"The London season is highly prosperous, though there are not many plays at the moment to interest Broadway."

"COMMANDMENTS" IN SUIT.

Motion Picture Concern Alleges an Infringement of Title.

Whether a motion picture concern has the actual ownership to a title such as "The Ten Commandments" is an issue in the action brought yesterday by Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in the Supreme Court seeking to restrain the Artclass Picture Corporation from using the words "Moses and the Ten Commandments" in advertising a Biblical production entitled "After Six Days." In its suit the plaintiff insists that the featuring of "Moses" and "The Ten Commandments" in the advertising of the rival concern works injury to their picture, "The Ten Commandments."

Other defendants named in the papers are Adolph Weiss, Max Weiss, Edward Grossman, the Standard Film Attractions, Supreme Photoplay Company, Kerman Films, Inc., B. and W. Booking Offices, Charles La Lumiere and all other right buyers of the film, "After Six Days."

It is set forth that the Weiss brothers in 1922 bought a picture of fifty-three reels, produced in Italy, bearing the title, "The Holy Bible in Motion Pictures." This, through an agreement with the National Non-Theatrical Pictures, Inc., was shown serially in schools, one reel each week. Eventually, it is alleged, the Weiss brothers cut down their production to dramatic length, renaming it "After Six Days, Featuring Moses and the Ten Commandments." The National Vigilance Committee, it is alleged, has issued a warning to the Artclass Picture Corporation regarding the advertising of their production, alleging that the second part of the title confuses the public. It is further stated by the defendants that reference to "The Ten Commandments" was not made until after the presentation of the Famous Players Picture.

PUCCINI'S NEW OPERA.

More of Comic Element to Appear in His Latest Work.

ROME, May 13.—Giacomo Puccini, composer of "La Bohème," "Madame Butterfly," "Tosca" and numerous other operas, has completed a new opera entitled "Turandot," and the work will be produced the coming season in Rome or Milan.

Speaking of the character of his latest opus, Puccini said "Turandot" was not unlike his other musical creations in its musical aspects, as he had not changed his characteristic style. A lofty sentiment is introduced by the character of a fragile slave girl, Liu, while there is more of the comic element than in most of the preceding works, supplied by the pantomimic characters—Ping, Fang, Fong, and a charm furnished by the fantastic picturesqueness of ancient China.

SCREEN NOTES.

"The Love Master," with the famous police dog, Strongheart, is to be the screen feature at the Capitol next week.

Many Gold Star mothers were guests of the Mark Strand yesterday afternoon at the special matinee held in observance of Mothers' Day. Claire Windsor, the film actress, officiated as hostess on behalf of the management. She met the Gold Star mothers and escorted them to their seats.

GATTI ANNOUNCES NEXT YEAR'S PLANS

Metropolitan Director Makes Known That 81 Out of 89 Singers Will Be Back.

WILL REVIVE "PETRUSHKA"

One New Conductor Added, and Also Ralph Errolle, an American Tenor.

Sailing today for his Summer abroad, Giulio Gatti-Casazza, the Metropolitan Opera Company's general manager, has completed more definitely than ever before at this early period the plans for six months of opera opening next Nov. 3. It will be Mr. Gatti's seventeenth New York season. He carries with him aboard the French liner Paris this afternoon a new contract assuring his return for five years more, or twenty-one seasons in all, a record term for an opera impresario in America.

In a parting statement at his Thirty-ninth Street offices yesterday, he noted the unprecedented success of the past year and announced for the first time the list of artists to sing at the Metropolitan next Winter.

Eighty-one leading singers out of eighty-nine in the roster will again be with the company, including Jeritza, Galli-Curci, Chaliapin and all other recent favorites of this public. Eight others formerly in the list are replaced by as many newcomers now under contract, with possible further engagements during the Summer.

"To the ten opera novelties and revivals which Gatti had confirmed when the season was closing a month ago he added yesterday a promised revival of the ballet, "Petrushka," by Stravinsky. A new musical leader already announced will be Tullio Serafin, who has been chief conductor of the Scala Opera, and who will succeed Roberto Moranzoni. Mr. Serafin will be associated with Messrs. Bodansky, Hasselmans, Papi and Bamboschek in charge of the various productions of Montemezzi's "Giovanni Gallurese," Janacek's "Jenufa," Debussy's "Pelleas" and the revivals of "Gioconda," "Falstaff," "Dinorah," "La Juive," "Tales of Hoffmann," "Rheingold" and "Götterdämmerung."

A Soprano From Stockholm.

New singers will include Nanny Larsen-Todsen, soprano of the Stockholm Opera; Marie Muller, soprano of the Munich Opera; Toti dal Monte, a coloratura soprano from La Scala; Joan Ruth, an American soprano heard with the Wagnerian company here; Mary Bonetti, contralto, also an American; Ralph Errolle, tenor, formerly in light opera and in the San Carlo company, and Francesco Seri, an Italian basso.

Already another is mentioned, Mat Aitziass of Poland, who will sing minor tenor rôles. The artists of last season who do not return are Barbara Kemp, Suzanne Keener, Margaret Romaine, Flora Perini, Orville Harrold, Pietro Audisio, Renato Zanelli and Italo Picchi.

Artists who have been re-engaged by Gatti are as follows:

Gatti Reviews Year

Gatti-Casazza, in giving out his preparations for twenty-four weeks, of about 200 performances, took occasion to speak of the record made last Winter, when the season was extended to twenty-six and a half weeks by the Spring tour.

"I desire," the impresario said, "to express my thanks to the subscribers and the public in general for their faithful and generous patronage. I am very grateful to the President of the Board of Directors of the Metropolitan, Mr. Otto H. Kahn, for the new proof of confidence he has given me and for the praise he has so graciously bestowed upon me publicly.

"I feel very proud and honored by this compliment, as I also do in remaining still for a long period at the head of an institution which is unique in the world and whose indisputable success has grown steadily year by year. This artistic, administrative and technical success, I may add, has obtained during the season just closed not only in New York, but also in all the cities in which the Metropolitan Opera Company gave performances—a substantial recognition on the part of public opinion.

"These results, however, serve above all to create a still stronger sense of responsibility on my part and on the part of my worthy collaborators, as well as to strengthen our aim always to maintain the highest possible standard in our productions and constantly give greater satisfaction to the patrons of the institution."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Innocent Eyes" will open at the Winter Garden on Tuesday night of next week and "Round the Town" will have its premiere on the Century roof on Wednesday night.

"The Kreutzer Sonata" will be revived at the Frazee Theatre tonight, with Berdie Kalich in her original role. "The Wonderful Visit" will be presented anew at the Princess Theatre.

"Artists and Models," announced in error as closing last night, will continue all week at the Winter Garden.

Oscar Shaw has been engaged for the revue that Philip Goodman will produce next season. Jerome Kern will write the score and Genevieve Tobin will be in the cast.

Nancy Welford has signed a contract with Florenz Ziegfeld Jr. and will be seen either in the new "Follies" or a musical comedy.

TILDEN MAY RECALL TENNIS RESIGNATION

WANTS NATION-WIDE VOTE

Will Accept Result if All Clubs Express Their Stand on Player-Writer Rule.

HOLDS ASSOCIATION GUILTY

Points to "Huge Gate Receipts and Long Trips by Players" as "More Dangerous Than Writing."

Developments of the last thirty-six hours make it almost a certainty that William T. Tilden 2d, the national lawn tennis champion, will withdraw his resignation as a member of the United States Davis Cup team. Following upon the announcement made by George W. Wightman, President of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, at an early hour yesterday morning, that he is recommending to the Executive Committee that a special meeting of the U. S. L. T. A. be called to settle the controversy concerning the player-writer interpretation of the amateur rule, a statement by Tilden was made public yesterday in which he declared that he would be willing to withdraw his resignation the day such a meeting is called.

Mr. Wrightman's announcement came at the end of the conference held between officials of the national association and members of the Germantown Cricket Club at the Harvard Club in this city, which began Monday evening and ended early yesterday morning. There were present at the meeting Mr. Wightman, Julian S. Myrick, Chairman of the United States Davis Cup Committee; Holcombe Ward, Chairman of the Amateur Rule Committee; Jones W. Mersereau, Vice President of the association; Louis B. Bayley, Treasurer; Louis C. Carruthers, President of the West Side Tennis Club, and the following members of the Germantown Cricket Club: E. W. Clark, President; Joseph Wear, W. B. Kurtz, William J. Turner and Samuel Dallam.

As all of the representatives of the association who were present, with the exception of Mr. Carruthers, are members of the Executive Committee, it is a foregone conclusion they will act favorably upon the recommendation of the President and issue the call for the special meeting.

Champion Explains Stand.

Tilden's declaration was included in a long statement he has prepared for the May 15 issue of American Lawn Tennis. The statement was given out for publication yesterday by the publicity committee organized at the meeting of those members of the West Side Tennis Club who are opposed to the player-writer interpretation. A. Wallis Merrihew, editor of American Lawn Tennis, who is a member of the publicity committee, authorized its publication.

The champion states that "should I be upheld in my stand and my services still be desired in the Davis Cup this year, they are at the service of my country, provided the special meeting of the U. S. L. T. A. has been held to allow the clubs to place the final word on the player-writer interpretation. I would be willing to withdraw my resignation from the Davis Cup team the day the U. S. L. T. A. calls a special meeting and then would let the tennis players of America settle the entire question."

In the event that the special meeting of the national association is called and the vote should be in favor of rejecting the interpretation as adopted at the annual meeting on Feb. 2, Tilden will undoubtedly represent this country in the 1924 challenge round. Whether or not he will offer his services should the interpretation be upheld he does not say. He states simply that "I shall admit my error in disagreeing after seeing the decision." In the event that the interpretation is upheld, he would still be eligible to represent the United States, for the interpretation does not go into effect until next Tuesday and could not be applied to Tilden until the date after the Committee had judged the facts of his case.

Tilden's statement follows:

Says All Want Clean Sport.

Sometimes a good fight in a family clears the air and brings back the relations to a normal, healthy condition. The turmoil that is shaking the tennis world to its foundations should prove the safety valve that will reduce pressure and bring about cordial cooperation between players and officials. One and all are working toward the same end, clean amateur sport, and it seems to me that the time has come to drop petty jealousies and suspicions in the interest of tennis.

My cards are on the table, and always have been. If there is any hint of desire toward commercialization of tennis in my actions I am willing the world should know it. If I went to the Executive Committee meeting with the friendliest feelings, was met with courtesy and treated with great consideration, left convinced that we were united in principle, not in interpretation. There was no hint given me of the report of Mr. Holcombe Ward, which must already have been read before my arrival. There was no hint in the meeting that I was regarded as "an evil in and harmful influence to the game. The facts concerning me, which were incorporated in the published report, were supplied by me at the meeting, as I supposed, in confidence.

If these facts were learned previously they were acquired without my knowledge or consent, although I would gladly have supplied them if I had been asked to do so. If the facts had not been surreptitiously acquired, the report must have been rewritten after the meeting for propaganda purposes, a most unethical proceeding, in the light of the assumption that the report makes as to my contract forcing me to play certain tournaments, I will place before my readers the conditions of my contract:

"One article a week, Nov. 1 to April 1; two articles a week, May 1 to Oct. 31, and a daily news story on (1) the Davis Cup interzone final, (2) the Davis Cup challenge round, (3) the national singles, (4) the national doubles, and (5) the national clay court.

There is no clause that provides that these Are contingent upon my playing in any or all of them, nor have I any traveling or living expense account with the Ledger Syndicate. In other words, I am doing regular newspaper work. I am free to play where I wish at any time, except the dates when business requires me to be in attendance in a repertorial capacity.

I have never been guided as to when or where I played by any business consideration, or with the idea of selling any article.

Not Making Personal Fight.

I am not making this fight to save my personal amateur status, nor from any sense of pique, but from the firm conviction that the player-writer interpretation infringes the inherent rights of the individual and, if not corrected will work injury to the game and ultimately wipe sport literature of all classes out of existence. All I ask is a rehearing as soon as possible of the interpretation and a vote of the member clubs on the question, now that they have had a real chance to express their sentiments.

If the members of these clubs express their views by popular vote, and the sectional associations record that vote in its exact tabulation, I am convinced that we will have the true opinion of the tennis world, playing and official alike. If that vote upholds the interpretation I shall admit my error in disagreeing, and abide by that decision. If the interpretation is defeated, then I am sure its sponsors will welcome the knowledge they were in error and will yield to the majority view. The men who sponsored the rule were sincere in their belief that they were expressing the views of the country, and I know they are big enough and broad enough in their outlook to desire to know it, if they made a mistake. I am sure that all any one wants is the true opinion and the desires of the tennis public on this subject.

I cannot see why the logical solution to the question is not in a special meeting of the U. S. L. T. A. to reconsider the interpretation. I am sure that President George Wightman and his body of sincere hard-working executives will welcome this chance to crystallize the sentiment of the member clubs, and will call a special meeting of the U. S. L. T. A. of their own volition. Should I be upheld in my stand and my services still be desired in the Davis Cup this year, they are at the service of my country, provided the special meeting of the U. S. L. T. A. has been held to allow the clubs to place the final word on the player-writer interpretation. I would be willing to withdraw my resignation from the Davis Cup team the day the U. S. L. T. British Pair Beat Belgians And Lead in Davis Cup Play

TORQUAY, England, May 13 (Associated Press).—Great Britain took the lead in the first round Davis Cup contest with Belgium today when L. A. Godfree and Max Woosnam, the English pair, defeated Jean Washer and George Watson. The scores were 6—4, 9—7, 6—4. Great Britain now has won two out of three matches and needs only one triumph in the remaining two singles contests to earn the right to meet Spain in the second round of the European zone competition.

MISS WILLS BOARDS LINER FOR ENGLAND

National Tennis Champion Holds Last Practice on Forest Hills Court.

PLAY IMPRESSES CRITICS

Thiesholder Has Great Power in Backhand Strokes and Places Shots Accurately.

On the eve of a journey which may make tennis history, Miss Helen Wills, the youthful national champion, took her final practice on the courts of the West Side Club, Forest Hills, yesterday, playing three sets against Harry Brunle, the club champion. Last night Miss Wills boarded the Berengaria, starting a trip during which, in all probability, she will face Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the French star, who has reigned supreme in women's tennis for the past few years. Miss Wills took with her the hopes of the American tennis public for a victory over the sensational French player, but, win or lose, she will still be one of the most popular champions when she returns that ever held a national title.

Yesterday Miss Wills clearly demonstrated that she has strengthened her game during the year. Although she confined her play to practicing her strokes, she forced Brunle throughout the three sets and won the last one by a score of 6—4. Brunle took the first two at 7—5, 6—4, but he had to use his best strokes to accomplish the victory. The most notable improvement in Miss Wills's performance was in her volleys, which carried more pace and more accuracy than they did a year ago. On several occasions she rushed forward and passed Brunle with an overhead attack that left the West Side titleholder flatfooted in his tracks. Her volleys from deep court also were strong, and if she is to defeat the phenomenal French player it probably will be through carrying the attack herself rather than waiting for the foreign star to come forward.

Miss Wills's display of footwork yesterday was nothing better than she showed when she won the national title from Mrs. Mallory, but the courts were in slippery condition and at no time did the champion extend herself in attempting to cover the court. When the ball was within reach she sent it back with one stroke or another, carrying speed with each attack, but when an effort was necessary to reach the ball several times it passed it up and let the point go on a placement ace.

Backhand Is Stronger.

Another department of Miss Wills's game which has improved is her backhand. On the off side she drives with confidence and with power, especially when she makes the stroke while coming forward. Last year, when it was necessary for her to make a backhand stroke while in motion there was always a question of whether or not it would go in; this year she seems stronger with her backhand drives when they are made while on the run.

In the first set Brunle broke through on Miss Wills's second service and ran his lead up to 5—3 in games, but the Pacific Coast youngster braced and with a series of shots that carried both power and accuracy she took the next two games. Seemingly satisfied that she could add strength to her game when she desired, she lapsed into practicing various strokes, shooting for the lines, and dropped the next two to lose the set. In the second set Brunle found the game strong opposition, but at no time did the champion hurry her strokes. With tireless energy Miss Wills was as fresh at the start of the third as she was when she first stepped on the courts, while Brunle was dripping perspiration from the dashes he was forced to make in order to get to the ball which his opponent sent skipping over the net. Miss Wills did not increase her pace materially, but wore down her opponent gradually and won, 6—4.

The scores meant little; the primary reason for the match being to give the women's champion the opportunity of practicing before leaving for England and France. English balls, which will be used in the international women's matches for the Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman Trophy and in the English championships, were used during the match, and at the conclusion Miss Wills said that she could see no difference between the English and American made balls. However, she will have plenty of opportunity to get used to the English ball, as a special court has been built on the Berengaria for her use and she will take daily workouts during the voyage across the Atlantic.

To Play in England.

Miss Wills will have several weeks in England in which to get used to climatic conditions, and when she faces her first opponent in the tournament she expects to be at the top of her form. She will first compete as a member of the American women's team which will play against the British women's combination for the Wightman Cup, which this country won last year in the first season of its competition. Miss Wills will then take part in the English championships at Wimbledon, and then will go to France, where she will represent this country in the Olympic games. In the English championships and in the Olympic games she probably will have to face Mlle. Lenglen, and on the outcome of those meetings hang the hopes, fears and speculations of the American tennis public.

Since Mrs. Mallory won from Miss Wills in the national title match at Forest Hills last year by default from the French star in the memorable match at Forest Hills has Mlle. Lenglen been defeated by a woman in tournament play. On the young shoulders of Miss Wills rests this task.

Just how Miss Wills feels about the prospective matches against the French phenom is a mystery. "I just don't know what to think," she said yesterday when asked about playing Mlle. Lenglen. "I shall have to wait until I have seen Mlle. Lenglen play before I shall have any idea what chance I shall have against her. But, anyway, I will do my very best."

And so departed Miss Wills, on whose achievements abroad will centre the attention of American tennis enthusiasts for the next few months.

N. Y. U. FRESHMEN VICTORS.

Defeat C. C. N. Y. Yearlings, 5 to 1 —Corbin Fans 17 Men.

The N. Y. U. freshmen baseball team defeated the City College first year nine yesterday in the Lewisohn Stadium by the score of 5 to 1.

Schettino held the N. Y. U. batsmen to five hits and Corbin yielded six to the C. C. N. Y. batters. The latter struck out seventeen men.

N. Y. U. started the scoring with a run in the third and C. C. N. Y. tied the count in the fifth. In the last inning, with bases full, Corbin fanned pinch-hitter Packer on three pitched balls.

The violet scored three runs in the sixth on only one hit. Davis was hit by the pitcher and stole second. After Stewart was out, Brookes singled, Davis going to third. Kelley fanned, but Bellafiore dropped the last strike and threw wild to first. Davis and Brookes scored and Kelley made second on the play. De Nemos was hit by the pitcher. Kelley later scored on a double steal and squeeze play.

The score:

Welshman Selected to Referee Final Game Between U. S.-French Olympic Rugby Teams

PARIS, May 13.—Sam Treethy of Wales has been accepted as referee of the France-United States match in the final game of the Olympic rugby competition next Sunday by both Samuel Goodman, manager of the American team, and Captain Lasserre of the French team.

The clash between the French and American teams is given unusual prominence in the press and is the subject of all conversations in rugby circles. An official communique issued by the French Olympic Committee this evening declares:

"It was the unanimous opinion of experts who witnessed the Rumanian-American match last Sunday that the United States players did not play the rough game which critics were wont to predict they would.

"Those who still, despite these proofs, continue to proclaim that the Americans will employ especially rough tactics and rely on brute force to smash their way through the French team on Sunday are mistaken. The Americans expect to win through superior athletic form and physical condition, and their wonderful ability to pass the ball without fumbling."

Manager Goodman declared this evening that he was praying for a continuance of the hot weather which has prevailed during the past five days. He said he expected the Frenchmen to be handicapped by the heat while his men, in the pink of condition, would be able to stand the strain of 80 minutes of a hard match better than the Frenchmen who abandoned training at the end of the rugby season two weeks ago.

The Americans may leave their recent quarters and take up residence in the Olympic village, created near the Colombes Stadium for the convenience of Olympic competitors, owing to a misunderstanding with the proprietor of the hotel in which they are now staying. A little college cheering and rollicking were indulged in by the American players last night.

25 FENCERS NAMED ON OLYMPIC TEAM

Breckinridge Will Captain U. S. Squad — 18 Men Will Sail June 16.

Twenty-five fencers were named yesterday on the fencing squad which will represent the United States in the Olympic Games at Paris. Eighteen of them will sail on the American on June 16, five will go across from the United States navy on the cruiser West Virginia, and two of them are now in Paris. Henry Breckinridge of the Fencers Club, who has represented this country in the international matches in the past and who was runner-up this year for the national épée championship, will captain the team.

Of the twenty-five members of the squad, ten have engaged in Olympic competition. They are, in addition to Breckinridge, George H. Breed of the Fencers Club, Lieutenant George C. Calnan of the Fencers Club; John Dimond, Warrant Officer, U. S. A., stationed at West Point, who lost the sabre title by a narrow margin on the percentage system; Dr. J. E. Simmons of the Fencers Club, sabre champion; Arthur S. Lyon of the Fencers Club, Chauncey McPherson of the New York A. C., J. Brooks H. Parker of Philadelphia, Leon M. Schoonmaker of the Fencers Club and William H. Russell, who is now in Paris. Dr. Allen Milmer is the other member of the team now in Paris. He is rated as one of the foremost épée fencers in France.

The other members of the team are Burle Boyce of the Boston A. A.; Lieutenant Charles V. Cashner of West Point, Lieutenant P. T. Jeter of the United States Navy, Francis Bernard O'Connor of the New York A. C., runner-up for the foils championship; Leon Shore of the Racquet Club, Washington, D. C.; Harold Van Buskirk of the Fencers' Club, Donald Waldhaus of the Washington Square Fencers Club, Albert Strauss and A. P. Walker Jr. of the Fencers Club, and the following five fencers from the navy, who will cross over on the cruiser West Virginia: Lieutenants C. L. Bowman, C. H. Callaway, Edwin Fullinwider, J. B. Headlee and J. A. Stuart of the United States Marine Corp. The last named will go over as a substitute.

BOWMAN IS VICTOR ON HARLEM COURT

Beats Barrett With Loss of Only Two Games—Behr and Orser Advance.

Play in the Harlem open tennis tournament, which began on Saturday on the club's courts on 126th Street, west of Eighth Avenue, and was held up by rain, finally got into full swing yesterday when eleven matches were contested. Herbert L. Bowman, the New York State champion and ranking player in the tournament, was among those to advance. He met F. W. Barrett in the first round and won easily at 6—1, 6—1. Five other matches were played in the same round and the remaining five were in the second round. Allen Behr, who recently defeated Takio Harada, the Japanese champion, also won by a good margin, eliminating J. S. McDermott in the first round at 6—2, 6—3.

Horace Orser, the youthful star from Stuyvesant High School, who made fine progress in last year's tournament, was among the five to reach the third round. He defeated C. Conroe at Kramer at 6—2, 6—2. John C. Neely, who is well known on the squash tennis courts; Larry Schlesinger, Richard Lewis and S. V. Brubans were the four others. Neely was hard pressed in the early part of the match and dropped the opening set to Austin G. Block. He became stronger as the play progressed and swept through the third set without the loss of a game. The score of the match was 3—6, 6—3, 6—0.

Only one other match went to three sets. This was between Casper Nannes and Kenneth Stoddard. The former won by the unusual score of 6—8, 6—0, 6—4. Play will continue this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The summaries:

First Round—Casper Nannes defeated Kenneth Stoddard, 6—8, 6—0, 6—4; Clifford Helander defeated Alfred Walter, 6—2, 6—0; Herbert L. Bowman defeated F. W. Barrett, 6—1, 6—1; J. N. Henriquez defeated Milton Jacobi, 6—2; Dr. Allen V. Robinson defeated Alfred S. Bachrach, 6—1, 6—2; Allen Behr defeated J. S. McDermott, 6—2, 6—4.

Second Round—Larry Schlesinger defeated S. Donaldson, 6—0, 6—4; S. V. Brubans defeated C. L. Halverstock, 6—3, 6—0; Horace Orser defeated Monroe L. Kramer, 6—2, 6—2; Richard Lewis defeated L. C. Haff, 6—2, 6—1; John C. Neely defeated Austin G. Block, 3—6, 6—3, 6—0.

HARVARD PICKS TENNIS MEN

Names Three Who Will Join Yale Against Oxford and Cambridge.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 13.—The three Harvard lawn tennis players who will accompany three Yale men on a trip abroad to play an Oxford-Cambridge team this Summer were chosen today. They are Captain Karl S. Pfaffmann of Quincy, William W. Ingraham of Oakland, R. I., and Alden Briggs of Brookline. Pfaffmann and Ingraham were members of the team which went to England two years ago.

MLLE. LENGLEN ILL AT NICE.

French Tennis Champion May Not Be Able to Defend Titles.

PARIS, May 13.—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen is confined to bed with a slight attack of jaundice, according to the Nice correspondent of L'Auto, who says it is possible the tennis star will be unable to come to Paris to defend her three French championships.

SETON HALL WINS, 11 TO 3.

Loose Fielding by St. John's Aids in Six-Inning Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., May 13.—Seton Hall College defeated St. John at South Orange yesterday, 11 to 3, in a six-inning contest.

Loose fielding by St. John's, coupled with the fourteen hits for Seton, resulted in the visitors downfall. Browne, who hurled for St. John's, was hit freely. He was opposed on the mound by Ryan.

ALDERMEN URGE OLYMPIC SUPPORT

City Officials Adopt Hulbert's Resolution Asking Citizens to Back Drive.

"Every encouragement possible" is sought for the success of the Olympic fund drive and the Olympic tryouts in a resolution adopted yesterday by the Board of Aldermen. The resolution was introduced by President Murray Hulbert, a prominent advocate of amateur athletic competition and playground activities, as follows:

"Whereas, the Eighth Olympiad at Paris, France, 1924, is looked upon as the championship of the world of all forms of amateur athletics, and

"Whereas, the people of the City of New York, the institutions of education, the industries and the municipal departments are directly or indirectly interested in physical education and health building and competitive sports as a means thereto, and

"Whereas, a request has been made by the Olympic Committee of New York for the endorsement and support of the City of New York of the undertaking of the committee to secure funds to make a public solicitation for the American Olympic Committee to send the American team to the Olympic Games, and for the endorsement of the Olympic tryouts for qualifying athletes to represent America which are to be held at the Yankee Stadium, New York, on June 7, 1924; therefore, be it

"Resolved by the Board of Aldermen of the City of New York that every encouragement possible on the part of the citizens of New York toward the success of the Olympic Fund and of the Olympic tryouts be given as a mark of their appreciation of the efforts of the committee which are being devoted to the promotion of athletics in New York which tend to create healthy minds in healthy bodies through clean amateur sports, and be it further

"Resolved, That we urge the press of the City of New York to give the fullest measure of publicity possible to the Olympic tryouts and the necessity of securing by subscriptions the funds to defray the expenses of the team to represent the United States in a conflict upon the fields of France which we feel will do much to promote more widely the spirit of international brotherhood."

TORPE FANS FOURTEEN AS N. Y. U. WINS, 6-0

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., May 13.—The New York University nine shut out the Wesleyan team here this afternoon, winning by a 6 to 0 score. It was the second shutout in three days for Wesleyan. Torpe, pitching for the victors, allowed only six hits and struck out fourteen opposing batsmen. The Wesleyan pitching was good until the seventh, when Nichols wilted and, after getting in one run, was relieved by Kennedy, who walked a man with the bases full and forced a run across the plate. In the ninth Kennedy lost control and was hit hard, and three hits were made off him, resulting in four runs.

CARPENTIER SPEEDS WEST ON ARRIVAL

BREAKS APPOINTMENT HERE

Tunney's Manager Waits in Vain While French Boxer Hastens to Chicago.

Georges Carpentier, French light-heavyweight, who is scheduled to box Tom Gibbons in Michigan City, Ind., on May 31, arrived here yesterday on the liner Majestic, spent a few brief moments greeting a gathering of friends on the pier while his baggage was being inspected, and then suddenly and mysteriously disappeared. He was next heard of in North Philadelphia, en route to Chicago a day ahead of his schedule, and confident that his proposed bout with Gibbons will be held as scheduled despite the threats of injunction proceedings made by Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, with whom Carpentier originally was matched to box in Jersey City on June 20.

Carpentier's whereabouts became known upon receipt of the following telegram from Jack Curley, local wrestling promoter, who is guiding the Frenchman's party westward:

"Billy Gibson, with a horde of fixers and lawyers' clerks, was on hand upon Carpentier's arrival and openly boasted to me that he would not permit Carpentier to leave for Chicago. Therefore I induced him not to meet Gibson at the Claridge Hotel at the appointed time and instead proceed with me immediately for Chicago, because agreement to box Tunney positively does not forbid that he cannot box before that date and he proposes to go ahead with his agreement in the West as well as in New York."

Telegram Ends Search.

The telegram from Curley ended a searching investigation of all local hotels for information on Carpentier's whereabouts. The French boxer arrived early in the afternoon and was greeted on the pier by Gibson, who claims to hold Carpentier's signed contract for a bout with Tunney in Jersey City, which the latter agreed a Carpentier-Tunney bout would be the Frenchman's first in this country upon his arrival. According to Gibson, the meeting between Carpentier and himself was mutually cordial and pleasant, and after a short conversation it was decided that the boxer and manager would meet by appointment in the Claridge at 4 o'clock. At the appointed hour Gibson was in the Claridge, surrounded by a group of newspaper men eager for an interview with the new arrival. Carpentier, however, never put in an appearance. Instead he sent an emissary to the hotel with an order for his baggage. Gibson waited until 5:30 o'clock and then left his office, where he issued the following statement:

"We waited patiently until 5:30 o'clock but saw no signs either of Carpentier or Descamps. I was very courteous and merely put on a social call on the boat. He promised to meet me and smooth things over, but instead he has skipped. However, if Descamps and his advisers think for one second they are putting something over on me they are mistaken. Tunney is intent on taking proper action through the courts to make Descamps fulfill his contract for the Tunney bout to be held in advance of the contemplated Carpentier-Gibbons match, which was put forward from July 4 to May 31. I repeat, they are not going to get away with it. If there is such a thing as justice in this boxing business I am going to get it or know the reason why."

In spite of the departure from the city quietly, Carpentier frustrated Gibson's plans to serve him with notice of injunction proceedings in the event that a conference failed to produce a satisfactory adjustment of the situation. Gibson emphasized, however, that he will leave nothing

FALK'S TWO HOMERS HELP BEAT YANKEES

Pair of Circuit Smashes Account for Four of White Sox's Runs in 7 to 5 Victory.

RUTH ALSO GETS HOME RUN

But Eighth Drive of Year Comes With Bases Empty—Chicago Makes Five Double Plays.

All the hired men of Miller Huggins and Jacob Ruppert couldn't stave off the 7-5 thrashing which the White Sox applied gently but firmly to the Yanks at the Stadium yesterday. Huggins rushed in reserves until the whole place was swarming with them—pinch hitters, an extra pitcher, a sub infielder and what not. But all the convolutions of the master mind went for naught. Johnny Evers matched every strategic move with one of his own, and, besides, there was the matter of a couple of home runs by Bib Falk.

A few months ago the Sox were talking about converting Bib into a pitcher. It seemed that he couldn't hit well enough to hold down a regular post. Mr. Huggins now wishes that the conversion had been successful, for all Falk did yesterday was to bump two drives into the right field bleachers at the exact moment when they would hurt the most.

Babe Ruth hit his eighth homer of the year in the opening inning, but that was only one-quarter as devastating as the four-ply strokes of Falk. Each time Bib delivered Sheely was on first base, and the four subsequent runs knocked the Yanks into the background of the ball game. The hits came in consecutive times at bat, which made it feel worse.

After getting far in the ruck, the Yanks made a fast closing bid for a tie score but they couldn't quite close the breach. They were balked by a pair of Teds—by Ted Lyons, who finally had to retire in confusion in the eighth, and by Blankenship of the same front name, who quelled the rally just when it was getting into full flight.

For the Yanks a very wild Bob Shawkey worked eight innings and Herb Pennock the other—neither distinguishing himself beyond the ordinary. Between them they yielded fewer hits than the Lyons-Blankenship combination, but the Chicago pair was saved by some of the most scintillating support ever seen in the Ruppert arena. No less than five double plays, most of them sensational and all of them timely, did as much to save the game as Falk's couplet of homers did to win it.

Babe Hits Mighty Drive.

Only in length, height and general picturesqueness did Ruth's one homer match Falk's two. It was one of the longest smacks ever turned out by the master slugger. After climbing high in the air it carried an amazing distance over toward centre field and away up into the bleachers. Straightened out, the drive would surely have reached the scoreboard or the seats in front, and in that event would have ranked well up with the Babe's longest clouts.

Unfortunately, nobody was on base at the moment; so the Yanks went away to only a one-run lead. It melted like snow under a hot sun. In the next frame Shawkey walked Sheely, and then Falk followed this fatal break by whipping the ball into the front seats of the right field sector. Coming up again in the fourth, Bib found his little pal, Sheely, again perched on first. Feeling that the same situation deserved the same strenuous treatment, the man who almost became a pitcher wafted the pill once more into the bleachers—this time closer to the foul line but higher up the slope. Taking one leaf out of Ruth's notebook was all right, but taking two was more than the Yanks could stand yesterday.

Still closer came the Yanks in the sixth when Dugan and Ruth hit safely and Meusel's sacrifice fly scored the former. Ruth tried to make second and was doubled up by Falk's throw, but Nallin ruled that Dugan had crossed the plate first. Just before that, in the fifth, another twin killing had pulled Lyons from a deep abyss. Scott opened with a single and got to second on a wild pitch. When Schang stung a liner to right, old Harry Hooper galloped in and picked the ball casually off his ankle and then tossed to second for a doubling of Scott, who stood transfixed between the bases.

Yanks Tie Score in Seventh.

After a long uphill climb the Yanks finally got their tie score in the seventh. The reliable old pickler, Pipp, flung a triple to left centre and Ward's single scored him. Amid much huzzahing Aaron slipped to second on the catcher's wild throw to first, but when the excitement was most rampant Eddie Collins jumped four dizzy feet, speared Schang's liner while almost falling backward and with a quick fling nabbed Ward off second.

The Sox unraveled the tie in the next inning, the eighth. Shawkey presented Archdeacon with his third free pass, and after Hooper had popped out Collins doubled to right. Sheely's infield single scored Archdeacon and Kamm's fly to Ruth performed like service for Collins.

The first of the Yankee pinch-hitting brigade was Earl Combs, who batted for Shawkey in the same frame and doubled to left centre. This was the end of Lyons. Singles by Witt and Dugan scored Combs, but Ruth and Meusel popped up. After Pipp's walk Huggins shocked the grandstand managers by sending Harvey Hendrick to hit for Ward. When Harvey struck out on bad balls, the grand-stand managers said the strategy was absurd and ill-advised.

Johnson batted for Scott and Hofmann for Pennock in the ninth without starting anything, but in the Chicago half Evers's pinch hitter, Elsh, had better success, smiting ga triple to right. Blankenship's fly brought him in. The score:

HONOR BABE RUTH AT STADIUM TODAY

Master of Swat Degree Will Be Conferred on Home-Run King at Flag-Raising.

It's Babe Ruth day at the Yankee Stadium today. As a matter of fact, every day is Babe Ruth day, but the one in question is a special occasion on which the big fellow will get a diploma from President Ban Johnson and the degree of Master of Swat from the school of baseball.

But that won't be the half of it. There will be a band concert and a parade and the Yanks will raise their world's championship flag and George Sisler will be there and so will Ban Johnson and Kenesaw M. Landis and the St. Louis Browns. It will be opening day all over again, with extra added trimmings never seen before on any ball field. Everything has been arranged for, including a home run by Ruth in person.

As every one knows, the diploma is the official evidence that the Babe last year was voted the most valuable player in his league by a committee of baseball writers. It was first intended to hand the Babe a medal, but at the slugger's own suggestion the sheepskin was substituted. It will be presented by Johnson, with Irving Sanborn, Chairman of the Writers' Committee and the author of the "most valuable player" scheme, on hand.

Judge Landis will be there to help raise the world's championship flag—the first ever won by a New York American League team. It will be a great moment for the Yankees and the younger circuit and Colonel Jacob Ruppert, and nothing could have been more appropriate than to stage the ceremony on the day devoted to Babe Ruth himself.

The presence of George Sisler will add just the right touch to the occasion. For one thing, the "Sizzler" was himself adjudged the most valuable athlete in the league two years ago. For another thing, he hasn't played in New York since that same memorable year when the Yanks and Browns battled clear down the home stretch. In the Spring of 1923 sinus trouble drove Sisler not only to the bench but to the grandstand. With sight still imperfect, the great first baseman struggled back to the ranks this Spring, and although the critics shook their heads doubtfully, Sisler did what seemed the impossible—came back as powerful a hitter and sure a fielder as he was when New York last saw him.

Today he will be welcomed back to New York, and some of the honors, even if not the diploma, of the day will go to the sizzling Sisler.

The band from the U. S. S. West Virginia will provide the music, and all the rules of opening day will be in force. The gates will open shortly after 12:30. If the weather is all that it should be, the Yanks expect the biggest crowd of the season.

BROWNS BEAT RED SOX.

Danforth Scores Fourth Straight Victory, Boston Losing, 5-3.

BOSTON, May 13.—St. Louis defeated the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 3, here today. The victory was Pitcher Danforth's fourth consecutive win of the year. The Browns tallied thrice in the sixth. Ehmke walked Williams and McManus and both scored on Jacobson's triple, the latter crossing the plate also when Wambsganss threw the relay into the dugout.

Caught at the Plate

Ruth is six days and five games behind his 1921 record in homers. He hit his eighth on May 7 that year. However, the bam is doing better than last season.

Schang showed a faculty for hitting screaming liners that were caught miraculously and converted into double plays. An inch was as good as a mile here.

The crowd was big for a Tuesday, probably because random was hungry for baseball. Barring temporary darkness in the middle of the game, the weather was sunny and warm.

Sailors and Marines from the U. S. S. West Virginia had an enjoyable time viewing the unveiling of three home runs.

If Hendrick had singled in the eighth, Huggins would have been hailed as the supermaster mind of baseball. When he didn't—well, that was different.

The Yanks had won five in a row before Blankenship, Hooper, Collins, Falk et al. stopped the rush.

It's Babe Ruth Day and the Browns today.

CARDS BEAT GIANTS FOR FOURTH IN ROW

Five Runs in Fifth Enable St. Louis to Sweep Series, Winning Final Game, 8-3.

HAINES REPEATS ON MOUND

Keeps Ten Hits Well Scattered—Umpire Clears New Yorkers' Bench—Kelly Gets Homer.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 13.—The rout of the Giants by the Cardinals in the series which ended today was made complete when the Cards won the final game by a score of 8 to 3. This was the fourth successive defeat for the Giants here and their sixth in seven games since leaving the Polo Grounds.

There was a lively side show staged early in the game. While the Giants were at bat in the third inning, Umpire Howell became so incensed at remarks from the Giant dugout reflecting on his judgment of strikes and balls that he held up the game to warn them to desist. The warning, however, went unheeded and a moment later he again returned to the dugout, this time to order all the players except those engaged in the game to the clubhouse.

Jess Haines, who defeated the Giants in the first game of the series was called upon by Branch Rickey to repeat this performance today and again delivered. Haines was nicked for ten hits, including a home run by George Kelly, but he kept the hits so widely scattered that they failed of their purpose. Jack Bentley, starting for the Giants, was taken out during a long attack put on by the Cardinals in the fifth inning. Howard Baldwin, who was assigned to relieve him, stepped down for a pinch hitter in the seventh inning and the balance of the game was pitched by Claude Jonnard.

McGraw Shifts Batting Order.

In an effort to put new life into the Giants' attack, Manager McGraw dropped Heinie Groh today from second place to seventh, this being the first switch the Giant leader has made in his hitting array this season. Heinie originally was cast for second position because of his effectiveness on hit-and-run plays, but lately he hasn't filled that bill capably.

An error in judgment on the part of Bottomley led to a run for the Giants in the first inning. Young slashed the ball at Bottomley with two out in that frame and Jim elected to outrun Young for the bag rather than to throw to Haines, who covered. Young won the race. Meusel sent him to third with a single to right and he scored when Douthit's throw to the last turn took a bad bound and went to the grand stand. Meusel, who advanced to second on the error, was left, for Kelly raised a short fly to Douthit.

Bentley put himself in a hole in the second inning and before he could get out of it the Cardinals had scored two runs and taken the lead. Myers and Freigau singled with one out, Myers taking third on Freigau's hit. Cooney hit to Bentley who, instead of throwing to second base to start a double play that would have ended the inning, threw to Groh, trapping Myers between third base and the plate. Myers finally was run down, but while the play was in progress, Freigau got to third base and Cooney to second. Gonzales hit to Groh, but the ball took a bad bound past Heinie and Freigau scored. Haines beat out a slow roller to Jackson and Cooney scored. The bases were crowded with Cardinals when Blades drew a pass, but Bentley put on the brakes and fanned Douthit.

Bentley Out in Fifth.

In the fifth inning all the Cardinals went to bat, Haines stepping to the plate twice, Bentley being dislodged, Baldwin coming in and the Cardinals scoring five runs. Into these runs went singles by Haines and Douthit, an error by Meusel, singles by Hornsby and Bottomley, a steal of second by Bottomley, a wild pitch by Baldwin, passes to Smith and Freigau, a sacrifice fly by Cooney and a single by Gonzales. Haines put an end to the business by boosting a fly to Young.

Kelly made his homer in the sixth inning, slamming the ball into the right field bleachers.

With Flack on base in the eighth inning, Southworth and Young permitted a long fly from Hornsby's bat to fall safely between them, the blow being good for three bases and Flack scoring. The Giants got a run in the ninth on singles by Meusel, Jackson and Gowdy.

REDS RALLY IN NINTH AND BEAT PHILS, 4-3

Score Winning Run After One Man Is Out—Increase League Lead to Game and a Half.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 13.—The Cincinnati Reds came from behind to win from the Phils today, 4 to 3, scoring the winning run in the last half of the ninth inning, after one man was out. Mays held the Phils to six hits, three of which were bunched in the second round, when the Quakers scored two runs. Hubbell pitched well in the early innings, but two of his three passes were costly.

The victory increased the Reds' lead in the National League to a game and a half over the Giants.

Of course, everyone travels with a trunk, but the beauty of hand luggage is "it travels with you"—

Specially if you're going abroad.

There, there are porters everywhere. The bigger the bags or suit cases, the happier the side trips. Everything you're apt to need right with you. Everybody works it that way.

Perhaps that's why English luggage has so much character. It's a constant companion—a lifelong companion the way the British make it.

Along with the best hand-luggage made in America, we offer English kit bags, Gladstone bags, suit cases—one a "young trunk."

WHITNEY'S FILLIES STAR AT JAMAICA

Maud Muller Takes Rosedale, With Swinging Second and Mother Goose Third.

McATEE ON THREE WINNERS

Rides Victor in Feature Race and Also Triumphs on Herologe and Candy Stick.

The 6,000 racing fans who gathered at the Jamaica track yesterday were treated to a novelty. Trainer Fred Hopkins sent out three two-year-old fillies for H. P. Whitney in the $5,000 Rosedale Stakes, numbered them one, two, three, and saw them finish in that order. Maud Muller was number one, Swinging number two and Mother Goose number three. Jockey L. McAtee rode the winner, one of the three that he brought down in front in the course of the afternoon's sport.

The Rosedale, which featured the card, looked like a morning workout of the Whitney fillies. Maud Muller was the first to show in front at the straggling start and stayed there to the finish to beat Swinging by three parts of a length. Corcoran, who had the mount on Swinging, kept the Broomstick filly under stout restraint through the entire five furlongs and it looked as if she was the best of the three.

Little Ivan Parke piloted Mother Goose and sat still all the way, watching out of the corner of his eye for a challenge which never come. Longing, which ran fourth, was seven lengths back of him when he passed the judges' stand.

Entry Is 1 to 20 Choice.

Odd as the finish was it was no surprise. The entry went to the post a 1 to 20 favorite and from the way it ran deserved to be 1 to 100.

After winning with Maud Muller McAtee came right back and rode Frank Farrell's Herologe to victory in the Commonwealth at a mile and a sixteenth. Herologe was a 7-to-5 favorite and he won as McAtee saw fit from Belphrisonia, with Parke in the saddle. The margin at the finish was something more than two lengths. McAtee rounded out his triple with James Butler's Candy Stick in the closing number, getting the chestnut son of High Noon past the winning wire five lengths in front of Thee Fay, a red-hot paddock tip.

McAtee was not the only knight of the saddle to shine. Jockey B. Breuning had a double for his earnest and capable endeavors and one of his winners was Old Welbourne, a 20-to-1 shot, which got up in the closing strides to beat Shine On a length in the second race. Breuning also took the opening, getting the Salubria Stable's Belle Ariste home a winner over the favored Exalted Ruler with something to spare. Both of Breuning's winning mounts were saddled by Trainer S. L. Burch, but for different owners.

Breuning essayed to make it a triple in the fifth, where he had the leg up on the 11-to-10 favorite, Protocol. In that event, however, the little fellow met his master. The veteran Callahan laid off the pace with High Commander until the final furlong pole was passed and then kicked the Runnymede gelding over the finish line a neck in front of the favorite and going away.

Bullman Thrown.

What might have been a serious accident occurred in the last race when R. T. Wilson's Kirkfield bolted through the fence right after the start and threw Jockey Bullman into the middle of the track. Quickly Kirkfield had broken in front and there was nothing to run over the prostrate jockey, who rolled over once and then got to his feet badly shaken, but otherwise none the worse for wear.

Wise Counsellor at Jamaica; Starts in Stuyvesant Today

Wise Counsellor, considered by many the best three-year-old in the West, arrived at the Jamaica track yesterday and is scheduled to start in the Stuyvesant Handicap today. John Ward, owner and trainer of Wise Counsellor, said at the local track yesterday that he had practically decided to withdraw his colt from the Kentucky Derby, for which he has ruled favorite from time to time in the Winter books. It was the belief of many horsemen, however, that if Wise Counsellor should win the Stuyvesant in impressive fashion he might still be sent to Churchill Downs to start in the Kentucky classic on Saturday. If so, he would be following in the footsteps of Zev, which went to Louisville at the last minute after redeeming himself for a Preakness defeat by a great race at Jamaica. Wise Counsellor will meet some good horses in the Stuyvesant, including Swingalong, Ordinance, Laurano, Sheridan and Sherman. St. James, which also figured in the Derby books, was yesterday sent to the Widener farm near Philadelphia and will not come back to the races this season.

SINGLE FOOT BOWS IN FIRST DEFEAT

Extreme Stops Griffith Colt's Unbeaten Record as Pimlico Meeting Ends.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 13.—Single Foot, J. E. Griffith's hitherto unbeaten two-year-old, went down to defeat in the $5,000 Spring Juvenile Stakes, the get-away feature, here today. Samuel Ross's Extreme took the measure of the Wrack and Virginia L. colt by half a length at the four and one-half furlong distance. A length and a half further back came J. S. Cosden's Sombre. Single Foot broke slowly, went to the outside at the turn for home and quickly rushed into a contending position, but could not overhaul the leader.

With the close of the meeting here today there was a general exodus for the Kentucky and New York tracks. The meeting here, which included the classic Preakness, was wholly successful, notwithstanding the bad weather and bad tracks which prevailed almost continuously.

The summaries:

TWO POLO GAMES TODAY.

Princeton, Harvard, Yale and Army to Play in Double-Header.

For the first time in the history of the intercollegiate polo championship tournament a double-header will be staged when the fours from Princeton, Harvard, Yale and West Point take the field at Fort Hamilton this afternoon. Inclement weather and final examinations at Harvard have combined to bring about the condition. These matches will be in the semi-final round of the championship. The Princeton-Harvard game will start at 2:30 P. M. and the Army-Yale match will follow at 4 o'clock.

The winners of today's games will meet in the Eastern final on Saturday, and the titleholder in this section will play a series of five games, starting May 26, against the University of Arizona team, Western champions, for the national crown.

BLACK GOLD WINS THE DERBY TRIAL

Hoots Colt Romps to Easy Victory in Mile Event at Churchill Downs.

FIRST BY EIGHT LENGTHS

Outruns Wild Aster and Covers Distance in 1:37 4-5—Sandalwood Scores at Odds of 73 to 1.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 13.—Mrs. E. M. Hoots's Black Gold galloped off with the Derby Trial at Churchill Downs this afternoon. The son of Black Toney appeared to be slightly sore going to the post, but showed a distinct liking for the going once in motion and simply buck-jumped the mile to beat the Greentree Stable's Wild Aster by eight lengths.

Ever since Black Gold won the Louisiana Derby in impressive fashion this Spring his owner and Trainer Webb have believed that he was destined to be a contender in the Kentucky classic. From the manner in which he ran away from his field this afternoon it looks as if they might be right. Black Gold was a 7 to 10 favorite. Wild Aster showed a high flight of early speed, but tired in the run through the stretch and was lucky to be second by a neck over King Gorin 2d. Black Gold's time was 1:37 4-5.

Next to Black Gold's victory the thing which attracted most attention from the big crowd which turned out this afternoon was a winning race by Sandalwood at the lavish odds of 73 to 1. Sandalwood won by two lengths with much in reserve in a field of ten and paid those who had the courage to back him $146.20 for a $2 ticket in the mutuels.

The summaries:

NELLIE MORSE INELIGIBLE.

Fisher Filly Cannot Start in Kentucky Derby Saturday.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 13.—Nellie Morse, Preakness winner, was not nominated for the Kentucky Derby and is ineligible, Matt J. Winn, general manager of the Kentucky Jockey Club, said tonight.

Manager Winn made this statement when told of a dispatch from New York which quoted Owner H. C. (Bud) Fisher as having said he would start the crack filly in the classic next Saturday.

JORDAN CHECKER VICTOR.

Beats Gonetsky of Brooklyn in National Title Tourney.

Alfred Jordan of England, formerly world's checker champion, placed himself on equal footing with Sam Gonetsky of Brooklyn for the championship of the United States by scoring a victory over the Brooklynite at the Hotel Alamac yesterday afternoon. It was Gonetsky's first defeat in the tournament. Each having lost a heat, Jordan and Gonetsky started last night the playing of the final round, which will consist of eight games. To the winner of the final will go the title of United States Checker Champion, together with $500 in cash and a cup awarded by the Hotel Alamac.

POLO TOURNEYS TO START.

Play at Philadelphia Country Club Will Begin Saturday.

The polo tournaments at the Philadelphia Country Club, Bala, Pa., will start on Saturday, it has been announced by the United States Polo Association. Two series are on the Philadelphia schedule this season, the play for the Morrell Fund Cup and the tournament for the President's Cup being included.

The Morrell Fund Cup has been presented by Mrs. Edward De V. Morrell and is to be played for annually on the grounds of the Philadelphia Country Club by teams of four under the handicap existing when entries close. The trophy will become the permanent property of the club winning it three times, not necessarily in succession. Four individual cups have been added by the Philadelphia Country Club for this year's play to be awarded to the members of the winning combination. The Morrell Fund trophy has been in existence only two years, the Philadelphia Country Club team winning it in the season of 1922 and the Rumson representatives carrying off the honors last year.

MRS. WILSON VICTOR IN SEAVIEW GOLF

Captures Low Net Prize in Women's Invitation Tournament at Atlantic City.

In spite of the fact that the rain did its level best to wash out the special invitation tournament for the members of the Women's Westchester and Fairfield County Golf Association and the Women's New Jersey Golf Association given by the Seaview Golf Club near Atlantic City, the thirty-five members who made the trip returned yesterday enthusiastic over the outing. The original plans were to play an eighteen-hole round on Monday and another eighteen-hole round yesterday morning in order to allow the women to return to the city in the afternoon. A few started out for the opening round but were soon forced to seek the shelter of the clubhouse. The day was not in vain, however, for bridge and mah jong took the place of golf and the Seaview Club opened its new swimming pool.

Yesterday morning the guests took part in an eighteen-hole competition, supplemented by a ten-hole round in the afternoon. The low net prize in the morning round was won by Mrs. F. C. Ogden of Yountakah and in the afternoon round by Mrs. O'Callahan of Upper Montclair. The low net total prize competition resulted in a tie between Mrs. Graham Wilson of the Seaview Club and Mrs. S. S. Laird of Wykagyl, the former winning in the draw. The low gross total prize was won by Mrs. Charles Voorhees of Hailturo). There were two other prizes, one for bogey in the morning and afternoon. Miss L. MacMahon won the morning bogey competition, 1 down to par, while the afternoon honors went to Mrs. Dickinson of Yountakah.

The annual Garden City invitation tournament which is scheduled to start tomorrow will be preceded by an informal competition for club pairs today. The event will be at eighteen holes, best ball, open only to entrants in the tournament. The qualifying round of the invitation event will be played tomorrow at eighteen holes.

Mrs. S. F. Dribben of Fairview and Miss Marie Jenney of North Hempstead tied for the low net prize in the one-day tournament held by the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association at the Hudson River Country Club yesterday. Each player turned in net cards of 88. The low gross prize was won by Mrs. Henry Blumenthal of Fairview with a score of 96.4—92. Mrs. J. J. Thomson of Siwanoy was second in the event with a score of 98, 6—92. Mrs. Thomson won the putting and approaching event with a score of 8.

REVOLVER TRYOUTS MAY 22.

Finals for Selection of Olympic Team to Begin at Quantico, Va.

Final tryouts for the selection of a team to represent the United States in the Olympic revolver shooting matches will be held at the Quantico, Va., navy range beginning May 22, it was announced yesterday by Dr. R. H. Sayre, President of the United States Revolver Association, who will go to France as captain of the team.

Five men and two substitutes will be selected at the final tests. The team will sail on the President Harding on May 28. Dr. Sayre announced. Olympic events are scheduled June 30 to July 2.

Candidates from all parts of the country are expected to take part in the final tryouts, Dr. Sayre said. The Adjutant General at Washington has issued orders permitting army men in Porto Rico to enter the finals. Preliminary tryouts have been held in New York, Massachusetts, Maine, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Virginia, Porto Rico and the Canal Zone.

Dr. Sayre was captain of the American Olympic teams which won the revolver matches at London in 1912 and at Stockholm in 1920.

CANNEFAX TAKES LEAD.

Beats Layton, 60-50, in 3-Cushion Play-Off—Reiselt Wins.

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—Robert Cannefax of Detroit took the lead today in the round robin play-off for the world's three-cushion billiard championship by defeating John Layton of St. Louis, 60 to 50, in sixty-nine innings. Cannefax played a steady game and after the twenty-fifth inning was never headed. His high run was 8, while Layton's best effort was 4.

In defeating Tiff Denton of Kansas City in forty-four innings tonight, Otto Reiselt of this city played brilliantly, winning 60 to 54. Reiselt made a high run of 11, three runs of 5, two 4s and six 3. Denton's high run was 6.

ELLS TOPS MET. LIST IN SQUASH RACQUETS

Local Champion and Star of Matches Against British Is Rated Best Player.

HINKLE IN SECOND PLACE

McK. Miller Is Third, With Mills Fourth—Gilmore and Emmons Are in Class A.

Arthur E. Ells of the University Club, winner of the metropolitan championship, heads the ranking list issued today by the Metropolitan Squash Racquets Association for the season of 1923-1924. Ells, who has been one of the ablest local players for many years, represented this city in the International championship at the Germantown and Merion Cricket clubs, being a member of the United States team that defeated the British and Canadians. He also was the representative of this city in the national individual championship at Boston.

Eugene M. Hinkle, the youthful member of the Harvard Club, who was runner-up to Ells in the metropolitan title tournament, and who was also on the international team and the combination that represented New York in the national team championship at Boston, is rated second.

McK. Miller of the Rockaway Hunting Club and H. E. Mills of the University Club, who were also on the team sent from this city to the nationals, are ranked third and fourth, respectively, while R. W. Gilmore of the University Club and R. W. Emmons 3d of the Harvard Club, the other two members of the combination, are placed, respectively, in the second list grouped under Class A and the list of players who were not considered for the first ten places because of insufficient data.

The six other places in the first ten are filled, in the order named, by A. J. McIlvaine Jr. of the Racquet and Tennis Club, J. H. Harper Jr. of the Rockaway Hunting Club, H. Monroe of the Racquet and Tennis Club, A. Lockett of the University Club, J. T. Terry Jr. of the Rockaway Hunting Club and Royal E. T. Riggs of the University Club.

Those grouped in Class A are arranged in alphabetical order as follows:

CLASS A.

L. F. Bishop, Racquet Tennis Club; G. M. Bodman, University Club; C. P. Borton, University Club; D. Bunce, Montclair Athletic Club; A. A. Cammell, Racquet and Tennis Club; R. W. Gilmore, University Club; F. K. Keenes, Montclair Athletic Club; W. T. Ketcham, Rockaway Hunting Club; D. McBurney, Montclair Athletic Club; E. W. Nash, Racquet and Tennis Club; H. Nickerson, University Club; D. J. Nightingale, University Club; R. N. Pierson, University Club; W. A. Read Jr., Racquet and Tennis Club; J. A. Richards, Rockaway Hunting Club; A. R. Shiland, Rockaway Hunting Club; J. B. Underhill, Racquet and Tennis Club, and L. J. Wyeth, Rockaway Hunting Club.

The following players could not be considered for ranking in the first ten on account of insufficient data:

F. C. Blair, Racquet and Tennis Club; R. W. Emmons 3d, Harvard Club; W. A. Green, Rockaway Hunting Club; C. H. Mackay, Racquet and Tennis Club, and E. C. Wright, Rockaway Hunting Club.

K. OF C. TEAM BOWLS 1,171.

Leads in Fraternal Doubles Section —Trowbridge Rolls 622.

Thirty-four doubles teams and sixty-two individuals performed in the metropolitan bowling championships at the Recreation alleys yesterday, practically all of them competing in the fraternal section. J. McNall and L. McNally of the Knights of Columbus stepped out in front in the doubles section with a final total of 1,171. Next to them were R. Bergman and E. Wittenburg with 1,151 and G. German and H. Brown came next with 1,139.

A. Trowbridge was the only individual to come through with a 600 or better total in the singles event, his mark being 622. L. McNally was next best with 568.

Tonight doubles and singles will again furnish the program. The first squad will be a mixed affair of business and open teams while the later ones will be composed of fraternal contestants.

Billiard Results.

Albert Cutler, national junior champion, won two games at the Fourteenth Street Academy yesterday. In the afternoon he defeated Arthur Fredericks 900 to 29 in 7 innings, making a high run of 78. In the evening session he won from Herman Greenberg 800 to 175. The winner had a high run of 78 and the loser 38. In the evening session he defeated George Grossman 800 to 105. The high runs were 100 and 23 respectively.

Kinrey Matsuyama defeated E. L. Foghill in a special 18.2 balkline match at the Public Academy in the Bronx yesterday by the score of 200 to 6. The winner made two runs of 100 each.

J. Howard Shoemaker defeated Charles Harmon in the second block of their 800-point exhibition match at pocket billiards in Lawler Brothers' Academy yesterday, 101 to 78. The winner had a high run of 42 to Harmon's 23, and went out in thirteen innings. The score in the match now stands: Shoemaker, 206; Harmon, 133.

THE FUNDAMENTALS.

The failure of the Senate to pass the Bursum Pension bill over the President's veto was by only a hair. Yet 'twill serve. It is highly important in itself, and furnishes new reason for hoping that other coming vetoes by Mr. COOLIDGE will also be sustained in the Senate. That body passed the Bursum Pension bill almost without opposition. The advocates of the measure predicted that the President's veto of it would be "easily" overridden. But in the end it was upheld, though by only a single vote more than necessary. The country will take it as a good omen for the impending effort to repass the Bonus bill when the President returns it to Congress without his signature.

It will be remembered that the President based his veto of the Pension bill on two grounds. One was that ample provision had already been made by a generous people acting through Congress for the relief of the soldiers of the Civil War and their dependents. The other and stronger motive which he had for refusing to sign the bill was that it entailed an annual expense of some $60,000,000, and so was in violation of the policy of rigid economy to which the Administration is committed with the manifest approval of the country. It is evident that if this principle is to be maintained by the President he will be compelled to veto several other bills sent to him by Congress. The Director of the Budget recently reported that various projects urged upon Congress would involve a total drain upon the Treasury of $3,000,000,000. Not all of these will be enacted, of course, but enough of them will be to require great vigilance and firmness on the part of the President to prevent the next fiscal year ending with a huge deficit, instead of with the expected surplus. Senator SMOOT has just estimated that with the bills now passed, or shortly to be passed, the estimated surplus of $300,000,000 will be turned into a deficit of $397,000,000. Against this tendency to extravagant governmental expenditures the President has set his face like a flint.

In so doing there can be no doubt that he has shown a firm grasp on one of the essentials of the national well-being at the present time. There has been and is much balancing of opinion regarding the business situation today, and the outlook for the rest of the year. Some of the theories and explanations advanced seem fine spun. They may be correct, but no one can be sure that they will not turn out to be fantastic, or at best precarious. On one thing, however, all business men of experience and all unprejudiced economists are agreed. This is that there is a crying need for greater economy in government, and for a lessening of the burdens of taxation which the people have to carry. These are fundamentals which everybody can understand. There can be no real dispute about them. Experts may be wrong about the incidence of a particular tax, but they are not wrong about the harm wrought by needless and accumulated taxation. That is an inevitable drag upon enterprise and a hindrance to prosperity.

Now, after blocking lavish and superfluous outlay by the Government, the next thing is to reduce taxes. A bill labeled tax reduction has passed both houses of Congress in varying form, and while it does, indeed, aim to lower certain individual taxes, it has inconsistently been made actually to levy new taxes. This is particularly the case with the graduated tax on corporations. At the very moment when a Socialist Chancellor of the Exchequer in England was abolishing the corporation profits tax, because he believes that in that way he can promote business activity and the employment of labor, the Senate of the United States proposed a tax running as high as 40 per cent. on the undistributed profits of corporations, in addition to their 9 per cent. tax on income. Whatever else may be said of this proposal, it is out of line with the rest of the bill, aims to increase instead of lessening the vexatious taxation of business, and places the whole measure directly in line for another Presidential veto.

The fundamentals of public finance are really few. Nor do they differ radically from those of private affairs. Thrift and prudence are as vital in one sphere as in the other. So is the freeing of individuals or corporations from unnecessary handicaps. The essence of the matter is so plain that even a Socialist like Mr. SNOWDEN, when he becomes Chancellor of the Exchequer, has to admit it and act upon it. He said of the budget that he introduced in the House of Commons on April 29 that it was "vindictive against no class and against no interest." Could Representative GARNER, could Senator JONES, could the insurgent Republicans who fell in behind those Democrats say as much truthfully of their tax proposals?

PARK DEFENSE.

More than forty civic, political, charity and art organizations have established a general staff in the form of an Advisory Committee for the Conservation of the Parks. The immediate purpose is to ward off the latest attack on the integrity of Central Park from the direction of the City Hall. When this particular fight has been won, the Advisory Committee will not have terminated its usefulness. Its continued existence is desirable and necessary as a deterrent against future invasions. Experience has shown that brain-storm raids on the park may be expected to recur. There will always be busybodies, official and other, in whom the sight of green lawns and beautiful vistas will stir the passionate desire to do something to spoil them.

There are no new arguments to marshal against Mayor HYLAN'S proposal to load up the park with art centres and war memorials. The great reason that led to the creation of Central Park is still sufficient. The purpose was to provide the city with a great open space for fresh air, beauty and quiet recreation. If that need was recognized three-quarters of a century ago it is not debatable in the crowded Manhattan of today. The desirability of this or that particular encroachment on the park area does not really enter into the question. Museums, art palaces and war memorials may have everything to be said in their favor; but they do not belong in the park. No one has so far proposed that we tear down schools or hospitals in order to provide a site for noble monuments of art. But Central Park is as essential to the physical and moral health of the community as its hospitals and schools.

It may seem a pity that the battle against a vicious principle cannot be fought out once and for all. But since the challenge does recur there is nothing for it but a campaign of eternal vigilance. The new park defense organization will have popular support behind it as against a Mayor who is bitterly concerned over the "theft" of the city's streets by the wicked "interests," but who is himself bent upon taking the city's playground from the masses who need it most.

AUTOMATIC TRAIN STOPS.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is holding hearings on its order to forty-two railways of the second class to equip themselves with automatic train stops. It had previously made a similar order applicable to forty-nine more important railways. The arguments regarding both orders are so similar that the commission vainly sought to limit the inquiry to the less important roads. Their case is stronger only because they are less financially able to obey the commission, and because their smaller traffic is less threatening to public safety. Virtually all the railways maintain that the orders are impracticable for both financial and technical reasons.

There can be no such thing as excess of safety on the rail. But it is a fair question how to expend available resources so as to procure the greatest degree of safety. Automatic stops would decrease collisions, but collisions are not the chief source of railway mortality. Stricter discipline in enforcing obedience to signals might do as much as automatic stops to prevent collisions, and would release railway funds to increase safety in other ways. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers suggested at the hearings that train stops would lessen the vigilance of engineers, and would divide responsibility for accidents with the result that accidents would be more numerous by increasing reliance on mechanical devices. On the perfection of the various stop devices there is a flat contradiction of evidence. The commission holds that they are better developed than were the airbrake, the automatic signals and couplers when their adoption was ordered. The railways contend that the stops are still in the experimental stage, and that there is no agreement which is the best. Until it is known how the railways are to be consolidated it is undesirable to unite companies with different systems.

Money is not to be weighed against human lives, and railway managers cannot help contrasting the actually high degree of safety with the great cost of automatic stops. The shocking accidents occasionally reported are fatal for reasons often having little to do with train signals or stops. No stop will keep trespassers off the tracks. The Pennsylvania Railway reports 711 killed at highway crossings in a year when only eight passengers were killed in train accidents. In that proportion abolition of grade crossings would be better than automatic stops.

HOPES OF BETTER COOPERATION.

Germany's reception of the French political overturn is encouraging. Although great satisfaction is expressed that the hated POINCARE has finally been forced out and the belief is held that the new French Government will be more "reasonable," there seems to be no illusion that France will radically change her foreign policy. The Germans apparently believe that HERRIOT, LOUCHEUR, BRIAND, PAINLEVE or any of their group will strive earnestly for a solution with Germany in a spirit of conciliation. At the same time, it is clear, even to German reactionaries, that the elaborate structure of a militarist, German-eating France which had been built up about the person of POINCARE disappears with his resignation. This removes the ammunition of the German extremists who had so long played on German national pride by depicting an imperialistic France seeking to dismember Germany and dominate Europe. The election is the best possible proof that the conception of France as a nation inhabited only by Napoleons and Louis XIV's was a product of fear or malice.

There is no reason to believe that the essentials of French foreign policy will be materially different under a leader of the Left from what they have been under POINCARE. Undoubtedly the methods will be more suave. M. POINCARE had a rigidity of manner which made him hard to deal with. But France still wants security and reparations. She has no intention of permitting Germany to escape her just obligations. This has been made clear repeatedly in the past by BRIAND and HERRIOT, and has now been expressed by PAINLEVE, who in an interview yesterday about the Dawes plan said: "If Germany, to her ruin, "rejects the possibility of a just and "really human peace offered by the "experts, she will have to be abandoned to her fate. France will "know how to exact justice." This has the old, familiar ring.

Next to the favorable reaction in Germany, the most encouraging element in the situation is the expectation that the new Government will more readily work in harmony with the British. LOUCHEUR and BRIAND have long been ardent advocates of cooperation with England, based on mutual concessions. HERRIOT has repeatedly expressed his opposition to methods of coercion in international affairs, and has spoken in behalf of the type of liberalism embodied in the League of Nations. Such elements should find a warmer response in Britain than did the unyielding POINCARE. Incidentally, they will have an opportunity to test the good faith of the new German Government. Those who have been saying in Germany "we would work better with a moderate France" will have the chance to put their declarations to the test. If they prove to be right, all the better. If not, it is only a question of time before Germany will be faced again with a France determined to force the issue. Not even the most radical of French Governments could stand if it countenanced renewed German evasion.

INDIANA BEGINS TO BOIL.

Our judicious friend, "JIM" WATSON, has "come out" for "ED" JACKSON, whom the Indiana Ku Klux Klan "put over" in the Republican primaries as the candidate for Governor. "JIM" says he took no part and expressed no choice in the campaign; but JACKSON is his candidate now and he is going to work for him with all his soul and all his tongue. What a tangled web is even contemporary history! In an article that must have been written at least several weeks ago, in the May number of McClure's Magazine, Mr. MAX BENTLEY says that JACKSON is frankly the candidate of the Klan, besides having the endorsement of GOODRICH, STEPHENSON, WATSON and WALB (Chairman of the Republican State Committee) and, in fact, of the entire Republican organization.

WATSON'S declaration of Jacksonianism is said to have followed hard upon consultation with Mr. WALTER BOSSERT, described as an ambassador of the Imperial Palace or Wizard House to Indiana and divers other States. And the ambassador is said to have consulted long with hi Immensity, Imperial Wizard EVANS. Yet the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, we are told, under the energetic monarchy of Mr. D. C. STEPHENSON, whom the gods and himself call "G-1," and men "The Old Man," has practically abandoned its majestic parent. The disagreement of Indianapolis with Atlanta is some two years old. The day before yesterday G-1 called his satraps together and had them pass resolutions making the Hoosier Klan autonomous. Declaring that he doesn't secede, G-1 secedes. The Indianapolis Klan, which "claims a population" of 36,000, never took the trouble to get a charter from Atlanta. "The Indiana Ku Klux Klan," one of its magnificos said to Mr. BENTLEY, "contemplates complete disbandment. "This includes abandonment of the "name itself, throwing away the "robe, putting an end to mummery "and incantation. We are not Klans-"men of the recognized stripe. We "never have been." But, he said, "the personnel will remain, the or-"ganization will become an indepen-"dent political unit, and, he added "with a delighted smile, 'Watch our "smoke.'"

The pot biles, the smoke is getting thick. The Klan's Republican victory gives the Democrats their opportunity. The two Democratic candidates who got the highest vote in the primaries assail the Klan, identify it with the Republican Party of Indiana, insist that the Democratic campaign be for religious liberty, freedom of conscience. These are momentous issues, which call for decision even more strongly in some States than Indiana. The Indiana Democratic Convention meets early in June. The amiable Mr. THOMAS TAGGART may be subject to a certain embarrassment. His candidate for Governor, Dr. McCULLOCH, is stern against the Klan. His candidate for President has basked in the smiles of the Klan. In the Senatorial canvass of 1922 Governor HENRY ALLEN of Kansas made three speeches in Indiana for BEVERIDGE, the beautiful and the doomed. He swatted the Klan in cities that were its "strongholds"; Republican "strongholds," too, but Mr. BEVERIDGE lost them. Governor RALSTON made some commonplace remarks at a Catholic girls' school, lauding its work, but adding some other commonplaces about religious liberty and the separation of Church and State. If Mr. BENTLEY'S history is correct:

> The allusion to separation of Church and State had a lightning effect on RALSTON'S candidacy. The Klan had hundreds of thousands of dodgers printed, carrying the excerpt, under the heading "Where Courage Counts," and was said to have put a dodger into the hand of every Protestant voter in Indiana, Klan or non-Klan. No one questions that the Klan voted almost solidly for RALSTON, and that this bloc vote was a pronounced factor in his victory.

Who knows? The Indianophile sees a mighty muddle and foresees a hurly-burly worthy of the Mother of Politics. He feels coming an unimagined wealth of "out-smarting," "crossing," and "double-crossing."

THE SCHOLIASTS.

Any day may find the chief engineers of the Third International turning their attention to a hitherto neglected section of the world's proletariat. We mean the textbook writers on Mah Jong. No wage slave under the capitalist lash toils as hard as the devoted men and women who in the sweat of their brow are introducing complexity into the primitive world of Bamboos, Dots and Characters. On the face of things the simplest proposition imaginable, when you have two White Dragons, is to draw a third one from the wall and achieve a pung. But that is to remain blind to the subtler values. And because in these subtler values is the zest of things, man has historically been engaged in making many inventions.

He keeps on doing it at the very time that he raises piteous outcries against codes and systems and institutions. The very next citizen one encounters may feel strongly about the need of stripping religion of its formularies, bringing back politics to the simple state of the Fathers, emancipating morals from the drag of precept and taboo, and simplifying family relationships on the basis of direct instinct. But this same citizen will probably resent bitterly the impulsive way in which most people draw to a Chow instead of weighing the finer implications of a possible triplet in Green Dragons. Man owes it as a duty to his fellow-man not to go into society without having mastered Smith on the Higher Tiles. People stumble upon something simple, and immediately proceed to swaddle it with rules, and then complain about the Eternal Wheel of Things.

Along with the scholiasts who turn a few physical exercises into a 400-page Guide to Health, and the professor of English Literature who writes 200 pages of notes to 60 pages of CHAUCER, a bit of our sympathy should go out to those who, while their companions sleep, are toiling upward in the night devising nineteen different contingencies for a hand of two Bamboos, five Characters, three Dots, a couple of East Winds and a Red Dragon.

THE AMERICAN VALHALLA.

Those whose images were yesterday unveiled in the Hall of Fame on University Heights had already climbed "the steep where Fame's fair temple shines afar." Their names have been resident in this corridor, each having held the space of a tablet there for years, some for nearly a quarter of a century, and each being secure in a tenancy under as long a lease as any mortal institution can assure and as lasting at least as bronze. Yesterday the simulacra of their forms and faces came to take their permanent abode above these tablets, which are as narrow in dimension as a grave, but wide enough to give entrance to this American Valhalla.

It is a company that the older inhabitants of that corridor would welcome with mingled feelings, for some are brought together who for generations have been associated only in history. JOHN ADAMS, for example, now takes his place not far from GEORGE WASHINGTON, and may recall, as still pertinent, their conversation concerning the Senate. JEFFERSON rises to his pedestal not far from HAMILTON to renew the never-settled discussion which has become largely academic because of the discoveries and inventions of JOSEPH HENRY, the sound of whose little bell is now multiplied by the ringing of millions of telephone bells across the continent, and of PETER COOPER, who may cease to regret his failure to reach the Presidency in the consciousness that he was President of the first Atlantic Cable Company and established the shop in which the first American locomotive was built. HORACE MANN and MARK HOPKINS welcome another great teacher in the person of ALICE FREEMAN PALMER, and PHILLIPS BROOKS re-enters the pulpit in his enlarged diocese. And fortunately there accompanies this new group one to keep them all in good cheer, if ever they are lonesome on their heights, SAMUEL CLEMENS.

One can but wonder who will follow these—who of all the living in the city and out over the continent will ascend unto this hill of fame. It will certainly not be any one who has lifted up his soul unto vanity. The vainglorious or those who have acted or sworn deceitfully or selfishly are no more likely to reach this distinction than they are to "ascend the hill of the Lord." Many who saw the procession of those gathered to honor the "immortals" will have wondered who of that living company would come to take their places in bronze beside those whose faces were unveiled yesterday. To one at least that honor is likely to come. He who came to pay homage by his presence to JOSEPH HENRY will live on with JOSEPH HENRY.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

An Expert Discusses the Experts.

Speaking from his much learning and long experience as an allenist, in court as well as out of it, Dr. CARLOS F. MACDONALD told the members of the Society of Medical Jurisprudence, this week, that expert testimony, as now taken in trials involving the question of insanity, is entirely unsatisfactory in both methods and results.

This long has been evident enough, even to the general public, but the conditions as existing have been exactly those desired by lawyers with rich clients to be saved from the ordinary legal consequences of homicidal acts, and courts, properly enough conservative and reluctant to change established practices, have gone on in the old way, permitting experts to be pitted against experts, each giving the evidence wanted by the side employing and paying him, and leaving to jurors the determination of facts quite beyond their knowledge.

As a measure of reform, Dr. MACDONALD proposed that the question of insanity should not be raised until after the jurors had decided whether the defendant had or had not committed the act charged against him. That would be a task comparatively simple and easy, he said, and a task which jurors are competent to perform. If the plea of insanity then were made, it should be left to a commission of real experts, appointed by the Judge and paid by the State.

Dr. MACDONALD had to admit that the defense still would have a right to call its own experts, but he held that the opinion of the impartial witnesses would have the greater weight, as it should. He forgot, apparently, that men are not tried for killing, but for murder, which is something different, and that the whole of the difference may be the defendant's mental condition at the time he killed. That makes it seem natural that his mental condition should be determined first, not last.

The difficulty is not insuperable, however, and certainly nobody is better qualified than Dr. MACDONALD to give advice on the correct management of expert testimony on insanity in murder cases.

Some Experts Lack Authority.

In what might be called lay comment on the confusing contradictions that so often mark the testimony of experts in murder cases involving the question of insanity, there always is great caution in characterizing these witnesses, and it commonly is assumed that they all are honest and competent. Their differences of opinion are explained in part by the absence of any exact and universally accepted definition of insanity, which permits every alienist to make his own, and in part to the skill of lawyers in framing questions so as to get precisely the answer they want.

Dr. MACDONALD was less charitable. He more than intimated that there were experts who thought more about earning their fees than about telling the truth as they knew it, and that there are others—"hothouse experts who spring up in the night," he called them—whose opinions are of no weight or authority. Between those two classes and the real experts, he held that Judges have little, and jurors no, means of discriminating through the exercise of their own knowledge. What Judges could do in choosing members of his proposed commissions would be to select men of reputation among their colleagues, and accept those of high standing and reject those unknown or distrusted.

Certainly something should be done to avoid the scandals so often created by the presentation of expert testimony and to prevent the almost interminable prolongation of judicial proceedings in cases like that of THAW.

A Puzzling Lack of Knowledge.

As one official after another goes before Commissioner HINSFIELD and explains his part in the early release of the man RABINER by saying that he did not know about him what every reader of the newspapers did know, it becomes more and more difficult to believe that all these excuses are—well, acutely veracious. Any one of those making such excuses might be not less honestly than conveniently ignorant, but that so many of them could be is next to incredible.

And the spread of such distrust is regrettable. Equally regrettable is it that some people, after comparing the sentences inflicted on the COONEYS and that imposed on RABINER, also now are comparing the amounts of money which the bandits and the bucketeer managed to get away with, and are drawing the conclusion that there is one law for the rich and another for the poor.

That conclusion is false, of course, but incidents like these make it to a terrible degree what is called "colorable." Except when actual corruption of Judges and jurors exists, and that is very rare nowadays, the law is the same for rich and poor, but unquestionably the rich are better able than the poor to utilize all the advantages which the presumption of innocence gives to both alike.

From robbery at the pistol point under threat of death, nobody is or can be safe, but nobody is in any danger of losing money in a bucketshop who heeds good advice available in large quantities and exercises a reasonable amount of intelligence in buying stocks.

It must be on some such theory as this that the law punishes promptly and with severity such crimes as those committed by the COONEYS, while the class to which RABINER belongs often can stave off conviction for months or years and then get sentences which would be absurd if only the size of their misappropriations were considered.

Combustion Is Only Oxidization.

More information will have to be available before understanding is reached of the method by which Dr. MILLER RUSSE HUTCHINSON promises to reduce the amount of the deadly carbon monoxide coming from the exhausts of automobiles. Obviously, that reduction will not be achieved by mixing with the gasoline some substance which renders its combustion more nearly perfect. The attainment of that end, indeed, well might prevent the troublesome deposition of unconsumed carbon in engine cylinders, but the burning of that carbon and of other carbon that escapes in the form of visible smoke, while it would be a desirable economy from the standpoint of power, also would increase, not decrease, the total amount of carbon monoxide thrown off by the engine.

So at least it would seem from the fact that when carbon and oxygen unite there is combustion, and that the inevitable result of that union must be one or the other of the carbon oxides.

Such ingenuity as invented the most raucous of automobile horns may have evaded the inevitable, but it must have been a good deal strained in doing it. If Mr. HUTCHINSON hasn't done that, then he has set up a new combination of atoms by which most of the monoxide is turned into something more complex and less harmful to human lungs.

BUTLER DRY LAW ASSAULT.

More Opinions Are Expressed on Speech Before Missouri Society.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The United States Supreme Court has declared that the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution was legally adopted. Dr. Butler refuses to accept the result. He is in open rebellion against the Constitution and announces his determination to overthrow it. His arguments against prohibition are motheaten with age. General Neal Dow answered them forty years ago, while Dr. Butler was still a student. He ignores the underlying reasons why this great moral reform swept over the country, culminating in the Eighteenth Amendment, forever prohibiting the manufacture, transportation and sale of intoxicating liquor as a beverage. Dr. Butler would put the United States back into the liquor business and offers a $500,000,000 bribe to the public conscience to drop prohibition and have intoxicating liquor sold by the State. He thinks only in terms of money and ignores the effects.

"Class Legislation."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is almost axiomatic that the present prohibition law is pure class legislation. It is placing a premium upon graft. It is causing a body of "Fagins" and desperadoes to wax wealthy without honest toil. It is engendering moral iniquity, both among high and low, public and private officials. Its illicit practices are growing by leaps and bounds, with impunity. An occasional raid gives the air of respectability and acts as a smoke screen. Surely, no one can doubt the infinite wisdom of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's utterances. SIDNEY STEIN.

A Protest From the South.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dr. Butler's assault on the Eighteenth Amendment will receive little notice in the Southern States. The people of these States, their business men, their large church populations and the good women who vote, and will vote, are so nearly unanimous concerning the undoubted benefits of prohibition in these communities they practically disregard the fury, and even the fact, of these attacks generated in one or two large Northern cities.

THE SERBS IN YUGOSLAVIA.

Out of the alien places
Where they have chained our strength,
We, who are proud among proud races,
Have come to our own at length.

Through the long and bitter story
Of backs bowed over the soil,
We have reached the trail of our lost glory,
The guerdon of faith and toil.

We, who had quenched the fire
And grace of a living hope,
Shall yet lay hand on our soul's desire,
And measure its mighty scope.

Our children shall inherit
The gifts we have handed down,
The warring heart, the unvanquished spirit,
The dream of a hard-won crown.

Our foes shall know and flee it—
That pure, exultant flame;
In the eyes of our young they yet shall see it—
A soul without fear or shame.

Men of each scornful city
Where we have dwelt apart,
They shall see the pride, the calm, the pity,
That live in a stainless heart.

And our own land, up-risen
To a power that builds anew,
Shall mount, as a winged soul, from prison
To the light of the open blue.

Out of the alien places
Where our force was overthrown,
We, who are strong among strong races,
Have come again to our own.

THE GRADUATED CORPORATION TAX

Jones Plan Is Attacked as Unscientific and as Placing a Burden on the Development of Business.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Jones graduated corporation tax would impose the heaviest burden on corporation taxpayers least able to pay, would make impossible sound corporate financing essential to industrial prosperity, and would operate to dry up the sources of revenue. As a spur to proper and adequate distributions by corporations, it is unnecessary.

Under this measure a "normal tax" of 9 per cent. would be imposed upon the annual net income of all corporations. In addition, there would be a surtax at rates increasing according to the portion of net income of the corporation remaining undistributed after the end of the taxable year. If the portion of annual net income undistributed were 10 per cent. and not more than 11 per cent. of the entire income, the surtax would be but one-quarter of 1 per cent. For each percentage of increase in the portion of undistributed net income, the rate applicable to the entire undistributed portion increases, until it reaches 40 per cent. applicable to the undistributed net income, if amounting to more than 50 per cent. of the entire net income. Thus, a corporation having a net income of $100,000, and not being in a position to distribute any of it, would pay a tax as follows:

Surtax (40% of $91,000), income,
Less the normal tax	36,400.00
Total	$45,400.00

This makes a total possible tax of more than 45 per cent. For all corporations making no distributions, the percentage of tax (except as affected by the amount of the deduction for normal tax) would be the same, regardless of the amount of their respective incomes. If some part of the income were distributed, the rate would, of course, be less.

Under this plan the penal rates apply irrespective of the relation of income to the amount of capital. A net income of $100,000 or a net income of $1,000,000 might be 1 per cent. or less on the capital of the corporation, but the maximum rate would apply just as if the income were 50 per cent. or 100 per cent. of the capital. It was to avoid the obvious injustice of increasing the rate where the income may be but a small return that the relation of income to invested capital was utilized in the former excess profits and war profits taxes. Under that plan the rate applicable did not depend upon the mere size of the income, and it was upon incomes which were a large return upon capital that the high rates were imposed. The harshness of the operation of the new graduated tax is intended to be relieved somewhat by a provision that a corporation shall not be subject to it if all of its stockholders agree to be taxed in the same manner as members of a partnership. This relief provision is applicable, however, only to closely held corporations, where stockholders can readily get together and where the stock does not change hands during the year. It would be utterly impracticable to use it in the case of a large corporation with many stockholders and with stock constantly changing hands.

Senator Jones's plan is based upon the theory that in the case of a corporation, as in the case of an individual, the rate can be made to depend upon the mere size of the income, or, what amounts to the same thing, upon the undistributed portion of the income. While in the case of an individual taxpayer ability to pay may fairly be regarded as increasing in direct relation with the size of the income, in the case of a corporation, where earnings are necessarily based to a large extent upon the amount of the capital and are subject to division among many stockholders, the mere size of the income is not a fair measure for the rate of tax. Income of $100,000 in the hands of a single individual can obviously bear a larger rate of tax than $25,000; but $100,000, which is 1 per cent. on the capital of a $10,000,000 corporation, cannot properly be subjected to as high a rate as $25,000, which is 25 per cent. of the capital of a $100,000 corporation.

From the above, and other obvious considerations, it follows that Senator Jones's method imposes the highest rates of tax on corporations least able to pay. A corporation having a $100,000 income on a $10,000,000 capital needs to retain in its treasury all of that income for its financial protection. Yet, under the Jones plan attempt to keep the income would mean a tax of over 45 per cent. A corporation with the same income, but with, say, a $250,000 capital, would be in a far stronger financial condition; it could, perhaps, distribute the bulk of its income, still retaining a fair percentage of margin, and would pay a comparatively low rate of tax.

Investors will not put their money into a corporation which fails to protect their returns by retaining in prosperous years a substantial portion of its earnings. A corporation which distributes all of its earnings appeals to investors no more than an individual who spends all that he earns appeals to a banker. Successful enterprises normally require increasing capital and this capital cannot all be supplied by new contributions from stockholders or bondholders. The great industries of the country furnishing the chief sources of revenue have been built up by the policy of retaining in the business some reasonable percentage of the earnings of good years, assuring some return to stockholders in lean years and the proper development of the business.

The Jones plan would penalize the corporation retaining a portion of its earnings not for the purpose of saving taxes for stockholders but for the necessary purpose of keeping its financial position sound. The plan discourages corporate thrift and rewards corporate extravagance. Systematically pursued it would weaken corporate enterprises so that the flow of income would be checked or destroyed.

The problem which looms largest to Senator Jones is that of the corporation, ordinarily closely held, deliberately availed of for the purpose of letting earnings accumulate, beyond the reasonable needs of the business, so that they will remain free from individual surtax. Such corporations form a very small group in comparison with all tax-paying corporations.

Senator Jones has framed his measure in all sincerity, consistently with his attitude over many years, but with a single consideration of compelling distribution by corporations unduly protecting their stockholders. Viewing the tax problem as a whole, the remedy is infinitely worse than the disease. And it is unnecessary. The Senate bill as reported provides for an additional tax of 50 per cent. on the entire net income of corporations formed or availed of for the purpose of permitting income to be withheld from distribution beyond the reasonable needs of the business.

Under the present law the corresponding penal tax is but 25 per cent., corporate dividends and Liberty bond interest are not included as part of the income subject to additional tax and a corporation may escape the tax if the Commissioner agrees to tax the stockholders as partners. By leaving out these features as proposed in the Senate bill as reported, even without doubling the rate, there would be provided the strongest kind of incentive for maximum legitimate distribution. The problem of determining in some cases what earnings are required to be retained for the reasonable needs of the business would remain, but with mere investment companies made prima facie subject to the tax and the penalty for undue withholding made severe, the new provision is calculated to be effective.

Senator Jones's plan cannot claim the merit of equalising corporation rates and individual rates—the complexity of the subject makes that impossible. In an effort to correct the minor evil better dealt with directly in accordance with other special provisions of the bill, this method would upset the whole plan of the taxation of corporations. At a time when the general economic welfare demands the fostering and development of business, Senator Jones would place upon it new, unreasonable and unadjusted burdens.

THE TENNIS WRITER-PLAYER.

25 Other Nations, It Is Said, Encourage Stars to Write.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read the editorial "Amateur and Professional" in this morning's TIMES with lively interest and real pleasure. It is most refreshing to see a subject like this handled in a capable manner—in marked contrast to many other expressions of opinion that have been appearing in the metropolitan press.

Permit me to point out two statements in your editorial which are not quite in accord with the facts. You say that the United States Lawn Tennis Association's "opposition is understood to be not to all excursions into literature and journalism by tennis amateurs, but to that practice as a principal source of income"; and that we "cannot afford to pit against the foreigner any American player upon whose status the slightest suspicion has been cast."

The amateur rule legislation of the United States Lawn Tennis Association bars from tournament play any one who "writes articles on tennis for newspapers, magazines, periodicals or pamphlets, and receives therefor substantial compensation, pecuniary gain or emolument contemporaneously with his engaging in tennis competitions."

It doesn't matter whether the writer's payment is the principal source of his income or not. If it is a substantial sum he falls under the ban. To a young man, say one just out of school or college, even $15 or $20 per week may be a "substantial sum." Furthermore, the "interpretation" must be strictly enforced.

As to our pitting against the foreigner any player under suspicion, I call attention to the following facts:

Twenty-one nations have this year challenged the United States for the Davis Cup. Several others have competed in the past, making twenty-five or more nations interested not only in this contest but in everything relative to the game and its conduct. Not one of these twenty-five or more nations has ever legislated against the writer-player. Oh the contrary, they are practically all desirous of having their players, and particularly their best players, write on the game. In legislating against writer-players last February the United States Lawn Tennis Association did not consult any other nation nor strive to obtain their support in what is the most drastic piece of legislation ever placed on the books. Instead, it departed from all previous practice and jammed through, on short notice, legislation which had been, in somewhat less offensive form, flatly rejected at the annual meeting of 1923.

The Council of the Australasian Lawn Tennis Association has specifically granted permission to a member of its 1924 Davis Cup team, Pat O'Hara Wood, to write accounts of tournaments, adding words of encouragement and holding that the writing of such accounts is productive of good. It has also prevailed upon James O. Anderson to play on this year's team—after it became known in Australia that Tilden had resigned from our Davis Cup team. If we should lose the Davis Cup to Australasia it will be because players who are encouraged to write score a victory because our hitherto invincible team is deprived of the services of players because they write.

Your characterization of our national championship as "a family affair" is a happy one. In playing in it and in other tournaments Tilden will be "on his own." On the Davis Cup team he would be chosen by officials who consider him now a professional and an "evil influence."

Protests to Coolidge on Bonus.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your readers may be interested in the following letter which I have addressed to the President of the United States:

"Some months ago I resigned from the American Legion because I felt that the lofty ideals of its founders had been debased to such an extent that its main purpose was to debauch the honor of its able-bodied members by persuading them to demand money from the public Treasury. Fortunately, another organization of veterans sprang into being and successfully opposed those demands, with the result that the Legion was again forced to dupe its members by making them accept the Bonus bill recently passed by the Senate. The arguments against the former bonus are equally applicable to this measure; some of those arguments are that services rendered the Government in times of emergency are not to be measured in terms of money; that during such emergencies the Government cannot compete with private industry in the labor market; that during the World War the United States Government went far beyond the hopes of the soldiers themselves in the matter of caring for them and their dependents, and that an attempt at this time to secure more money for the able-bodied is dictated solely by greed; and finally, that any form of bonus is economically indefensible. Moreover, the proposed measure involves the expenditure of a vast sum of money without giving its proponents what they want. By appearing to cut down cost it is hoped to induce the taxpayer to accept it. It is a pure hoax and should fool no one. The Legion has again stooped to a low political trick."

DR. MANNING FIRM FOR LITERAL CREED

RECTOR ATTACKS LIBERALS

Bishop Announces That He Has $2,581,000 to Begin Work at Once on the Cathedral.

What may become the groundwork of a bitter controversy between the Fundamentalist and Modernist delegates to the 141st diocesan convention of the Diocese of New York was laid in the opening session of that body yesterday morning in Synod Hall at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Another feature of the meeting was Bishop Manning's announcement that he had collected $2,220,600 since the middle of February toward the completion of the cathedral and that a vigorous campaign for immediate resumption of building would begin soon. He said that $250,000 had been contributed for the erection of the Baptistry, work on which would begin at once.

The move which may precipitate a controversy was the introduction of a resolution by the Rev. Philip W. Fauntleroy of Lake Mohopac, which called on the convention to make unqualified endorsement of the recent pastoral letter of the House of Bishops which defined the fundamental tenets of the faith and expressed the hope that leaders of the church might find strength to drive those of contrary views from its ranks.

After the resolution had been read some delegates sprang to their feet to reply, but Bishop Manning, who presided, prevented the excitement from spreading by referring the resolution to the Committee on Miscellaneous Business.

Dr. Bowie Seeks Harmony.

A few moments later the Rev. W. Russell Bowie, rector of Grace Church, offered another resolution on the same subject, which he said he would not have put in but for the resolution of Dr. Fauntleroy. Dr. Bowie is known as a liberal and his resolution, he said, was an attempt to find a common ground on which men of both minds might meet. This resolution also was referred to the same committee, which did not report on either. The Chairman announced that a report would be made this morning.

The situation was further complicated by the opening part of Bishop Manning's annual address, which he began to read at 3:45 P. M. He devoted this to an uncompromising statement of Fundamentalist belief. On this subject Bishop Manning, who is one of the signers of the pastoral letter, said:

"While the discussions of the past year have been painful, and in some of their aspects deeply to be deplored, their chief effect has nevertheless been to arouse many to more earnest thought and fuller faith in our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. No one can be in doubt as to the faith which this Church holds and teaches, and which she expects and trusts her clergy to believe and teach.

"And the House of Bishops declared in the recent pastoral letter this Church believes and proclaims 'the fact that the Jesus of history is none other than God and Saviour, on Whom, and on faith in Whom, depends the whole world's hope of redemption and salvation.'

Bishop's Fundamental Points.

"Three facts this Church holds and teaches beyond all doubt or question, in common with the whole Catholic Church from the beginning.

"1st. The Christian religion is not the result of our human reasoning and speculation. If this were all it would be a mere philosophy, not a Divine revelation. The Christan religion is a message from above, a gospel divinely given, a supernatural revelation from God. It does not contradict our reason; it does infinitely transcend it. It is supernatural in its very nature and essence. It is this, or it is a matter of no great moment to us, or to the world.

"2d. The Christian religion is not a mere system of ethics. It does not mean mere acceptance of the moral teachings of one who lived and died 1,900 or more years ago. It means infinitely more than this. It means faith and trust in the Teacher Himself who now lives and reigns at the right hand of God. The Christian religion does not mean primarily something that we do for ourselves. It means primarily something that God, of His great love, has done for us in Jesus our Lord. It means being saved by a power greater than our own. It means being saved, lifted out of sin into holiness, righteousness and life, by the grace and power of Jesus Christ.

"3d. The Christian religion means faith and trust in Jesus Christ as the Catholic Church throughout the world shows Him to us in the Scriptures and in the Christian creed. There is no other witness of Him but that which His Church gives.

"Christianity stands, or falls, with the facts about Jesus Christ as declared in the creed and the Scriptures, His supernatural birth, His bodily resurrection, His ascension into Heaven. These are the facts upon which our faith in Christ rests. If these things did not happen the Christian gospel ceases to have reality or meaning. The whole truth of the New Testament disappears.

Repeats Declaration of Feb. 3.

"In my 'Message to the Diocese' delivered in the Cathedral on Sunday, Feb. 3, a copy of which was sent to every clergyman in the diocese, and which has been widely distributed among our lay people in the diocese and beyond, I made the following statement which I wish here to repeat:

"'With the Apostles, with the New Testament, with the whole Christian Church from the first, this Church believes that it was the Eternal One Himself, "God of God, Light of Light, Very God of Very God," "Who for us men and for our salvation came down from Heaven, and was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary, and was made man." The very message of the gospel is that it was God who came Himself in the person of Jesus Christ to dwell among men. This is the "good news" which the Church proclaimed in the beginning, and which has brought life and hope to men ever since.

"'To reject the supernatural from the gospel is to reject the gospel itself. Our religion as Christians is not a matter of mere belief in doctrines or of assent to intellectual propositions. It is a matter of relationship with the risen and reigning Christ. This is the very meaning of our religion. It means that we believe in Him, pray to Him, follow Him, look to Him as our Saviour and our Lord. Only if He is God can He stand in this relation to us. Only if He is God can He have any real place in our lives at all. Only if He is God can we explain or justify the prayers, the hymns, the sacraments, the whole faith and worship of this Church. We believe in Jesus Christ, crucified for our sakes, risen and ascended. We believe in Him not only as He was here on earth, but as He is now at the right hand of God. We believe not only in Christ the Teacher but in Christ the Redeemer and Lord and Judge, to whom is given all power in Heaven and on earth.

"'This is the gospel as this Church has received it. This is the gospel with which the Christian church is put in trust by her Lord and head and which she is commanded to preach to all the world.'"

Another matter touched on in the Bishop's address was a recommendation for higher salaries for clergy in the missions and smaller parishes, with a recommendation that a minimum salary be fixed at $1,800 and a house for a married man and $1,600 for an unmarried man.

Plans for Completing Cathedral.

On the plans for completing the Cathedral, the Bishop said:

"Our plans for raising the necessary funds have been formed with the utmost care. The Chairman of the Campaign Committee is Franklin D. Roosevelt. The Citizens' Committee has as its Chairman Elihu Root, and as its Vice Chairman, George W. Wickersham. The Chairman of the Special Gifts Committee is Frank L. Polk. We are making careful and thorough preparation for an appeal to the whole community so that every man, woman and child shall have opportunity to make some gift, no matter how small it may be.

"It is true that the amount which has at present been pledged is only a beginning, but it is a beginning which is full of promise and which shows how deep the interest is in the matter. It was not until the middle of February that I found it possible to commence this work, but I am happy to report that in the space of somewhat less than three months I have been able personally to obtain gifts and pledges amounting to $2,220,000. The gifts have come from people of different churches, some of them from those connected with no church who see what this great civic and religious center will mean to the life of the city as a whole. The Treasurer of the Cathedral has also in the Building Fund the sum of $250,000, received through gifts and bequests during a number of years before the present movement to raise funds commenced. We have therefore now in hand or promised the sum of $2,581,000, which is more than one-sixth of the whole amount required to complete the cathedral and provide for its maintenance.

Ten Gifts of More Than $100,000.

In amplification of his statement before the convention, Bishop Manning later made public the following statement:

"As a number of additional gifts are expected in the near future, the complete list of those contributing will not at present be made public. Among those who have pledged $100,000 or more are the following:

"Mrs. Isaac Horne Stuyvesant Jr., Miss Catharine E. S. Stuyvesant and Miss Anne W. Stuyvesant, who have contributed $250,000 for the erection of the baptistry as a memorial to their parents, Augustus Van Horne Stuyvesant and Harriet LeRoy Stuyvesant; Edward F. Albee, Vincent Astor, Arthur Curtiss James, P. A. Juilliard, J. P. Morgan, Frank A. Munsey, Dr. and Mrs. A. Hamilton Rice.

"Two others who have given $100,000 or more have asked that their names be not made public for the present. The full list of those giving memorials will be made public later."

A resolution introduced by the Rev. Frederick A. Wright of Tuckahoe called upon the convention to protest the trapping of animals in steel-toothed traps on account of the suffering involved. When the committee recommended this be referred to the Social Service Commission, a debate ensued in which one delegate protested taking up questions which did not properly belong to a diocesan convention. The motion to refer it prevailed by a large majority. A resolution seeking an endorsement of President Harding's World Court met a similar fate. The convention resolved to send a committee of two clergymen and two laymen to watch legislation at Albany affecting religious interests.

When Bishop Manning called the convention to order at 11:30 A. M. there were about 650 delegates present. The convention began after a celebration of holy communion in the Cathedral. The Rev. Charles A. Gilbert was elected Secretary and R. M. Pott was chosen Treasurer.

FAMILY OF GOVERNOR AT HIS MOTHER'S SIDE

They Come From Albany to Join Him—Patient Appears to Be Doing Well.

Responding to a hurried summons received yesterday afternoon, Governor Smith's wife and family arrived in New York from Albany last night and went to the bedside of the Governor's mother, Mrs. Catherine Smith. Shortly before her physicians had issued a bulletin saying that their patient, who is ill with pneumonia, was doing well.

When the Governor's family arrived they were met by the Governor and Major General Charles Berry, whose limousine was waiting for them at the Grand Central Station. As the Governor's wife alighted from the car in front of the home of Mrs. John Flynn, 9 Middagh Street, Brooklyn, she was sobbing. The Governor, his face drawn and white from the long vigil he has been keeping over his mother's bedside, also appeared to be profoundly moved.

The optimistic report of the physicians followed a half-hour conference between Dr. Reb and Dr. H. T. Chickering, pulmonary specialist of the Rockefeller Institute. Immediately after the consultation, at 9:30, Dr. Reb said that Mrs. Smith's temperature was 102, her pulse 92 and her respiration 28. For two days the doctors have been administering oxygen to their patient by admitting it through the top of a canopy over Mrs. Smith's bed. This method is a new one and, according to the Rockefeller Institute, very effective.

At midnight the Governor, his wife and daughter left the house to go to the Hotel Bossert. They will be in touch with the house through the night.

"My mother's condition remains the same. There is no change," the Governor said, as he climbed into the automobile. He made no other statement. His face was drawn and his lips were pressed tightly on the stub of a cigar.

MISS BEEKMAN TO WED.

She Will Be Married to C. H. Young on June 5.

Miss Margreta R. Beekman, daughter of Mrs. William B. Beekman of 555 Park Avenue, will be married on June 5 to Clarence Hascy Young in St. Columbo Chapel of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. The ceremony will be performed by Bishop Manning, assisted by the Rev. Dr. T. R. Stetson. Only relatives and intimate friends will be present at the marriage, which will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride.

The bride's attendants will include her nieces, Miss Frances K. Huger of Savannah, Ga., and Miss Heloise B. Hough of New York, who will be bridesmaids; Miss Frances Van A. Manning, maid of honor, and Cornelia Ann Vanderhoef of Greenwich, Conn., flower girl. Franklin B. Lord of New York will be best man, and the ushers will be Stuyvesant Fish, Edmund P. Rogers, Seton Porter, F. Bailey Vanderhoef, Harold M. Turner and Buell Hollister, all of New York City.

Reserve Officers' Dinner.

The Reserve Officers' Association of New York will give a dinner at the Hotel Astor on Saturday night. Among the speakers will be General Pershing, U. S. Senator James W. Wadsworth, Major Gen. ANNE MORGAN RECEIVES.

Asks Teachers to Support Woman's Clubhouse Project.

Miss Anne Morgan received school principals and representatives of teachers' associations at her home, 3 Sutton Place, last night in the interest of the American Woman's Association which seeks a charter membership of 5,000 before June 1 in order to build an eighteen-story clubhouse.

Miss Morgan told how the business women of New York needed the clubhouse, outlined the financial plan, and said that about 10 per cent. of the members were teachers and principals. She also said that the business women already had contracted to absorb $500,000 of the stock. Others who spoke were Miss Emma MacAlarney, who presided; Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith and Miss Elma Warner.

Prizes Donated by "Uncle Robert."

In the account of Parents' Day exercises in Central Park last Sunday which was published in THE TIMES on Monday, it was incorrectly stated that the prizes, totaling $120, awarded to fourteen public school children for essays on the text, "Honor thy father and thy mother," were donated by Dr. Edward W. Stitt, Associate Superintendent in the city public school system. The prizes were donated by "Uncle Robert," a philanthropic resident of the city, who prefers that his real name be unknown.

MASONS' EXPOSITION IS CHINESE BAZAAR

STAGE OVERHANGS STREETS

Nebraska Girl Scans Masons, One of Whom She Will Select as a Husband.

The interior of Madison Square Garden has been transformed into a colorful Chinese city, with temples and pagodas, for the third annual fashion and home exposition, which opened last night with ceremonies in which Dr. Philip T. Sze, the Chinese Vice-Consul in New York, took part. The proceeds of the exposition, which will continue until May 24, will go to the Masonic Free Hospital.

There is more than a mile of streets, patterned after Canton's native bazaar, in which American merchants and manufacturers display home furnishings and women's wear.

The Garden was thronged when the exposition was formally opened by Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins, Past Grand Master of Masons in this State, who was attended by the entire grand lodge staff in full regalia.

Justice Tompkins was escorted from the main entrance to the stage by military and naval veterans in full uniform, headed by Colonel Dawkins. Then followed the reception of the Chinese Vice Consul, who attended as representative of Chinese Masonry in behalf of Dr. Alfred Sao Sze, Chinese Minister.

The musical fashion review, "Fashionland of 1924," staged by Ned Wayburn, proved to be one of the attractive features of the exposition. The stage was built high over the streets of bazaars.

Much interest was shown in Alyce McCormick, the Nebraska girl, who will marry one of New York's 300,000 Masons after looking them over during the week. All the dancing features were well received, and there was a finale, "In the Surf," in which the mannikins disported themselves in the rolling surf, an illusion created by the use of motion pictures.

Others appearing in attractive features on the stage were Goodie Montgomery, Gaynelle Worrell, Mary Jane Kittell, Margaret McKee, the whistler; Ruth Goodwin, Virginia Dunworth and Florentine Cosnova's ballet.

DR. BUTLER TALKS TO CLASS

Tells Seniors Moral Courage Can Overcome All Hostility.

President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, addressing members of the senior class at Havemeyer Hall yesterday, urged them to maintain the courage of their convictions. He did not mention his stand on prohibition, but the seniors felt that the following remarks was significant:

"The quality of straight thinking, fine feeling and moral courage are the three outstanding virtues which I hope the senior class has obtained from college. Moral courage enables one to sincerely adhere to principle in the face of enormous opposition."

TO SEEK THE "CAVE MAN."

Professor Raymond Pearl Will Explore Prehistoric Caverns.

Search for the home of the original "cave man" will be made in Southern France by Dr. Raymond Pearl, Professor of Biology at Johns Hopkins Medical School, who sailed yesterday on the French liner Suffren. He said he would explore prehistoric caverns in the Pyrenees.

Other passengers were André Polah, violinist, and Mrs. Polah. Mr. Polah will make a concert tour of several countries and his wife will exhibit her figure portraits in France and Holland.

International Club Garden Party.

The annual garden party of the International Garden Club will be held this afternoon in Pelham Bay Park.

There will be a reception in the clubhouse, formerly the Bartow mansion, and if the weather is favorable tea will be served in the garden. Otherwise it will be in the orangery of the house. Mrs. Leland Eggleston Cofer, Mrs. Herbert Lowe Pell and Mrs. Frederick Prime Delafield will be at the tea table. Mrs. Edward Ringwood Hewitt is President of the club; Judge Alton B. Parker, Mrs. Satterlee and Mrs. Henry Clinton Barlow are Vice Presidents. Among the directors are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Allen, Mrs. J. Horace Harding, Mrs. H. Fairfield Osborn, Mrs. Edward R. Stettinius, Mrs. John White Alexander, Mrs. Robert Waller and Mrs. Charles W. Cooper.

Life Underwriters Meet and Dine.

The Life Underwriters Association of New York held its last monthly meeting of the season yesterday at the Hotel Astor. At the dinner which followed Charles A. Foehl, the President of the association, was toastmaster. The speakers included Judge Harold B. Wells of Jamestown, N. Y., Ralph Hayes, Director of the New York Community Trust, and Dr. S. S. Huebner, professor in the Wharton School of Finance of the University of Pennsylvania.

Dramatic Club to Aid Nursery.

The Lenox Dramatic Club will give a performance of "She Stoops to Conquer" on Friday night at the Lenox Hill Theatre, for the benefit of the Finch Day Nursery. Miss Dorothy Carroll Birdseye is directing the production, and those in the cast include the Misses Margaret Treadwell, Isabelle Ellis, Helen Davis, Catherine Fay, Cornelia Rose, Constance Hamlin Garland, Beatrice Underhill, Marion Walker, Imogen Reeve and Isobel Garland.

Honor Mr. Haan for Work.

The American Committee for the Relief of Suffering Hungarian Children presented yesterday to Rudolf M. Haan, President of the committee, a testimonial in recognition of his work for the organization. The testimonial was in the form of a water color painting by A. M. is sailing today on the Paris for a trip of several months in Europe.

Leaving for the Derby.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Salmon are leaving tomorrow with a party of guests in Mr. Salmon's private car for the Kentucky Derby at Louisville. Those in the party include Mr. and Mrs. William Stackpoole, Mrs. Harriet Marburg, Foxhall Keene, Richard T. Wilson, and George Brown.

CITY BREVITIES.

There will be a dinner this evening at the Ritz-Carlton in celebration of the thirty-fifth anniversary of the Jewish Publication Society of America, at which Louis Marshall, Justice Irving Lehman and Ludwig Vogelstein will be the hosts. I. George Dobsevage is in charge of arrangements. The dinner also will celebrate the publication of 100,000 copies of the new translation of the Bible, funds for which were supplied by the late Jacob H. Schiff.

Harold E. Barnett was elected President of the New York Society of Accountants last night, at the annual dinner in the Hotel McAlpin, to succeed Raymond C. Brown. FATHER OF SCHWAB DIES AT AGE OF 85

At One Time Ran Livery Stable, Where His Son Learned Rudiments of Business.

Special to The New York Times.

ALTOONA, Pa., May 13.—John A. Schwab, father of Charles M. Schwab, died at his home at Loretto, near here, this morning at 10 o'clock. His death came after an illness of several weeks, caused by paralysis and complications due to his advanced age. Members of the family were at his bedside when the end came.

Mr. Schwab was born in Cambria County Aug. 11, 1839, but in early life came to Blair County, where he conducted a woolen factory near Williamsburg with his father. Later he operated it himself for several years, then removing to Williamsburg, where he went into the store business and where for a number of years he identified himself with other business interests.

At the time of his death he was President of the First National Bank of Williamsburg. He disposed of his business in Williamsburg and moved to Loretto, Cambria County, where he went into the livery business, operating stage coaches which carried mail between there and Johnstown and a number of other mountain towns. It was here that Charles M. Schwab learned the rudiments of business from his father.

The boy, who later became one of the greatest steel men of the world, drove the coaches over the mountains in those days, to which he has often referred as among the most pleasant of his life.

The elder Mr. Schwab, up until his recent illness, enjoyed remarkable health for a man of his age. He divided his time between his home in Loretto and his business interests, which included, aside from the Presidency of the bank at Williamsburg, the Presidency of the Grange National Bank at Patton and the First National Bank at Cresson, both in Cambria County.

John A. Schwab was married to Miss Pauline Farabaugh, April 23, 1861, in a chapel built at Loretto in the early '30s by Prince N. A. Gallitzit, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Father Terence S. Reynolds. Mr. Schwab was one of the few remaining persons who were baptized by Prince Gallitzit, who died in Loretto in 1840.

There were eight children in the Schwab family, four of whom are dead. Those surviving are Charles M. Schwab of New York City; Edward E. Schwab of Bethlehem, Pa.; Gertrude, wife of David Barry of Johnstown, and Mary Schwab, known as Sister Cecelia of the Sisters of Charity, Seton Hill, Greensburg.

Aside from his business interests, Mr. Schwab was greatly devoted to his family, to his church and to educational enterprises. He was especially interested in St. Francis's College and Seminary for Boys. He was a member of St. Michael's Catholic Church, where the funeral services will be conducted Thursday morning at 9 o'clock with a solemn mass of requiem. Interment will be in the cemetery adjoing the church where he worshiped for so many years.

GEO. HUBBARD PEPPER, ARCHAEOLOGIST, DIES

Was Distinguished Especially for His Work Among Ruins of American Indians.

Georgs Hubbard Pepper, anthropologist and archaeologist, who for more than ten years was connected with the Heye foundation of the Museum of the American Indian, died yesterday morning at the Roosevelt Hospital, after a long illness. Mr. Pepper, who was born in Rottenville, S. I., in 1873, was 51 years old.

In his early youth he manifested an interest in archaeology and under his direction at that time, several grave mounds of his native town were excavated. His resulting discoveries then aroused the interest of Professor Frederic W. Putnam of the Peabody Museum of Harvard, whose invitation to study under him, Mr. Pepper accepted. In 1896, one year after he enrolled at the Peabody Museum, Mr. Pepper joined the Hyde Southwestern expedition for the American Museum of Natural History, of which institution, his sponsor, Professor Putnam, later became director.

In his explorations in the Southwest, particularly in New Mexico, the archaeologist made some invaluable discoveries. In the latter State he unearthed the remains of Pueblo Bonito and wrested from the Chaco Canyon many of its Aztecan secrets.

In 1904 he joined George G. Heye, Director of the Museum of the American Indian, who conducted expeditions into Mexico and Ecuador. His professional associates attribute to Mr. Pepper a great share of the credit in the successful development of the Museum of the American Indian.

LOUIS A. HIRSCH.

Was Famous as Composer of Musical Comedy Scores.

Louis A. Hirsch, composer of the music of more than forty comic operettas, musical comedies and revues, died yesterday at the Knickerbocker Hospital in his forty-third year. Mr. Hirsch, who lived at 1,361 Madison Avenue, was educated at the College of the City of New York and after graduation studied music both here and in Germany.

During the war twelve productions, whose scores he had written, were being played simultaneously in England. Chief among his successes were the scores of the "O'Brien Girl," "Mary," "Going Up," and various Ziegfeld's and Greenwich Village Follies.

Mr. Hirsch was a director of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, and also of the American Society of Dramatists.

Karl Frederick Bondy.

Karl Frederick Bondy, for seventeen years a clerk in the general manager's office of the operating division of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and known to many newspaper men and other inquirers as "Cortlandt 8020," died yesterday. His position required his gathering data on subway delays and then explaining them to inquirers. Mr. Bondy was 56 years old, single and lived with his mother at 569 West 185th Street. Funeral services will be held today at Campbell's Funeral Church, Sixty-sixth Street and Broadway.

Stephen J. McMaugh.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 13.—Stephen J. McMaugh, at one time well-known as the financial backer of John L. Sullivan in the earlier period of that champion's career, died at his home here today in his eighty-third year. His saloon for generations was well known to the sporting fraternity, and McMaugh was present at most of the big sporting events of the last half century until old age prevented. He was born in Ireland.

Edward C. McParlan.

Edward C. McParlan, lawyer, practicing in Long Island City, died yesterday at his home 1,039 Madison Avenue, Manhattan. He was 48 years old and a past President of the Queens County Bar Association.

Mr. McParlan after admission to the bar opened his office in Long Island City. He never moved his office and continued his practice there until his death.

RENT INCREASE SUIT LOST BY LANDLORD

Court Rules Jury Must Decide Need for Extension of Emergency Housing Law.

JUDGMENT PLEA IS DENIED

Supreme Court Justice Dismisses Action Involving Occupancy of High-Price Apartment.

A jury will have to decide the question as to whether a public emergency in housing existed when the Legislature extended the emergency rent laws, according to an opinion yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Francis B. Delehanty.

A summary judgment on affidavits presented by a plaintiff who sued to regain possession of an apartment or to compel the tenant to pay a rent increase was refused by Justice Delehanty. The effect of the decision continues to make it possible for tenants to refuse to pay rent increases on the statutory ground of "unjust and unreasonable rent."

The case was that of the Orinoco Realty Company against Martin H. Goodkind, tenant at 1,000 Park Avenue. Goodkind paid $2,200 a year rent until last October. The owners demanded an increase to $3,200 a year, which Goodkind refused to pay, but he deposited the rent in court.

In the suit to oust Goodkind or to make him pay the higher rental the plaintiff asked summary judgment on the ground that the defense offered was invalid, as the extended rent laws were unconstitutional. Goodkind asked for dismissal of the case because the realty company had not filed a bill of particulars, as required by law.

Justice Delehanty did not discuss the facts and conclusions presented by counsel but wrote an opinion, in part, as follows:

"It is a question of fact whether or not a 'public emergency' in the housing conditions existed at the time of the extension of the rent laws by the Legislature in February, 1924. The said State commissions (referring to the Housing Commission appointed by Governor Smith), duly appointed pursuant to law, had duly reported to the Governor and the Legislature after a thorough investigation that it finds as facts that in New York City the housing emergency still exists and that 'under present conditions we find no dividing line above which apartments as dwellings may be freed from the application of the rent emergency laws with safety to tenants.'

"The commission, therefore, recommended that the laws should be extended for a term of two years. The Legislature, with this report and evidence before it, passed the extension act, which in itself in substance declares that the original public emergency has continued to the present time and still exists."

After pointing out that the plaintiff raised the question of the validity of the law, Justice Delehanty concluded that such a fact was not to be passed upon by the Court upon conflicting affidavits, but should be determined at a trial by jury. He ruled that Goodkind was entitled to a trial on his pleaded defense.

On the motion made by Goodkind to dismiss the complaint, the Court said: "It follows, therefore, that the defense pleaded, based upon the said rent laws, is good upon its face and available to the defendant. The statute in question provides that upon the plaintiff's failure to file the bill of particulars required by the statute 'the Court shall dismiss the complaint.' The motion, therefore, must be granted and the complaint dismissed."

Orders were signed in both motions.

SIXTY-FOOT PLUNGE BREAKS AUTO LIGHTS

Occupants and Car Continue Trip Unhurt After Drop Onto Railway Tracks.

HORNELL, N. Y., May 13.—Two smashed automobile headlight bulbs constituted the only damage when a closed automobile, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bump of Olean, crashed through the guard railing on an overhead bridge near Canaseraga last night and dropped sixty feet to the railroad tracks below. Mr. Bump was hurrying to the bedside of his mother, who was reported to be near death at Bath.

The automobile landed right side up and neither of the occupants was even bruised. The car was driven up the tracks to a grade crossing, where the road was regained and the trip continued.

EXPECT MORE INDICTMENTS.

State Said to Have New Disclosures in Nassau Graft Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., May 12.—It was learned today that Deputy Attorney General Kenneth M. Spence has recently come into possession of startling new information concerning Long Beach affairs, which he will begin to present to the Extraordinary Grand Jury within a few days. Despite many rumors about this information, the investigating officials would not discuss it. It is expected to lead to further indictments. Three Long Beach officials have already been indicted.

John R. Speiman, consulting engineer engaged by Nassau County during the construction of the $1,000,000 Long Beach bridge, will be the principal witness before the Grand Jury tomorrow. It was learned this afternoon that Mr. Spelman has agreed to waive immunity. His testimony tomorrow is expected to take all day.

The presentation of evidence about bootlegging and rum smuggling throughout the county, which began yesterday, will be deferred until next week so that the rest of this week may be devoted to Long Beach affairs.

Deputy Attorney General Peter J. Brancato, who has been investigating bootlegging for the last two months, said that he had finished his work and would go to Albany late this week. The evidence he has gathered will be presented to the Grand Jury by Mr. Spence.

Louis S. Weiss, former editor-in-chief of The Columbia Law Review, who has been acting as an assistant to Mr. Spence, was made Special Deputy Attorney General today. He is preparing for the trial of the indicted Long Beach officials in cooperation with Charles L. McDermott, special counsel for the State.

FIRST MUNICIPAL ASSEMBLY.

Aldermen Organize Lower House Under Home Rule Act.

The Board of Aldermen before its regular meeting yesterday organized as the Lower House of the new Municipal Assembly, as provided for in the Home Rule Enforcement act. Murray Hulbert, President of the board, was elected Chairman of the new body. William T. Collins, Vice President of the board, was elected Vice Chairman and Michael J. Cruise clerk.

Alderman Cunningham presented the first measure, a bill creating a Department of Investigation and Accounts, under which the subpoena powers held by Commissioner of Accounts and of which he was deprived by the Fearon bill in the Legislature, will be restored to him. This act is similar to one now penning in the Upper House, as the Board of Estimate is known. Under the rules, no action can be taken on the bill until it has been before the members for seven days.

The following were named a committee to draft and submit rules for governing the Aldermanic branch of the Municipal Assembly: President Hulbert, Alderman Collins, Frank A. Cunningham, Chairman of the Finance Committee; Charles A. McManus and John Wirth, minority leader.

Billy Sunday Goes to Hospital.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 13.—The Rev. William (Billy) Sunday, who became ill here Saturday, left tonight aboard a special car for Rochester, Minn., for treatment at the Mayo brothers' clinic. Mr. Sunday was conducting revival services when taken ill with kidney trouble, and his condition became such that it was decided that he should go to the Rochester Hospital.

DELANEY PAVES WAY TO SPEED UP TRANSIT

Holds First Conference With Commission on 14th Street-Eastern Line.

HARMONY NOW IN SIGHT

Harkness and Delaney to Meet Tomorrow to Consider Division of Forces.

CONNOLLY RENEWS ATTACK

Accuses Transit Commissioners of Favoritism to the Long Island Railroad.

For the first time since Mayor Hylan named him as the chosen chief of the new Board of Transportation, John H. Delaney, now Dock Commissioner, met yesterday and conferred at length with the members and engineering staff of the State Transit Commission, whose functions, in so far as concerns new subway construction, he is to take over after July 1.

The purpose of the conference was to reach an amicable agreement concerning the route of the Fourteenth Street-Eastern line and its prospective connections to East New York. The general plan for the Fourteenth Street route and extensions, as drawn by the Transit Commission, has been before the Board of Estimate for some time awaiting action by that body. The section of the system on which there has been greatest divergence of opinion which occupied the chief attention in yesterday's conference is the part lying between Meserole Street, Brooklyn, and East New York.

In Commissioner Delaney's meeting with the present transit authorities and their engineers persons who knew of the conference, which was held in private in the rooms of the Transit Commission, saw new ground for hope of an early renewal of activity upon this system, delay in the completion of which is a primary factor in the daily congestion at the Canal Street stations of the B. M. T. There is reason to believe that the meeting resulted at least in a better understanding and a prospect of more harmonious cooperation in the future.

Delaney to Meet Harkness.

Commissioner LeRoy T. Harkness was appointed a committee of one to represent the Transit Commission in further conferences with Mr. Delaney. They expect to get together again tomorrow, when for the first time they will take up questions growing out of the division of the Transit Commission's forces, engineering and otherwise, incident to the segregation of the duties of the two bodies—the one representing the State and the other the city—made necessary under the recent legislation which becomes effective on July 1. The Transit Commission now carries on its payroll 1,000 persons. Many of these, including virtually all the engineering staff and probably much of the clerical force will be transferred to the new board.

There were present in yesterday's conference representing the city Administration, in addition to Commissioner Delaney, Francis J. Sinnott, who is a brother of the Mayor's son-in-law and who was secretary to Mr. Delaney when the latter was Transit Construction Commissioner, and Arthur S. Tuttle, chief engineer to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

Mr. Sinnott, it is expected, will hold an important post in the new Board of Transportation, and some persons believe that he may be the third member selected for the Triumvirate Commission in association with Mr. Delaney and Grover Whalen.

Representing the Transit Commission were George McAneny, its Chairman, and Commissioner Harkness; Daniel L. Turner, Consulting Engineer; Robert Ridgway, Chief Engineer, and William G. Fullen, Counsel. William S. Menden, President of the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit Corporation, was in attendance throughout the conference representing the interests of the system chiefly concerned in driving through the Fourteenth Street eastern subway to completion.

One of the most hard-shelled nuts which this council of harmony will have to crack will be to devise some route which will satisfy the contractual rights of the B. M. T. and at the same time reconcile Mayor Hylan, who repeatedly has declared that the Board of Estimate will do nothing in future to advance new subways which are designed to connect with lines of either the B. M. T. or the I. R. T. systems.

Connolly Attacks Commission.

Borough President Maurice E. Connolly of Queens agains attacked the Transit Commission yesterday. This time he addressed his charges against the commission not to that body itself, but to Mayor Hylan, where, to use Commissioner Harkness's comment, "he will find a sympathetic ear for any abuse of the Transit Commission or any of the Commissioners." In his letter to the Mayor Mr. Connolly wrote:

"In a communication to Commissioner Harkness of the Transit Commission, a copy of which is enclosed, I pointed out today that the attitude of some Transit Commissioners and the Transit Commission as a body was singularly favorable to the corporations. Now I point out that their attitude toward the Long Island Railroad Company in particular has been more than friendly and in fact they have done illegal things in favoring the company.

"The Long Island Railroad Company, under its franchise of 1834, has a right to construct and maintain only two tracks between Hollis and the Nassau County line. And while their counsel has advised them to this effect, the company is in occupying and maintaining four tracks and is constructing a fifth track within these limits, and the Transit Commission has discriminated against the city and State and in favor of the railroads in distributing the cost of the elimination of the grade crossings.

"Where railroad grade crossings at present exist, the expense of eliminating such crossings, under the law, is distributed to the extent of 50 per cent. upon the railroad company and 25 per cent. each upon the State and city. Where new crossings are to be constructed and grade crossings avoided, the expense is shared jointly by the city and the railroad company, each paying 50 per cent.

Criticizes Railroad Charges.

"Within the limits I have mentioned in making their accounting the railroad charged the city not only with the expense of eliminating the grade crossings upon the two tracks that they legally maintain, but they charge the city and State also with the cost of eliminating the tracks illegally in use by the railroad company, and the Transit Commission, through its experts, approves this distribution, which, I submit, is a misappropriation of the city's funds in the interest of the railroad company. I understand that also the city is being charged with a portion of the expense of the elimination of an additional track, which previously did not exist at all, but which is being illegally added by the railroad company.

"Recently we learned, notwithstanding your protest and my protest, and notwithstanding the protest of all of the residents along the line of their road, the Long Island Railroad Company was permitted to discontinue certain existing trains from Whitestone, Malba, College Point and Flushing into the Pennsylvania Station. In that case it also became apparent that before Mr. Le Boutillier, Vice President of the railroad, proposed the discontinuance of these lines he had taken one or more of the Transit Commissioners into his confidence. This is proved by the fact that when Mr. Le Boutillier created the furore the Transit Commissioners promptly asked as a solution the purchase and operation by the city of the Whitestone line, entirely in the interest of the railroad company and extremely satisfactory to them, although it would result in saving the railroad millions of dollars in grade crossing eliminations and cut off the supply of freight to the communities along its route.

"But that is the attitude the commission has taken from time to time.

"A similar attitude was exhibited in discussing the elimination of grade crossings along Atlantic Avenue. * * *

I hope that some way may be found to bring some of the members of this commission to the realization that their salaries are paid by the taxpayers, whose interests they are solicitous and to whose assistance they promptly fly unasked."

Harkness Replies to Attack.

Transit Commissioner Harkness commented upon the Connolly letter as follows:

"In his latest three-page letter he abandons the New York and Queens County matter, which is very much up to him, and tries to inject Long Island Railroad matters. In regard to the recent Whitestone case, the decision of the commission seemed to be approved by all concerned, even including the Mayor."

Mr. Fullen, counsel to the Transit Commission, stated in the matter of the two tracks between Hollis and the Nassau County line the action taken by the commission had the endorsement of both the Corporation Counsel and the City Engineer.

CENTRAL EUROPE FEARS RUSSO-RUMANIAN BREAK

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, May 13.—In spite of denials from all sides, rumors of a coming conflict between Soviet Russia and Rumania over the Bessarabian question are persistent.

The Rumanian Minister in Vienna denies that trouble is expected, and in Rumania the mobilizing of the last three years of the army classes is officially called Spring maneuvres, while Russia has various explanations for her concentration of troops on the Bessarabian frontier.

In connection with these rumors, the new political combinations of the Little Entente are all the more important. Rumania is making strong efforts to gain new allies in order to be less isolated in the event of war with Russia. It is even reported that she has offered to return seven small provinces of former Hungarian territory to Hungary if Hungary promises neutrality in the event of Bessarabian trouble. This report has brought forth much comment as well as denial. At any rate, the Hungarian Government has just declared that it recognizes no Russian consulates. In Hungary events on the Bessarabian frontier are carefully watched. As Rumania's declared allies, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia have announced that they cannot join in any action against Russia. Rumania is forced to seek the support of France, as is shown by the recent visit of the King and Queen to Paris. At the same time Rumania concludes an alliance with Bulgaria, the ancient enemy of her other ally, Yugoslavia.

The prevailing feeling here is that the meeting of the Little Entente representatives at Prague in July may bring many changes and sort of surprises. All political combinations are therefore being watched with the greatest interest, as the Little Entente is considered the policeman of Central Europe and the Balkans.

MEXICANS GET RUM RUNNER.

British Schooner and Cargo Are Seized on Pacific Coast.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 13.—Capture of the British 31-ton schooner West Coast, laden with 274 cases of Scotch whisky, off the Coronado Islands, and confiscation of schooner and cargo by the Mexican authorities at Ensenada was announced today by officers of the Mexican fisheries patrol steamer Tecate when the vessel put into port here.

The West Coast is said to be the first rum runner flying the British flag to be captured on the Pacific coast.

Arranging Sale to Government of Equipment Costing 20,000,000 Pesos

MEXICO CITY, May 13.—S. M. Vauclain, President of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, who is here to arrange the sale to the Mexican Government of railway equipment to the amount of 20,000,000 pesos, had an informal conference yesterday with Finance Secretary Pani. He expressed himself as pleased with his reception, declaring after the meeting:

"If American business men would come to Mexico personally to settle their affairs, the difficulties with this country would vanish and a different impression of Mexico would prevail."

SAYS C. A. STONEHAM WAS IN BUCKET SHOP

McGee, Testifying in Rendigs's Trial, Admits, However, That He Got No Profits.

GIANTS' OWNER DENIES IT

Declares He Never Was a Member of Fuller's Firm—Woman Tells About Eidlitz.

William F. McGee, convicted bucketing broker and a member of E. M. Fuller & Co., which failed for more than $3,000,000, told a jury yesterday in Judge Talley's part of General Sessions that "for a short time" Charles A. Stoneham, owner of the Giants baseball team and formerly in the brokerage business, was a member of the Fuller firm. McGee's admission as to Mr. Stoneham came while he was being questioned by William J. Fallon, who was counsel for the witness and Edward M. Fuller in criminal proceedings, in which both the brokers pleaded guilty in General Sessions to bucketing the orders of customers.

McGee was called Monday as a witness by the prosecution in the trial of Charles W. Rendigs, charged with having falsely sworn as a talesman at the third trial of Fuller that he did not know Fallon, Fuller or McGee.

When Judge Talley ordered the trial to continue yesterday forenoon McGee again was called to be cross-examined by Mr. Fallon. He admitted that while he and Fuller were held on Governors Island by the Federal authorities in connection with the Fuller & Co. bankruptcy investigation, and while under sentences of four years each in Sing Sing on the bucketing charge, they had spent twenty-six days in the McAlpin, Majestic, Murray Hill, Belmont and Brostell hotels in this city.

Ends Mystery of Papers.

Under questioning of Mr. Fallon, McGee dispelled the mystery surrounding the return of some of the missing papers to Judge Goddard of the Federal Court while Fuller was in the Ludlow Street Jail. He said that a man named Newbold, who lived with him in an apartment in West Seventy-fifth Street, had sent them to the Judge.

Mr. Fallon then asked the witness if "Tom" Foley, the Tammany leader, and Mr. Stoneham were members of Fuller & Co., but before McGee could answer, Assistant District Attorney Hugo Wintner's objection to the question was sustained.

"Wasn't Stoneham a partner in your firm?" asked Mr. Fallon.

"He was for a short time," McGee replied, and in answer to another question said that Mr. Stoneham never received any money from the firm's bucketing operations.

Mr. Stoneham had been a witness in the Fuller bankruptcy investigation before Referee Harold P. Coffin, and, although admitting that he sent upward of $150,000 to the firm at the request of "Tom" Foley, before Fuller & Co. went to the wall, denied that he was a partner. McGee's assertion was the first by any of those connected with the crash of Fuller & Co. to connect Stoneham directly with the brokerage firm. Stoneham, on learning yesterday of McGee's testimony, denied that he had been connected with the firm at any time.

McGee denied that he had ever had a conversation with Victor Watson, city editor of The New York American, or anybody else about being freed without serving the minimum of fifteen months in Sing Sing. He also denied that Fuller had told him that Federal Prosecutor Hayward would see Judge Nott and arrange to obtain immunity for Fuller. At the beginning of yesterday's proceeding Judge Talley gave Rendig's lawyer permission to subpoena the customers' ledger of Fuller & Co., when Mr. Fallon told him that he wanted to show that McGee had stolen $1,800,000 from customers.

Woman Tells of Eidlitz.

McGee was followed on the stand by Mrs. Anna Lewis, a widow, of 154 East Thirty-seventh Street. She was called by Mr. Wintner to prove that Ernest Eidlitz, formerly a clerk in Fallon's law office, who was to be one of the principal witnesses in the Rendigs trial, had fled the jurisdiction of the Court.

Mrs. Lewis said that in February last, when she was staying with Miss "Billie" Bennett in an apartment at 57 West Seventy-fifth Street, Mr. Fallon came to the apartment with Eidlitz. Eidlitz, who had given testimony against Fallon, which led to the lawyer's indictment in the Federal Court, remained in the apartment four days, she said.

She added that on the fourth day she overheard Eidlitz and Mr. Fallon discussing Eidlitz's departure for a hotel in Montreal, Canada.

Mr. Fallon then was permitted to cross-examine Mrs. Lewis. Answering his question, the witness said that a Mr. Hess, fiancé of Miss Bennett, was in the apartment in West Seventy-fifth Street during most of Eidlitz's stay. She also stated that when Eidlitz arrived at the apartment in February Walter O'Neill, who is a special examiner in Controller Craig's office, was present. She declared she could not remember Mr. Fallon telling Mr. Hess and Mr. O'Neill at the time that he wanted them to pay particular attention to what Eidlitz said to him (Fallon), but admitted that the lawyer told her at the time that he wanted to "get a statement from Eidlitz as to the truth of the matters wherein he had testified."

Says He Told of Payments.

"Did you hear Eidlitz say when he first arrived that he had sent a letter to Victor Watson of The New York American?" asked the lawyer.

"He did send a letter," replied Mrs. Lewis. "I remember him saying it."

"Did you hear Eidlitz say that he left The New York American because the $20,000 he was to receive for his testimony against Fallon, he was not to get until after Fallon was convicted?" pursued Fallon.

"I heard him say that," Mrs. Lewis answered.

"And did you hear him say up to that time they had given him approximately $9,000, for which there were vouchers in the office of The New York American?" asked the lawyer.

"Yes," said the witness.

Louis Wiley Notes Early Egyptian Appreciation of Modern Methods.

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—King Tutankh-Amen was catalogued as an advertiser of note today by Louis Wiley, business manager of THE NEW YORK TIMES, in an address before the convention of the Second District, Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

"Tut-ankh-Amen knew the fundamentals of advertising," Mr. Wiley declared. "He had his own slogan and coat of arms stamped on most of his belongings. He accompanied his text with good illustrations, full of life, depicting himself in battle, on the hunting field, receiving homage from his enemies.

"He knew what people wanted, and did not go into too much detail, leaving much to the imagination of the future. Although centuries ahead of his time, he knew the value of mystery and patience."

Speaking of present day advertising, Mr. Wiley said:

"The development of the newspapers as an instrument of education has more than kept pace with the improvements in transportation facilities and other forms of communication. The newspaper, indeed, has remained in the forefront, and in a sense has been the recorder and prophet of all great improvements within the last one hundred and twenty-five years. Newspapers are always a stride ahead. Their necessities and the demands on their facilities have largely influenced most of the improvements which three generations have witnessed. The modern metropolitan newspaper may well be cited as one of the wonders of the world."

Luther D. Fuller, chief agricultural agent of the Erie Railroad, was another speaker at the session.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, May 13.—The crime wave which has been sweeping over Austria in the last few months appears to be undiminished, in fact, new crimes are added almost daily to the already long lists. The authorities are beginning to be so concerned that recently in Parliament Chancellor Seipel denounced current publications devoting space to sensational stories.

Individuals involved in recent crimes are members of the aristocracy as well as of the lowest social classes, and the newspapers dwell on all the vile and gruesome details of these crimes. Witness the Vukbrankowic case, that of a woman with a criminal past who poisoned her employer. For a month the newspapers were filled with the smallest details concerning the life of the criminal, who when declared guilty at her second trial received four offers of marriage.

One eminent professor declares that the publication of these details caused the recent epidemic of poisonings.

Suicides last week were unusually numerous, some of them, however, the result of speculation in francs. The police recently reported six cases of suicide in one night.

In Budapest 165 suicides were recorded in one month, mostly due to financial losses.

BIG, FAST SQUADRON TO WAGE RUM WAR

Coast Guard to Get 20 Destroyers, 323 Launches and 2 Mine Sweepers.

Capt. Jacobs, Commanding the New York District, Plans Vigorous Drive on Smugglers.

"This department is declaring open warfare on rum runners and dope smugglers," declared Captain W. V. E. Jacobs, commanding the New York District of the Coast Guard yesterday when he made public the details of the drive for 4,500 recruits, both officers and enlisted men. The men are needed to man the 363 new boats which the Coast Guard service is about to send out in a concentrated drive against rum runners and narcotic smugglers.

The new rum-running fleet will include 100 thirty-six foot speed boats capable of making thirty miles an hour, a shade better than most, if not all, of the rum runners. The other fleet will also have twenty destroyers, two mine sweepers and 223 seventy-foot launches. The speediest will be the thirty-six foot boats.

Captain Jacobs said yesterday that he was convinced that rum running was on the increase in New York and in the waters adjacent, and that only a vigorous campaign by his department would put a stop to the traffic.

The additions to the Coast Guard fleet can be used for defence in time of war, Captain Jacobs also pointed out that more craft were needed as a protection to mariners whose ships meet with accidents in and about the shores. Most of the new force Captain Jacobs hopes to recruit will be assigned to duty on the Eastern coast of the United States, but some will be sent to Hawaii and Alaska.

149 Officers Wanted.

There will be 149 commissioned officers appointed for temporary service in the Coast Guard, and about 400 warrant officers of all grades, including boatswains, machinists, carpenters and pay clerks. The enlisted men will be rated as Petty Officers, First Class, who receive $126 a month, to Seventh Grade Apprentice Seamen and Mess Attendants at a salary of $21. The examinations for appointment to these positions will be held in the Coast Guard Office in the Barge Office, Room 10, daily from now on.

Judge George English of Illinois, who is sitting in the Federal District Court here temporarily in order to relieve the calendar of liquor cases, continued the sentencing liquor law offenders yesterday when he sent three to jail and fined twenty-seven others who pleaded guilty.

William Balko of 390 East Fourth Street was sent to Mercer County Jail for nine months. It was his fourth offense against the Volstead laws. Peter Horcheck of 53 Pike Street was sent to Mercer County Jail for a year. William House of 137 East Fourth Street, who took his chances with a jury was found guilty and was fined $125 and sent to jail for nine months.

George Arras, President of the Café Arras, 50 East Forty-second Street, pleaded guilty and was fined $225. His bartender, Darcy Totten, pleaded guilty and was fined $125. According to Assistant District Attorney Elmer H. Lemon steps will be taken to close up and padlock the café which has a record of six violations.

Connie and George Immerman, owners of Connie Cafe, 221 Seventh Avenue, and three of their employes were fined a total of $900 after they pleaded guilty to violating the Volstead law. Assistant District Attorney Lemon said he would begin prosecutions to padlock the cabaret.

Chinese Liquor Seized.

Patrolman Lavery of the Special Service Squad arrested three men, two of whom were Chinese, and seized 118 earthenware jugs of rice wine in a taxicab at 23 Pell Street yesterday morning. The prisoners were charged with illegally transporting liquor. The jugs were packed in straw and each contained a pint of liquor. The labels indicated in English and Chinese that the contents were the product of Wing Lee Wai, wine merchant, of Tientsin and Hongkong. The liquor was described in Chinese as "Ng Ka Py."

Herbert H. Wheeler of Bellport, L. I., who was found guilty of possessing and transporting liquor, was fined $1,000 by Judge Garvin in Brooklyn yesterday. Three Federal agents found seventy-five cases on Wheeler's motor truck when they stopped him on Feb. 24.

Hundreds of gallons of alcohol and several hundred cases of Scotch and rye whiskey were washed ashore in the vicinity of Point Pleasant, N. J., yesterday at the end of the five-day storm. Residents along the coast were kept busy all day hauling in their prize packages. One man at Seaside Park was said to have salvaged thirty-five cases of Scotch whiskey. It is believed the liquor was thrown or washed overboard by ships in the liquor fleet during the storm.

Ball Player, Hurt in a Slide, Dies.

ROCKHILL, S. C., May 13.—Frank Caldwell of York died here yesterday of internal injuries received Saturday in a baseball game at York, when, in trying a slide to second, he collided with the baseman.

BELLMORE CASHIER GETS 7 1-2 YEARS

Vanderoef Is Sentenced to Atlanta an Hour After He Is Indicted.

"WILL BE HAPPIER IN JAIL"

Embezzler Promises to Repay When He Gets Out—Counsel Blames Drink and Women.

Brooklyn justice sometimes moves as quickly as Jersey justice, it was shown yesterday in the United States District Court in Brooklyn, where Judge Marcus B. Campbell sentenced Charles M. Vanderoef, former cashier of the First National Bank of Bellmore, L. I., to seven years and six months' imprisonment in Atlanta Penitentiary.

On May 6, just a week ago yesterday, bank examiners discovered that Vanderoef had stolen almost $50,000 from the bank during the last three years. On May 7 the cashier surrendered at the Hotel McAlpin in New York. On May 9 he made a complete confession.

Yesterday the May term of the Federal Grand Jury began its work with a consideration of the Vanderoef case about 11 o'clock in the morning. A little more than three hours later, at 2:15 P. M., the indictment was returned. Less than an hour later Vanderoef, arraigned before Judge Campbell, pleaded guilty and was sentenced.

Accused on 13 Counts.

Vanderoef was indicted on thirteen counts. The first two counts dealt with falsification of the records of the bank. On each of these counts he was sentenced to two and one-half years, to run concurrently. The eleven other counts dealt with sums he admitted stealing from the bank. He was sentenced to serve five years concurrently on each of these counts. Embezzlement, false entry, misappropriation and misapplication of funds were charged in the indictments.

Vanderoef, who took the sentence stoically, said:

"I have done everything possible to help the bank straighten out the tangle and to help the authorities by pleading guilty and in every way doing what I could to clean up this awful case.

"I am glad the thing is over. I am glad to take my medicine. I'll be much happier in jail than I have been during the past three years. When I get out I'll try to make amends to my family and restitution to my creditors."

Mrs. Vanderoef was in the courtroom when sentence was imposed. She displayed no emotion then or when she talked with her husband in the Warden's office at the Raymond Street Jail.

Pleads for Leniency.

George M. Levy, counsel for Vanderoef, pleaded with the Court for leniency to his client.

"This man enjoyed a good reputation until he got in with a gay crowd," declared Levy, "and began to taste high living. His fall was due to drink and women. For three years he knew that detection and exposure were inevitable, but he continued taking the bank's money, $100 and $200 at a time. He assumes full responsibility. No one else is to blame."

Levy denied that Vanderoef had had anything to do with the hold-up and robbery of the Bellmore bank on April 4, when a bond salesman was killed by the robbers, who stole $7,000.

"There was absolutely nothing revealed by the bank examiner's investigation that showed he was in any way implicated in the hold-up," said Levy.

The Federal authorities also said they were convinced Vanderoef had nothing to do with the hold-up. It was the checking up by bank examiners after the hold-up that led to the disclosure of the cashier's guilt.

The bank, which closed its doors last Thursday, was still closed yesterday.

BANDIT CAR'S PLATE FOUND.

Police Regard It as Important Clue in Bellmore Hold-Up.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., May 13.—The missing license plate on the Buick automobile used in the Bellmore bank robbery April 4 has been found. It was buried under a rubbish pile on a vacant lot in Jamaica Avenue near Eighteenth Street, Astoria, Queens.

The authorities think that the license plate will be a strong link in the evidence against John J. Slattery, Stanley Klavna and Ambrose Ross, under indictment as three of the six men who killed Ernest L. Whitman in the hold-up.

HAS HAIR SHINGLED AT 80.

'I Don't Propose to Be a Tail-Ender,' Explains Syracuse Woman.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 13.—Mrs. Katherine Nichols today celebrated her eightieth birthday by having her hair "shingled" and curled in the latest fashion.

"It took me eighty years to find I liked it best this way, and I wouldn't have it long again for anything," she said.

"Why did I do it? Because I don't propose to be a tail ender."

TAX CONFEREE FIGHT FIZZLES IN SENATE

Democrats Abandon Fight for Majority of the Five Who Meet House Group Today.

2 WEEKS' DELAY POSSIBLE

Battle Is Predicted in Both Houses if Radical Features Are Dropped From the Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Without a fight by the Democrats and with no pledges that the minority-radical amendments in the tax bill should be recognized, Senate conferees composed chiefly of Republicans were named today. Senators Smoot, McLean and Curtis, Republicans, and Senators Simmons and Jones of New Mexico, Democrats, were selected.

Before this action was taken Senator Simmons suggested to Senator Smoot that the majority of the Senate conferees should be Democrats, as the amendments were sponsored by the minority party and therefore should be in the hands of those who favored them. Mr. Smoot disagreed, whereupon Mr. Simmons agreed not to fight at this time, with the reservation that if the conference brought in a report he disliked he would demand its rejection and the naming of new conferees.

From what could be learned, the Republicans of the Senate conferees will try to strike out the Jones graduated corporation tax and the sections prescribing publicity of tax details, and may even endeavor to replace the Simmons and Longworth surtax schedules with the Mellon plan.

A report of this kind would be refused by the Senate, it seems now, and a conference representation dominated by Democrats would doubtless be named to approve the contested amendments.

Such an outcome might displease the Republicans from a political standpoint. They would then go to the country with the argument that the Democrats had ruined the plan of tax revision and any resultant failure must rest upon minority shoulders.

On the other hand, Senator Simmons said today that he, too, would welcome an opportunity of this kind, because he and other Democrats believed the bill as drafted by the Treasury was impossible and unjust.

With the appointment of the Senate conferees, all is ready to begin the actual negotiations, and the five men from each house will meet tomorrow and start work. Amendments which are in dispute will be postponed for the time being, the conferees disposing first of those over which there is little or no controversy. In the second reading the Simmons tax, the Jones corporation tax and the publicity sections will be taken up.

Simmons Praises Changes.

Concerning the Jones tax Senator Simmons said today that there was nothing more equitable in the entire bill, a viewpoint utterly opposed to that expressed by most Republicans. When it was pointed out that many House Democrats displayed no enthusiasm for it, he replied:

"Well, if that is so, they do not understand it. It would only affect a few corporations, those who want to retain all their earnings. The present tax is very unjust for a corporation pays a tax of 12½ per cent., no matter how large or how small its earnings. If the same principle was applied to individuals it would shock the country. Under the Jones amendment not more than half the corporations of the country would pay any surtax at all and the others would pay only a 9 per cent. normal tax instead of the present 12½ per cent."

Of the Norris amendment directing fullest publicity of all tax returns, Mr. Simmons said:

"That is more of a so-called radical amendment than a Democratic one, but I would support it as strongly as one emanating solely from a Democratic source. These gentlemen stood with us on our amendments and I intend to stand with them."

Plan To Save 25 Per Cent. Cut.

Radicals are expected to rally behind this particular amendment on both sides of the Capitol. Senator Norris said today that he would insist that the House conferees ask for instruction on this amendment, thus affording an opportunity for a vote in the House, which he said, he was sure would support him. John M. Nelson, the Wisconsin insurgent, who leads his forces in the House, said that his group had already begun to hold conferences to map out strategy on this and other amendments.

Recognizing the possibility that the Tax Bill might be vetoed and not repassed, Senator Simmons declared that the 25 per cent. reduction plan was introduced as a separate resolution so it would try to attach his income rates as an amendment. It would not be fair, he said, to make the 25 per cent. reduction on 1923 taxes paid in 1924, without furnishing relief for taxes received in 1924 and paid in 1925.

Senator Smoot has said that if the reduction resolution were introduced independently he would ask that it be extended to cover all years until permanent tax reduction could be effected, but Chairman Green of the Ways and Means Committee retorted today that he would oppose such a plan as unscientific, and would insist that the resolution apply only to the taxes paid this year. Mr. Green wrote the provision which authorizes the reduction.

Conferees for the House met today with experts and made a sketchy study of the Senate amendments. While most of them believe it will be two weeks before any report is made, Mr. Simmons said this might be done in a week or ten days.

J. K. MITCHELL HOME.

Man Whose Name Figured in Dorothy King Murder Case Returns.

John Kearsley Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell, who is the daughter of E. T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia partner of J. P. Morgan, returned yesterday aboard the White Star liner Majestic, from Europe, where they went last September with their sons, John Kearsley Jr. and Francis Mitchell.

When the Mitchells left New York Mr. Mitchell's name was still linked as "Mr. Marshall" with the investigation of the murder of Dorothy King, the young woman who was found in her apartment strangled with a silk stocking.

The Mitchells' maid, Emily Faloty, was operated on successfully for appendicitis, as was Mr. Mitchell, when they arrived at the Majestic, who numbered it his 200th operation at sea.

Other passengers included Viscount De Alte, Minister from Portugal to the United States; former Governor Percival Clement of Vermont, and Mrs. Clement; Miss Teddie Gerard, light opera singer, returning from an engagement in London because of the illness of her mother; Ray Goetz, husband of Irene Bordoni; Benjamin Jr. Strong of the Federal Reserve Bank, and Dr. George E. Vincent, President of the Rockefeller Foundation.

Another passenger was Charles V. Vickery of the Near East Relief, who announced that Dec. 7 next would be observed throughout Europe as Golden Rule Sunday. Mr. Vickery returned from a conference in Geneva at which representatives of thirty nations formulated plans for a World Fellowship of the Golden Rule.

Finds Fossil Whale In California Rocks

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., May 13.—What is believed to be the most nearly complete skeleton ever discovered of a squalodon, a whale that existed in the Miocene Age, one-half million to two million years ago, has been found by Charles Morrice, a student of prehistoric life, on Shark Tooth Mountain, near the Kern River oil fields.

Reconstruction of the squalodon, according to Mr. Morrice, has been made from far fewer fossil data than he has found. The skeleton has a skull larger than that of an elephant.

LOS ANGELES, May 13.—Petrified bones of a bison believed to have roamed the San Fernando Valley 35,000 years ago were being examined today at the Los Angeles Museum of History, Science and Art. The bones were unearthed yesterday by a construction crew twenty-five miles north of Los Angeles.

GRAB FOR PARK PATH IS DENIED BY MILLER

SURPRISED AT CHARGE

Silent on Statement Made at Park Defenders' Meeting Accusing Him of Secret Invasion.

Julius Miller, President of the Borough of Manhattan, expressed surprise when he learned yesterday from reports of Monday's meeting of organizations opposed to Central Park encroachments that some of the speakers had accused him of "starting to work secretly and quietly on a park encroachment of his own," by cutting through the park fence at Sixth Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street and leveling a new roadway to connect Sixth Avenue with one of the roads in the park.

The charge was attributed to Mrs. Maurice B. Jacobs. W. R. Roulstone, who presided at the meeting, which was held in the Sage Foundation Building, 130 East Twenty-second Street, was quoted as having said: "That has been a most improper action on the part of Borough President Miller. We will take such action in that matter as the committee advises."

Mr. Miller said he had no statement to make, as he had no desire to engage in a newspaper controversy. He turned over for inspection, however, the records of his department, including official documents and newspaper clippings on the subject, to show that in the matter of the Sixth Avenue improvement, an integral part of Mr. Miller's comprehensive plan for street changes and traffic betterments, there never had been any action taken secretly. A study of the records showed that the plan for a roadway connecting Fifty-ninth Street and Sixth Avenue with the Central Park driveways was widely distributed among all the civic associations and newspapers in the City of New York, and received favorable comment from every civic association and every newspaper.

When he was told of this record Mr. Roulstone said:

"I was unaware that there had been anything secret about it. My opinion was never asked as to the wisdom of cutting streets through the Park. In fact, I would suppose offhand that it would require legislative authority to put any streets through the Park, as I am under the impression that the precedents, at least, are that way.

"The persons who made those statements at yesterday's meeting were perhaps prompted by resentment at the apparent restriction of a part of the Park resulted by the building of the streets. They perhaps did not know that the matter had been handled by Mr. Miller in an orderly way. However, it is perhaps inappropriate for me to say that when Mr. Miller sees fit to be the Mayor in other matters involving Park encroachments, he is liable to bring himself under suspicion in enterprises not quite so objectionable.

"If we are going to prevent encroachments, we must prevent them all, even at the expense of having a few persons here and there think and say that we go too far in our measures of protection."

FEUD OVER FRESH AIR ENDS IN THREE DEATHS

Chicago Iron Worker Shoots Two Partisans of Open Window in Mill, Then Kills Himself.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 13.—Three men died today to settle a quarrel over the definition of fresh air.

John C. Gardner, 60, shot and killed R. W. Wilcox, 54, and Herman Krause, and then, pursued into Diversey Boulevard by a mob of angry iron workers, turned his pistol on himself.

The feud which reached its fatal climax today began last January in the plant of the Illinois Malleable Iron Company. Gardner, Wilcox and Krause at that time were all casting inspectors. Gardner had supervision over a section of the plant in which Wilcox's son, R. W. Wilcox Jr., was employed.

Young Wilcox opened a window which Gardner promptly closed. The youth, demanding that he be allowed to have fresh air, reopened the window, and so began a controversy into which his father was speedily drawn.

Krause, later promoted to a foremanship, was related to the Wilcoxes by marriage and took sides with them against Gardner. Animosity increasing daily, pitted the men against one another constantly and eventually began to pre yupon Gardner's mind.

Today Gardner came to the foundry armed. He found Wilcox and Krause together and without warning drew two revolvers and started to fire. Scores of employes leaped for cover under benches and iron working machines as bullets splintered partitions and smashed glass transoms.

Krause tumbled across the threshold leading into the plant. Three bullets were in his back. Wilcox, wounded twice, fell beside him to die.

Gardner paused long enough to reload, turned and ran out of the plant. Half a dozen workmen, hastily armed with crowbars, hammers and wrenches, gave chase. He turned about and halted them with a shot over their heads. Then with a defiant gesture put both pistols against his head and fired. He was dead when the pursuers reached him. A third pistol was found in his pocket.

Several workers told the police that they had heard Gardner complain of a cold, which he said was contracted in front of the window that young Wilcox insisted upon opening.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 13.—Mayor Edward L. Bader and the entire administration ticket were elected here today in the most exciting contest ever witnessed in this city. There were fist fights and attacks on election officials and political opponents from the opening of the polls, and more than 200 telephone wires leading to homes and offices of persons most actively interested in the outcome were cut. The wire cutters made mistakes here and there, and among these was the cutting of the telephone wire leading to the City Hospital early in the forenoon. This act aroused much indignation among residents of Atlantic City when it became known that a considerable delay was experienced in obtaining the services of a surgeon for two persons who had been asphyxiated.

Prosecutor Louis A. Repetto had provided 150 private detectives, recruited from New York, Philadelphia and other large cities to watch for election frauds, and when the leaders of the opposition ticket, headed by former Mayor Harry Bacharach, conceded defeat tonight they declared that the election had been stolen. They promised to establish irregularities through reports received from the detectives.

What Are the Danger Signals of Disease?

PHYSICIANS are often asked what are the first symptoms of the various diseases and what symptoms should be regarded as real danger signals indicating some serious organic trouble.

The wise physician will always answer that the time to begin looking for such danger signals is before there is evidence of any serious trouble. In most cases there are at least caution signals long in advance of actual disease. If these are heeded, the disease may be escaped, or deferred, sometimes for many years.

Even when people believe that nature has hung up a danger signal before them they are very likely to misinterpret the warning. If they have a pain in the back, for example, they jump to the conclusion that they have kidney trouble. Yet it probably means nothing of the sort. When there is disease of the kidneys, there may be sensitiveness to deep pressure, but there is rarely a "pain in the back."

The cause of such a pain is likely to be found at some distance from the back: in the tonsils or tooth sockets, for instance. A person who really has kidney trouble may not be conscious of any indication of it. If he waits for signs which he will recognize, it may be too late for him to avoid the wreck.

People need to be told that there are few chronic maladies which cannot be held in check if taken in time—even those of a serious character which affect the heart, blood-vessels and kidneys. The discovery that you have these maladies does not by any means condemn you to an early death. Most of the diseases which cause death at thirty, forty, fifty, and even later, are preventable, or at least can be deferred from a few to many years.

The Life Extension Institute was organized eleven years ago by a group of nationally known statesmen, physicians, educators and public-spirited businessmen, who believed that a vast amount of sickness could be prevented and human life extended many years by yearly physical examinations and education in correct personal hygiene. Since the Institute was organized, over 300,000 men and women have taken its examinations. These examinations are a part of the annual health services of the Institute which include a "General Health Service," costing $10.00 a year, and a "Standard Service," costing $25.00 a year.

The Institute's service includes a critical examination of the whole body, confidential detailed reports, suggestions as to any needed medical treatment, instructions in all phases of correct personal hygiene, and other valuable privileges.

The Institute renders no treatment, performs no operations, but makes a scientific survey of your life and body, and submits a report that assists your physician in making the final diagnosis and applying the necessary treatment for the correction of any physical defects.

Examinations are made at the Head Office in New York on appointment between the hours of 9 A. M. and 5 P. M. There are separate departments for women and children. Out-of-town subscribers can be examined either at the Head Office or at the office of the Institute's medical examiner in their locality.

The business of living is the most important business you have to consider. Every man, woman and child is engaged in this business. You cannot afford to entrust this business to quacks or faddists, or commercial borderline or get-well-quick schemes. Get yourself examined annually either by your family physician or by the Life Extension Institute and follow the counsel of science as to the correction of your defects and the better ordering of your life.

GALSWORTHY SENDS GREETING TO P. E. N.

Hopes to See Writers of Nations Convert Wilderness Into a Dream Garden.

NOTABLES AT CONVENTION

Many Countries Represented—Mrs. Deland Says Club Meets Materialism Attack.

Writers of prominence in fifteen countries attended the dinner given last night at the Hotel Pennsylvania as the opening ceremony of the second international convention of P. E. N., which was founded in England by John Galsworthy and Mrs. Dawson Scott, and the American centre of which has Carl Van Doren, associate editor of the Century Magazine, as President.

Mr. Van Doren presided. With him at the centre table were May Sinclair, Mrs. Scott and Muriel Gibbon, England; Mme. Olga Chekova, wife of Anton Chekov, Russia; Marco Besa, Rumenio; Jules Romaine, France; Arne Kildal, Norway; Dr. Ludwig Stein and Dr. Alfred Kerr, Germany; Rodolph Kommer, Austria; Miss J. G. Sime and Judge Fabre-Surveyor, Canada; Mme. Julie Ott, Denmark; Señor Tablada, Mexico; Dr. Berje Brilioth and Dr. Olaf Lamm, Consul General at New York, Sweden; H. Ansonio, Vice Consul, Japan, and Lajos Biro, Hungary. In all 300 persons were present.

The following message from Mr. Galsworthy was read by Mrs. Scott:

"Friends: I use the word that should never be used without sincerity. I have asked her in whose brain the P. E. N. Club first rested to take with her the few words of greeting to you all.

"That kind of generous hospitality of America, which I have experienced so often, with a wonder amounting almost to consternation, guarantees, I know, a true and moving success to this second international gathering of our club. I want to say to you that whenever we companions of the P. E. N. meet, as you are meeting tonight, a wave of goodwill is released which brings its aroma to absent companions in lands far away.

"I beg you seriously to believe that our meetings are not just festivities, but gestures of friendliness which have a deep and wide-reaching significance. pen, with the little 'p,' is mighty; the feelings of pen men and women are persuasive. We are the voices. Our club exists to convert the wilderness into a dream garden.

"Friends, the P. E. N. Club is a great thing: 'Friendliness between writers all over the world.' I believe I speak from your hearts, as well as from my own, when I say: 'With this dream we will go forward until we have made of it a great reality.'

"Good fortune to you all, and may you serve the dream."

This exhortation by Mr. Galsworthy was seconded by Mr. Van Doren, who suggested as a slogan for the club the phrase, "Books as Ambassadors."

Mrs. Margaret Deland, writing from Keanebunkport, Me., said that "it is only straight thinking which can save us from the materialism which is attacking the hopes of the world. The P. E. N. meets that attack in its recognition of the fact that ideas are the only finally conquering things in the universe."

PERU HEARS TROY RADIO.

Latin-American Students' Program Is Clearly Received in Arequipa.

Special to The New York Times.

TROY, N. Y., May 13.—The special program broadcast March 24 by Latin-Americans students of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, from Station WHAZ was received in South America, according to a letter which reached here today from L. Ancinas, of Arequipa, Peru.

The letter says the entire program was received clearly with a loud speaker plugged in on the detector circuit. A transmission of 4,000 miles in a direction at right angles to the aerial to the Troy station is regarded as remarkable, though WHAZ has been heard approximately 10,000 miles away in New Zealand and in the other direction, in Norway.

Wyoming Democratic Convention Binds Delegates to Senator.

CASPER, Wyo., May 13.—The Democratic Party today acquired another Presidential possibility following the State Democratic Convention here yesterday, at which Senator John B. Kendrick of Wyoming was put forth as the choice of the State party.

The six delegates to the national convention were instructed to vote for Senator Kendrick as long as they feel that he may win.

Senator Kendrick and Governor Ross were included in the delegates.

P. J. Quealy, of Kemmerer, was elected National Committeeman and Mrs. Burke Sinclair, of Casper, National Committeewomen.

Japanese Prince to Visit Us.

TOKIO, April 14 (Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Announcement of the route to be taken by the naval training squadron in a voyage around the world makes it certain that Prince Takamatsu, the third son of the Emperor of Japan, will visit American ports this year. Prince Takamatsu, now a midshipman at the Naval Academy at Etakima, will be aboard the cruiser Asama, flagship of the squadron, ranking merely as one of the 800 midshipmen.

ILLINOIS MEN URGE MADDEN FOR SPEAKER

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—At a meeting of the Republican members of the Illinois delegation in the House tonight, a resolution was adopted endorsing Representative Martin B. Madden of Chicago for Speaker if the next House is Republican.

The recent announcement of Speaker Gillett that he will be a candidate for the Senate this year means that the next House will have to elect a new presiding officer. The Illinois Republicans believe Mr. Madden will gain an advantage by early announcement that he will be a candidate.

"Illinois has contributed Uncle Joe Cannon and Jim Mann to the House of Representatives, and now presents the most powerful man on Capitol Hill," said Representative Britten tonight. "Mr. Madden is a tireless worker of undoubted honesty of purpose, and will make a Speaker of the House who will be a credit to Illinois and to the nation."

The Illinois candidate, who is serving his tenth term in Congress and is Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, will not be the only Republican aspirant for Speaker from the Middle West should the Republicans carry the House. Representative Longworth of Ohio, the present House leader, aspires to the office, as does Representative Burton, the veteran Ohio member. Representative Cooper of Wisconsin, one of the leaders of the Progressive bloc, will be put forward by the members of that group. It is understood that Representatives Graham of Pennsylvania, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, and Tilson of Connecticut, also will appear as candidates if the Republicans retain control of the House.

It seems to be taken for granted that Representative Garrett, the Democratic leader, will be the next Speaker, if his party wins in the November election.

Are Such Marriages Made In Heaven or Hell?

If a man, in the same woman, loves a body and hates a soul—If her lovely face is a mask for an ugly mind—If he marries her, what will the outcome be?

"THE QUEEN BEE"

A Startling New Serial by

ZONA GALE

When Bennio married Linnie, he knew her for what she was—a cold and heartless snob. And yet he loved her madly and she, for all her selfishness, loved him truly, too. Eternities apart in mind and soul. Irresistibly drawn to each other by passionate love that holds them together through seven married years. Then comes the inevitable. Zona Gale has written many a thrilling climax. But in sheer dramatic, breathless interest "The Queen Bee" outdoes anything that she has ever written before. Starting in the June Delineator.

A Planned Magazine of Service

From the far-reaching work of The Delineator's Service Departments many great national movements have grown. Every month The Delineator brings you the advice of the most eminent authorities on all vital questions of the home:

BETTER HOMES IN AMERICA
Founded by The Delineator in 1921. Incorporated as a public service organization in 1923 with the continued editorial support of The Delineator.

CHILD WELFARE

When Two Women Take Charge Of The Same Man

In "The Little White Lamb," Maud Hart Lovelace describes the amusing situation that results. Between them they manage to make a man of him. But then he has to go and propose to the wrong girl that he doesn't love! She completes her job by sending him right-about-face to the right girl. A most unusual tale with an unexpected ending that lets everyone live happily ever after.

The Finest Compliment A Wife Can Win

Martha Van Rensselaer, Head of Cornell University's School of Home Economics and The Delineator's Editor of Home-making, tells in the June issue about the finest compliment she ever heard paid to a wife. We aren't going to spoil her story by telling it here. Read "The Making of a Better Home," a most helpful article on the personal aspects of successful home making.

How A Chamber of Horrors Was Turned Into A Better Home

Baltimore recently staged one of the most interesting demonstrations made since the Better Homes in America campaign was inaugurated by The Delineator in 1921. The same room and furniture were used for two exhibits. One a horrible example; the other a model of good taste. You will find story and pictures of both arrangements in the June Delineator. You will be startled to learn that so great an improvement cost exactly $9.98.

Reliability of Delineator Advertisers Guaranteed

Ever since 1872 The Delineator has guaranteed the reliability of its advertisers. Delineator readers were then, have been ever since, and are now absolutely guaranteed against loss due to misrepresentation of goods advertised in The Delineator's pages. If any Delineator reader suffers any loss through such misrepresentation this loss will be promptly refunded. If the advertiser does not make good, we will.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Decline in Prices Halts on Stock Exchange—Francs Also Recover Slightly.

The break in prices which started out vigorously at the opening of Monday's market, and which was interrupted by irregular recovery before that day was over, made no further headway yesterday. That even professional operators for the decline had relaxed their activities was shown by the decrease in transactions on the Stock Exchange, where the shares dealt in fell to 520,000 as against Monday's 747,000. The two facts which appear to have been disclosed by the test of the home and foreign news with which the week began were, first, that the financial public at large was maintaining its attitude of calmness; second, that really substantial decline in any active stock brought what Wall Street calls "good buying." In other words, the consensus of financial opinion seemed to be that most of the news which moved the market when the week began had already been pretty much anticipated and "discounted."

Yesterday's stock market was made up of intermingled advances and declines, but the advances predominated and the changes were in most cases only fractional. Even in the shares whose prices moved a point or more, net changes upward or downward were about equal in number. So far as yesterday's market indicated the position, the Stock Exchange had fallen back into the general attitude of inertia which it had been displaying before the news of the "cut in oil" or of the Steel Corporation's reduction in unfilled orders or of the French election had stirred up Monday's momentary commotion. The inference was natural that the market and the financial public were waiting for other things—probably for news which must presently come from the White House. It is possible that, even when the President's action on the tax bill and the soldiers' bonus shall have become known, there will still be a period of suspended judgment until the nominating conventions. Thus far, that has seemed to be the season's financial mood.

European exchange rates also retraced some of their downward steps of Monday and in much the same way as the stock market; that is to say, the partial recovery around the close on Monday was carried a little further yesterday, after some irregular fluctuation. The Paris market seemed still to feel the shock of the unexpected election news; for the most active French bond declined a point, making 1¾ decline this week, and sterling again moved somewhat emphatically against Paris. But the franc closed slightly higher in New York; perhaps because more attention was paid to the London view of the French political reversal—that it will in no respect interfere with the pending negotiations over a German settlement, and that the change in French governmental personnel may actually help toward harmonious action by the Allies in applying the Dawes program. The new Chamber's attitude toward the 20 per cent. increase in the taxes is perhaps a matter of doubt, but the taxes are already in force, and any new Ministry will be well aware of the financial risk involved in tampering with them.

Yesterday's report on last month's foreign trade shows our gold imports during April to have been the largest of any month but one since 1922, and the gold arrivals for the ten completed months of the fiscal year to have been $132,271,000 greater than in the corresponding period a year ago. Undoubtedly our increasing merchandise export surplus had a hand in this; it was $693,860,000 in the ten-month period just past, as against $232,230,000. But the monthly excess of exports is not being maintained at its recent high level as against the export surplus of $138,690,000 in December, and $99,000,000 in January; it was only $19,000,000 in both March and April, which is less than in any month of 1913.

Of last month's foreign trade in merchandise alone, it is to be observed that, except for 1923 and 1920, it is the largest April movement ever reported but that the exports also were the largest of any April since 1920. It is possible that, when the international trade movement eventually adjusts itself to the international debit and credit account, both tendencies will be emphasized. It was England's experience, under exactly parallel circumstances, a century ago, that the import trade expanded in such volume as to create a permanent surplus of imports, yet that the export trade also increased continuously.

MONEY.

TUESDAY, MAY 13, 1924.

Neither call nor time money showed any change from previously prevailing charges; comparatively light demand, while supply keeps piled up to overflowing, making for relatively cheap accommodation. Call loans were arranged at 3½ per cent., with fixed periods at 3¾@4 per cent. up to ninety days, and beyond that at 4@4½. Actual business was confined to thirty-day renewals at 4 per cent. City institutions continued uninterested in merchants' notes under 4¼ per cent., while country banks accepted exceptionally prime name bills at 4½. Acceptances dull and without change.

CENTRAL'S CITY LINE REVENUES DECREASE

Railroad Operates Fourth Avenue and 86th Street Crosstown Properties.

The gross and the net operating revenue of the Fourth and Madison Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street Crosstown car lines showed a decrease in the first nine months of their fiscal year, as compared with the same period last year. These properties are operated by the New York & Harlem Railroad, which is controlled by the New York Central.

Operation of the company was forced upon the New York Central after the street railway section of the New York & Harlem went into the hands of a receiver. Since Jan. 1, 1921, the property has been managed under the direction of the railroad company.

The steam railroad property was leased to the New York Central, of which it now forms an important part, and the street car lines to the New York Railways Company. This company was unable to pay the rental and the street railroad section of the New York & Harlem passed into the hands of the receivers.

Figures for the nine months of the fiscal year ended March 31, still subject to revision, show passenger revenue of $1,001,638, against $1,112,972 in the same period of the previous fiscal year, while the total revenue was $1,110,522, against $1,124,882. Operating expenses were $975,782, compared with $960,006, despite a decrease in maintenance of more than $67,000 in nine months.

For the nine months' period the net deficit is $55,262, against a deficit of $68,621 for the nine months ended March 31, 1923, a gain of $13,409. This improved condition is due to a reduction in fixed charges to $115,071 from $175,100 in the period covered.

The deficit on the street railway portion of the property had little effect on the stock, as the New York Central pays about $1,420,000 a year for the rental of the steam railroad property and a part of the site of the Grand Central Terminal.

To Handle Stock Exchange Bonus.

George W. Duggan, an employe of the New York Stock Exchange, has been designated by William Tapley, New York Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, to handle the State bonus applications of employes of the Exchange. This appointment was made following a conference between Commander Tapley and F. R. Buckbee, personal secretary to Seymour L. Cromwell, President of the Stock Exchange. Mr. Duggan, who served in the war with the "Fighting Eleventh U. S. Engineers," is a Deputy Inspector of the New York State Veterans of Foreign Wars.

NATION'S RAILROADS SPEED UP FREIGHT

Move Each Car an Average of 27.3 Miles a Day in March, Breaking Month's Record.

American railroads moved cars faster in March this year than in any other March in their history, the Bureau of Railway Economics reports. The average movement per freight car was 27.3 miles a day. This exceeds by three-tenths of a mile the average for March, 1923, and by 3.3 miles the average for March, 1920.

In computing the average movement per day, account is taken of all freight cars in service, whether in transit, in process of being loaded and unloaded, undergoing or awaiting repairs, or temporarily on side tracks.

The average load was 26.6 tons, a decrease of 1.8 tons, compared with March a year ago, and of 1.5 tons, compared with March, 1920.

The month's traffic amounted to 36,420,962,000 net ton miles, a decrease of 2,800,772,000, or 7.1 per cent. from a year ago. It was also 1,431,090,000 net ton miles, or 3.8 per cent. less than in March, 1920.

The loss in freight was greatest in the Eastern District. The traffic in that district totaled 19,114,271,000 net ton miles, a decrease of 7.6 per cent. In the Southern District it was 5,168,899,000 net ton miles, a decrease of 7.3 per cent. Traffic in the Western District was 12,-138,292,000 net ton miles, or a decrease of 6.3 per cent.

For the first quarter, traffic was 108,-884,737,000 net ton miles, a decrease of 2.4 per cent. since a year ago, when the greatest volume of traffic for any corresponding period on record was handled.

BANK PLANS PENSION FUND.

National of South Africa Reports £ 228,127 Profit for Year.

A profit of £228,127 for the fiscal year ended March 31 is reported by the National Bank of South Africa, according to an announcement yesterday by Leopold R. Morgan, New York agent.

The annual meeting of shareholders will be held in Pretoria on Aug. 8, when, Mr. Morgan was informed, the directors will "recommend that out of the net profit there shall be placed to reserve fund an amount of £150,000, and to the Pension Fund, £50,000.

Holidays for Coffee and Sugar Men.

Members of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange have voted to close the Exchange on Saturday, May 31, and on all Saturdays during June, July and August.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Stock Market Returns to Inertia.

Although prices in general yesterday recovered part of the ground lost on Monday, operations on the Stock Exchange as a whole were dull and uninteresting. Trading was on a much reduced scale as compared with the opening day of the week, and operations were chiefly confined to the speculative industrial "leaders," in which net declines and advances were numerous and bore no relation to one another. There were a few stocks which attracted attention because of their swift recovery from the low levels of Monday, including Stewart Warner, General Electric, Colorado Fuel and Iron and Marland Oil, but these were offset in part by declines in other sections of the list, including Norfolk & Western, Congoleum, Crucible Steel, American Woolen and Cuba Cane Sugar preferred. Steel common ended the day with a fractional gain, as did Republic Steel and Bethlehem, but the oil stocks as a group did little, except for a moderate recovery in the Standard Oil issues on the outside market. Sugar stocks were again affected by the lower prices for this commodity, although the larger companies are reporting favorable earnings for the first quarter of the year.

The Wall Street Theory.

If one could judge from the remarks of the speculative part of Wall Street yesterday, the most obvious need of the stock market at the present time is an aggressive leader. This is the summary of talk heard in brokerage offices and in banks and around every Stock Exchange ticker. Here and there one or two stocks are taken up and given a rapid whirl, but this is more or less confined to issues with which this or that clique or individual is identified, and, naturally enough, the market as a whole does not follow these intermittent and spasmodic attempts to turn it about. It has been asserted frequently, in the last two or three weeks, that "all the market needs to turn it definitely about is the right sort of aggressive leadership." On this point the somewhat illogical remark usually follows that unfortunately most of those who would be measured in popular estimation as "market leaders" are so closely engaged on the other side that they can hardly leave it at the moment.

Sentiment and Business.

A number of bankers interviewed yesterday said that the "dullest week" in point of new business developments appeared now to be here. In New York, they agreed, and particularly in Wall Street, there was apparent an atmosphere of gloominess, but they added that in most of the important cities South and West business seemed to be regarded as entirely healthy. "One trouble with us," an officer of one institution said, "is that in making comparisons of business activity we invariably compare current earnings with those of last year." By so doing, he explained, a record period of activity has been set up as the gauge by which current business is being measured, whereas, when compared with the usual flow of trade, present position compares very favorably. In common with several other financiers, this one suggested that little would happen to stir things up until the latter half of the Summer, a general date which has been set for a sort of revival of industry. If for no other reason than that everybody is looking to the latter half of the year for good business, he suggested, there is likely to be an improvement.

Upward Movements of Railroad Shares.

In the quiet market of yesterday, watchers of the railroad situation had time to call attention to the unusual method the railroad shares have taken for their advances in the stock market of the past year. It was pointed out that the movements for the most part had been one by one. For example, Baltimore & Ohio common, on the resumption of a common stock dividend, had a movement all its own. Then the Southern Railway followed suit. The New York Central came next, again on an increase in dividends. Recently the Norfolk & Western, the Atlantic Coast Line, the Atchison, the Pere Marquette, the Wabash "A" preferred and the Chesapeake & Ohio have "slipped away from the rest of the market" on reports of improved conditions. In almost every case the upward movement of a given week has been made by an individual stock rather than by the railroad shares as a group.

The Next Adjustment in Steel Wages.

Despite the fact that certain steel producers in the Pittsburgh and Youngstown districts have branded the recent talk of reduced wages in the steel industry as propaganda on the part of consumers who hope to bring about lower prices for finished steel products, the belief prevails in both financial and leading trade circles that if any adjustment is made around the middle of the year it will be downward. The initiative in reducing wages is expected to be taken by one of two of the larger independent companies, and, if this actually occurs, the opinion of most steel interests seems to be that it will take only a short time for the entire industry to follow suit. A slight decline of 1½ per cent. has been made in the base scale of workers in some of the tin plate and sheet mills. This change arises from the selling prices of the products and is automatic; but nevertheless it was accepted in the trade yesterday as indicating the current trend of wage rates.

Seeking a New Name.

Since the demise of Studebaker old stock, one of the "Four Horsemen," of which United States Steel common, American Can and Baldwin are the other three, authorities on Wall Street vernacular have been casting about for an appropriate name for the market leaders, which have now been whittled down to three in number. One suggestion yesterday was that they be dubbed the "Three Musketeers."

***

In the Market for New Loans.

The market for new bonds is distinctly a seller's market rather than a buyer's market, according to the statement of one investment banker yesterday. He said that underwriting houses were scouring the woods for new issues to float, but were unable to find more than a few issues here and there. And to make the demand for new issues even stronger than at present, he told about Canadian interest in dollar bonds. "Out of our last three week's business," he said, "about $15,000,000 worth was subscribed by Canada, this representing Canadian buying of American dollar bonds." All of this was interpreted as giving point to recently expressed theories that Canada had actually become a "capital nation" rather than a borrowing nation. For the time, at least, it has money enough not only to take care of its own internal offerings but also to subscribe to foreign issues, and in this respect may become an important money lender even in the American market.

TROLLEY'S TROUBLE OF 15 YEARS TO END

Second Avenue Railroad Soon Will Be Reorganized and the Receiver Discharged.

COMMITTEE DEVISING PLAN

Road Now Almost on a Paying Basis —Two of Four Receivers Have Died While in Office.

The Second Avenue Railroad, which has been in the hands of a receiver fifteen and a half years, is about to be run again without the courts' aid. Plans for a reorganization will be presented by a committee within a few weeks, and, when ratified by the several groups of bondholders, will be submitted to the courts, with a view to terminating the receivership by next Fall.

The receivership is believed to have set a record for duration among the city's street railways. The company was incorporated in 1853, and its line leased in 1898 to the Metropolitan Street Railway Company at an annual rental of 8 per cent. on the stock for the first three years and 9 per cent. thereafter.

In September, 1908, Supreme Court Justice Bischoff appointed a receiver of the company in a suit brought by the Guaranty Trust Company to foreclose the consolidated mortgage of $5,682,000, against which there had been issued a like amount of 5 per cent. consolidated gold bonds, due Feb. 1, 1948. These bonds represented a tragic investment for hundreds of persons who saw their holdings drop to virtually nothing. Some of the bondholders have died meanwhile, and two of four receivers have died in office. Charles E. Chalmers, the present receiver, has served more than four years.

It is understood that a reduction of outstanding equities will be required for the company's restoration.

The receiver's report for the nine months ended March 31, submitted to the Transit Commission yesterday, shows that the Second Avenue is about the only surface railway company in Manhattan that in this period reported financial improvement. Passenger revenues were $714,906, an increase of $62,262 over the same period a year ago. Operating revenue was $796,790, an increase of $49,715, while operating expenses were $658,547, a decrease of $22,044.

The total gross income applicable to corporate and leased properties was $71,196, against a deficit of $633 in the preceding period, or an improvement of $71,828. After allowing for fixed charges of $158,996, practically all of which is in interest, there was a net corporate deficit of $87,801, compared to a deficit of $145,528 a year ago. No charge for depreciation is contained in the receiver's report.

The total bonded debt is $8,860,000.

PACIFIC OIL SURPLUS.

Annual Report Shows $1,938,111 After $7,000,000 Dividends.

The Pacific Oil Company, like most other companies on the Pacific Coast, had to curtail production last year to meet competition, according to Paul Shoup, President of the Pacific Oil Company. In his remarks to stockholders in connection with the annual report Mr. Shoup said that during 1923 the Pacific Oil Company had to meet competition of the flush production in the three large Southern California oil fields. Because of this the management deemed it prudent therefore to restrict production of oil beyond taking care of contract obligations, and keep the oil underground until better prices would be obtained. The base price dropped from $1.60 a barrel in 1921 to sixty cents a barrel in 1923, but since the beginning of 1924 the price has recovered to $1 a barrel. Earnings of last year as a result reflected the low-price situation.

The annual report of the company for 1923 shows a surplus of $1,938,111 after the payment of $7,000,000 in cash dividends and not a deficit of $1,561,889, as reported yesterday. The company for 1923 reported gross earnings of $19,876,001 and net operating income of $9,635,761. After reserves for depreciation, depletion and taxes, the company reported surplus income of $8,938,111, equal to $2.55 a share on the 3,500,000 shares of no par value capital stock outstanding.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED.

Glen Alden Coal, Remington Typewriter and Tea Company.

Directors of the Glen Alden Coal Company yesterday declared a dividend of $3 a share on the capital stock of the company, payable June 20, to stockholders of record May 31. In December the company declared a dividend of $2.50 a share, payable on the 20th of that month, while a year ago the company paid a $2 dividend.

The Remington Typewriter Company yesterday announced the declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the first preferred stock and a $2 dividend on the second preferred stock. The dividend on the first preferred stock is payable July 1, to stockholders of record June 21, and the second preferred dividend is payable June 20, to stockholders of record June 14.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the common stock, payable June 15, to stockholders of record June 10. This places the stock on a regular $4 annual dividend basis. Previously the company had been paying dividends at the rate of $3 a share annually. The regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. was also declared on the preferred stock, payable June 1, to stockholders of record May 15.

GENERAL MOTORS LABOR.

Employes of the Corporation Numbered 94,647 in March.

Employes of the General Motors Corporation totaled 94,647 last March, according to that corporation's report yesterday. This represented a reduction of approximately 7,000 from the February figure which was the record high for all time, but was an increase of nearly 5,500 over March 1923, of nearly 39,000 over March, 1922, and of more than 50,000 over March, 1921.

The figures, which do not include employes of the Fisher Body Company and other affiliated companies, follow for the first three months of this year and corresponding periods of 1923, 1922 and 1921:

February	101,506	84,242	50,734	40,089
March	94,647	80,187	55,961	44,488

The General Motors Corporation has plants in thirty-eight cities in the United States, Canada and overseas.

COPPER PRICE DROPS AGAIN.

Export Quoted at 13.15 Cents Here —Domestic, 13¼ to 13⅜ Cents.

Prices for export copper were shaded another fraction of a cent. yesterday, being quoted at 13.15 cents a pound, f.a.s. New York Harbor, or 13.40 cents c.i.f. London or Hamburg. The new prices represent a drop of from 5 to 10 points from Monday's levels.

The domestic market for copper continues dull, most producers quoting at from 13¼ to 13⅜ cents a pound, depending upon the amount wanted. Copper for future delivery is quoted a shade higher than spot price. Demand continues on a small scale compared with recent months, and most sales are for immediate shipment.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Early Weakness Succeeded by Vigorous Upswing on Proposal to Check Franc Speculation.

European exchanges fluctuated irregularly yesterday, at least for a time in the forenoon when some of the nervousness of Monday, which followed an upset of the best calculations on the French elections, caused further declines, but cable advices that the French Minister of Finance had been instructed by the Cabinet to take all neccessary measures to prevent speculative maneuvers against the franc, soon lifted the market out of its decline and put all rates up for good size gains.

The franc started weak as a result of pressure in the markets abroad, in London the Paris bill selling down to 5.42 cents, but our start at 5.57¾ cents, narrowed this to a 3-point loss overnight. Renewed liquidation in the forenoon ran this into greater decline, after which the action of the French Cabinet brought a covering movement which put the rate up to 5.67½ cents. Belgian franc followed with a gain of 12 points at 4.82 cents.

Sterling alternated between $4.36⅝ and $4.36¼ in the early trading, but firmed a fraction at the close to $4.36⅜. Swedish kroner was again in demand at a new high at 26.55 cents, but other Scandinavians were heavy. Italian, Holland and Spanish documents started lower, but recovered with the general trend. Far Easterns and South Americans were slightly higher.

EMPLOYMENT SHOWS DROP.

Slight Decline Reported in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—Reports received by the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia from nearly 1,000 manufacturing establishments in Pennsylvania and New Jersey show that employment and wages both receded slightly in April, as compared with March. In Pennsylvania employment and total weekly wages declined nearly 1 per cent., while in New Jersey employment fell off nearly 2 per cent. and wages nearly 3 per cent.

"Textile and clothing plants," the bank statement says, "reported the largest declines of any of the groups and were principally responsible for the general recession."

PLAN TO SPEED UP PASSENGER TRAFFIC

Railway Officials Are Preparing a Far-Reaching Program of Improvement.

MOTOR UNITS TO BE ADDED

Handling of Patrons Also to Be Bettered—Several Lines Have Bought New Trains.

Officials of the American Railway Association are considering a comprehensive plan for improving passenger service throughout the country as far-reaching as the program for the improvement of the freight service undertaken in 1923, which cost the railroads $1,500,000,000.

Improvement of the through service, the speeding up of long hauls by the elimination of many stops, the use of motor car units for local business and the addition of new equipment are some of the matters being discussed.

The size of the undertaking, it was recently pointed out, makes it even more difficult to handle than was the freight problem of 1923. Hundreds of individual problems must be met by the passenger departments of each railroad which complicate the preparation of a plan for the nation.

Many of the railroads have realized the importance of the long-haul passenger business as a revenue producer. Recently the Illinois Central added a new train with all modern equipment, including shower baths. The New York Central has improved its service into Canada, the Lehigh Valley has increased its service both to Chicago and into Canada, and the Pennsylvania has rearranged some of its schedules to improve the passenger service. The St. Paul and the Chicago & Alton are among the railroads which have recently placed orders for entire new trains.

One of the most imoprtant of the proposed improvements will be the closer application of motor units. It is pointed out that these units can relieve the through trains which in many instances are running part of the way as locals and can in other instances compete with the motor buses on even terms.

Methods for the better handling of passengers are to be studied and the men back of the program will assure the railroads that public opinion on the railroad question in any locality is largely the reflection of the manner in which the passenger traffic is handled.

STOCK PRICES SHOW BIG SHIFT IN 20 YEARS

Steel Common, May 13, 1904, 8⅜; Now 96½—New Haven Road 186½; Now 19¼.

It was recalled in Wall Street yesterday that exactly twenty years ago, on May 13, 1904, United States Steel common sold at its low price for all time, 8⅜, and the preferred stock at 51¾. Yesterday the common closed at 96⅛ and the preferred at 118⅝.

Many persons spoke of the trading in Steel common, not then the market leader, it is now, when it touched its low price. The corporation was organized in 1901 and the stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange after a brief career on the Curb market. The low price was made in a period in which Wall Street was having a "railroad market," in which the railroad shares, rather than the industrials, were in high favor.

On the same day that Steel common sold at 8⅜, according to the records, New York, New Haven & Hartford stock sold at 186½. Yesterday it closed at 19¼. A comparison of the table of that day with yesterday's stock market table shows a large number of similar shifts in investment and speculative position by popular stocks. For instance, Corn Products Refining sold at 10⅝ twenty years ago yesterday, and the old stock, before the split-up, recently sold above 187. Manhattan Elevated sold at 142 on that day, as compared with 54½ yesterday; while Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, which sold at 75¼ yesterday, was quoted at 29½ twenty years ago, and Atchison, which sold at 102¼ yesterday, was traded in around 68 in 1904.

The total sales on the New York Stock Exchange twenty years ago yesterday were 395,906 shares, represented by 115 issues. Yesterday 518,425 shares were transferred, representing 367 separate issues.

The highest price at which Steel common ever sold was 136⅝, established on May 31, 1917, in the height of a roaring bull market.

GOVERNORS ELECT JOHNSON

New Vice President and Stock Exchange Board Members Announced.

The Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange elected on Monday Walter L. Johnson of the firm of Shearson, Hammill & Co. Vice President of the institution.

The results of Monday's election were announced to members from the rostrum. These showed that Blair S. Williams, who was nominated a member of the Board of Governors on an independent ticket, defeated Charles V. Benton, who was named by the Nominating Committee. In addition to Mr. Williams, the following were elected to the Board of Governors, to serve for four years; Winthrop Burr, Edwin M. Carter, Seymour L. Cromwell, Allen L. Lindley, Gerald M. Livingston, Henry K. Pomroy, S. S. Prince, Edward Roesler and Erastus T. Tefft. Charles S. Sargent Jr. was elected a Governor to serve for two years, and Howard Butcher, Jr., and Walter W. Hess, to serve for one year.

Henry K. Pomroy was elected Trustee of the Gratuity Fund, to serve for five years, and Seymour L. Cromwell was elected a trustee, for three years.

REPORT OF MACK TRUCKS.

Net Profits of $1,430,307 Earned in the First Quarter.

Mack Trucks, Inc., reports net profit of $1,430,307 for the first quarter of 1924 after all deductions. This is equal to $4.04 a share earned on the 283,108 shares of common stock outstanding. In the same period last year the company reported net profits equal to $4.34 a share earned on the common.

The balance sheet on March 31, 1924, shows net current assets of $26,926,962 against net current liabilities of $2,775,709. The current assets included $3,301,883 cash, $8,791,166 accounts receivable and inventory valued at $16,833,913. The profit and loss surplus on March 31, 1924, was reported at $18,836,507.

Borden Rights Admitted to Curb.

Rights to subscribe to the new stock of the Borden Company were admitted to trading on the New York Curb Market yesterday. The company expects to raise $2,686,800 as a result of the sale of additional stock. This is the first new financing undertaken by the company since 1909.

BANKERS TRUST COMPANY, NEW YORK, TRUSTEE

The following information has been summarized by Mr. C. I. Pierce, President of Saline County Coal Corporation, from his letter to the bankers.

Organization: The Saline County Coal Corporation has been incorporated under the laws of the State of Illinois to acquire the properties and business of Big Creek Coals, Inc., and the mining property and leaseholds of Harrisburg Colliery Company. The two companies which are being consolidated have established production records, dating from 1903 in the case of Big Creek Coals, Inc., and have extensive marketing organizations. The demand for coal has in every year with but one exception exceeded the amount produced. The consolidated company will be one of the largest operators in Southern Illinois.

Properties: The Saline County Coal Corporation will control 28,557 acres of coal lands in Saline and Fulton Counties, Illinois, of which 8,565 will be owned in fee and the balance of 19,992 acres controlled through unusually favorable long term leases, largely from a subsidiary of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Ry. Co. which originally opened the Saline County field in 1904. This acreage contains over 159,000,000 tons of recoverable coal in No. 5 seam alone to which the present operations are confined. The mines are largely in the heart of the Southern Illinois field, which is the dominating coal field of the State in both quality of coal and output. The capacity of the mines is in excess of 15,000 tons per day, or about 3,000,000 tons per annum, and the annual output for the past seven years has averaged 1,797,000 tons, the minimum production being 1,362,000. The mines are adequately served by the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis, as well as by the Illinois Central, Louisville & Nashville and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy systems.

Security: The bonds will be secured in the opinion of counsel by a first mortgage on all the property of the company owned at the date of the execution of the mortgage or thereafter acquired. The properties have been valued by Edward V. d'Invilliers Engineering Company at $7,681,419 or over 3 times the amount of First Mortgage Bonds to be presently outstanding. The properties owned in fee and improvements thereon alone are valued in excess of $6,000,000, or 2.4 times the amount of First Mortgage Bonds now to be issued. No value has been given to the No. 6 seam of coal which underlies the Saline County properties throughout but which is as yet undeveloped. The balance sheet of the new company as of April 1, 1924 giving effect to this financing shows net current assets exceeding $750,000.

Sinking Fund: The mortgage will provide for minimum sinking fund payments sufficient to retire the entire issue by maturity. Sinking fund monies will be applied monthly to the purchase of bonds at not exceeding their call price or, whenever due to the inability of the Trustee to purchase bonds at or below the call price there shall have accumulated in the sinking fund the sum of $50,000, to their redemption by lot at 103 and accrued interest.

Earnings: The consolidated net earnings after all maintenance, available for interest, depreciation, depletion, replacements and Federal Income Taxes, for the seven years ended March 31, 1924 have averaged $843,600 per annum, or over five times maximum interest requirements on this issue, and over three times the interest and minimum sinking fund charges thereon. In none of these years have such net earnings been less than twice the present interest charges of this issue.

Management: The management of the Saline County Coal Corporation will be the same as that which opened the first mine of Big Creek Coal Company, in 1903 and which has built up the business from an output of approximately 250,000 tons per annum, to a capacity of 2,400,000 tons prior to the acquisition of the Harrisburg property, which has increased the total capacity to 3,000,000 tons per annum.

The properties of Big Creek Coals, Inc., exclusive of coal lands and mining rights were appraised by Coats & Burchard Company, Chicago; those of the Harrisburg Colliery Company by Allen & Garcia Company, Chicago. The combined properties including coal lands, mining rights and developments have been examined and appraised by Geo. S. Baton & Company, Pittsburg and by Edward V. d'Invilliers Engineering Company of Philadelphia.

The accounts of Big Creek Coals, Inc., have been audited by Lewis, Murphy & Company, Chicago, and those of the Harrisburg Colliery Company by Arthur Andersen & Company, Chicago.

We offer these bonds when, as and if issued and subject to approval of our counsel Messrs. White & Case of New York City at

94 and accrued interest to yield over 7%

SMALL SURPLUS OF EXPORTS IN APRIL

IMPORT SURPLUS YEAR AGO

Last Month's Gold Imports $45,418,118; For the Ten Months Since Last June, $350,770,871.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Increasing exports and decreasing imports characterized the foreign trade of the United States for the ten months ending with April, as compared today by the Commerce Department. For April merchandise exports were $343,000,000, against $325,492,175 for the corresponding month last year. This compares with imports of $324,000,000. In April a year ago imports were $394,252,544.

Exports for the ten months ending with April were valued at $3,670,938,080, against $3,320,416,930 for the corresponding period ending in April, 1923, an increase of $350,521,130. Imports for the ten months' period were $2,977,077,487, against $3,088,186,074 for the corresponding period last year, a decrease of $111,108,587.

Gold exports for April were valued at $1,390,537, against $655,227 for April, 1923. Gold imports of April, 1924, were $45,418,118, against $9,198,470 for April, 1923.

The value of gold imports for the ten months ending April, 1924, was $350,770,871, against $218,499,816 for the same period in 1923. Gold exports for the ten months ending April, 1924, were $9,345,636, against $47,649,047 for the corresponding period last year.

Gold imports exceeded gold exports during April by $44,027,578, and for the ten months ending April, 1924, by $341,425,235.

Silver exports for April were valued at $7,804,659, against $4,336,328 for April, 1923. Imports of silver for April were $3,907,745, against $4,261,869 for April, 1923.

April foreign trade in merchandise for a series of years compares as follows (+ indicating excess of imports, — excess of exports):

	Exports.	Imports.	Excess.
1924...	$343,000,000	$324,000,000	—$19,000,000
1923...	$325,492,175	$64,252,544	X $8,760,369
1922...	$318,481,806	$217,023,142	—101,458,736
1921...	$340,454,105	$85,654,781	—254,799,324
1920...	$684,319,892	$95,738,571	—588,580,321
1919...	714,800,187	272,956,949	—441,843,188
1914...	162,552,870	173,762,114	+ 11,209,544

Compared with preceding months of the present season, the April figures make the following showing:

	Exports. 1924.	Imports. 1924.	Excess. 1924.
April...	$343,000,000	$324,000,000	—$19,000,000

ATLANTIC COAST LINE.

Special Meeting Tomorrow Revives Stock-Dividend Rumors.

Directors of the Atlantic Coast Line will attend a special meeting tomorrow. Whether the meeting has to do with the declaration of an extra stock or cash dividend, as rumored in the financial district for the past few days, representatives of the company declined to state.

The decision of Henry Walters, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Atlantic Coast Line to call a special meeting, was considered in the financial district as a justification for the rumors of an extra dividend, either in cash or stock. Officials of the company yesterday maintained that any forecast of what might take place at the meeting Thursday was purely guesswork.

With $67,556,200 in common stock outstanding of an authorized issue of $76,000,000, it was pointed out that the company would have to apply to the Interstate Commerce Commission for an increase in stock before being in a position to declare a fair-sized stock dividend. A stock dividend, nevertheless, would be in line with the 1923 developments of the Louisville & Nashville, controlled by the Atlantic Coast Line.

Those in close touch with the company maintained yesterday that an extra cash dividend was within the range of possibility. In this connection they recalled the conservative policy of Henry Walters in his conduct of his affairs of the company.

Power Company Extends Service.

The Mississippi Power and Light Company has acquired the power station of the Tupelo Cotton Mills, Tupelo, Miss., and has contracted to furnish the mills and the City of Tupelo with electric power.

AMERICAN ICE MEETING.

Stockholders to Vote on $3,375,000 Debenture Issue.

A special meeting of stockholders of the American Ice Company has been called for June 10 for the purpose of authorizing the creation of an issue of $3,375,000 7 per cent. convertible debentures, which will be offered to stockholders at par as soon as the issue is approved. The proceeds, according to Wesley M. Oler, President of the company, will be used for expansion.

For some time past reports have been circulated in the financial district that the American Ice Company was negotiating to take over another large company, but efforts to obtain information covering the name of the organization have thus far been fruitless. Success of the issue has been assured, as a syndicate of large stockholders have underwritten all debentures not subscribed for by stockholders. Stockholders of record May 20 will have the right to subscribe to the debentures, and the subscription warrants expire July 15.

COMMONWEALTH EARNINGS.

Light and Power Company's Gross for 1923 Was $2,362,030.

The Commonwealth Light and Power Company in its consolidated statement of earnings for 1923 shows gross of $2,362,030; net after expenses and all prior charges of subsidiaries, $406,247, and balance available for depreciation, amortization, &c., after interest on bonds and notes, $136,965.

Interest earned for the first mortgage 6 per cent. bonds was $143,400, nearly three times the requirements, while the interest earned for the refunding and unifying bonds and secured gold notes was $121,881, or more than double the requirements.

Federal Sugar Cuts Price.

The Federal Sugar Refining Company yesterday announced another reduction of 15 points in the wholesale price of refined sugar, bringing the quotation down to 7.15 cents a pound, a new low record for the current year.

INVESTORS EXCEED NEW BOND ISSUES

Dealers in Securities Are Looking Over Every Possible Field for Business.

TODAY'S TOTAL $6,000,000

Rush of Canadians to Purchase American Offerings Swells Surplus of Available Funds.

Investment bankers are looking over the industrial, public utility and railroad fields for new business. With a market described as strong, they are confronted with a scarcity of new issues. Some large financing projects are in sight, but it is not expected that any of the larger of these issues will be brought out for another fortnight.

Surplus funds available for investment, it was learned yesterday, have been increased by an influx of Canadian money. One house reported that in three weeks it had handled approximately $15,000,000 of buying orders for Canada, this money going into American dollar bonds.

Bankers also are looking over the foreign field for new business. It was reported yesterday that plans were nearly complete for the offering of bonds for Peru, proceeds to be used for railway construction; that American houses would bid on prospective financing by Canadian provinces, and should Sweden decide to come into the market for a loan of $20,000,000 as reported there would be no difficulty experienced in floating that amount. Another issue in sight consists of $3,000,000 State of California 4½ per cent. road bonds.

New issues scheduled for offering today amount to more than $6,000,000. An issue of $2,500,000 Saline County Coal Corporation first mortgage 6½ per cent. twenty-year sinking fund gold bonds, Series A, is being offered by the Bankers Trust Company, Stone & Webster, Inc., Graham, Parsons & Co., Curtis & Sanger, William R. Compton Company and the National City Bank of Chicago. The bonds will mature on May 1, 1944, and are priced at 94, to yield more than 7 per cent. A sinking fund will retire the bond issue by maturity.

The offering price of the $2,000,000 General Railway Signal Company first mortgage twenty-year 6½ per cent. convertible gold bonds has been set at 98½, to yield 6.65 per cent., by Merrill, Lynch & Co.; Schoellkopf, Hutton & Pomeroy, Inc., of Buffalo, and Sage, Wolcott & Steele and Hibbard, Palmer & Kitchen, both of Rochester, which firms are underwriting the issue.

J. S. Rippel & Co. and Remick, Hodges & Co. are offering an issue of $1,000,000 New York and New Jersey Joint Stock Land Bank (Newark, N. J.) 5 per cent. bonds, due Dec. 1, 1953, at 101½, to yield in excess of 4.80 per cent., to the optional date, Dec. 1, 1933, and 5 per cent. thereafter to redemption or maturity.

An issue of $422,000 City of Clifton, N. J., 5 per cent. coupon gold bonds, divided into $236,000 water and $186,000 improvement bonds, is being offered by Bonbright & Co.; Batchelder, Wack & Co. and C. W. Whitis & Co. The bonds, which are due on April 1, 1925-1964, inclusive, are priced to yield 4.70 per cent. for all maturities.

A. B. Leach & Co. are offering $225,000 New Hanover County, N. C., 5 per cent. Court House gold bonds, due Jan. 1, 1929-1950, and priced to yield 4.75 per cent.

Gibson & Leefe are offering $150,000 North Carolina 4½ per cent. building bonds, due Oct. 1, 1963, at prices to yield 4.65 per cent.

A diversified list of bonds is being offered by Salomon Brothers & Hutzler. The list consists of $400,000 South Pacific equipment 5s to yield 5 per cent. for all maturities from 1932 to 1939 inclusive; $300,000 Baltimore & Ohio, Southwestern Division, first 3½s, due 1925, to yield 4.95 per cent.; $100,000 South Pacific refunding 4s, due 1963, to yield 5.07 per cent.; $100,000 Chicago Union Station first mortgage 5s, due 1963, to yield 5.07 per cent.; $100,000 Western Electric debenture 5s, due 1944, to yield 5.20 per cent.; $100,000 Virginian Railway first mortgage 5s, due 1962, to yield 5.29 per cent.; $100,000 Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 4½s, due 1930, to yield 6 per cent.; $100,000 Southwestern Bell Telephone first refunding 5s, due 1954, to yield 5.40 per cent.; $250,000 New York State 4½s, due 1927, to yield 3.95 per cent.; $250,000 New York State 4½s, due 1930, to yield 4 per cent., and $5,000,000 United States Treasury certificates of various maturities and yields.

Winslow, Day & Stoddard, Inc., completed yesterday the purchase of the remaining $120,000 Bramford Water Company 4½ per cent. bonds from the New Haven Water Company.

The sale of an issue of $5,000,000 Northern States Power Company 6% per cent. gold notes, offered yesterday morning by the Guaranty Company of New York, H. M. Byllesby & Co., Inc., and associates was announced one half an hour after books had been opened.

Equitable Life Aids Housing.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society announced figures yesterday showing its participation in the work of financing new construction for the first four months of this year. During the four months ended April 30 the Finance Committee of the society authorized loans on bond and mortgage amounting to $31,189,127, of which $16,535,900 were on dwelling and apartments in 134 cities accommodating more than 6,000 families.

New Rate Schedule Ordered.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Class rates from Indiana points to St. Paul and Minneapolis, which are higher than the corresponding rates from points in Illinois and on the west bank of the Mississippi in Iowa and Missouri, were found unreasonable today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Commodity rates on certain items also were found prejudicial and a new schedule was prescribed.

Cattle Prices at Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 13.—The better grades of hogs were strong to 5 cents higher, with a top of $7.40. The general average was $7.25. The quality was poorer than on Monday, with good butchers scarce. Lambs were generally unchanged, with the top on wooled $17.25. Sheep were weak to unevenly lower. best shorn ewes were $8.35. Cattle were firmer on small receipts.

Superior Oil Quarterly Report.

The Superior Oil Corporation for the quarter to March 31, reports gross income of $361,102, against $245,847 in the quarter to Dec. 31. After all expenses and reserves for depreciation, depletion and other charges, a net loss for the quarter of $86,370 was reported, against a loss of $225,871 in the December quarter.

Missouri Pacific Re-elects Directors.

ST. LOUIS, May 13.—All Directors of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, including Chairman B. F. Bush, were re-elected today. E. H. Davey and H. Hobart Porter, both of New York, were chosen to fill vacancies. The Directors will meet in New York May 29 to elect officers.

HEARS AUSTRIAN CLAIMS.

Commission of Alien Property Custodian Finishes Work in Vienna.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, May 13.—The American Commission of the Alien Property Custodian in the United States, headed by Thomas Creighton, has spent two weeks in Vienna considering the refunding of Austrian property in America. The members will now return to Berlin to finish up the work in Germany before sailing for home.

Austrian property seized in America amounts to about $17,000,000 in American stocks. Mr. Creighton has heard many Austrian claimants, who filled out the necessary forms.

STEWART-WARNER SLUMP.

Sharp Decline in Stock Arrested by Statement by President.

The sharp decline in the price of stock on the Stewart-Warner Speedometer was arrested yesterday on the strength of a message from Chicago quoting C. B. Smith, President of the company, as saying that reports indicating the company would close down its plants were unfounded. The statement was issued after a six-point break in the stock on Monday. Yesterday the stock regained one and one-half points.

"I think stockholders are entitled to know that rumors afloat about shutdowns, large layoffs of help, stopping of dividends, &c., are ridiculous and unfounded," Mr. Smith was reported as saying. "There has been no shutdown and none is contemplated. We are operating a large force and expect to increase it. With good weather the automobile business will come into its own."

Mr. Smith was also quoted as saying that the matter of dividend action had not been discussed and would not until the next dividend meeting on July 20. The statement of earnings for the first quarter, he said, "will be in the mails on May 14 and indicates a showing that should satisfy every stockholder."

VIVAUDOU EXPECTS TO WIN.

Hopes to Oust Some Directors at Election May 20.

V. Vivaudou, President of V. Vivaudou, Inc., said yesterday that he expected to succeed in his efforts to get a Board of Directors familiar with merchandising problems and oust the banking representatives on the board. The annual meeting will be held May 20.

Mr. Vivaudou said he was opposed to the declaration of a dividend on the common stock when the shares were placed on a $2 annual dividend basis in 1920, discontinued in 1921 and restored in 1923. When abroad he cabled to the Board of Directors opposing the resumption of dividend payments, but his opposition was overruled by the directors. The future policy of the company, he said, will be to pay out only half of the profits in dividends.

ATLANTIC SUGAR REPORT.

Canadian Company's Net Profits Last Year $1,459,982.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Quebec, May 13.—The annual report of Atlantic Sugar Refineries, Limited, shows net profits of $1,459,982 after all costs of operation and production.

After all expenses surplus remaining was $806,932. Deferred indebtedness to raw sugar creditors, largely New York, which fell due November last year, has been extended until November, 1924. Balance sheet position has improved with surplus of current assets of $1,-404,331, against a deficit of $1,981,314 a year ago. Inventories are low at $931,228, bond debt is down $100,000 and general deficit down to $4,487,846.

General Asphalt to Pay Notes.

The General Asphalt Company is planning to retire all of the company's outstanding debentures, aggregating $872,000, on or before maturity on April 1, 1925, stock holders were told at the annual meeting yesterday by A. W. Sewall, President. Payment will be made out of current assets. Earnings for the first quarter of the year approximated $115,000, against deficit of $106,000 in the same period last year.

Foundation Co. Shows Gains.

The Foundation Company, for the quarter to March 31, reports gross profit of $286,756, against $205,436 in the same period last year, and net profit, after all deductions, of $27,628, against $12,-847 in 1923. The first quarter of the year, according to the company, most of the business for the entire year is contracted for in this quarter and the profits are not realized until the third and fourth quarter of the year.

MARLAND OIL CO. BEGINS YEAR WELL

Net Income of $2,892,837 Made in First Quarter, President Tells Stockholders.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND EVEN

E. W. Marland Says That If No Large New Pools Are Brought in Soon Reserves Will Be Called On.

E. W. Marland, President of the Marland Oil Company, at the annual meeting of stockholders in Wilmington yesterday, made public the earnings for the first quarter. The income of the company and its subsidiaries was $3,630,074 after all operating expenses, interest and taxes, but before reserves. Of the total, $1,406,663 was unrealized appreciation of crude oil inventory. Against this income reserves for depletion, depreciation and abandoned wells and leases totaling $737,237 have been set up, leaving net income of $2,892,837, equal to $2.06 a share earned on the 1,382,967 shares of no par value capital stock outstanding.

Mr. Marland also gave figures covering the financial position of the company. These showed current assets of $15,547,144 and net current assets of $12,947,161. The current assets included $3,163,754 cash, $4,341,589 accounts receivable, $9,316,662 crude and refined oil on hand, $2,320,070 materials and supplies at cost and $465,060 miscellaneous items. Current assets included $856,853 bills payable, $2,352,535 accounts payable and $237,792 accrued interest, &c., leaving the company net working capital of $10,590,962.

At the annual meeting of stockholders new interests were added to the Board of Directors. William C. Potter, President of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York was elected a director, as was Charles F. Smithers of F. S. Smithers & Co. and A. W. Hayes, counsel for the Marland Oil Company. Other directors were re-elected.

Commenting on the earnings for the first quarter Mr. Marland said: "While this income showing for the first quarter is gratifying, and so far as we now see will be improved in the second quarter, the petroleum industry has not entirely recovered its proper earning power. Production and consumption are now almost on balance. There is no new oil field coming on and sufficiently defined to be known as of probable great importance. The major pools are all declining, and if no such pool is brought into production this year, drafts will have to be made on storage. This situation would afford oil companies the opportunity they need of disposing of their surplus stocks, and would bring the industry into healthy condition. So long as the possibility exists of a major pool coming in this year and upsetting the situation, the management of your company will continue to maintain a strong current assets position. Our net production is in excess of 20,000 barrels per day in Northern Oklahoma of high grade oil."

TEHUANTEPEC RUBBER PLAN

Reorganization Committee Announces Preparations for New Bonds

A plan for the 6 per cent. purchase money and 4 per cent. improvement gold mortgage bonds of the Tehuantepec Rubber Culture Company has been worked out by a reorganization committee headed by Robert L. Dean, Chairman, it was announced yesterday.

Mr. Dean said that the committee would assume that holders of the bonds who already have deposited their securities in anticipation of the reorganization approved of the plan unless within thirty days from today they should dissent through withdrawing their bonds. Holders of undeposited bonds, he said, may participate in the plan by depositing bonds, together with coupons maturing on and after Dec. 1, 1911. Deposits should be made with the Irving Bank-Columbia Trust Company on or before June 14 next.

Steady Demand for Wool at London Sale.

LONDON, May 13.—At today's wool auctions 10,157 bales were offered. The sale was well attended and there was a steady demand at prices unchanged from the previous auction. The bulk of the offerings was sold being taken chiefly by the home trade.

WEATHER TEMPERS TRADING IN COTTON

Spot Offerings Sufficient to Meet All Requirements—Price Range Is Narrow.

OCTOBER UP, MAY IS DOWN

Uncertainty Over April Figures of Domestic Consumption Another Factor in the Movement.

The cotton market quieted down yesterday under a less active demand for May contracts and better weather throughout the South. Various spot interests offered a sufficient quantity of cotton for delivery during the current month at 240 points over July to meet all requirements, and as a result prices moved within a limited range throughout. Announcement that the census figures on consumption would be issued at 11 o'clock today, as well as the regular weekly weather report, served to restrict trading. Many unfavorable Southern advices due to the cold, backward weather were received. Prices closed at a loss of 7 points on May to an advance of 15 points on October.

Soon after the opening here, May contracts were offered by brokers for spot interests and a similar situation was reported in New Orleans. Prices there ran off a cent from Monday's high figure, while May in New York sold off to 30.80 compared with $31.05 the previous day. An easier tone in May brought some liquidation in July and that month sold around 28½ cents or 70 points below high figures of the week. On recessions, however, May contracts were wanted, which steadied the market. Swapping orders for the purchase of October and sale of July around 280 points held new crop positions within a few points of previous closing figures throughout the morning.

The fact that today's weekly summary will reflect last week's cold weather and backward conditions exerted a sustaining influence. Uncertainty of prices over the April figures of domestic consumption added a second factor and both new and old crop positions moved within a limited range during the day. Increased exports were reported for last week, amounting to 28,000 bales, which brought the week's movement to 36,000. Exports for the season reached a total of 5,164,000 or 809,000 bales in excess of last year.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Previous day.
May	31.40	31.40	30.80	31.15-20	31.22
October	24.85	24.93	24.68	24.92-93	24.77
December	24.32	24.34	24.10	24.30-33	24.37
January	24.00	24.02	23.80	23.95-97	23.97

Southern spot markets were: Galveston 30.75c, unchanged; New Orleans 30.80c, 20 points decline; Savannah 30.03c, 2 points decline; Augusta 30c, unchanged; Memphis 30.50c, unchanged; Houston 30.80c, unchanged; Little Rock 30c, unchanged.

Yesterday's cotton statistics were:

	Yesterday.	Last Wk.	Last Yr.
Port receipts	7,408	19,172	9,184
Exports	27,498	11,014	5,000
Exports, season	5,164,483	5,136,616	4,355,398

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton quiet, 7 points decline at 17.42d for middling. Sales 4,000 bales, American, 4,000. Futures, 9,000 bales; American 4,000. Futures opened steady 5 to 10 points decline; closed quiet but steady, 3 points advance to 10 points decline. Prices: May 17.38d, July 16.65d, October 14.75d, December 14.01d, January 13.95d. Manchester: Yarns and cloths, moderate demand.

AWAIT A TEST VOTE ON M'FADDEN BILL

Its Sponsors Fear That Action May Be Deferred to Next Session.

The hope held by bankers operating under national charters that the present Federal Banking act would be modified so as to permit branch banking and other activities now denied to the national banks has begun to die out. With the approach of June and with Congress still under the crush of much unfinished business, there seems little probability that existing conditions will be changed until the next session of Congress, at least, according to bankers who have been energetic in their efforts to enlist support for the McFadden bill.

The McFadden bill has been reported out of committee, and it has gained many adherents in Congress, according to advices received by New York bankers. But fear is expressed that the bill cannot be brought out onto the floor of either the Senate or the House at this session. Taxation, the bonus and immigration, among others, are questions which in the opinion of bankers will be given more attention at this session, while other bills, considered less important, which will have to hold over until the next session.

Pending a test of strength on the McFadden bill, the national banks have been given some relief from the irksome regulations under which they must operate. The Controller of Currency has ruled that they may operate so-called "teller" windows and a Supreme Court decision has paved the way for the performance of trust duties. A national bank, however, cannot serve as a "perpetual" trust functionary. Other important services are also denied them.

The question involving the right to accept trust business is a technical one. Banks operating under State charters are not only permitted to perform this duty but are encouraged to do it. The national banks after slow progress in the problem of bringing their charters onto even footing with the State banks, were also admitted to the right of performing trust duties. But perpetual trusts can only be handled by those institutions which have perpetual charters, and under the National Bank act the national banks are given charters only for stated periods. At the end of that period they merely have to perform the task of applying for a new charter, which is promptly given them; but this break in the continuity of a bank's existence is sufficient, according to the accepted legal opinion, to exile the national banks from that class of business.

The question of branch banking, which is one of the strong arguments now being made by advocates of the State system of banking as against the national system, is probably the most nettlesome problem that the banks have to face. Under the present law, the national banks may operate branches provided these branches are offices of other banks which have been merged into the national institution. This, however, has prevented expansion by national banks except through purchase of other banks. To relieve the pressure brought by growing institutions that wanted to open new branches, the Controller of the Currency handed down a ruling permitting the operation of teller windows in places outside the bank's main quarters. In these offices no work involving executive judgment or discretion is permitted, the whole work being that of a rubber stamp variety. National bank executives have found little in the plan to recommend it, but they are availing themselves of it pending the expectation that, sooner or later, new legislation will be passed enabling them to go out for business more aggressively.

The McFadden bill, which represents a crystallization of opinion of national bank executives who were asked what changes they would want in order to keep their banks in the Federal system, would permit branch banking in those States where branch banking is permitted to State institutions. This phase of the bill meets with the approval of national bankers in most States, New York being one instance. But not all national banks are agreed as to its merits. In California there are three large national banks which have branches not only in their headquarters cities but also in cities miles distant, and the large Bank of Italy has branches in Oregon as well. These banks would protest strongly against that part of the McFadden bill which plans to restrict branch banking in all instances to the city in which the headquarters bank operates.

State banks have thus far put forward no opposition to the McFadden bills so far as the national bank executives have learned, nor is it expected that there will be strong opposition from them. In New York State the State institutions appear to favor the bill. A number of executives, representing some of the largest State banks and trust companies, have informally approved of the plan to liberalize the National Bank act. In their opinion the State banks are now equally as strong as the national banks and, through membership in the Federal Reserve system, they have been brought to virtually the same prestige and eminence as the national banks, which, prior to 1914, were regarded as the stronger chain in the country's banking system.

Voids Manitoba Grain Futures Tax.

OTTAWA, Ontario, May 13.—The Supreme Court of Canada today declared the Grain Futures act, passed by the Legislature of Manitoba last year, to be unconstitutional. The act imposed a tax on grain sold for future delivery. The Provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan joined in contesting the validity of the act, on the ground that it levied an indirect tax on the farmers of the other western provinces.

The directors of the Guaranteed Mortgage Company of New York have elected Mark Temple Dowling, president.

PARIS SUPPORTS FRANC.

Instructs Bankers Here to Act and Quotation Closes Higher.

The French Government has instructed its banking affiliations to support the franc, should such a course of action become necessary, Lazard Frères, an international banking house with headquarters in Paris, announced the receipt yesterday at the New York office of a message saying:

"Today's Cabinet meeting instructed Minister of Finance to take all necessary measures to prevent speculative manoeuvres against franc exchange."

The franc was steady yesterday after two days of decline. The quotation gave way at one time to 5.53¾ cents, off 7¼ points at the extreme low, but quickly snapped back to a high price of 5.67½ cents and closed the day at 5.66½ cents against the preceding closing price of 5.60¼ cents.

Dealers in foreign exchange reported "quality buying" of the franc. This, they explained, implied institutional buying and it was understood that the moves which participated in the recent 2,500,000,000 credit established here for the Bank of France were active. One house, closely associated with the Bank of France in its stabilization program, placed an order shortly before the close to buy 30,000,000 francs at the market, or more if offered.

Bankers with agencies in France said there was every reason to believe that the new Government in Paris would carry out the Poincaré policies in respect to franc stabilization, and there was believed to be no likelihood of more than minor changes in the country's recently established financial policies. The increased tax rate, it was believed, would stay and likewise the recently announced policy of France of trimming down expenditures to well within income.

To Take Over an Ice Cream Plant.

The National Dairy Products Corporation, which was organized about a year ago to take over milk and ice cream distributors in the Chicago and Pittsburgh districts, is negotiating to take over a large ice cream manufacturing and distributing company in the metropolitan district, according to reports in the financial district yesterday. The National organization operates the Hydrox Corporation of Chicago and the Reich-McJunkin Dairy Company of Pittsburgh.

Ask Detroit Street Car Arbitration.

Employes of the Detroit Street Railways have voted, it was reported yesterday, to institute mandamus proceedings in the circuit court there to compel the Street Railway Commission to arbitrate issues in dispute consisting of a demand for a 14 per cent. wage increase and recognition of union officers as representatives. The employes of the Detroit United Railway have also asked for a 9-cent-an-hour increase.

To Act on Bank Merger May 19.

The date for the special meeting of stockholders of the Commercial National Bank to act on the proposal to merge with the East River National Bank, has been set for May 19, according to announcement by J. C. Hemerich, cashier of the Commercial. Plans for the consolidation have been approved by Henry M. Dawes, Controller of the Currency.

New Federal Reserve Regulation.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York is sending to member banks of this district copies of the Federal Reserve Board's Regulation J, Series of 1924, which became effective May 9. This new regulation supersedes Regulation J of 1920. The changes represent a simplification of the old statute. None of the essential provisions has undergone more than a rewriting process.

Buy 2,000,000 Gallons of Gasoline.

The Standard Oil Company of Louisiana was reported yesterday to have placed an order for 2,000,000 gallons of gasoline with refiners in the mid-continent district, to relieve some of the pressure among small refiners in that district. Gasoline in the Middle West, it was said, has been moving slowly because of unfavorable weather.

CITY TRANSIT LINE ASKS FOR $50,000

$987,500 NEEDED IN ALL

Large Expenditures for Improvements Imperative to Insure Further Operation.

Commissioner Grover A. Whalen of the Department of Plant and Structures sent to the Board of Aldermen yesterday a request that it adopt a resolution asking the Board of Estimate to authorise the issuance of $50,000 in special revenue bonds to replenish the revolving fund for the operation by the city of the Staten Island Midland Railway. His request was referred by the Board of Aldermen to its Finance Committee.

Attached to the application Commissioner Whalen submitted a statement covering the city's operation of the Midland lines. In it he says, in part:

"When the road was turned over to this department by the receiver its rolling-stock equipment consisted merely of four passenger cars, the prior operation having been conducted with cars leased from the Richmond Light and Railroad Company, and it was therefore necessary for the city to purchase rolling stock required for the operation."

The Commissioner's statement recites the authorization of $100,000 special revenue bonds for the revolving fund approved in 1920 and 1923, and continues:

"In addition to the moneys already expended by the city for replacements and betterments on other than rolling stock on the Midland trolley lines, it is estimated that an expenditure of $987,500 will be necessary for renewal of tracks, new cars and for repairs to car barns if the city is to continue the operation for any considerable time, but with such expenditure it is estimated that safe operation would be assured for from five to ten years."

The statement includes a table showing total investments by the city, including the revolving fund, of $450,000.

The statement continues:

"In addition thereto a considerable amount of work was done for the betterment of the railway, and these items are carried and charged to the capital account, being a first lien on the property of the Staten Island Midland Railway. A summary of the betterments follows:

Rehabilitation of overhead line and signal system	$37,512.88
Rehabilitation of track and roadway	74,201.80
Rehabilitation of building and structures	45,863.41
Rehabilitation of sub-station equipment	9,435.29
Rehabilitation of receivers' cars: Passenger $543.62 Service 957.65	1,501.33
Reorganization of road	15,023.93
Total betterments	$183,538.64

"In accordance with the agreement entered into with the receiver of the Staten Island Midland, the following accounts were set up on our books, being a charge against operating expense:

To take care of taxes	$57,139.88
Interest (5 per cent. per annum on investment)	46,279.67
Total	$103,419.55

"Up to June 30, 1923, there has been set aside for depreciation reserve the sum of $22,000. For the period subsequent the engineers of this department are now revising depreciation charges and upon their report there will be set up on our books these revised charges.

"There is as of March 31, 1924, unvouchered bills for power amounting to $32,018.18 and for materials, supplies, &c., amounting to $10,500.

"It will be seen that it is now necessary to apply to the Board of Aldermen and to your board for a further issue of special revenue bonds to meet the expenditures of operation if the operation of the Staten Island lines by the city is to be continued.

"It should be stated—and it is gratifying to note—that a comparison of revenues shows an increase of 10 per cent. in receipts for the year 1923 as compared with the year 1922."

RESPITE FOR QUEENS RIDERS.

Borough President Connolly Postpones Proposed Abandonment of Trolley Lines.

As a result of the conference yesterday between General Lincoln C. Andrews, receiver of the New York and Queens County Railway Company; Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson, Borough President Maurice Connolly of Queens; Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of the Department of Plant and Structures, and John A. McCollum, chief of the Bureau of Franchises of the Board of Estimate, the proposed suspension of service on the Queens surface trolley lines is to be deferred at least two weeks pending further negotiations for the relief or rehabilitation of the system.

Mr. Connolly agreed to withhold the order to the contractor for the paving of Jackson Avenue, thus deferring payment by the railway company of one of the heavy paving assessments that threatened to force its abandonment of service and surrender of franchises.

The conference on Monday was sent for John H. Delaney, whom Mayor Hylan has named as prospective head of the new Board of Transportation. Mr. Delaney talked to the other conferees and they determined to seek some solution that would preserve the service to the 20,000 Queens residents who depend upon it daily.

A committee was named, consisting of General Andrews, Mr. Connolly and Mr. Whalen, to go over the lines and attempt to work out some solution.

Pending their action, it was agreed that when the application for abandonment of service and forfeiture of franchises comes up today in the Queens Supreme Court in Long Island City, consent is to be given to a two weeks' adjournment of the issue.

Expert accountants will start to work today on the books of the company to get accurate information of its financial standing. They will seek this information for the Bureau of Franchises of the Board of Estimate as the result of an agreement made between General Andrews, Borough President Connolly and Corporation Counsel Nicholson representing the city. Announcement to this effect was made last evening by Attorney H. P. Williams, who represents the receiver, and will make the motion before the Supreme Court for a postponement for two weeks of the argument upon the motion for permission to suspend operations and abandon the franchises.

General Andrews made an appeal to the riders on his lines yesterday by posting in all of his cars the following notice: "To our passengers: City paving charges and taxes will take 3 cents out of every carfare we can collect this year. That leaves us 2 cents on which to run the road. Impossible! That is why we have got to quit."

The Business Man's Division of the Flushing United Association held a meeting at the Flushing Town Hall last night and took action, asking both the city officials and the Transit Commission to take steps to prevent the stopping of the lines of the company.

Open American Chamber in Sweden.

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, May 13.—The opening of an American Chamber of Commerce, the first of its kind in Sweden, has just been announced here. Its President is Eric Andarson of Gothenburg. The purpose is to foster the rapidly growing trade between Sweden and America, as well as the transit trade, via Gothenburg, between America and the countries east of the Baltic Sea.

WHEAT GOES HIGHER IN STRONG MARKET

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 13.—Uncertainty as to what will happen at Washington is regarded as about the main drawback to a bull market in wheat. The showing of 117,000,000 bushels of wheat as the combined suggested crop in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Missouri, or 58,000,000 bushels fewer than last year, gives rise to the theory that the entire country is now largely dependent on the outturn in Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska for a good part of its domestic requirements east of the Rockies and also for export grain from this territory. The fact that the outlook west of the Missouri is for a large crop is ignored.

Sufficient commission house buying developed to force an upturn of ¾@1¼ cent from the early low, with the finish at net gains of ¾@1¼ cents. The undertone was firm a good part of the day. The world's statistical situation also came in for attention. Broomhall has raised his estimate as to probable import takings by 52,000,000 bushels, making the total 756,000,000 bushels, of which 150,000,000 bushels remain to be shipped.

This suggested that there was much less prospect for a burdensome world's carry-over at the end of the season than was estimated some months ago. The gradual changing in the world's situation has been the main factor in causing many houses to turn to the bull side, but there is as yet too limited a speculative interest to bring about a sustained advance.

Export sales were 430,000 bushels of Manitobas and 50,000 of durum. There will be around 1,000,000 bushels of wheat moved out from here this week, of which 500,000 bushels have already cleared. Charter was made today for 200,000 bushels to Buffalo at 1¾ cents, the lowest rate of the season.

Primary arrivals of wheat today were 566,000 bushels; week ago, 662,000; last year, 696,000. Shipments were 365,000 bushels; week ago, 710,000; last year, 1,014,000.

Corn closed ¼@¾ cent higher, with September leading, a local short covering in on the line in the lead and making the upturn, July being sold against it. Local sentiment is still generally bearish, due almost entirely to the slow Eastern cash demand. There was some selling early that looked to be for a leading local long. Cash basis here was unchanged.

Heavy frost was predicted for the grain belt over night with warmer weather to follow. Snow in his weekly crop comment, said that unless there were good rains west of the Mississippi River, a few days of warm weather would bring complaints of it being too dry.

Oats closed ¼@¾ cent and rye ¾ higher, with a light trade in both grains.

Corn receipts were 527,000 bushels; week ago, 761,000; last year, 306,000, and shipments 783,000 bushels; week ago, 630,000; last year, 460,000.

PARIS SAILS TODAY WITH MANY OF NOTE

Paderewski, Leaving for Summer in Switzerland, Will Be Honored by Admirers.

OPERA STARS ALSO BOOKED

Gatti-Casazza, Galli and de Luca Among Passengers—Al Woods to Seek Plays Abroad.

The stream of ocean travelers, tourists, business people and foreign visitors returning home is growing as the season advances. A heavy passenger list, including an unusually large number of prominent persons, has been booked for the French Line flagship, Paris, sailing for Plymouth and Havre this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

Ignace Paderewski, composer, musician and first Premier of the Republic of Poland, is sailing with Mme. Paderewski after an extended concert tour of the United States. They will go to their estate in Switzerland. A stone bust of Paderewski by Yan MacLeod will be presented to the pianist on board the Paris before sailing by a group of Polish admirers.

The music world is further represented on the passenger list of the Paris by Giulio Gatti-Casazza, managing director of the Metropolitan Opera Company, who will be accompanied by Rosina Galli, premiere danseuse; Giuseppe de Luca, baritone; Giuseppe Bamboschek, orchestra conductor, and Luigi Villa, secretary.

Mrs. David Belasco sails for her annual season on the Continent. Al Woods and William Elliott, theatrical producers, go for new plays for Fall production. Downing Clark, actor, leaves for a vacation abroad. J. A. Gauvin, impresario for Cecile Sorel and Maurice de Faraudy, is returning to Paris with Mrs. Gauvin. Mrs. Molla Mallory, tennis star, sails for the Olympic Games, accompanied by Mrs. H. H. Childs.

Other passengers are S. C. MRS. BELMONT BACK; 200 WOMEN AT PIER

Head of National Party Says Feminists Here Have Much to Learn From Sisters Abroad.

A delegation of 200 members of the National Woman's Party, waving gold, white and purple banners, greeted Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, their President, yesterday afternoon when she stepped down the gangway of the White Star Line steamship Majestic at Pier 59, North River. Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer, who led the delegation, officially welcomed Mrs. Belmont, and Mrs. Clarence M. Smith, New York State Chairman, presented a bunch of flowers.

In a formal statement issued later Mrs. Belmont expressed appreciation of the welcome and said:

"Surely no one who travels in Europe can fail to see that the whole world is moving toward the complete emancipation of women. American feminists have much to learn from women in Europe. This age is the greatest in the history of the woman movement. There is no going back. Our demand for the passage of the equal rights amendment now before Congress and for placing women in positions of power and authority everywhere is only a step in a general movement to end the present and world-wide subjection of women."

Mrs. Belmont said that the trouble was that the equal rights amendment was buried in Washington under "futile investigations on the part of special committees." She described President Coolidge as a "splendid man." The French women, she said, were slow in politics, but the praised women's progress in Britain. She plans to go to her home at Southampton for several days' rest.

Dr. John R. Mott, executive head of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, accompanied by Mrs. Mott and two secretaries, returned on the liner from a four months' trip to Europe and the Near East. He said he visited eighteen countries and found "more evidence of improvement in Europe than in any previous year since the war." He described Czechoslovakia as the "beacon-light of Central Europe."

Bud Fisher, cartoonist, learned by radio that his filly, Nellie Morse, won the Preakness Stakes.

Channing Pollock, playwright, returned from Europe, where he spent several months in the monastery of St. Peter, working on a new play. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter, Helen, and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Pollock.

Louis Kamm of Newark, Vice President of the Mirage Department Stores, Inc., also a passenger, said he found prices were high in Europe, except in Austria and Czechoslovakia.

TELEPHONE INQUIRY IS URGED IN HOUSE

J. J. O'Connor of New York Offers Resolution Calling for a National Investigation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—A Congressional investigation of telephone service and rates throughout the United States and particularly the situation in the City of New York is proposed in a resolution presented in the House today by Representative John J. O'Connor, Democrat, of New York. The resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Rules, of which Mr. O'Connor is a member, provides for the appointment of a Committee of Inquiry of seven members of the House.

In its preamble the resolution recites that the New York Telephone Company has recently increased its rates in New York City by 10 per cent., making telephone service there "practically prohibitive." The New York Telephone Company, it is stated, is a subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. "The existence of such subsidiaries" the resolution charges "tends to the establishment of fictitious costs of operation in certain locations, such as the City of New York, casting the burden on these localities of contributing to the huge profits of the parent company out of all proportion to the service rendered."

The O'Connor resolution makes a number of charges similar to those contained in the petition from the City Parliament of Community Councils of the City of New York, submitted to the Senate yesterday, in which an investigation of telephone service and rates throughout the country was recommended.

Mr. O'Connor charges that telephone service is "a natural monopoly," that, under present conditions competition is impracticable and his resolution asks that the whole subject receive "thorough study and consideration from a national standpoint." The resolution is in part as follows:

Whereas, the New York Telephone Company, one of the subsidiaries of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, has recently increased its rates in New York by 10 per cent., following a number of increases in recent years, making the cost of telephone service practically prohibitive to the millions of subscribers in the metropolis who depend upon telephone service in the conduct of their business and other activities locally and interstate; and,

"Whereas, the telephone service throughout the United States is substantially controlled by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, operating through subsidiary companies in the different localities; and,

"Whereas, telephone service throughout the country is a natural monopoly, making competition impracticable and thus leaving the subscribers at the mercy of the present trust controlling the service under a fiction of independent companies, being a matter which cannot be adequately dealt with by any municipal or State authority, but requiring a thorough study and consideration from a national standpoint; &c.

The resolution directs that a committee of seven members be appointed to investigate "the matter of telephone service rates in the City of New York and elsewhere in the United States, including the organization of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and its relations and connections with other corporations and companies." The committee is authorized to send for persons and papers and to compel the attendance of witnesses. It is also directed to report its findings to the House, "with such report as it may submit in connection with any proposed legislation."

Mr. O'Connor will appear before the Rules Committee at an early date to urge favorable action on his resolution.

SHIP WORTH $1,500,000 WAS SOLD FOR $100,000

Shipping Board Loss in One Deal Admitted Before the House Committee.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The House Committee investigating the Shipping Board was told today by J. Harry Philbin, manager of the ship sales department of the board, that the steamer City of Los Angeles, which was sold for $100,000 to the Los Angeles Steamship Company, was on the high seas during the ten days period she was advertised for sale in July, 1923.

"For all practical purposes that advertisement was utterly worthless and futile?" Representative Davis, Democrat, of Tennessee, asked.

"Yes sir," Philbin replied.

The committee prosecutor declared that nobody on the Atlantic Coast could have arrived on the Pacific Coast in time to examine the ship, and the witness agreed.

While $2,462,000 was spent to convert the ship into an oil burner and for repairs done by the Los Angeles Shipbuilding Company, it was appraised at $200,000, Mr. Davis developed from the witness. Captain A. F. Pillsbury made the appraisal for the board, Philbin said.

"And this Captain Pillsbury was the man who was representing the Los Angeles Steamship Company, which had the vessel under operating contract?" asked Mr. Davis.

"That is right, but it was a coincidence," Philbin said.

Mr. Davis asked if the City of Los Angeles was not a more valuable ship than the City of Honolulu, another ship operated for the board by the Los Angeles Steamship Company, which was destroyed by fire at sea and appraised at $1,500,000.

"They were both on a par, and were virtually sister-ships," the witness answered.

Correspondence was read by Representative Davis to show that Charles E. Hughes in December, 1920, three months before he became Secretary of State, was counsel for a Trieste corporation to have title of the steamer Martha Washington, seized from Austria during the war, transferred back to that company.

Mr. Davis produced a resolution of the Shipping Board two years later under which the steamer was sold for $60,000 to the corporation after the board had been advised by the State Department that the Trieste company was then Italian-owned.

Representative Davis also included excerpts from the House comittee hearings on the transfer resolution at wmnich Mr. Hughes appeared and presented a petition on behalf of the Trieste company.

"After he testified," Mr. Davis asserted, "there was never any action taken by the committee or Merchant Marine. It ended right there."

FORD SEEKS DULUTH DOCKS.

Offers $650,500 Cash for Coal Company's Lake Front Property.

DULUTH, Minn., May 13.—Henry Ford has made a cash offer of $650,000 and the payment of $8,500 in unpaid taxes for the lake front property of the Superior Coal and Dock Company, a Duluth concern, Oscar Mitchell, an attorney, who is receiver for the company, declared today.

The property consists of 21.2 acres with dock equipment. Its assessed valuation is $307,070.

DETROIT, May 13.—Officials of the Ford Motor Company here would not confirm the reported cash offer of $650,000 for lake frontage property of the Superior Coal and Dock Company, but said negotiations here have been under way for some time with a view to obtaining dockage on Lake Superior.

TELLS PRESIDENT HOPES OF BUSINESS

TAX UNCERTAINTY HARMFUL

But Agricultural Conditions Are Improving and Industry Is on a Sound Basis.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Business conditions display sound fundamentals, but a manifest discouragement of the spirit of confident enterprise, President Coolidge was told today by Julius H. Barnes, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. There was hesitancy in business, Mr. Barnes stated, due to the uncertainty of enactment of sound legislation and delay in revising the tax law.

The President, following the interview, said he had been conscious of a slowing up in business, which it was thought was due to the fact that this was a Presidential year, and responsible opinion held that it also was due in part to a failure to get tax revisions which would have been a stimulant to business had it been put into effect before this.

After seeing the President Mr. Barnes discussed the legislative situation in its relation to business conditions, declaring there is a perceptible hesitancy in business in all directions, which cannot be arrested until the present misgiving over harmful legislative measures is dispelled.

Sees Confidence Weakened.

"Industry needs steadily for its expansion and development the annual reinvestment capital of large incomes," said Mr. Barnes. "The business world had hoped for a surtax policy that would attract capital for this expansion, with its enlarged employment and earnings, but that hope has gradually ebbed, declining security and declining commodity prices have reflected this loss of confidence.

"Industry needs reassurance that there will be no backward steps in the policy of railroad regulation such as the Howell-Barkley bill would be, eliminating, as it does, a public voice in railroad labor disputes.

"Industry needs assurance that railroad transportation, which last Fall for the first time rose to the full needs of American commerce, should not be tampered with, but allowed to demonstrate its sufficiency under the present Transportation act by further experience.

"Industry needs the utmost economy in all Government expenditures, and certainly no additional burden such as the bonus grant should lay on national finances.

"Industry needs a definite termination of all proposals that Government shall buy or sell or manufacture in competition with established private industry. The effects of such proposals as the McNary-Haugen bill and Norris-Sinclair bill is destructive far beyond the industries particularly involved and undermines the confidence of all activity.

"There is no real reason why this business hesitancy should develop into unemployment if there is intelligent team play between Government and industry; that is, understanding of the economic laws that rule in the business world and appreciation of the fact that the American home rests on sound observance of these laws.

Points to Hopeful Indications.

"We have certain hopeful indications. In Europe the Dawes report and the probability of its acceptance carry the reasonable expectation that productive industry will revive as against recent instability and unemployment there. The adherence of America to the Court of International Justice at this time would be a moral encouragement to Europe of great effectiveness. It looks as if we may reasonably expect improved buying power on the part of Europe.

"At home agricultural conditions are improving. The increased acreage of spring-sown grains shows that the farm is not abandoned, but is working out its own problem with courage, energy and confidence. The character of sowings shows that the farmer is showing intelligent development by shifting to the better-paying crops. For instance, corn, oats and flaxseed show increased acreage and the prices of these grains in America are today on a full import basis with full duty protection.

"The public should understand that the statement on which pleas for farm relief panaceas are based, namely, that the farm buys in a protected market and sells its products on a world basis without any benefit of duty protection, is not a true statement. Even high-grade wheat in Kansas City and Minneapolis brings the American farmer twenty to thirty cents more than the better quality of wheat in Canadian markets.

"Fortunately also, the outlook is promising for better yields of wheat in those sections that suffered from poor crop yields last year. The farmer is learning intelligent cooperative marketing methods.

"It would be a great pity if efforts for partisan advantage or inability to appreciate the real needs of American industry which provides employment and earnings for the American home should result in unwise and destructive legislation. Here is the opportunity at present to display a high grade of statesmanship in measures which will lay the firm foundation for business recovery which will reach all sections of our people."

CAPE COD CANAL DEAL APPROVED BY HOUSE

Bill for Government Purchase at $11,500,000 Passes, 149 to 132, and Goes to Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Purchase by the Government of the Cape Cod Canal for $11,500,000 would be authorised under a bill passed tonight by the House, 149 to 132. The measure now goes to the Senate.

Party lines were disregarded in voting on the proposal, which has been the subject of a bitter controversy in Congress for several years. All attempts at amendment failed.

The bill, sponsored by Representative Winslow, Republican, of Massachusetts, Chairman of the Commerce Committee, provides for payment of $5,500,000 in cash to the Boston, Cape Cod and New York Canal Company, owners of the property. The Federal Treasury also would assume a bonded indebtedness of $6,000,000.

The measure would carry out a contract negotiated by Secretary Weeks with the canal company.

SAYS DOLLAR IS 100 CENTS.

John Moody Declares It Is Worth Now What It Was in 1913.

John Moody, of Moody's Investors Service, told the American Iron, Steel and Heavy Hardware Association at its fifteenth annual convention at the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club yesterday that prosperous financial conditions throughout the country had made the 1924 dollar as good as the dollar of 1913.

Major General Henry T. Allen and G. A. O'Reilly, Vice President of the Irving Bank-Columbia Trust Company, also spoke. The convention closes tomorrow with the annual election of officers. C. R. Williams, Minneapolis, First Vice President of the association, seems likely to be elevated to the Presidency.

A code of ethics and a standard of practice will be presented to the convention today.

RUG PRICES RISE ON LIVELY BIDDING

Tuesday's Auction by Smith Firm Better Than Monday's, but Below March Mark.

16,750 BALES NOW SOLD

Nearly $1,500,000 Realized—Carlton Axminster 25 Per Cent. Below Fall List.

Slightly higher prices than those obtained Monday marked yesterday's session of the auction of between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 worth of rugs of Alexander Smith & Sons. Sixteen thousand five hundred bales were sold for $971,500. These figures represent an increase of 4,250 over the number of bales sold Monday and of $306,500 above the amount realized that day. In all 16,750 of the 85,000 bales to be sold have been auctioned for a total of $1,494,900.

The bids yesterday continued to be lower than the prices quoted by the Smith Company in its price list for the Fall and much below the figures for last March's auction. The drop from the Fall rates was most pronounced in the the Carlton axminster and Mauer tapestry groups, which brought about 25 and 20 per cent., respectively, less than the list prices. The Palisade velvet fringed and Ardsley axminster rugs were sold at approximately 15 per cent. below the company's Fall quotations, which were announced May 1. The Ardsley axminsters rose somewhat more than the others above Monday's figures.

Axminster rugs are especially affected by the present decline in the rug market, because more have been manufactured than there is likely to be any demand for, in the opinion of observers of conditions.

Price reductions yesterday by two other companies were viewed as effects of the auction. The Firth Carpet Company yesterday reduced tapestry floor coverings from 10 to 15 per cent. and axminsters from 10 to 15 per cent., while the Hodges Carpet Company made price cuts of around 50 per cent. on practically all its stock. The new figures on the Firth floor coverings are: Redwood, $18.25; Eureka, $14.75; Empire, $17.50; Cornwall, $18.25; Canterbury, $22.50; Arbordale, $15.50; Batavia, $14.50; Seneca, $27; Geneseo, $23.50.

Orders came fast throughout the auctioning yesterday and bidding kept a lively pace all day. There was great activity by both large and small buyers, mail order houses, wholesalers, jobbers and retailers. Interest was also centered on the Persian rugs sold by the Kevorkian interests, which were protested to Secretary Denby against the transfer to the Interior Department. He sought to amend the original draft of the Executive order so as to leave control with the navy, but he testified before the Senate Oil Committee that an amendment he had written into the order was completely changed in the Interior Department.

Mr. Roosevelt also suggested changes in the original draft, and since the resignation of Secretary Denby he has stated that he opposed the transfer from the first, but kept silent because he did not want to be put in the position of "running out" on his chief.

In turning over another Archis before the Senate Committee last January, Mr. Roosevelt caused one of the many sensations in the Senate inquiry. He related that he listened in on a telephone conversation between Secretary Fall and G. D. Wahlberg, formerly private secretary to Mr. Sinclair, in which there was a mention of $68,000 sent to the foreman of Mr. Fall's New Mexico ranch.

Other witnesses before the Grand Jury were Harry A. Wilcox of El Paso, A. B. Brownfield of Carrizozo, N. M.; Lee A. Gifford of Albuquerque, and W. C. Mandenhall, R. S. Heald and W. S. Kent of the Interior Department. Mr. Wilcox and the New Mexico witnesses were said to have knowledge regarding expenditures made by Mr. Fall in New Mexico after his appointment to the Cabinet.

Merchants' Association Elects.

At the annual meeting of the Merchants' Association yesterday the following directors were re-elected: William Hamlin Childs, Bertram H. Borden, Lucius R. Eastman, W. H. La Boyteaux, John H. Love, George A. Post, H. B. Walker and Owen D. Young.

Old Pittsburgh Steel Mill Closes.

PITTSBURGH, May 13.—With the exception of the Homestead plant, the Schoenberger mill of the American Steel and Wire Company here suspended operations today, laying off 1,300 men indefinitely. Lack of orders, company officials said, caused the suspension. The Schoenberger mill has been in operation for more than a hundred years.

ROOSEVELT A WITNESS IN OIL FRAUD INQUIRY

Special Grand Jury Also Hears Admiral Griffin, Former Head of Engineer Bureau.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and Rear Admiral R. S. Griffin, retired, were the chief witnesses today as the special Federal Grand Jury resumed its inquiry into charges of fraud and corruption in connection with the naval oil leases.

Mr. Roosevelt carried to the White House for President Harding's signature the executive order of May 31, 1921, under which Secretary Fall took over control of the naval oil reserves and leased them to Harry F. Sinclair and Edward L. Doheny. Also at the request of Mr. Fall, Mr. Roosevelt sent marines to Teapot Dome in the Summer of 1922 to drive off squatters, after the reserve had been taken over by Mr. Sinclair.

Admiral Griffin, formerly Chief of the Bureau of Engineering, was in charge of the reserves for several years, and was one of the naval officers who protested to Secretary Denby against the transfer to the Interior Department. He sought to amend the original draft of the Executive order so as to leave control with the navy, but he testified before the Senate Oil Committee that an amendment he had written into the order was completely changed in the Interior Department.

Mr. Roosevelt also suggested changes in the original draft, and since the resignation of Secretary Denby he has stated that he opposed the transfer from the first, but kept silent because he did not want to be put in the position of "running out" on his chief.

In turning over another Archis before the Senate Committee last January, Mr. Roosevelt caused one of the many sensations in the Senate inquiry. He related that he listened in on a telephone conversation between Secretary Fall and G. D. Wahlberg, formerly private secretary to Mr. Sinclair, in which there was a mention of $68,000 sent to the foreman of Mr. Fall's New Mexico ranch.

Other witnesses before the Grand Jury were Harry A. Wilcox of El Paso, A. B. Brownfield of Carrizozo, N. M.; Lee A. Gifford of Albuquerque, and W. C. Mandenhall, R. S. Heald and W. S. Kent of the Interior Department. Mr. Wilcox and the New Mexico witnesses were said to have knowledge regarding expenditures made by Mr. Fall in New Mexico after his appointment to the Cabinet.

ALL FREIGHT RATES REFERRED TO HOUSE

Committee Reports Hoch Resolution Proposing to Reorganize Whole Rail Structure.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Reorganization of the entire freight rate structure of the country was brought before the House today when the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce adopted unanimously the resolution offered by Representative Hoch of Kansas.

The resolution directs the Interstate Commerce Commission to make a thorough investigation "to determine to what extent and in what manner existing rates may be unjust, unreasonable, unjustly discriminatory or unduly preferential, thereby imposing undue burdens, or giving undue advantage as between the various localities and parts of the country, the various classes of traffic and the various classes and kinds of commodities, and to make such changes, adjustments and redistribution of rates as may be found necessary to correct any defects so found to exist."

The resolution, while not in conflict with that offered by Senator Smith of South Carolina and adopted by the Senate yesterday, differs from it in that the Smith proposal is devoted solely to a readjustment of freight rates on agricultural products. That of Mr. Hoch applies to rates on all commodities, and takes into account the value of the service rendered by the railroads.

The proposed survey and readjustment of the rate structure was urged by the farm organizations. The Joint Congressional Commission on Agricultural Inquiry, a select committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Secretary Hoover, and by other experts who have made a close study of the problem.

The resolution was also recommended by President Coolidge in a message last December. Representative Hoch said today he expected to bring it to a vote at this session, and that he was confident it would be adopted. He said:

"The resolution is based on the contention that the present freight structure is out of adjustment. The burden is not properly distributed, either as between commodities or as between various sections of the country.

"The maladjustments of the freight structure have been greatly increased by the flat horizontal freight increases made in recent years.

"The resolution directs the commission in making the adjustments to take into consideration, among other factors, the price levels of various commodities as indicated over a reasonable period of years.

"The resolution provides that this general inquiry shall not interfere with cases already pending wherein relief is asked in specific cases, such as the grain case. Also, provides the Commission is not to delay action in making adjustments until the whole survey is completed, but is to make such changes from time to time and as soon as practicable, as the facts developed warrant."

To Drop Comparative Fur Pricing.

Agreeing that it is too late this year to act against the holding of retail fur sales in August in view of the preparations already made by the fur trade and some retailers, the group of twenty-five representatives of local department stores and specialty shops which met yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria under the auspices of the National Garment Retailers Association passed a resolution dealing with another aspect of the question. This was to the effect that if such sales are held, there should be no comparative prices quoted. The quoting of such prices, which are frequently inflated, according to comment, has been greatly overdone. It was also the sense of the gathering that another meeting be called in September in order to take early action on the sale question for next year.

***

Apparently Willing to Buy.

Judging from the size of the crowds in the shopping district yesterday afternoon, there is no lack of willingness on the part of local consumers to buy, at least so far as outer apparel is concerned. While there is little question that the rain on Saturday and Monday had something to do with it, indications in several stores about 3 o'clock were that one of the best Tuesdays of the season would be experienced in spite of the uncertainty of the weather. Departments catering to feminine clothing needs were most active, but in some stores the millinery section seemed the busiest of the lot. In this both trimmed and untrimmed hats were being bought freely.

***

Novel Hat Catching On.

One of the most novel Summer hats for men ever seen in this country is now being offered to the public by a prominent local clothing and furnishing store. It is made of cork, but is in the shape of the ordinary straw hat. Among the features claimed for it are that it is lighter in weight than the ordinary straw hat, that it is impervious to weather, and that its flexibility prevents its breaking or chipping as easily as a stiff straw hat. The cork hat is manufactured in England, where it was offered for the first time last year with considerable success. It grew out of the cork helmets worn by British soldiers in tropical countries, and is said to be as impervious to heat penetration as the helmets are. It retails at $5, and about two and a half dozens have already been sold by the store which offers it.

How Jobbers Find Conditions.

Men's wear jobbers report little activity at the present time. They say they are receiving restricted orders for goods mainly at concessions in price and are looking up fabrics for future sale on the same basis. There is no lack of confidence among the leading jobbers, however, who feel that the market may yet come to the point where their position will be an advantageous one. Collections by jobbers were said yesterday to be quite fair. The smaller clothier is held to be fairly well liquidated, although his operations are curtailed because of the lack of retail activity.

***

Furriers Are Shopping Around.

Although some improvement was reported here yesterday in the demand for raw and dressed furs on the part of manufacturing furriers, it has not yet assumed proportions sufficient to warrant the assertion that business is good. About one buyer in every four who enter a dealer's establishment was said yesterday actually to buy goods, the other three generally promising to come back later but not always doing so. This was further said to indicate a degree of shopping around for bargains greater than has been seen in this market for several seasons. Practically all kinds of skins are being bought, from all accounts, which is more pleasing to the general trade than if the demand were concentrated on a certain few varieties. From now on business is expected to improve from day to day.

***

Fall Orders Coming In Slowly.

After a brief spurt following the opening of leading lines of broad silks for Fall, trading has again become quiet and orders for the new season are coming in more slowly, according to wholesalers here. The initial spurt was due to the buying by retailers and a few cutters, but the policy of advance buying finds new adherents among users today. The business from cutters is hampered by the strike threat in the coat and suit field, as considerable orders for linings—to mention one important item—would be coming from them. Mill operations show no perceptible gain over the operating rate for Spring, it being estimated that the mills are now running at about 50 per cent. of capacity.

***

To Determine Knitting Standards.

A plant for the manufacture of artificial silk knitted underwear, complete in every detail from the winding of yarns to the finishing process, is now being installed in the Bureau of Standards at Washington by the Associated Knit Underwear Manufacturers of America, according to Secretary Roy A. Cheney, both all-silk and silk and cotton and wool combination garments will be made. Charles E. Hamlin of the association will carry on the work of the plant in conjunction with members of the Bureau of Standards. Its primary purpose will be to make tests to determine the proper manufacturing processes for the merchandise in question, in order that the best interests of both manufacturers and consumers may be served. Upon completion of the work, according to Mr. Cheney, it is proposed to issue a handbook based on the results obtained.

***

Garment Salesmen on Road.

The early contingents of ready-to-wear salesmen are now going on their initial Fall trips. Some men went out for their firms over the week end and, within a week or two, the local trade will be well represented on the road. Wholesalers here await with interest the early reports of their men as to how retailers look upon the new season. The coat and suit trade particularly is desirous of learning how the threat of a strike will influence the early buying, and also if it is more than a possibility that retailers may look to other producing centres if the labor trouble here comes to a showdown.

***

Gray Goods Still Quiet.

Gray goods were again dull in this market yesterday, with most of the business done for prompt deliveries. In the printcloths there were spot sales of 39-inch 68-72s at 10¼ cents, of 38½-inch 64-60s at 8¾ cents and of 38½-inch 80-48s at 7¾ cents. In the sheetings some trading was done in 40-inch 4.25s at 9¾ cents. Business in 36-inch 6.15s was also reported at 7¼ cents. For 36-inch five-yard sheetings sellers would not take less than 8¼ cents. In the specialties a few spot sales of 72-80 pajama checks were made at 11 cents, but later in the day it was said to be impossible to get any more at that price.

Low Bids at Goods Auction.

Bidding lacked snap and the prices obtained at the auction of 940 pieces of both men's and women's wear Spring fabrics, conducted yesterday by Burling, Doe Co. at the order of the American Woolen Company, were considered low. In the case of the men's wear goods there were drops of from 20 to 40 per cent. from the mill quotations. Most of these fabrics were A and B seconds. The better grades of the fancy worsteds brought higher relative bids than the less desirable merchandise. The bidding on women's wear goods was stronger, and quicker progress in selling them was made. Staple weaves and shades went better than the high colors, the former being readily adaptable for Fall use. The attendance of local jobbers at the auction was good.

Cotton Statistics Board is Named.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Appointment of a standing advisory committee on compilation of cotton statistics in the Department of Commerce was announced by Secretary Hoover today. The committee will be made up of David C. Reed of Austin, Tex.; J. H. Manning, Latta, S. C.; Dr. B. C. Brooks, Raleigh, N. C.; H. W. Jacoway, Little Rock, Ark., and L. B. Jackson, Atlanta, Ga. The committee was appointed upon the recommendation of a body of five statistical experts named by Secretary Hoover recently to conduct an investigation, on the demand of cotton planters, into the Census Bureau's annual report of cotton stocks.

LATEST DEALINGS IN REALTY FIELD

Former Lord & Taylor Building, Nineteenth Street and Fifth Avenue, Sold.

DEAL INVOLVES $1,500,000

Samuel Brener Buys the Hendrik Hudson Apartment on the Drive, Held at $1,600,000.

The former Lord & Taylor Building at 119 and 121 Fifth Avenue has been sold by the various interests owning the property to the Broadway-John Street Corporation, of which E. A. Cohen is President.

The property consists of an eight-story structure located on the northeast corner of Nineteenth Street and Fifth Avenue, covering a plot of 7,000 square feet.

It was erected twenty-one years ago by Robert E. Dowling, the well-known real estate operator, for Lord & Taylor, and was sold by Mr. Dowling to the various interests who are now disposing of it.

According to the Charles F. Noyes Company, the brokers in the transaction, there were nine different parties having an interest in the property.

The twenty-one year lease which Lord & Taylor retained on the building expired May 1.

The store and basement and two lofts have been rented for a term of years to Nathan Straus & Sons, Inc., the crockery and glass importers, successor to the firm of L. Straus & Sons, established in 1866. The building will be known as the Nathan Straus Building.

It is expected that Nathan Straus & Sons, Inc., will move to its new quarters about July 1, when extensive alterations will have been completed.

The property is being taken by Mr. Cohen free of mortgages. The Noyes Company reports negotiations pending for the lease of the five upper floors of the building to a prominent corporation located in the neighborhood.

The sale, financing and lease represent a transaction aggregating over $1,500,000.

Brener Buys the Hendrik Hudson.

Samuel Brener purchased the Hendrik Hudson apartment house from the Hendrik Hudson Apartment Corporation. The property covers the entire block front on Riverside Drive, from 110th to 111th Street, and is an eight-story fireproof building, consisting of seventy-two apartments ranging in suites from six to nine rooms.

It covers a plot 200 feet on the Drive by 135 on 111th Street and 123 feet on 110th Street, equalling an area of over ten and one-half city lots. The building was erected by the Johnston-Kahn Company and was held at $1,400,000 and rents for about $215,000 annually. Nassau & Lanning were the brokers.

Joseph Sager sold to Rosen & Klein a nine-story high-class fireproof apartment house at 115 West Seventy-third Street. The building stands on a plot 82 by 102 feet, accommodating thirty-six families; arranged into four and six room apartments. It rents for over $86,000 and was held for $645,000. H. Leventhal was the broker.

Isaac Lowenfeld purchased from the Manier Realty Company, Inc., 1 Convent Avenue, which is the northeast corner of 127th Street, a five-story new-law apartment, with one store, size 112 by 89.4 by 99.11 by 38 feet, housing twenty-four families, with a rental of $17,000. The property was held at $125,000. Ryan & Co. were the brokers.

Cahn & Cahn, operators, purchased from Theodore Schneider 105 West Ninety-fourth Street, near Columbus Avenue, a five-story apartment containing two six-room apartments on each floor, on a lot 25 by 100.

The building produces an annual rental of $8,100 and was held at $65,000. Austin T. Bennett was the broker in the transaction.

Peter I. Bernstein bought from Isidor Freundlich and resold to a client of Newmark & Miller, attorneys, premises 760 and 762 Eighth Avenue. The property consists of two four-story brownstone buildings, on a plot 30 by 100, being 50 feet south of the corner of Forty-seventh Street. This is the first sale of this property in about twenty years. The premises were purchased subject to a short lease, upon the expiration of which the buyer will remodel and hold the premises for investment. The property was held for $135,000.

Thayer, Saunders & Co. resold for Walter A. Morris to Sophia Rogger the six-story new-law apartment house at 161 East 128th Street, recently acquired by him. The property was held at $85,000.

The Arc Realty Company, Inc., sold 590 Third Avenue, being on the west side of the avenue, between Thirty-eighth and Thirty-ninth Streets, a five-story apartment house, with two stores, on a lot 25.3 by 100. The brokers were James Kyle & Sons.

BROWN TAKES A PROFIT.

Resells West Side Building—Sixtieth Street Alteration.

Frederick Brown has taken a profit on the four-story building at 47 West Fifty-first Street, which he purchased two months ago from Max Schneider, who acquired the realty in 1921. An unnamed client of H. D. Baker and A. Robinson and Henry Baker is the buyer of the property. The building is on a lot 21 by 100 on the north side of the block between Fifth and Sixth Avenues. It was altered a few years ago into a business building with a store on the basement level. The rents total $9,000 a year.

William B. May & Co. have sold for John Insley Blair the twenty-five-foot building, 15 East Sixtieth Street, to William A. Kimbel, the President of A. Kimbel & Son, Inc., who intend to remove their interior decorating business from 534 Madison Avenue after altering the building to adapt it to their use. The property was held at $150,000.

THE ROOSEVELT SOLD.

Buyer to Improve Big Bronx Apartment, Held at $2,500,000.

The Freiman Realty Co. Inc., sold to Bernard Dorf, the Theodore Roosevelt Apartments, Grand Concourse Boulevard and 171st and 172d Streets. This property is one of the largest apartments in the Bronx, covering a square block, comprising thirty-six city lots. It has 270 apartments, dining room, grill room, banquet hall, barber shop, drug store and children's playground. The rentals are over $325,000 per annum and the house was held at $2,500,000. The new owner contemplates making several improvements. Frank G. Weiss was the broker.

Woman Who Took Baby Is Indicted.

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—Mrs. Mary de Marco of West Philadelphia was today indicted by the Grand Jury for the kidnapping of ten-weeks-old Corrinne Modell, who was returned to her parents after the police found her in Mrs. de Marco's home. The indictment charges Mrs. de Marco with abduction, carrying away and harboring the infant. The offense is punishable by seven years' imprisonment. Mrs. de Marco is alleged to have taken the child to deceive her husband, who, she said, wanted a child.

Allows High School Boys to Train.

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—The Board of Education of this city decided today to permit recruiting of high school boys for the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Camp Meade this summer. It was announced, however, that the action did not commit the board to be in favor of military training.

THE BRONX MARKET.

Bronx Castle Hall, Occupying Block Front, Is Sold.

Pater Cooper Bryce and Henry B. Closson, as executors of the estate of Edith G. Bryce, have sold to Vana Temple Association of New York, Inc., Bronx Castle Hall, occupying the block front on the south side of 149th Street, Gerard to Walton Avenues, a modern three-story and basement brick and stone building, covering a plot fronting 288 feet on 149th Street and 80 feet on each avenue. The building contains stores on ground floor, large ballroom, banquet hall and lodge rooms. J. Clarence Davies, Inc., negotiated the sale.

The premises at 326 East 167th Street, which were acquired by Isidore Cuba through Moses H. Rothstein some years ago were sold by the latter to Rudolph Rubin and Samuel Lentz. The premises are a five-story modern building, on a plot 46 by 100, and are occupied by twenty tenants. The premises show a gross rental of $10,500 and were held at $70,000.

Shirden Realty Corporation, operators, represented by Leight & Neckrits, purchased 31 to 39 Vermilyea Avenue, two apartment houses, each five stories, containing fifty apartments, with a rent roll of over $32,000.

The buildings were purchased from the Insome Realty Corporation. The buildings are on a plot 100 by 150 feet.

Anna Inselstein, broker, sold to a client the five-story thirty-five-family house, on a plot 54 by 100, at 886 Beck Street. It has an annual rental of $14,650 and is held for resale at $100,000.

Mrs. Inselstein also sold 1,528 Bryant Avenue to a client. This house is on a plot 37.6 by 100, a five-story flat accommodating twenty families and showing an annual rental of $9,204 and held at $50,000.

$600,000 BROOKLYN DEAL.

Samuel Goldsticker Sells Newkirk Avenue Block Front.

The entire block front on Newkirk Avenue, between East Twenty-first Street and East Twenty-second Street, consisting of one thirty-eight and one thirty-six family apartment houses, was sold by Samuel Goldsticker to a New York buyer. This transaction involved close to $600,000. Stein & Goldstein were the brokers.

Among the recent sales made by Sullivan & O'Connor is the one-family tax-exempt house, with garage, on the north side of Eighty-second Street, between Fort Hamilton Parkway and Seventh Avenue, to Edward F. Senior & Allan will make extensive alterations to the present three-story building now standing on this property, which is 19.8 feet on the street by 100 on the avenue.

Suburban Home Buyers.

Mrs. Tyler Redfield sold a twenty-four-acre parcel at the extreme southerly end of her estate, known as "The Orchards," situated on Round Hill Road, Greenwich, to Richard E. Thibaut Jr. Kenneth Ives & Co., in conjunction with Raymond Thompson, were the brokers.

The third and remaining one of the three houses built on the Dayton tract on Shore Road, Greenwich, Conn., by Fred Opperman during the last five months has just been sold to Mrs. L. A. Hamilton of New York. This is a stucco residence on a half-acre plot. The house is now under construction and when completed will be occupied by the buyer as an all-year-round residence. The property was held at $52,000, and the sale was negotiated by George Howe.

George Howe reports the sale of a tract of land belonging to Miss Elizabeth Chamberlain, situated on Millwood and Seven Bridge Road, Chappaqua, N. Y., containing fourteen and two-thirds acres, to Thomas Maginnis of Chappaqua, N. Y. This property is known as the "Triangle."

Realty Notes.

Belding Brothers paid $1,200,000 for the corner of Thirty-fourth Street and Madison Avenue, which was sold through Martin Kretsch, as broker.

John David, the clothier, will erect a twenty-story building, to cost $1,500,000, on the plot 100 feet on Thirty-second Street by 42 feet on Broadway by 40 feet on Sixth Avenue, which was leased by the clothier from the English-American Realty Company for a term of sixty-three years at a rental which will range from $92,500 to $122,500 a year for the first twenty-one-year period. The plans will be drawn by Starrett & Van Vleck, architects.

Quinlan & Leland have placed a first mortgage loan of $175,000 on the six-story elevator house at 310 and 312 Convent Avenue, southwest corner of 145rd Street.

Thibaut Buys a Greenwich Tract.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., May 13.—The southerly portion of the estate of Tyler L. Redfield, in the Round Hill section here, has been purchased by Richard E. Thibaut of New York. The tract consists of twenty-three acres of woodland and was held at $1,200 an acre. The new owner intends to erect a residence for his own occupancy. Kenneth Ives & Co., in conjunction with Raymond B. Thompson, were the brokers.

Washington Heights Property Sold.

Leon S. Altmayer sold for a client the vacant property known as 503-507 West 182d Street, with an L running into Amsterdam Avenue and surrounding the northwest corner of 183d Street and Amsterdam Avenue.

The property has a frontage of 59 feet on West 182d Street and a frontage of 24 feet 11 inches on Amsterdam Avenue and has been in the hands of the present seller since 1890.

Add to Lexington Avenue Plot.

The buyers of 297 and 301 Lexington Avenue, northeast corner of Thirty-seventh Street, have bought from Walter Cook and Anne M. Lyman the two private houses at 135 and 137 East Thirty-seventh Street, and are also reported to have taken No. 139 from Dr. Alexander Duane, and 303 Lexington Avenue from Mrs. Mary Eno.

TENEMENT HOUSE DEALS.

Trading Indicates a Demand for Multifamily Flats.

The Hudson P. Rose Company has purchased from Moses November the four-story single flats at 120 and 122 East 109th Street. The Rosemann Realty Company was the broker.

Alexander Forger, trustee, sold the five-story double flat at 217 East Ninety-fifth Street, between Second and Third Avenues, to a client of P. M. Clear & Co.

S. Soraci sold for Mrs. Lena Miller to a client the five-story double tenement, with stores, at 2,335 First Avenue, on a plot 36 by 100.

J. Lemle & Sons have sold for a client the five-story apartment house at 315 East Sixty-fifth Street, on a lot 25 by 100, near Second Avenue. The purchaser is an investor. The same brokers sold for Frederick Behling the four-story tenement, with stores, at 320 East Seventieth Street, on a lot 25 by 100, between First and Second Avenues. A resale is pending. The same brokers also sold for Leopold Loeb the two four-story flats at 244 and 246 East Seventy-fourth Street, on a plot 33.4 by 100, near Third Avenue, held at $30,000.

The Loudave Realty Company, Inc., and David B. Bartelstone sold to the U. B. Realty Company, Inc., the northeast corner of Lexington Avenue and 112th Street, 100 feet on the avenue by 41.8, containing eight stores, a five-story walk-up. This was bought for an all-cash investment. E. Francis Hillenbrand was the broker. The buying interests have held title to the southwest corner of Lexington Avenue and 111th Street for more than twenty-five years.

Rudolph R. Granata, broker, sold for William Schwefel the tenement at 770 Second Avenue to Philip Rosen for $20,000.

Harry J. Schum sold for Harriet Saacke to a client of J. Lemle & Sons, for investment, 228 East Eightieth Street, a six-story new-law tenement, with two stores, 25 by 96.9.

The estate of William Astor Carey has sold two five-story apartment houses, 50 by 100, at 111 and 113 East 128th Street, to Mandelbaum & Lewine, operators.

The houses were to have been sold at auction by Joseph P. Day, with other holdings, for the Carey estate. Brown, Wheelock-Harris, Vought & Co. were the brokers. A resale is pending.

David Siegel bought the northwest corner of 109th Street and Third Avenue, with two adjoining buildings, 1,086 and 1,088 Third Avenue, from Armstrong & Armstrong. The property was held at $80,000.

With $250. you could have bought a lot valued now at $10,000

The man who cannot see an opportunity is like the man who couldn't see the forest because a tree was in his line of vision.

But—there are men who know enough to step a little to one side; the great forest then stands revealed in all its grandeur.

Middle-aged men of to-day were young when one of them attended an auction sale of lots in Jamaica. He picked four lots, 100x139, on Hillside Ave. near Aleop St., and he bought them "at his own price" at $250 each. This same buyer now values his $1,000 bargain at $40,000 a lot. And—Jamaica is only in its cradle days.

Step aside a little and look beyond the tree that is obscuring your sight of the Forest of Opportunities just beyond—in Jamaica.

Go to Jamaica's busy "Four Corners," where Queens Boulevard crosses Hillside Avenue, and see the wealth of opportunity in

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, May 13.—A disturbance of considerable geographic area but only slight in intensity was central Tuesday night over Michigan and moving slowly eastward. It has been attended by local showers in the region of the Great Lakes, the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys and the North Atlantic States. Otherwise the weather remained fair over practically all parts of the country during the last twenty-four hours.

The air pressure was high Tuesday night over and to the east of the Canadian Maritime Provinces, along the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains and off the North Pacific Coast, and it was low over the western plateau and Southern Rocky Mountain regions. Temperatures have risen in the Atlantic and Gulf States and have fallen decidedly over the upper Mississippi Valley, the Plain States and the western plateau region.

In New England and New York, the weather will be cloudy with local showers Wednesday and probably Thursday without material change in temperature. In the Middle Atlantic States there will be local showers Wednesday, cooler Wednesday night and partly cloudy with moderate temperature on Thursday. In the South Atlantic and Gulf States the weather will be partly cloudy with widely scattered showers Wednesday and partly cloudy on Thursday with somewhat lower temperature. In Tennessee and Kentucky the weather will be partly cloudy and cooler Wednesday and cloudy with moderate temperature on Thursday. In the upper Ohio Valley and lower Lake region, the weather will be unsettled and cooler with local showers on Wednesday and cloudy with moderate temperature on Thursday.

COUNTRY-WIDE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

In the following record of observations at United States Weather Bureau stations yesterday the temperatures given are the highest during the day from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M., and the lowest during the preceding twelve hours from 8 P. M. to 8 A. M.; the barometer reading and condition of weather are those recorded at 8 P. M., and the rainfall is for the twenty-four hours ended at 8 P. M.

Public School Notes.

ASK FOR WOMAN SUPERINTENDENT.—The New York City Branch of the National Council of Administrative Women in Education has forwarded this resolution to the Board of Education, asking that a woman be elected to the Board of Superintendents, to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Dr. William J. O'Shea to the City Superintendency of Schools:

Whereas the New York City Branch of the National Council of Administrative Women in Education believes that, in our great public school system composed of boys and girls supervised by both men and women, the children and the teachers of the city should have the services of both men and women, especially on the Board of Superintendents, the official body formulating the educational policies that determine the work of boys and girls, men and women in our city schools, and

Whereas the principle of equal opportunity for women is recognized by the "Equal Pay law" but is not adequately recognized in the promotion of women to higher positions, and

Whereas on Oct. 31, 1923, there were in the elementary, trade, vocational, junior and senior high schools, and training schools, 28,816 positions of every rank through that of principal, of which 3,478 were men, 25,720 were women, and 1,600 [illegible] and women] were in excess, and

Whereas on the Board of Superintendents only one position out of nine is now held by a woman, and

Whereas a similar inequality exists in the position of District Superintendent, four positions now held by women and twenty-four by men, and

Whereas there are in the greater city [and elsewhere] able and efficient women notable for educational leadership, skill and professional ability; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the New York City Branch of the National Council of Administrative Women in Education request the Board of Education to recognize the contribution of women to our school system by giving more proportionate representation to women on the Board of Superintendents in the election of a woman to the position of Associate Superintendent.

The Board of Education yesterday put over to the next meeting the election of an Associate Superintendent to succeed Dr. O'Shea.

NO SALVATION ARMY DRIVE IN SCHOOLS.—The Board of Education yesterday disapproved a resolution which would have permitted the Salvation Army to carry on a drive for funds in the public schools. Vice President M. Samuel Stern advocated the passage of the resolution explaining that he considered it a very worthy cause, one in which all people in New York City should take particular interest, and, because it is for the aid of the city, the children of the schools should be permitted to aid in the campaign.

President Ryan pointed out that there were other worthy requests for drives by school children before the board and that if they acted favorably on one they would have to act the same way on all.

Dr. O'Shea said that no one had any objection to aiding the Salvation Army than he but as a State Regent and State Commissioner he objected that the school children not participate in any kind of drives for funds and as the Board of Education had itself recently passed such a recommendation he did not believe it should permit the Salvation Army Drive.

SCHOOL BUILDING PLANS—The following matters on the calendar were favorably acted upon by the Board of Education last evening: A new building to be erected on the site being acquired at East Fordham Road and Bathgate Avenue, the Bronx, as an addition for Theodore Roosevelt High School, and the award of the contract for the construction of an addition to the High School of Commerce, Manhattan.

The 1926 model car bought in 1924

The sale of an automobile takes place in the mind from two months to two years before the deal is completed in the salesroom.

Usually the buyer doesn't know exactly the minute when he did decide to buy a car or what car to buy.

Can you remember exactly when you decided you wanted to marry that girl?

No. You cannot. And neither can a man remember exactly when he and his wife decided that they just had to have an automobile.

The type of car and the make of car are decided slowly too—so slowly that the first manufacturer to put a prospect on his mailing list and keep him there gets a long lead on the others.

Whether you are selling automobiles or refrigerating machines, or saxophones or anything else, it's time now to begin work on 1926 trade.

Let your salesmen close this year the business of this year, but you can sit down with your printer and plan the direct advertising that will begin the work that they can finish when your 1926 goods are on the market. There is no better prospect in the world than the man who has been two years slowly making up his mind that he wants to buy the thing you sell.

Printing helps him make up his mind—and with better printing, he makes it up faster. Better paper and better printing applied to a good mailing list insure a future demand.

better paper ∞ better printing

The simple way to prepare effective direct advertising is described in a series of books published by S. D. Warren Company. These books are known as the "More Business Series." You can obtain them as they are issued, without cost to you, from any distributer of Warren's Standard Printing Papers.
